Tina Marie Metcalf and Kevin Raymond Mousseau are announcing their engagement. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Metcalf of East Jordan. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mousseau of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect graduated from East Jordan High School and is currently employed at Harbor Industries in Charlevoix. Her fiancé graduated from Charlevoix High School and is a partner in K & J Excavating in Charlevoix.

The couple has planned an October 7 wedding at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

Health Dept. offering dental check-ups

District Health Department No. 3 has immediate openings for dental check-ups and will be providing dental health services to children and adults who have Medicaid. Services include: oral exam, emergency services, cleaning, fluoride treatment, x-rays, education, fillings, and dentures. The dental clinic is open Monday through Friday and is located in the lower level of the East Jordan Family Health Center. For an appointment call 1-800-432-4121.

Care to have your heart checked

District Health Department No. 3 in Charlevoix will conduct a "Healthy Heart" Screening Clinic Friday, Sept. 29, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The public is invited to have a heart check-up at the health department offices at 220 W. Garfield. The clinic will include blood pressure screening, total cholesterol and HDL tests (no fasting required), free educational materials, and heart health counseling. Cost is $10 per person.

The event is being conducted across northern Michigan as a part of the activities of the Health Heart Coalition of Northern Michigan, a group of hospitals and health departments in 21 counties. Charlevoix Area Hospital will not offer the tests in Charlevoix, but instead, will have a clinic in Central Lake for residents of that area on Saturday, September 30.

For more information call the District Health Department #3 at 547-6523.

Rev. Earl Francis DeNay

The Rev. Earl Francis Denay, 92, a former pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix, died Sept. 17, 1995, at Grand Traverse Medical Care Facility.

Mass of Christian Burial was held Wednesday, Sept. 20, at St. Mary's Cathedral in Gaylord. Bishop Patrick R. Cooney officiated. Concelebrants were the priests of the Gaylord Diocese. Burial is in St. Michael's Catholic Cemetery, Pinconning.

A scripture service was held Sept. 19, at St. Mary's Cathedral, Gaylord.

The Rev. Denay was born April 10, 1903, on the family farm in Pinconning, the son of Henry and Josephine (DeCaire) Denay. He attended St. Michael's School in Pinconning, and then at the age of 17 enrolled in St. Joseph's Seminary in Grand Rapids, where he studied for six years completing high school and a portion of college. In 1926, he transferred to Kenrick Seminary in St. Louis, Mo., where he completed his degree.

After his ordination on Feb. 12, 1933, he received a temporary assignment at St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Rapids. In March 1933, he was named assistant at Holy Name Catholic Church in Grand Rapids, and in November 1934, was named assistant at St. James Catholic Church in Grand Rapids.

In 1936, he was named vicarius at St. Catherine Catholic Church at Nicholson Hill. A year later, he became vicarius at St. Mary's of Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Manistee. In 1940, he was named pastor of St. Anne's Catholic Church in Frankfort, where he served until 1952 when he was named pastor of St. Jerome's Catholic Church in Scottville.

In 1953, he was named pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

In July 1964, he was appointed to the Diocese Commission on Sacred Liturgy. Ten years later he was named vicar of the Northwest Region for the Diocese of Gaylord.

He served at St. Mary of Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Manistee from 1974-1978 when he obtained retirement status and moved to St. Joseph of Mapleton. He continued to serve as an associate pastor, first at St. Francis Catholic Church in Traverse City, and then in 1990 at St. Joseph of Mapleton.

He also had his fourth degree with the Knights of Columbus and served as the council chaplain for 18 years.

Survivors include two brothers, Lloyd and Clifford Denay, of Bay City; a sister, Sister Mary Ignatius, of Farmington Hills; and many nieces, nephews and cousins. He was preceded in death by three sisters, Mrs. Joseph (Mary Belle) Turmell, Mrs. Arthur (Minnie) Martin, and Sister Mary (Francis) Henry.

Memorial contributions may be made to missions or to the Father Fred Foundation, 826 Hastings St., Traverse City, Mich. 49686.

Arrangements were handled by the Reynolds-Jonkhoff Funeral Home in Traverse City.

Joyce V. Raymond

Joyce V. Raymond, 78, of East Jordan, died Sept. 24, 1995, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

Funeral will be 11 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 27, at the Paullin Funeral Home in East Jordan. Pastor Lowell L. Anderson of the Charlevoix Assembly of God will officiate, with interment following at Sunset Hill Cemetery, East Jordan.

Mrs. Raymond was born Oct. 2, 1916, in East Jordan, the daughter of Louis Sr. and Reva (Porter) Kamradt.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

I once heard it said that the less keys a person carries, the more important they must be. If that's true, I must not be a very important person. I've got keys for all kinds of things. There are five keys for the various doors around my church building. There are keys for two different cars. Let's not forget the key to my house. Oh, there is even one for my camper, even though anyone who really wanted to get in probably could even with it locked.

Have you ever thought about why we carry keys anyway? It is more than just our desire to open whatever doors that we want. Keys give us a certain degree of security as well. They remind us that the things that are most dear to us are hopefully protected. They serve as symbols of the value of much of what we own. Have you ever considered that there are other kinds of keys besides those that unlock doors?

Faith is a marvelous key to have in your life's collection. Faith is what sees us through the dark and stormy nights of our lives. It unlocks an inner truth that lets us believe that even when the answers for a problem aren't readily evident, they are on the way.

Hope is a wonderful key to make use of when you run into obstacles that seem impossible to overcome. It is amazing how much strength and endurance can be unlocked in your heart when you exercise its power. It reminds you that you need never feel alone even for a moment. There really is somebody upstairs who cares!

Love does more than make the world go around. Love is the key that unfolds within us all that tremendous sense of self worth. It tells us clearly that we are special. It unlocks the motivation that makes us want to try harder and do more than we ever possibly could without it. It may just be the most powerful key of all.

But keys mean nothing if you aren't using them. They just occupy space in your pocket or purse if you don't take advantage of what they can do. The Bible is a tremendous key for making sense out of some of the doors that confront us in life. It unlocks wisdom that is truly ageless and sets before you insight on your own thoughts that will never cease to surprise you.

Prayer is a priceless key because it gets you in touch with the Master Locksmith. It is God, through His Son Jesus Christ, who has always wanted to give you whatever you needed to really unlock the wonders of life before your eyes. He knows intimately how the frustrations of doubt, sin, and fear have been known to chain up any freedom we might have. Could it be that's why one of the most oft repeated phrases of the Lord is, "you shall know the truth and the truth shall set you free?" Don't stop with the keys that are in your pocket. Reach for the keys God has placed within every heart!

Sue DeYoung Memorial Walk is this Saturday

The Sue DeYoung Memorial Walk to raise money for breast cancer research will take place Sept. 30. DeYoung was a mother of four and a Charlevoix resident who died from breast cancer in 1992. Registration for the 2.5 mile walk will begin at 9 a.m. and the walk itself will begin at 10 a.m. from the Odmark Pavilion in East Park.

In coming weeks, walkers will be soliciting pledges. Walkers collecting donations of $50 or more will receive a free T-shirt. A Boyne USA Gold Pass will be awarded to the top fund raiser. A reception following the walk will take place at Grey Gables which is providing walk refreshments. There is a $3 registration fee for the walk. Pledge sheets are available at Glen's Market stores in Boyne City, East Jordan in Charlevoix and also at Chamber of Commerce offices in those three communities. This year, approximately 182,000 women will be diagnosed with breast cancer and 46,000 women will die from it. Money raised by the Sue DeYoung walk will be used for research in an effort to find a cure.

For additional information, phone 547-9727.

Methodist Church to host fish dinner

Charlevoix United Methodist Church will host an "Old Fashioned Fish Fry" Sept. 29 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. The cost is $7 for children and $3 for children younger than age 12. The menu, in the tradition of the late Huldah Cross' fish dinners of the past is: fish, chips, slaw, carrot salad, rolls, a beverage and lemon meringue pie.

Harbor Light hosts guest speakers

Harbor Light Chapel will be hosting special guests Sunday, Oct. 1. Beginning at 10 a.m. singer/evangelists Joey and Betty Hamby from Texas will present their national "Send It On Down Celebration" filled with singing and spirit-filled worship. The Hambys have appeared on national television including TBN. At 11 a.m. Jean Norment from Kona, Hawaii, will be ministering God's Word, pinpointing two great truths of love and purity of heart.

At noon Rev. Sherlock Bally from Trinidad in the Caribbean will be sharing end-time Bible prophecy. Everyone is welcome to attend. Free-will offerings will be taken.

Program focuses on stopping breast cancer

Early detection of breast cancer saves women's lives — that's the message and the goal behind Planned Parenthood's new partnership with the National Alliance of Breast Cancer Organizations (NABCO). To commemorate the 10th annual National Breast Cancer Awareness Month this October, both organizations are joining forces to provide breast cancer early detection services and promote greater awareness of the disease.

"Planned Parenthood is the nation's oldest and largest reproductive health care provider, and also America's largest provider of clinical breast exams," said Alice Clayton, Director of Clinic Services for Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood (NMPP). She added that the screening and management of breast conditions is an integral component of services at Planned Parenthood. "Last year, NMPP clinicians in Traverse City and Petoskey performed 3,000 breast exams."

During October, Planned Parenthood centers nationwide will offer a variety of special breast cancer awareness services. NABCO will support Planned Parenthood's efforts by serving as an informational resource to Planned Parenthood providers and to clients who detect an abnormality or are diagnosed with breast cancer.

NMPP's health centers are located at 1135 E. Eighth St., Traverse City and 1003 Spring St., Petoskey. For more information about Breast Cancer Awareness Month activities, please call NMPP at 347-9692 in Petoskey or 929-1844 in Traverse City.

BUSINESS

The northside Woodland Shop N Go just went. The building was torn down last week to make room for a new, modern building. The new building will be eight times the size of the former mini mart and will house a Taco Bell along with a convenience store.

The Woodland Oil company started the groundwork for the expanded business last November. They had to get a special use permit from the City of Charlevoix in order to house the restaurant franchise with the gas business.

New, state of the art, underground gas tanks have already been installed at the site. The old gas tanks still have to be removed. "There will probably be some clean-up involved. There usually is with the older gas tanks," said Rick Scriber, spokesperson for the company.

Woodland Oil is hoping to have the new business up and running in 90 days, which would be the middle of December. (Photo by Laurie Lounsberry)

Sheriff's Department offers security checks

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is once again reminding residents of Charlevoix County that if they are to be absent from their homes for any period of time, the department has a program to check on peoples homes in their absence.

In order to participate in this program, the homeowner must contact the Sheriff's office in person and request the security check form, or call the Sheriff's office at 547-4461 and request a form be sent to them. If a resident has applied for this program in the past, the request must be re-submitted each year.

It should be noted this program does not take the place of private security programs but just adds to the coverage and works along with these private organizations.

Golf team wins twice

Charlevoix's high school golf team had a big week last week, beating Mancelona and Inland Lakes Wednesday, Sept. 20 and then beating Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Alanson Thursday, Sept. 21.

In the three-team meet Wednesday at the Belvedere Golf Course, freshman Keith Grunch was the meet medalist with a 40. Scott Blechel was just two strokes off that pace with a 42.

As a team, Charlevoix's varsity unit shot a 173, which was seven strokes better than Inland Lakes and 30 strokes ahead of Mancelona. Other Charlevoix varsity scores were: Brad Eaton - 45; Ryan Murdick - 46; Dan Pardee - 46; and Jason Vincent - 52.

Charlevoix also won the junior varsity match, beating Inland Lakes 190-201. Jon Browe led the Rayders with a score of 44. Other Rayder scores were: Bob Sommerfeld - 47; R.J. Stebe - 49; David Bellairs - 50; Tommy Yaroch - 51; Mike Staton - 59; and John Heise - 69.

At the Crooked Tree Course in Petoskey Sept. 21 the Rayder varsity shot a 175 to edge Petoskey and Harbor Springs by two strokes. Alanson finished fourth with a 223.

Murdick and Pardee shared team honors for best score, each shooting a 42. Blechel shot a 45 and Eaton a 46.

In the junior varsity match, Charlevoix finished third with a 187 team score. Harbor Springs' j.v. team shot a 179 while Petoskey shot a 181. The Alanson team failed to have four people qualify.

Sommerfeld led the Rayder j.v. team with a 43, just one stroke ahead of Vincent at 44. Other Rayder scores were: Browe - 49; Stebe - 51; and Bellairs - 61.

The Rayders' next match is Wednesday, Sept. 27 at Elk Rapids.

Scott Blechel tees off on the first hole of the Belvedere Golf Course last week during Charlevoix's meet with Mancelona and Inland Lakes. Charlevoix won the three-team meet.

Football team wins third straight

Thinking that all those fans sitting out in the cold watching a high school football game were at least entitled to the enjoyment of a bit of suspense, the Charlevoix Rayder football team waited until the fourth quarter to score their only touchdown of the game and beat Elk Rapids 7-6. The win was the Rayders' third straight, following a season opening loss.

Charlevoix's defense spent the evening chasing around Elks running back Trevor Thibert. Although Thibert rushed for 240 yards on 32 carries, for the most part the Rayders did succeed in keeping him out of the end zone. The only let down occurred early in the third quarter when Thibert got loose for a 97-yard touchdown run.

Like they did the week before against Harbor Springs, Charlevoix beat Elk Rapids with a long fourth quarter march. This week's version was a 69-yard drive which took 11 plays. Rayder quarterback Mark Boss completed the drive with a one-yard quarterback sneak for the touchdown. He also kicked the game-winning extra point.

On the night, Boss carried the ball nine times for 65 yards. Full-back George McClellan led the Rayder running attack with 78 yards on 11 carries.

Mike Rautio led the Rayder defense with nine tackles. Josh Skeel and Rory McKeown each had eight tackles while Matt Shindorf had six. For the second week in a row, Jason Smith had an interception for the Rayders.

Charlevoix is now tied for the league lead with Boyne City. Each team has a 2-0 league record. Traverse City St. Francis is also undefeated in league play with a 1-0 record.

Charlevoix puts their undefeated league record on the line in East Jordan this Friday evening. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Charlevoix's varsity girls' basketball team remains undefeated in league play and now sits alone atop the Lake Michigan Division of the Great Northern Conference.

Tuesday, Sept. 19 the Rayders traveled to Elk Rapids and hammered the Elks 77-38 to run their league record to 3-0. Thursday evening, the Rayders were idle, but Traverse City St. Francis beat Kalkaska, which up that point was the league's only other undefeated team. St. Francis, Kalkaska and East Jordan are now all in game back of the Rayders.

Charlevoix pounced on Elk Rapids early, leading 24-5 at the end of the first quarter. In the second quarter the Elks rallied and cut the Rayders' lead to 36-22 at half-time. In the second half the Rayders quickly put the game away. Entering the fourth quarter Charlevoix was up 59-31.

Four Rayders scored in double figures. Kris Blanchard had 16, Lisa Parrish and Amanda Eaton each had 14 and Ann Marie Terryberry had 10. Blanchard also had nine rebounds while Jenni Swenor, Eaton and Terryberry each had five steals.

The Charlevoix boys' team has a way to go to catch Benzie Central while the girls team needs to move up just a notch to catch Bear Lake by the time the Regional meet comes around.

Both Rayder teams finished second in the Class C/D Division of the Petoskey Invitational Saturday.

Benzie Central won the boys race with 55 points, followed by Charlevoix with 91. Other teams competing were Newberry, Bear Lake, Rogers City and St. Ignace. East Jordan had runners in the race, but did not field a complete team.

Bear Lake won the girls' race with 47 points, followed by Charlevoix with 53 points. Other teams competing were Benzie Central, Kingsley, Rudyard, East Jordan, Suttons Bay, Elk Rapids, Rogers City and St. Ignace.

Chelsea Gorkiewicz was Charlevoix's top finisher. She placed fifth with a time of 21:39. Julie Alpers of Suttons Bay won the race in 20:38. Also finishing in the top 10 from Charlevoix were Rachael Newcomb and Candice

Cross Country teams both place second

Vandergriff. They finished eighth and ninth respectively with times of 21:52 and 22:03.

Other Rayder girls places and times were: 15 - Monica Browe, 22:32; 17 - Tricia Hodge, 22:33; 24 - Jessa VanGuilder, 23:14; 27 - Candy Siwarga, 23:36; 31 - Elizabeth Andreae, 23:48; 32 - Kelli McFarlin, 23:48; 62 - Tricia Kelly, 26:37; 63 - Alissa Westebrook, 26:37; 71 - Johanna Moore, 27:46; 75 - Allison Kujawski, 28:54; 79 - Tonia Peterson, 30:54.

Justin Davis led the Rayder boys' team placing ninth overall with a time of 17:39. Josiah Middaugh of East Jordan won the race with a time of 16:48.

Other Rayder boys places and times were: 16 - Nate Martin, 18:11; 17 - Marc Dohm, 18:17; 24 - Dan Keen, 19:07; 25 - Brian Martinus, 19:12; 34 - Pat Butcher, 20:24; 36 - Nate Jones, 20:27; 42 - Bill Parton, 20:58; 44 - Julian Pignon, 21:42; 56 - Mike Post, 22:52.

Ryan Murdick and his Rayder teammates won two golf meets last week. They beat Inland Lakes and Mancelona Wednesday and Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Alanson Thursday. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Shauna Barrett (32) puts up a left-handed shot last week against Petoskey. Charlevoix's seventh and eighth grade teams both won handily.

Buchanan wins contest in a difficult week

Leroy Buchanan successfully navigated a week fraught with pitfalls and finished 8-1 last week (Ninc total picks rather than 10, because we dumped the MSU - Purdue tie.). Although there were no other 8-1 scores, even if there were, Buchanan probably still would have won. The total score in the tie breaker game was 50 and he had picked 49.

The Courier Guru ... well, he took it on the chin again, finishing 4-5. Of course given many of the scores of other people last week, 4-5 wasn't such a bad record. There were a few 2-7s and plenty of 3-6s.

This week's different. This week all of the games are easy to pick. We'll probably have a dozen people finish 10-0. Here are this week's games:

Charlevoix at East Jordan: During the next two weeks Charlevoix plays East Jordan and then Boyne City. A lot of people like to call these games county rivalries. But here in Charlevoix, we like to call them battles against our suburbs. Last week East Jordan got thumped by Boyne City. Meanwhile Charlevoix administered a sound and thorough 7-6 thrashing to Elk Rapids. Charlevoix's on a three game win streak. Even though the competition hasn't been stellar, a streak's a streak. Let's say they're good for four. Pick - Charlevoix.

Gaylord at Petoskey: Petoskey continues to improve as the season progresses. Given that Charlevoix plays Petoskey in the final game of the season, if you're a Rayder fan, that's not a particularly comforting thought. Pick - Petoskey.

Central Lake at Pellston: Pellston is undefeated this season and probably will stay that way for at least another week. But don't be surprised if this one is close. Even though Central Lake doesn't have a great record this year, they've played stronger competition than usual. Pick - Pellston.

Miami of Ohio at University of Michigan: U of M coach Lloyd

Carr has said that he doesn't believe in running the score up. And with Memphis and Miami of Ohio on the schedule in the same year that's a good thing. Somebody really brave should go out on a limb and pick Miami in this game. It won't be the Guru. At 4-5 last week, he's in no position to be getting brave. Pick - U of M.

Boston College at Michigan State: Now, here's a tough game to call. I'm going with Boston College strictly because MSU's quarterback is hurt. Pick - Boston College.

Notre Dame at Ohio State: Notre Dame won big last week, but they won't do it again. I keep telling people, that guy named George at Ohio State is an excellent running back. Pick - Ohio State.

Alabama at Georgia: Georgia looked good by streaks early in the year, but Alabama is improving more as the year goes by. Pick - Alabama.

Buffalo at Cleveland: Buffalo's on their way down and Cleveland's on their way up. The Browns' defense is among the NFL's best. Pick - Cleveland.

Houston at Jacksonville: All right, who threw this game in here? In making our predictions, is "Who cares?" an option? Last year Houston lets go of Warren Moon. This year, they drop Lorenzo White for some fat guy. No wonder they're expected to be competitive with an expansion team. Still, they are playing an expansion team and they do have Mel Gray. This may be your only chance this season to do it, but... Pick - Houston.

San Diego at Pittsburgh: Did you see Steeler coach Bill Cowher go wild last week and stuff that photo in the referee's shirt pocket? Now there was a Kodak moment. Cowher should worry less about photography and more about his quarterback. He should consider starting Jim Miller over Mike Tomczak. Meanwhile, San Diego continues to run over people. Pick - San Diego.

Lake Association elects officers

The Lake Charlevoix Association held its Board of Directors' Meeting Thursday, Sept. 14, at the Charlevoix City Hall. Officers elected for the 1995-96 term were: Norm Probert, President; Leon Vercruyse, Vice President; Martha Landis, Secretary; Jack Jones, Treasurer.

Probert also welcomed the new board members, Nancy Wood Loening and Kristene Dorsey.

John Danly was appointed the LCA representative to the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council.

Highlights of the meeting included a review of business conducted this past year, with a brief outline for 1996.

The board discussed the success of the "Experience Lake Charlevoix" field trip program for sixth grade students in East Jordan, Charlevoix and Boyne City. This program allowed students to study water quality through various hands-on experimentation. This program was funded by the Lake Charlevoix Association, coordinated with the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and the Beaver Island Boat Company and included the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary. The LCA board unanimously voted to make this an annual project, and discussed getting plans rolling for May 1996.

A new directors' and officers' liability insurance policy has just been taken out.

Recognition was made of the LCA's latest donation of $900 to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department for the purchase of a portable radio for marine patrol.

The board discussed the success of the new brochure printed this year, "Preserving Our Lake Areas" and felt that a new printing may be necessary soon.

The LCA has financed the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council to do a Cladophora study (the excessive growth of algae and weeds) in the spring.

The next meeting will be Thursday, Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. at Charlevoix City Hall. Anyone interested may attend.

Beaver Island couple finds art in some unusual places

by Laurie Lounsbury

If Pablo Picasso had lived on a remote island in Lake Michigan, maybe he would have used old garbage to make his sculptures. Or maybe not. But Ray Denny, a Beaver Island resident, takes advantage of the abundance of reusable material he finds in his own garbage bin and at the island's recycling center. Denny creates modern art sculptures and displays his work on his property along the roadside.

A dirty oil filter becomes a baby's head. Garden hose and vertical blind slats loop around to create abstract art. A five gallon paint bucket lid turns into the head of a Picasso-like statue. Old bedsprings become a springy golfer. In all of his outdoor art, Denny says he hasn't spent more than 25 cents for materials.

Denny and his wife, Ruth, are pros at spotting treasures among other men's trash. Ruth uses broken Milk of Magnesia bottles and shattered windshield glass for her beach glass lamps. She uses empty wine bottles and mortar to make light catching walls. Ray combs the recycling transfer station regularly searching for artistic potential. On an island where disposing of old things is costly, the Dennys' avocations are certainly practical if nothing else.

Visitors to Beaver Island are likely to find themselves cruising slowly down one of the scenic roads, enjoying the dunes and pines, when they stumble on Denny's work along the road. Some people laugh. Some giggle. Most admire the art in one way or another. "We hear all kinds of laughing," Ruth said. "They're supposed to laugh. It's whimsical," Ray countered.

City discusses intersection problem

by L. Scott Swanson

The intersection at Antrim and Park Streets is poorly designed and difficult to safely navigate, but apparently local drivers realize that and take precautions because there hasn't been an accident there in nearly three years.

City Police Chief Dennis Halverson presented information about the intersection to the city council Monday evening. Earlier this year, council members asked Halverson to review the intersection and determine if any improvements can be made. Second ward councilman Gabe Campbell and third ward councilman Jackie Cross were particularly concerned. Cross grew up near the intersection and Campbell lives about a block away from it.

The intersection is not at a right angle. Consequently drivers com-

Ray told the story of one truckload of young men who happened upon his art. Ray walked out to see what the commotion was all about when he heard screaming and laughing. He found one guy giggling and dancing around one of Ray's statues. "He was going into a minor ecstasy," Ray said.

Not all of the islanders are thrilled with Ray's art. As one local suggested, "Maybe Ray didn't know where to take his garbage so he turned it into art."

Teri Craigie was on a kayaking trip to Beaver Island when she found Ray's roadside art. "It was the highlight of our trip," Craine said. "I know art, and Ray's stuff is good," she added.

The Denny's are fairly oozing with creative juices. Their octagonal home was designed by Ruth and built by the two of them. Ruth made almost every piece of furniture in the house from driftwood and old timber from the sawmill. Everywhere you look in the Denny's' home you'll find something made by one of them. Ruth takes spalted (rotting) wood, with its distinct black, squiggly lines, and turns it into beautiful jewelry boxes and napkin holders. Ray's collages hang on the walls. His abstract art is boldly painted on the refrigerator and dishwasher.

Islander Bill McDonough doesn't understand modern, abstract art, but he doesn't hold that against Ray. As McDonough said, "Beauty is certainly in the eye of the beholder, and a lot of people like Ray's work. But when I first saw it I wondered if somebody had moved the transfer station."

Denny straightens the cap on the baby in his mother and baby sculpture. The baby's face is made from a truck oil filter. Mom's face is made from the lid off a five gallon paint bucket. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

ing up Antrim Street and stopping prior to turning either right or left on Park, have difficulty seeing down Park to determine if traffic is coming. People end up stopping at the stop sign and then creeping out into Park and sometimes stopping again.

Halverson said he makes no argument against the contention that the intersection is oddly designed. However the only simple change that can be made would be to change the stop sign from Antrim to Park and that might create more problems than it would solve.

Halverson looked into the background of the intersection and found that during the past 34 months there have been no accidents there. In regard to the placement of the stop sign, Halverson said that from a traffic management standpoint, you usually try to put stop signs where they will affect the least number of people. Traffic counts indicate that approximately 700 cars per day travel north on Park and then down Antrim Street. Approximately 580 cars per day travel south on Park, headed toward the hospital. Approximately 437 cars per day come up Antrim Street and turn onto Park. In other words, those figures indicate the stop sign is where it should be.

Halverson also pointed out that if the stop sign is moved to Park, it would have to be placed well forward in the intersection so that people could see down Antrim Street. That would end up giving people on Antrim Street the right of way, but wondering whether drivers on Park were really going to stop.

Halverson said that he doesn't see an easy solution. A more expensive solution would be to alter the way the streets intersect and try to square off the corner.

Campbell said he's still not comfortable with the corner and would like to see something done. Cross and council member Butch Russell said although they're not thrilled about the way the intersection is now, they can't see where changing it would make it any better.

County considers property purchase

by Laurie Lounsbury
Charlevoix County Commissioners are keeping their lips zipped about the location of a piece of property they might buy for parking space. Commissioner Chairman Don Smith said he doesn't want to tip his hand to the property owner. Smith has already gotten an appraisal for the property and plans to take an option on the property soon.

The property is needed to satisfy the city planning commission, which gave the county conditional approval of the renovation project, provided they come up with 20 more parking spaces.

Although no more people will be working at the building than were working there prior to the renovation, the county still needs to add parking space. The number of parking spaces needed for a downtown building is determined by the total square footage of the building and the use of the space.

The city has determined that the county would need a total of 103 spaces if all of the building is used as office space. If the courtrooms fall into the same category as churches and athletic facilities, then the county will need a total of 147 spaces.

County commissioners asked Larry Sullivan, planning director, to work with the city on determining a reasonable number of parking spaces. Sullivan pointed out that parking is only a problem about four times a year, when the court holds jury selection. "The dilemma is, should you provide for 100% of the parking needs on the worst day of the year?" Sullivan said.

Another possible solution to the parking needs would be to expand parking at the sheriff's department. Employees and prospective jurors could park at the sheriff's building and take a green county shuttle bus to the downtown building.

If the county purchases the house that the commissioners are considering, 20 parking spaces could be created by razing the house.

City makes the right call on county parking

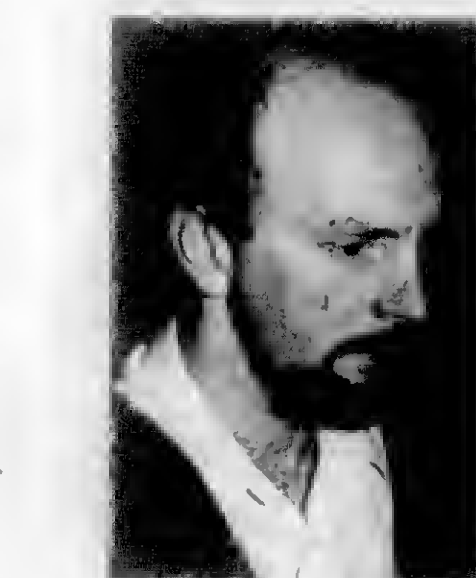

Is a courtroom comparable to an office, a church, a stadium or a theater? That could vary, depending on the judge and the trial.

After a lengthy debate Monday evening, the city council decided that regardless of how you view a court room a total of 103, rather than 147, parking spaces will be sufficient for the time being for the county building. Although some people apparently wanted the city to require the higher number of parking spaces, the decision the council made was the right one for a number of reasons.

The question of parking spaces ended up before the council due to the construction project currently taking place at the county building. The project is adding space to the building and consequently additional parking spaces are needed. The question is, how many spaces? Much of the space in the county building is made up of courtrooms. The city needed to determine how many parking spaces are needed for courtrooms.

City planner Gerry Harsch recommended the lower number of parking spaces. Among the arguments that he made are that: the courtrooms are seldom full; that court officials who have offices in the county building are included in other parking requirements; and that some of the people who use the county building parking only require parking for part of the day.

Council members added that they don't want to see the entire central section of the community paved for either streets or parking lots. Mayor Josh Barnes also noted that even with 103 spaces, there will be more parking near the Mason and State Street intersection than there is now - and there's seldom any difficulty finding parking in that area now. To take that argument a step further, the current construction project has left the county building completely without a parking lot, yet nobody has had to park more than a block away.

Other points weren't raised at the council meeting, but also are relevant. Other public parking lots within a short distance of the county building have been designed to accommodate parking needs during the peak summer months. Aside from July and August, there are plenty of spaces available in those lots. If the county building ends up needing additional parking space in the future, chances are there will be some available. In addition to some older homes in the area, the school facility plan also calls for the eventual construction of a new middle school and the sale of the present site.

Monday night was one of the first times in recent history that a city body has recognized that while having adequate parking is important, there are limits as to how much parking is really needed. The analysis and recommendation made by the city planner was sound, as was the council's decision.

EDITH GILBERT

Those of us who live here year 'round are used to having visitors come and go without our even noticing or caring. Yet, there are some vibrant characters, who leave their hallmark on a community for years and years. This is especially true of Joanne and Nate Cummings. (Nate was the founder of Consolidated Foods Corporation, which was renamed Sara Lee). The Cummings spent fourteen lively years during the '60s and '70s at their summer place, the Anchorage, on Lake Charlevoix. Many Charlevoixians will be saddened by the news, as reported in the New York Times, that Joanne Cummings, 66, died of cancer last week.

The Cummings' list of significant contributions to this community were many. In the early days of the fledgling Waterfront Art Fair, they offered to exhibit one of their masterpieces every year - a Degas, a Gauguin, a Matisse. This generosity helped attract prominent, but often reluctant Michigan artists to enter their work, with the result that the Charlevoix Fair has become today one of the two top Art Fairs in the state. It's amusing to recall that in those days, the masterpieces were "guarded" by two volunteer ladies, who casually changed stints every two hours. Although this informal style of security raised the eyebrows of the insurance company at the time, the unusual practice continued, nevertheless, for a number of years.

In addition to loaning art every year, the Cummings also donated many fine paintings, which are hanging on the walls of the Elementary School. Around town the familiar pieces of bronze sculptures by Abbott Pattison of Chicago, located at the Library, (the Sower), the Hospital, (the Sheppard), and the High School, (Lady With a Rake), have become as cherished as our familiar Mushroom Houses designed by Earl Young.

Donating art was not the Cum-

tings only contribution. In 1972, the Charlevoix Area Hospital had a major fund drive, which included plans for an Intensive Care Unit. The campaign was short $50,000. A telephone call to Nate in Switzerland resulted in a pledge for this amount, much to the rejoicing of the entire community. In a letter Nate says, "Charlevoix has been very good to the Cummings, and we are delighted to reciprocate." That's the kind of philanthropic spirit summer residents have shown in the past and that distinguishes us today from other communities.

The Anchorage was the scene of abundant hospitality, at which Joanne excelled. Joanne prided herself in turning a simple, rustic log cabin into a charmingly furnished, French Provincial home. Her taste was flawless. Guests could depend on a good mix of both prominent figures, such as the Henry Fords,

General Mark Clark and his wife, magazine editor, Grace Mirabella, along with longtime summer friends from all over the country, year 'round Charlevoixians, and of course family. No detail escaped Joanne. At one dinner party to which I was invited, she approached me and said, "Edith, I am seating you next to General Mark Clark, but I don't want you to talk politics!"

There are many young people today, who still have fond memories of the children's parties that Joanne planned around the pool. In addition to ice cream treats, there was diving for pennies, games and prizes. Adult guests were invited to play ping pong in the pool house, dine on freshly caught brook trout around the outdoor pool, pick fresh

Crooked Tree opens 1995-96 concert series

The Crooked Tree Arts Council is offering its 1995-96 Concert Series with an old favorite and, perhaps, a very new favorite.

After an outstanding concert at the Virginia McCune Arts Center last year, the Leontovych Spring Quartet is being brought back for a second visit. Pianist Robert Guralnik will join the Leontovych for another memorable evening of chamber music at the McCune Arts Center.

Sunday afternoon, Nov. 19, take a music stroll through the times that affected so many generations to follow - WWII. In those days, radio was the detergent that kept America's character clean. It taught kids to use soap, encouraged proper nutrition, assured GIs their wives were loyal, stirred up hatred for Hitler and Tojo, brought Roosevelt's message of hope and unity into every home, and sold plenty of Ralston, Wheaties and Pepsi-Cola. Radio Days brings good-humored direction along with the music of Glen Miller, Boh Crosby, Kay Kyser, the Pied Pipers and much more - a great afternoon of great afternoon of great nostalgic music.

In March 1996 when the great "snowbird exodus" is at its height, four northern musicians will migrate a bit east by northeast of Petoskey on Thursday, March 14 to the McCune Arts Center. These four are the Minneapolis Guitar Quartet, a group founded in 1986, and widely acclaimed as one of North America's leading guitar ensembles. The MGQ's recent reviews have been exciting, especially regarding their ensemble playing and their challenging music. The quartet has also appeared with the Northwood Orchestra to sold out audiences in Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City.

Season tickets may be ordered through the CTAC office, 616-347-4337, with several price ranges offered. The Student Series presents three concerts with unreserved seats at $15; the Basic Series offers three concerts with unreserved seats at $35; the Patron Series at $50 features the three concerts and seats in the reserved section in the theatre and admittance to afterglows with the artists; and the Family Series at $70 admits parents and all children to the entire group of concerts. Payments may be made by check, cash, Visa, Mastercard or Discover card.

Individual supporting level CTAC memberships or above have the option to receive a free series ticket. For further information, please call the CTAC office at 347-4337.

Glee Club to host first concert

The Charlevoix Men's Community Glee Club will have its first public performance at 8 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 8 at the First Congregational Church. Among the songs presented will be "Shenandoah," "Give Me Your Tired Your Poor," "The Volga Boatmen," and "Mary Don't Weep."

There is no admission charge for the program, however, donations will be accepted to help fund the new choral program for middle and high school students.

A staff of seven kept the Anchorage running smoothly during the summer months and in the winter

Joanne loved her visits to Charlevoix and deeply regretted having to leave the area. Those of us who remember - and there are many - deeply regret her departure from this world as well.

Pamela & Jeffrey Coen

Pamela Collins and Jeffrey Coen were united in marriage Aug. 12 in Traverse City. The bride is the daughter of Bud and Jeanne Cavitch of Traverse City and Robert Collins of Watertown, New York. The groom is the son of Kenneth and Dolly Coen of Charlevoix.

The groom is employed by East Jordan Iron Works. The bride is employed by Glen's Market's Charlevoix store. The couple resides in Ellsworth.

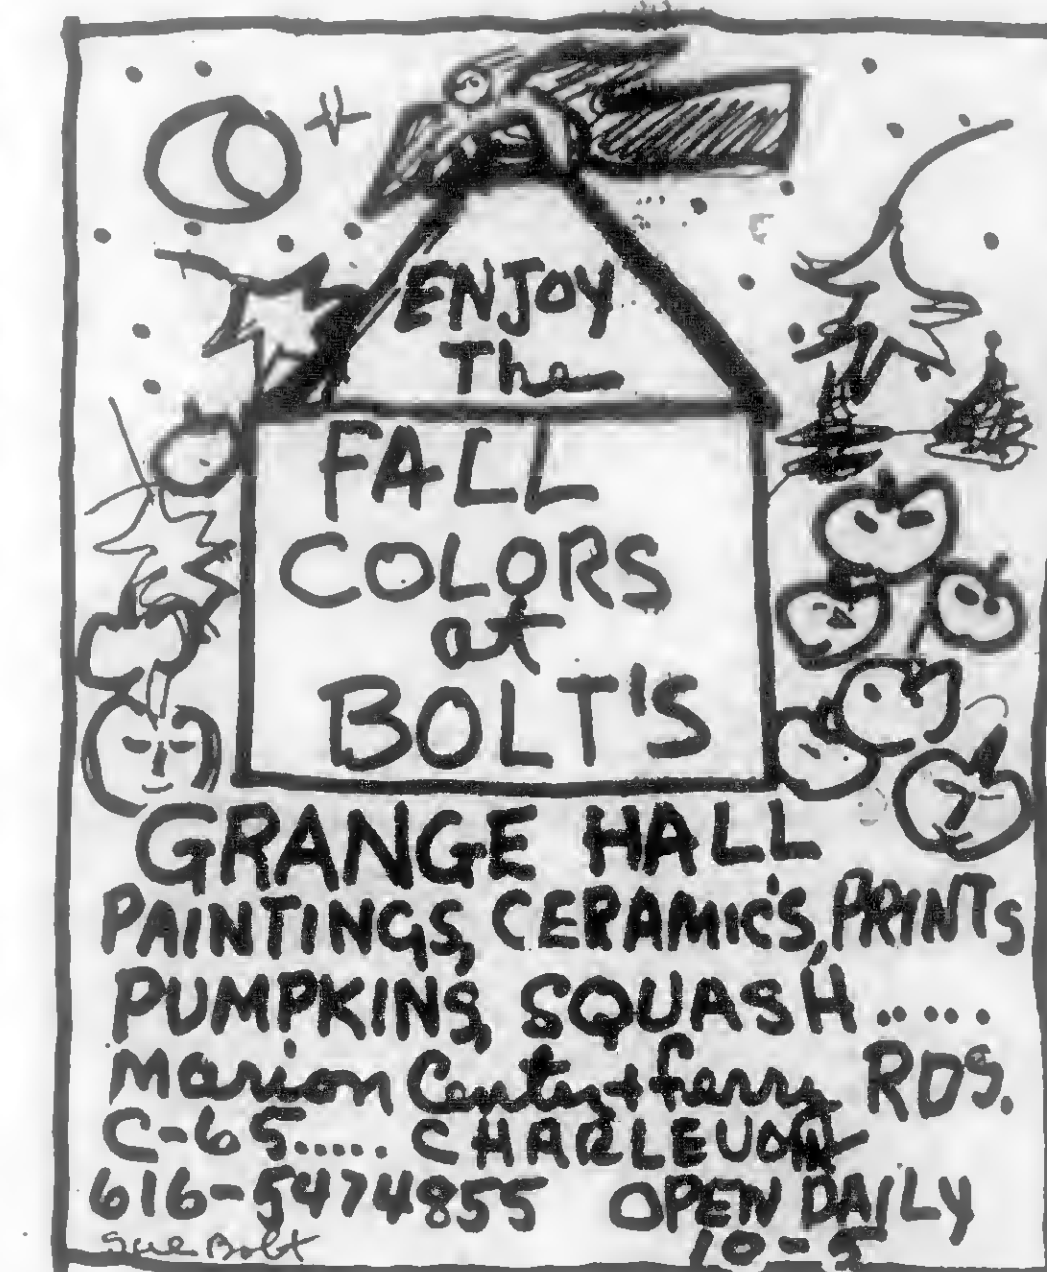

Jordan River group to meet

The Friends of the Jordan River Watershed, Inc. will host its 1995 annual meeting on Monday, Oct. 16 at the Jordan Valley District Library in East Jordan. The business portion of the meeting will begin at 7 p.m. with the program to follow. This year's program features the topic "Local Zoning to Protect Designated Natural Rivers." Speakers will be Friends of the Jordan Vice President John Richter; MDNR Natural Rivers Administrator Doug Carter; Charlevoix County Planning Director Larry Sullivan; and Wilson Township Trustee Joe Donnellan.

This is the second public informational meeting Friends of the Jordan has sponsored in its effort to designate the remainder of the Jordan River under the state's natural rivers act as a "wild-scenic river." Although the Jordan was first among Michigan's rivers to be so designated in 1972, the lower portion — from Rogers Bridge near M-66 to its mouth at Lake Charlevoix — was somehow omitted. This effort, if successful, would in effect connect and protect the entire Jordan River under the Natural Rivers Act. A formal public hearing is required with MDNR approval before any official designation is rendered.

Friends of the Jordan sponsored a benefit concert in March to promote the unique qualities of the Jordan River Watershed and the need for its protection and preservation. In May, the group hosted the first public information meeting where state representative Beverly Bodem was on hand to express her support for "The Friends" effort.

Balch - Smith

Mr. & Mrs. James Smith

Kendall Kaye Balch and James Richard Smith were married Sept. 2 at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix. Rev. Bruce Hamilton performed the 3 p.m. double nuptials witnessed by 250 wedding guests. The altar was graced with a unity candle arrangement, baskets of gladioli, and candelabras decorated with ivy, silk roses, and tulle. English ivy and tulle adorned the pews. The floral arrangements were created by Dana Ward, aunt of the bride, of "Flowers by Dana" in Topsail Island, North Carolina.

The bride is the daughter of Ken and Kaye Balch of Charlevoix. The groom's parents are Richard and Beverly Smith of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of slipper satin featuring a Queen Anne neckline. The bodice and tapered sleeves were embellished with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. The basque waist was enhanced with a back peplum adorned with satin rosettes and lace. The detachable cathedral length train was accented with embroidered sequined Alencon lace appliques and beaded lace edging. The bride's double tiered finger-tip veil was attached to a lace tiara adorned with crystals and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white and pale peach silk roses, hibiscus, lilies of the valley, stephanotis, trailing ivy, white tulle, and pearl sprays.

Music was provided by organist Barbara Youmans of Charlevoix. Soloist Michael Fabish of Saginaw sang "The Wedding Song" and "Here and Now," and guitarist and vocalist Rodney Stevens of Charlevoix sang "I Cross My Heart."

The groom's cousin, Debra Drenth Coolman, served as matron of Honor. Bridesmaids were Michelle Ranae Vancil of Cheboygan, sister of the bride, and Sheri Gillhepsy of Grand Rapids. Junior bridesmaid was Courtney Ranae Kane of Cheboygan, niece of the bride. The bridal attendants wore tea-length gowns of jade satin featuring sweetheart necklines, lace sleeves and bodices, keyhole backs accented with pearls, and princess waistlines. They carried bouquets of peach and white silk roses, white mums, and baby's breath with white tulle and ribbon.

Best man was Michael Smith of Grand Rapids, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Gary Coolman, Carl Dhaseleer, and Ryan Kane of Cheboygan, nephew of the bride. Ushers were Randy Balch of Grand Rapids and Jeff Balch of Charlotte, brothers of the bride. The gentlemen in the wedding party were attired in tuxedos by Oscar de la Renta provided through Trademark Clothiers of Charlevoix.

The bride's mother chose a tea-length gown of blue-violet chiffon for her daughter's wedding. The mother of the groom wore a two-piece ensemble featuring a brocade jacket in autumn colors and lace edging and a full tea-length chiffon skirt of hunter green.

Following a horse-drawn carriage ride, the couple arrived at the Belvedere Casino where their reception was hosted by the bride's parents and catered by the Bavarian Chef. Ken and Myrna Boss served as Master and Mistress of Ceremonies, and music for dancing was provided by the "Two Generations" quartet of Hillsdale. The nine-tiered wedding cake featuring a fountain was created by Nancy Rajewski of Charlevoix and served by Marilyn Miller, great aunt of the bride, and Linda Joy. Attending the guest book was Nichole Renaud.

The rehearsal dinner buffet, hosted by the groom's parents, Dick and Bev Smith, was held at Alexander's of Charlevoix.

Following a two-week honeymoon in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, the newlyweds are at home on Lakeshore Drive, Clipperview, Charlevoix in a house they designed and built themselves. The groom is employed by John Pearl Builders, and the bride is with the Charlevoix County Department of Equalization.

Charles W. Morris

Charles W. Morris, 66, of Charlevoix and San Salvador, Bahamas, died Sept. 18 at Bixby Medical Center.

He was born Oct. 11, 1928 in Pittsburgh, Pa. the son of Charles and Ella Mae (Weaver) Morris. On Dec. 29, 1950, he married Carol Gallagher at St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Mt. Lebanon, Pa. She survives.

Mr. Morris graduated from Randolph-Macon Academy, Front Royal, Va., in 1946. He served four years in the U.S. Air Force during the Korean War. He graduated in 1959 from GMI with a Mechanical/Electrical Engineering Degree. He worked at GM Truck & Coach Engineering in Pontiac.

He was a commercial pilot with more than 8,000 hours, and built and flew an experimental and a Super Cub plane on floats. After 25 years in service in the National Ski Patrol System, he was awarded his national ranking. He was an avid yachtsman, competing in and crewing on the "Crusader," a winner of the Port Huron to Mackinac Race. He was a past member of the Charlevoix Lions Club and the Purdue Directors Club and a lifetime member of the National Rifle Association. He had a wonderfully dry sense of humor and was admired and feared for his practical jokes. He enjoyed golf, bow hunting, black powder and conventional hunting, spear fishing and deep sea fishing.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by six children, Deborah M. Baldwin and her husband Gary of Tecumseh, Pamela A. Threet and her husband Jewel of Adrian, Cheryl M. Schafer and her husband Keith of Adrian, Theresa L. Faust and her husband Randy of Adrian, Liz Morris of Ann Arbor and Charles W. Morris Jr. and his wife Kathy of Adrian. Also surviving are 13 grandchildren and one sister, Ella Jane Rex of Olmsted Falls, Ohio. He was preceded in death by his parents and one sister, Marjorie Harris.

A mass of Christian Burial was celebrated Sept. 22 at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Adrian with the Rev. James W. Lohamer, s.s., and the Rev. James Gardiner officiating.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Salvation Army.

Anne F. Nason

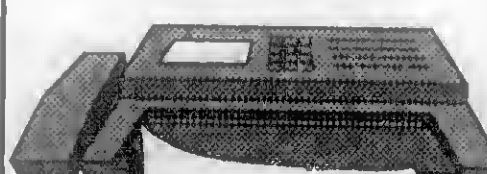

Anne F. Nason, 80, of Athens, Michigan and formerly of Charlevoix County, died Sept. 27 at Battle Creek Health Systems Community Site. Her funeral took place Saturday, Sept. 30 at the Burr Oak Cemetery in Athens with Rev. Robert Girdwood of the Church of Christ in Colon, Michigan officiating.

Mrs. Nason was born July 10, 1915 in Cleveland, Ohio. Her father was Jacob Razem and her mother was Josephine (Gazvoda) Razem. She lived in Ohio until her marriage to Homer Nason, Feb. 14, 1938. They moved to Charlevoix County where they owned and operated a farm from 1938 to 1960. They then moved to Clearwater, Florida where they lived for 31 years. In 1990, they moved to Athens.

Mrs. Nason was preceded in death by her husband of 55 years on May 14, 1993 and by a brother Joseph Razem in 1994. Survivors include: a daughter, Adele and son-in-law Woody Alverson of Athens; three grandchildren and two great grandchildren; and a brother, Frank Razem of Cleveland.

Memorials may be directed to the Athens Community Foundation.

Kyle A. Borths

Kyle A. Borths, 9, of Charlevoix, died Oct. 1, 1995, in Newberry.

Funeral will be 10 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 4, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. Burial will take place in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Kyle was born Dec. 16, 1985, in Charlevoix, the son of Robert E. and Cecelia "Boh and Cookie" Borths.

He attended St. Mary's Church, and was a fourth-grade student at St. Mary's School.

Kyle enjoyed participating in the martial arts and loved to fish. He was an altar server at St. Mary's Church.

Survivors include his parents, Bob and Cookie Borths, of Charlevoix; one brother, Ryan Eugene, and one sister, Lisa Elizabeth, both at home; his grandmother, Angeline Borths, of Charlevoix; godparents, Charlie Borths of Petoskey and Darleen Borths Charlevoix; and his good friends, Andrew Wright and Michael Todd Moore.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

George F. Krchak Jr.

A memorial service for George F. Krchak Jr., 70, of Charlevoix and Foley, Ala., will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 7, at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Dale Ostema will officiate.

Mr. Krchak died Sept. 21, 1995, in Foley, Ala.

Arrangements were handled by the Pine Rest Funeral Home in Foley, Ala.

Hospital offers grief recovery sessions

A series of five weekly sessions for those coping with a loss will take place from Wednesday, Oct. 18 to Nov. 15, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Boyne City Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. The Grief Recovery program is sponsored by Charlevoix County Hospice, Charlevoix Area Hospital, Community Mental Health and District Health Department #3, to provide help for anyone who is recovering from a loss.

Rev. Buzz Walls, Charlevoix County Hospice cleric spiritual advisor, will conduct the Grief Recovery sessions. Anyone is invited who has suffered a loss, or who is helping a loved one deal with a loss, and who would benefit from the support of others. These informative discussions will provide assistance in dealing with grief. Class size is limited to 10. Those interested must pre-register and registration will be closed with no one admitted to the sessions after the first class.

Please call the Hospice office at 536-2842 to indicate your desire to participate in the free program.

Six new members named to pool board

Charlevoix Friends of the Pool status as a publicly supported organization has been recognized by the Internal Revenue Service which granted a 501(c)(3) tax-exempt designation to the group last week.

In the meantime, tax-deductible donations for the community indoor pool project have been held by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation in a pool fund.

The organization also announced that several new members are now serving on the CFOP board of directors. They are Joan Nelson, Daniel Spagnuolo, Linda DeGrow, Kris Rundblad, and Dennis Van Guilder.

The application for 501(c)(3) was bolstered by a number of fund raising efforts on behalf of CFOP by its supporters. Most recently proceeds were given from a Vacation Properties golf outing and a day's receipts from the dental practice of Dr. David Strawbridge. CFOP also received a check from East Jordan Iron Works Foundation which held a can and bottle collection drive.

Other fund raisers have been held by members of the U.S. Coast Guard, Charlevoix High School students, the Argonne Restaurant and Mahogany's Fine Dining at Charlevoix Country Club.

CROP Walkers will take a hike Saturday

1995 is the 25th year of CROP Walking in Michigan and the twelfth year for the Charlevoix County Walk.

Saturday, Oct. 7, Charlevoix CROP Walkers will meet at the high school gym area at 9 a.m. After brief opening remarks, safety reminders and prayer the participants will follow route markers from May Street to Stover Road to M66. The six-mile hike will end at the Ironton Congregational Church on Washington Street.

At the church they will meet walkers from East Jordan and Boyne City for hot dogs and soft drinks before being transported back to the high school.

"We walk because they walk" is the CROP Walk motto, referring to people in developing countries who walk daily for clean water and work in the fields.

In keeping with the motto, the only wheels permitted for the event are such necessary wheels as wagons when used to pull children, strollers and wheelchairs.

Michigan State Troopers (from left) Bruce Dykehouse, Jerry Briolat, Brad Meyer and Tim Shibata missed only three of 1,140 shots to come in first among area law enforcement agencies at the annual Turkey Shoot. Shibata was the top individual finisher with a perfect score. The shoot is sponsored by Consumers Power and takes place at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club range.

Rayders win fourth straight

East Jordan beaten 34-14

Charlevoix's varsity football team ran their winning streak to four in a row with a 34-14 victory at East Jordan Friday evening.

The Rayders got good play on both sides of the ball. On offense, fullback George McClellan stomped, sorted and just generally bulldozed for 122 yards and three touchdowns. The Rayder offense has a better power running game than they've had for the past few years. With four offensive linemen (Bruce Reinhart, Eric Rowell, Mike Rautio and Josh Skeel) each weighing 200-and-many pounds, from the perspective of an opposing defensive lineman, the snap of the ball doesn't so much start a play as it initiates a stampede. By the time a defender sorts through all of that beef, he's usually at least a little off balance when he meets McClellan, who's also over six feet tall and hauling about 200 pounds at a brisk clip toward the goal line. Stopping Charlevoix in a short yardage situation is not an easy job.

On defense, the Rayders received strong play from Rautio and Skeel in the line, Rory McKeown at linebacker and Mark Boss in the defensive backfield. In the third quarter, East Jordan tried a two-point conversion following their second touchdown. The Red Devils attempted a sweep to the right, but Rautio scuttled the play by stuffing the blocker into the backfield.

Charlevoix opened the scoring in the first quarter on a two-yard run by McClellan. The touchdown was set up by a long pass from Boss to David Manker. Charlevoix went up 14-0 in the second quarter on another touchdown by McClellan. East Jordan drew within a touchdown just before the half on a 30 yard touchdown pass.

Charlevoix scored three times in the second half. The touchdowns were a three yard run by McClellan, a 31 yard run by Gary Leitner and a two yard run by Marc Jacobs. Leitner ran well prior to aggravating a leg injury that's given him problems throughout the season.

Charlevoix's offense accumulated 284 yards. The Rayders rushed for 220 yards and passed for 64 yards.

McKeown recovered a fumble and had seven solo tackles. Boss also had seven tackles to go with an interception. Rautio and Skeel each had six tackles. Jason Terryberry also had an interception.

Shoot to benefit Camp Quality

The Jordan River Sportsmen/Muzzleloaders Club will host a benefit shoot for Camp Quality Sunday, Oct. 8. There will be four line shoots (post your own targets). The range will open at 10 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. There will also be a woodwalk from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The cost is $6 per shooter or $10 per couple. Prizes will be awarded and all proceeds will be donated to Camp Quality, a summer camp for children who have been diagnosed with a life threatening illness.

Camping will be available Friday and Saturday, Oct. 7 and 8. There will also be a pot luck supper Sunday afternoon. Bring a dish to pass and your own table service.

SPORTS

Basketball team wins 48-40

Despite having several players battling colds, the Charlevoix Rayder varsity girls' basketball team came home from East Jordan with a 48-40 win Sept. 28. The win left the Rayders with a 5-0 conference record, one game ahead of Kalkaska.

Amanda Eaton had 10. For East Jordan which dropped to 2-2 in league play and 6-3 overall, Amanda Pepin had 10 points and 12 rebounds.

East Jordan won the junior varsity game 57-52 behind 25 points from Jenny Goebel. Julie Gregory had 18 points and Lyndsay Blechel 10 for the Rayders.

Charlevoix will host Harbor Springs, Thursday, Oct. 5.

Points were tough to come by for both teams in the first quarter. Charlevoix managing only seven and East Jordan just four. In the second quarter, the Rayder offense still sputtered. However, East Jordan came up with 13 points and led the Rayders 17-15 at halftime.

In the third quarter, Charlevoix finally got the offense rolling and outscored East Jordan 15-10 to take a 30-27 lead into the fourth quarter. Charlevoix extended that lead by five in the fourth quarter.

Senior forward Kris Blanchard led the Rayders with 12 points while sophomore point guard

Golfers place second at Elk Rapids meet

Charlevoix's varsity golf team shot well Sept. 27 at Elk Rapids, but not quite well enough. Elk Rapids tied a school record with a 154 and came out 12 strokes ahead of the Rayders. Kalkaska lost to both the Elks and the Rayders, shooting a 170.

Scott Blechel led the Rayders with a 40. Ryan Murdick, Brad Eaton and Keith Grunch each shot rounds of 42. Dan Pardee had a 44 and Bob Sommerfeld had a 48.

In the junior varsity match Charlevoix lost to Elk Rapids' 184 to 198. John Browe led the junior varsity Rayders with a score of 46. Jason Vincent shot a 47, Tommy Yaroch a 48 and Mike Staton a 57.

The Rayders will host Boyne City, Oct. 4 at the Belvedere Golf Course.

Girls cross country team takes second

Charlevoix's girls' cross country team placed second behind the host team at the Carson City Crystal Invitational Saturday. Carson City took first among 13 teams in the Class C portion of the meet with 43 points. Charlevoix placed second with 108 points.

Individually, Chelsea Gorkiewicz led the Rayders, placing tenth in a time of 20:39. Other Charlevoix girls running and their places and times were: 22-Rachael Newcomb, 21:23; 23-Monica Browe, 21:31; 25-Candice Vandergriff, 21:33; 33-Tricia Hodge, 22:11; 42-Jessa Van-Guider, 22:45; 46-Candy Siwarga, 22:58.

While the Charlevoix boys did not place among the top teams in the race, Justin Davis placed eleventh in the race with a time of 17:06. Other Rayders and their places and times were: 25-Nate Martin, 17:42; 35-Marc Dohm, 18:06; 41-Brian Martinus, 18:24; 47-Dan Keehn, 18:32; 71-Jeff Popenhagen, 19:26; 73-Patrick Butcher, 19:30.

While Charlevoix's varsity team was in Carson City, the junior varsity team went to Alpena to compete against varsity teams from other schools. Charlevoix's j.v. girls placed fifth among eight teams while the j.v. boys placed tenth in a ten team field.

In the girls' race, freshman Kelly McFarlin led the Rayders, finishing 18th in a time of 23:11. Other Charlevoix runners and their places and times were: 22-Liz Andreae, 23:31; 24-Meg Spang, 23:34; 43-Johanna Moore, 25:35; 53-Tricia Kelly, 27:14; 55-Sarah Borths, 27:21; 60-Allison Kujawski, 28:24; 62-Tonia Peterson, 28:47.

Charlevoix boys and their places and times were: 46-Nathan Jones, 19:51; 49-Bill Parton, 19:56; 65-Julian Pignon, 20:44; 67-Andrew Moats, 20:50; 73-Devon Post, 21:41; 74-Nick Grosberg, 21:41; 76-Mike Post, 21:48; 80-Mike Czerkes, 22:55; 82-Andrew Kitzly, 23:16; 85-Matt Campbell, 23:24.

Charlevoix will host the Martin Invitational Saturday, Oct. 7 at the Belvedere Golf Course.

Two of our regular contestants will be missed

Before we start on our normal football contest information, we need to pause for a serious moment this week. One of the nice things about this contest is that the contestants represent a wonderful cross section of the community. Entries come in from men and women, young and old. This past week we lost our oldest and youngest contestants. At age 91, Hugh Mayne was about our oldest contestant. At age nine, Kyle Borths was our youngest.

We brought the Courier football contest back two years ago and since that time, almost every week of autumn Mayne and his wife Catherine would pull up to the front of the Courier office to drop off Hugh's picks. Last week when we compiled results we were surprised that there wasn't an entry from Hugh. Later in the week, we were saddened to hear of his death. On behalf of all of us who amuse ourselves in this life by dabbling in such things as football contests, we at the Courier send our sympathy to Hugh's family.

Kyle Borths participated in the contest with his father, Bob, and his brother Ryan. One night each week after supper the father and two sons would sit at the kitchen table and make their picks.

Last year Kyle did very well and that was something we got a big kick out of here at the Courier office. When one of the other contestants who was doing well would start gloating, we would say, "Yep. You're doing nearly as well as the eight-year-old." Monday, when we at the Courier heard of Kyle's death, like the rest of the community we were stunned and saddened. Charlevoix is a small community that values its families and especially treasures its children. When one child is lost and a family mourns, we all grieve. We send our sympathy to Kyle's family and let them know our prayers are with them.

On with the contest.

A new name won this week's contest. Brad Hice went 8-2. Sally Fritz, who won the week before last, also was 8-2, but Hice won in the tie breaker.

Here are this week's games:
University of Miami (the Florida one) at Florida State: Miami's having an off year. Florida State isn't. Pick - Florida State.

Northwestern at Michigan: Northwestern at Michigan. Northwestern upset Notre Dame, but they won't make it two big upsets in one year. Pick - Michigan.

Penn State at Ohio State: Penn State's going to be in a foul mood after losing to Wisconsin. Ohio State is coming off a big win over Notre Dame. Pick - Penn State.

Cleveland at Detroit: Does beating San Francisco mean all is forgiven and the Lions are now back on track? They're never on track. Pick - Cleveland.

Green Bay at Dallas: Dallas doesn't look the same without Troy

Aikman, but they're still good enough to beat Green Bay. Pick - Dallas.

Arizona at New York Giants: Neither of these teams has looked all that good this year. With Hampton hurting, Wheatley is likely to get some time and he should shine. Pick - New York Giants.

Philadelphia at Oakland: Oakland is one of the best teams in the AFC. Prior to the season, some people felt the Eagles are one of the best teams in the NFC. But they're not. Pick - Oakland.

Gaylord at St. Ignace: St. Ignace has faded as the season has progressed. Pick - Gaylord.

Elk Rapids at East Jordan: Elk Rapids is a so-so team, but East Jordan is having an absolutely dismal season. Pick - Elk Rapids.

Charlevoix at Boyne City: Let's save the toughest pick for last. Somebody's winning streak is about to end. If Charlevoix gets a monster night from the defensive line, they could win this. But still...reluctantly. Pick - Boyne City.

ORDER TO ANSWER

On September 14, 1995, an action was filed by the above named Plaintiffs, against the above named Defendants, in the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, to quiet title to real property situated in the Township of Hayes, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, more specifically identified as follows:

In Hayes Township, Charlevoix
County, Michigan: Commencing at the intersection of a line which is 33
feet East and parallel to the West
eighth line of Section 2, T34N, R7W,
with the centerline of Highway U.S.
31; thence in a Northeasterly direction along the centerline of said highway 500 feet; thence North, parallel to the West eighth line, 393.3 feet, more or less, to a southerly line of the Pere Marquette Railroad right of way; thence in a Northwesterly direction along the Southerly line of said right of way to the intersection thereof with the line which is parallel to and 33 feet distant from the West eighth line of said Section 2; thence South 603.1 feet, more or less, to the place of beginning; being part of Government Lot 3, in Section 2, T34N, R7W, subject to Highway
U.S. 31.

AND ALSO, ONE-HALF OF A FOR-MER RAILROAD RIGHT OF WAY DESCRIBED AS:

In Hayes Township, Charlevoix
County, Michigan: Commencing at the intersection of a line which is 33
feet East and parallel to the West
eighth line of Section 2, T34N, R7W,
with the centerline of Highway U.S.
31; thence in a Northeasterly direction along the centerline of said
highway 500 feet; thence North, parallel to the West eighth line, 393.3
feet, more or less, to the Southerly line of the former railroad right of way, and being the point of beginning of this description; thence in a Northwesterly direction along the Southerly line of said right of way to the intersection with the line which is parallel to and 33 feet distant from the West eighth line of said Section;

Castle Farm sets up
escrow fund

The Castle Farm Inc. Board of Directors has opened a restricted escrow savings account at CB North. This account will enable donors to feel confident that all donations are safe and protected, since they are restricted solely for the acquisition of the Castle Farm property. In the event that the entire amount needed to complete the property purchase is not raised, donors will receive their money back with interest. Dec. 18, 1995 is the deadline for raising the money needed to complete the property purchase.

Castle to host Fall Scout Expo

Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts from Michigan's Northern District will be at Castle Farm Community Center this Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the 1995 Fall Scouting Expo Camporee. The scouts will be participating in a wide variety of activities and skills including: model airplane flying, crossing rope bridges, archery, gymnastics and pioneering. The cost of the Expo is $4 per person. For additional information, phone David or Gale Phillips at (616) 547-0155.

Stupak to make academy appointments

Congressman Bart Stupak will be accepting applications for nominations to U.S. military academy appointments at the Military Academy in West Point, New York, the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado, and Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland.

Applications will be accepted from unmarried U.S. citizens from the ages of 17-21 who will graduate from high school by June 1996. Most candidates who apply for a nomination are in the top 10 percent of their class and score in the top 10 percent on standardized tests such as the SAT and the ACT.

"I am happy to assist students in Northern Michigan who are interested in attending one of our military academies," Stupak said. "It is a great honor to attend West Point, the Naval Academy and the Air Force Academy, and many students in Northern Michigan have gone on to distinguish themselves through academic excellence at these institutions."

For more information on the military academy application process, contact Chuck Oxender in Congressman Stupak's office in Traverse City at 616-929-4711.

John A. Merrill
DDS

Dear Valued Patients, Friends, and Colleagues:

As many of you know I was accepted into a specialty program at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota to begin October 1 of this year.

I felt very honored to be selected by such a prestigious organization. My four-year fellowship would have involved training in rehabilitating severely compromised patients due to cancer, injuries, and birth defects. It truly would have been a new adventure.

My motivation to make such a change was out of a desire to further challenge myself and to provide an even higher level of service to my fellow man.

The last year has been a difficult one full of uncertainty on what the future would hold. It has taught my wife Jan and I to put our lives in the Lord's hands.

We are now very pleased to announce that the roller-coaster ride is over and that we will be staying in Charlevoix for the foreseeable future. We still have to move however as Jan is now pregnant with our fourth child and our small home will soon be way too tiny.

I would not be honest if I did not admit I feel some disappointment in not being able to work and study at the Mayo Clinic. However, I am being completely candid when I say there is no disappointment in staying in Charlevoix. What a wonderful place to work and live and raise an ever-increasing family.

Lastly, I want to thank you for your trust and support. Be assured that my staff and I are committed to continue serving you and providing you and your family with the best care possible. And as always, we are happy to welcome friends and family members you would like to send our way. We appreciate your kind referral. Thank you again.

Sincerely,

John A. Merrill

Charlevoix gets good news twice

Acacia staying in Charlevoix

Charlevoix received some good news last week from the U.S. Coast Guard. Capt. Paul Barlow, Chief of U.S. Coast Guard's Aids To Navigation, Ninth District based in Cleveland, visited Charlevoix last week and reported that it looks as if the Coast Guard cutter Acacia will remain stationed in Charlevoix for at least the next four or five years. Barlow was in Charlevoix for three days. He inspected the ship, monitored the crew as they went through a number of drills and worked a buoy, reviewed the ship's administrative records, talked to

Park building interior to be completed

Following a meeting between city and state officials last Friday, the city will be able to go ahead and equip the interior of a new building which is being constructed as part of the city's Bridge Park project. Charlevoix Mayor Josh Barnes, City Manager Mike Wiesner and Beaver Island Boat Company officer Bill McDonough met with Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) officials and State Representative Bev Bodem in Lansing last Friday to discuss the acquisition of MDOT property for the park project. The cost of the

Courier honored for general excellence

The Charlevoix Courier took three awards, including top honors for general excellence, in the Michigan Press Association's 1995 Better Newspaper contest. Newspapers from throughout Michigan were judged by members of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association. The Courier was judged against other small weekly papers in Michigan.

The general excellence category judges the paper's overall content and design. Commenting on the Courier, judges described it as "An upbeat, well-designed weekly that offers much information and entertainment. The appearance is clean and consistent throughout."

The Courier also received a first place in the editorial pages category. Judges wrote, "Good quality of writing. Very lively op ed. It's great to include letters from students."

Courier rates to increase

Subscription rates to the Courier will be increasing effective Nov. 1. The rate for one-year, in-area subscriptions will change from $34.60 to $36. The one-year, out-of-area rate will change from $45.20 to $47.

We're extending the tourist season

While the success of Charlevoix's tourism related businesses during the summer of 1995 was fairly obvious, in a quieter, less conspicuous way, this fall is proving profitable for many local businesses.

Even though the weather hasn't been entirely cooperative during the past week, downtown Charlevoix has remained fairly active, particularly on weekends. This coming weekend also promises to be busy with the annual Apple Fest and high school homecoming.

In looking to expand the tourism portion of Charlevoix's economy, extending the peak season is something the community has been doing with greater success and should continue doing. As things are, we draw plenty of people to town during July and August. During those two months, local businesses are hopping. Granted, the masses of people strain business staffs and public facilities and streets...but the money's good. Charlevoix, as a community, has done a nice job of drawing people to town during July and August.

It's doubtful that we'll ever make our town as busy 12 months of the year as it currently is for two. In fact, you can make a lot of arguments against that. Having Charlevoix function at the pace it functions during July and August all year long would get to be old in a hurry.

But somewhere between the pace of July and August and where we are now, there's room to have May and June be busier at the beginning of summer and to have August, September and early October be more active in the fall. And that can be done at a level which, in addition to bringing more money into the community, doesn't clutter things up, but creates just enough activity to be entertaining.

The Apple Fest is an example of a special event which the Chamber of Commerce has organized to draw people to town for one week-end in October. A lot depends on the weather, but with any cooperation at all on that front, the Apple Fest can be a whole lot of fun and quite profitable. This past Saturday, Charlevoix also hosted two other events which brought quite a few people into the community. The annual Martin Invitational cross country race at the Belvedere Club drew hundreds of people as did the Fall Scout Expo at Castle Farm. Charlevoix also has two nice new soccer fields and with any luck in future years those can be the focal point of an area youth tournament.

At the other end of the season, in May and June, we need to get our heads together in this town and come up with some kind of a drawing card. We used to have the Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament, but since that hit the road, we've never really come up with something of the same caliber to replace it.

Perhaps even more important than special events, something Charlevoix has done, and needs to continue to do, is to just generally make Charlevoix an inviting place to do business and relax on a day-in and day-out, or a night-in and night-out basis.

During the past several years Charlevoix has done a lot from both a private and public perspective to make this town a better place to spend time and money. It wasn't that many years ago when doing serious shopping meant a trip to Petoskey or Traverse City. Now, there still may be a few things that are a little difficult to find in town, but for the most part you can get about anything you want here. And not only can you buy what you want, you can buy it when you want it. When it comes to keeping hours that are convenient for shoppers, Charlevoix businesses set the standard in northern Michigan.

And when you're done shopping, there's no need to leave town to find a good place to eat or drink. We've got plenty of good restaurants and bars in town. Take a minute some time and list all of the restaurants and bars in town. Start at the Flight Deck and work your way north to the Argonne. The number of places to eat and drink and the diversity will surprise you.

From a public perspective, we've taken care of things too. We've got good streets and sidewalks and beautiful parks. They're well-lit. They're clean and they're safe.

A lot of the same things Charlevoix has to offer in the middle of the summer are still there in the spring and fall. As a community we need to realize that and extol those virtues to others to keep the place a little busier. Winters here will probably always be cold, but from an economic perspective they don't necessarily have to be too long.

Saturday afternoon I will be autographing "Summer Resort Life; Tango Teas and All" at the Bridge Street Book Store. We hope that after everyone has munched on a sampling of apples at the Apple Festival, people will stroll in to the bookstore and pick up a copy either for themselves or to give a friend for Christmas.

Thus far, the sale of this book has admittedly been quite an astonishing success and the feedback extremely interesting. People ask, "Why was the gambling Casino raided in 1947?" (Gov. Kim Sigler declared war on all gambling in the State of Michigan). "Why was the train, the Resort Special, discontinued?" (After World War II, summer resorts went into a sharp decline as people were able to travel again world wide). "What are Tango Teas?" (It's a ballroom dance affair held in the afternoon — a custom that became popular during Prohibition, when liquor was banned).

Knowing how difficult it is to unearth good photographs, I was especially tickled when a Hemingway scholar reluctantly admitted he had never before seen the authentic smiling photo of Ernest as a youth in Horton Bay. Another reader noticed in the photo of Captain Allie Moore, one of the great sailors of all time, that he was splicing rope to make slippers, not fish nets, a detail I had missed.

Then there was the visit from Charlie Bellinger who delighted me with a lovely photograph of the singing trio, Alice Bellinger, Mildred Webster and Esther Hawley, who called themselves the "Charlevoixes." When they sang the popular "Charlevoix Song" to the tune of the old Irish ballad, "A

Letters to the editor

Employee complains about union negotiations

Editor,
I have been a repairman at Consumers Power Company for the past five years. I'll have been with the company seven years next month. Obviously I have been happy working for C.P. or I wouldn't have stayed so long. My job is interesting and providing service to the public is very satisfying. Until recently I always felt that the company treated most of its workers fairly.

Since July 15, 1995, when our extended contract expired, we have been working without a contract. The 4,200 union employees at C.P. across the state have decided to continue providing gas and electricity to the public while we pursue a fair and equitable contract. However, the company has refused to budge from its position. We feel that we have to get our message out and try to get support from the rate paying public.

For the past 40 years our contract has contained a very sensible clause - both for the workers and customers of Consumers Power. That clause says that "It will be the policy of the company to maintain a force of sufficient size to take care of the expected regular work of the company..." Now the company is insisting that this language be removed. They do not want to employ enough workers to take care of providing energy to their customers. They intend to use unskilled, non-union contractors, many of whom live outside Michigan, to provide the service that C.P. workers have provided for most of the twentieth century.

Consumers is not willing to tell us what they are planning to do over the next five years. To agree to this kind of language would be suicide for the workers at C.P. The employees of Consumers Power are highly skilled and have years of training and experience. I do not believe that letting this work go to the lowest bidder is in line with providing the safe and reliable service that our customers are accustomed to and are paying for.

It should also be a major concern to every Michigan resident that Consumers is using contractors from out of state on their distribution system. It is disheartening for unemployed Michigan workers to see utility trucks with Wisconsin plates working in their neighborhood. These people will be long gone when a storm knocks out the electricity or a gas main breaks. This is not a typical labor dispute where workers want a bigger piece of the pie. The economic future and quality of utility service in all our communities in the state of Michigan is at stake.

Respectfully,
Ernest E. Lindsey

Check your smoke alarms

Editor,
An average of three children a day - approximately 1,100 children under the age of 15 - die each year in house fires. Ninety percent of fire deaths involving children occur in homes without smoke detectors. Sadly, many of these tragic deaths could be avoided with a working smoke detector.

To help parents, guardians and kids in our community remember, we have joined forces with the International Association of Fire Chiefs and Energizer brand batteries to encourage kids and their parents to adopt a simple habit that could save their lives: changing their smoke detector batteries each fall when they turn back their clocks from daylight-savings time.

Although 92 percent of American homes have smoke detectors, nearly one-third don't work because of worn or missing batteries. With the early warning that a smoke detector can provide, residents stand a much greater chance of escaping to safety. In fact, a working smoke detector cuts the risk of dying in a home fire by nearly half.

So, this October 29, when you turn back your clocks, take an extra minute to install fresh batteries in your smoke detectors, too. Then, push the test button on the smoke detectors to make sure the devices are working. We recommend that families also plan two escape routes from their home and practice them regularly.

Remember, a smoke detector is a family's best defense against fire. Keeping it in top working condition with an annual battery change will help ensure that it's working when you need it most.

Sincerely,
Doug Carver
Fire Chief

Little Bit of Heaven," grown men have been known to cry! You may also be interested to know that the words, which are in the book, have been sung at several weddings recently.

Finally, when reminiscing about the popular Red Fox Inn, it surprises old timers that the present generation has never heard of the famous Tomato Pudding that was served there, country style. Although the recipe does not meet today's low-calorie, light, and to my mind, tasteless recipes recommended by nutritionists, I shall digress from the book and reprint it in full here for your benefit.

RED FOX INN TOMATO PUDDING

1 13 oz. can tomato puree
1 cup dark brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup fresh white bread cut into 1 in. squares
1/2 cup melted butter

To puree add sugar and salt, heat to boil, and reduce to simmer for 5 minutes. Place bread squares in casserole and put melted butter over bread. Add tomato mixture and bake covered for 30 minutes in moderate oven at 375 degrees. Before serving, stir well with a wooden spoon. Makes 6 servings. May be prepared a day ahead and freezes well.

In conclusion we hope that the little vignettes we've shared in the book will narrow the distance between generations, for whenever we glance back we can't help but notice, with a chuckle, the similarities between then and now as well as the differences.

In recent years, Charlevoix has gone through another dramatic change. The condo phase has ebbed and instead, large beautiful year 'round homes are springing up all around us. There is now only one hardware store and one drug store downtown instead of two. There are more good restaurants to choose from. Small shopping centers have spread like molasses to the outskirts of town. The former lumber company by the bridge is on the south side of town. Yet a steady new stream of toddlers still watch with wide-eyed fascination as the bridge goes up and down all summer. Let's hope they will always enjoy the familiar spectacle.

Assembly to host Missions Convention

The annual Missions Convention at the Charlevoix Assembly of God, Sunday Oct. 15 through Sunday, October 22, will feature guest speakers from Belgium, South Africa, and Muskegon, Michigan. "The annual missions conventions are a spiritual highlight of the year," reports Lowell Anderson, senior pastor of the church. "An exciting new feature for this year's convention will be a Dinner Theater," he adds.

The Women's Choir from Muskegon Teen Challenge will be featured in the service at 6 p.m.

Sunday, Oct. 15. Rev. Sue Seals will be the featured speaker for the evening.

The service Wednesday evening, Oct. 18 at 7 p.m. will feature Rev. John Koeshall from Brussels, Belgium. Koeshall is the Director of Students for Christ, a Christian ministry to university campuses throughout Europe. The ministry of Rev. Koeshall takes him to campuses in Eastern and Western Europe and Southern Asia to minister to students and train student leaders.

Ed and Barbara Louton, veteran missionaries to South Africa will be the featured guests in the service at 10:30 a.m., Sunday, Oct. 22. The Loutons have served in South Africa since 1958 where their involvement has centered in teaching in Bible Schools and the training of south African nationals for ministry.

A very special climaxing event of this year's convention will be a Dinner Theater focusing on "The Great Commission" of Jesus Christ and the responsibility of Christians to carry the Gospel into all the world. The Dinner Theater will carry a French theme. Le Theatre Diner Enchanteur, with a French menu for the meal. Tickets for the Dinner Theater will carry a suggested donation of $9.95 per person.

Pastor Anderson extends an invitation to the public to attend the services and the Dinner Theater. For information or to reserve tickets call the church at 547-6430.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. LOWELL ANDERSON
Charlevoix Assembly of God

Understandable language is vital to effective communication. Everyone appreciates "everyday language" instead of the so-called "legalese" that has so often been used in contracts and other legal documents. No doubt you have sometimes felt like you needed the proverbial "Philadelphia Lawyer" to help you understand your legal documents. Likewise you may have sometimes felt like you needed a Theologian to help you understand "churchese" - the uncommon words that are used in Church that are not part of our "everyday language."

While I'm sure that other pastors in our community, like myself, are trying to phrase the teachings of scripture in more contemporary language we find it a difficult task sometimes. The plain fact is that to a certain degree the doctrines of Christianity are expressed in terms that are unique to religion in the same way some legal terms are unique to law.

This dilemma was no more real to me than when I preached on the subject of "Redemption" this past Sunday prior to serving Communion (referred to as the Eucharist in some churches). See what I mean? We've already gotten into some terminology that is distinctive to the church, and I've not even fully developed my main point!

Back to the sermon on "Redemption." While I would like to have used a more contemporary word (or should I say, a word more often used and better understood in contemporary language) there isn't another word that I could think of that would more adequately describe the concept I was trying to convey. The reality is that Bible concepts can only be communicated with Bible words because of their specific meaning.

The idea of redemption is central to the Christian faith. Christ was born of a virgin, lived a sinless life, was crucified, and rose from the dead to "redeem" us. One of the names of Christ is Redeemer.

To redeem something is to buy it back. It also has to do with the buying of a slave for the purpose of setting him/her free. Christ shed His blood to buy us back from our alienation from the Father because of our sin. We were slaves to sin and Christ has paid the price to set us free!

Much as I would like to find a better word than redemption I really don't think there is one. So to some extent we're stuck with a little "churchese." We'll just have to learn the definition of some of this churchy terminology - it conveys to us the wonders of the Person of Jesus Christ and His work in bringing us salvation - "Redemption" if you will! Have you trusted in the death of Christ on your behalf to pay the price for your freedom from sin? If you have, you thrive, as I do, with the concept of redemption. If you haven't why not claim His death as the payment for your sin and claim Him as your Savior today.

(Rev. Lowell Anderson is pastor of the Charlevoix Assembly of God church. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Anderson and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

BUSINESS

Program matches jobs to abilities

Eleanor is a woman in her twenties. She works in Charlevoix, enjoys her job and is described by her boss as a vital part of the staff. Eleanor is also developmentally disabled.

Eleanor works as a dishwasher in the kitchen of Mahogany's restaurant at the Charlevoix Country Club. She is a success story in the Supported Employment Services program which is a branch of Northern Michigan Community Mental Health. The program attempts to help people with disabilities find competitive employment.

In addition to matching employers and employees, the employment service prepares workers, does pre-employment evaluations and helps the employer and employee work out any logistical problems.

Kim Rapin, an employment training specialist with Supported Employment Services, said Eleanor's placement at Mahogany's has been an ideal pairing because Eleanor is an excellent worker and Mahogany's has been a very supportive employer.

Eleanor (center) is employed at Mahogany's restaurant through a Supported Employment Services program. She has been one of the program's most successful placements and recently received an award for her work. She is shown with employment training specialist Kim Rapin (left) and her supervisor, chef Gary Wine.

...program helps employer and employee

Gary Wine, a chef at Mahogany's who supervises Eleanor, says Eleanor enjoys her work, does a good job and has become a vital part of the kitchen crew.

Wine said he'd worked with similar employment programs in restaurants downstate and consequently understood both the potential benefits and pitfalls. With the help of Rapin, the pitfalls were avoided and Wine ended up with a good employee.

Eleanor has been with Mahogany's since the restaurant opened in May. Through the summer, she worked approximately 40 hours per week. During the fall, she has been working about 25 hours per week, but if some transportation issues can be worked out she's going to be doing some additional work on weekends.

Wine says, "She has her pace. She knows what needs to be done at what particular time. You just have to make sure she understands what's expected of her, then she does it."

Following a recent employee evaluation, Eleanor was all smiles. As she explained to Rapin, she got all "high numbers." She also got a raise.

Ski patrollers can now offer first aid off the slopes

Members of the National Ski Patrol may now render emergency care both on and off the slopes, whether working in the capacity of the ski patrol or not, under legislation the Senate passed unanimously last week announced Senator Walter North (R-St. Ignace). Senate Bill 470, introduced by North, amends the Good Samaritan Law which provides immunity to members of the national ski patrol for rendering emergency care, but only while serving in a ski patrol capacity.

"It is ludicrous to discourage certified, emergency personnel from volunteering in a crisis situation because the threat of a lawsuit outweighs their willingness to do good. Senate Bill 470 corrects this situation by granting ski patrol members immunity whether they are officially on duty or not."

National ski patrol members are trained in outdoor emergency care at a level equal to that of emergency medical technicians. Outdoor emergency care training includes, and is not limited to, patient assessment and life support technique, bleeding and shock, and injuries to upper and lower extremities, head, neck, back, chest, abdomen and pelvis.

"These individuals are basically EMTs on skis," North stated. "They have valuable experience to offer in any emergency situation, such as a traffic accident, and I, for one, would appreciate their assistance. I can't imagine why they weren't included in this act when it was amended in 1987."

The Good Samaritan Law does not provide immunity in instances of gross negligence or willful and wanton misconduct. The bill now goes to the House of Representatives for consideration.

Apples are an area drawing card

By Laurie Lounsbury

Anyone who can, will probably attend the Apple Fest in Charlevoix this weekend. It's just plain sensory gluttony. The smell of German roasted almonds, the sight of autumn leaves casting a mirrored reflection on Round Lake, the feel of sunlight (or misty rain) on cool cheeks, and of course, the taste of crisp Michigan apples. Apples in pies, caramel apples, apple dumplings, and fresh apples right out of the bushel.

Not everyone is fortunate enough to be in town for Apple Fest. The Pavlicas of Cleveland, Ohio, will be back in Cleveland during Apple Fest. But that doesn't mean they won't be enjoying apple pies and apple dumplings made from Michigan apples. The Pavlicas planned ahead. On their last trip of the season to their summer home in Kalkaska, they made a special trip to Charlevoix's apple orchards. It's something they do every year. This year the Pavlicas visited Williams Orchards. Their van was loaded with bushels and peck baskets. Jennie, John Jr., and John Pavlica picked their way through Ida Red trees with branches sagging to the ground under the weight of the apples.

The Pavlicas said they'd pick seven or eight bushels of apples which they'll enjoy all year long. "The Ida Reds keep beautifully in the basement. The skins shrink up, but inside they'll be pure white and crisp," Jennie said.

The Pavlicas noticed that this year's apples, while there are plenty of them, are smaller than usual. The summer heat and lack of rain affected the size, but not the number, of apples.

Ida Reds aren't the only apples the Pavlicas will take back home. They also picked Macintosh apples, which don't keep quite as well as Ida Reds. "We have to use up the Macs earlier," John said. But that won't be a problem. "We have 14 grandchildren. They'll eat up the Macs pretty quick."

Jennie Pavlica and her family are from Cleveland, Ohio, but each year they make a trip to northern Michigan to pick apples. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

There'll be no shortage of apples this year

Crates and crates of apples, in more than 40 varieties will be available at this weekend's Apple Fest. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Charlevoix Apple Fest in its sixteenth year

The Charlevoix Apple Fest is celebrating its 16th year this Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 13-15. The festival was initiated as a way to show visitors all of the things grown in the Charlevoix area. It provides area orchards and farm markets with an opportunity to bring the harvest to the people.

The Apple Fest takes place in East Park in downtown Charlevoix.

More than 40 types of apples, including many hard to find varieties, will be on sale. Other fall harvest items available will be pumpkins, apple butter, jam, honey and cider.

Service clubs and other local organizations will also be manning booths and selling a variety of good things to eat.

In conjunction with the harvest edibles, there will also be a craft show in the park. Craftsmen from throughout the area will be displaying their products and giving people an opportunity to do some early Christmas gift shopping.

Saturday there will be a petting farm in East Park with several farm animals. Local juggler and entertainer Crazy Richard will entertain on Friday and Saturday.

A straw baler will be on site all weekend making mini bales of straw. Jerry and Vicki Wheat of Cedar Valley Farms will offer horse drawn carriage rides on Friday evening and Saturday from 1 p.m. until dark. They will be located on Park Avenue.

Frank Helle, Chess Master, will have a chess exhibition Saturday from noon to 4 p.m. in the Odmark Pavilion. Donations will be accepted with all proceeds going to the Charlevoix Teen Center.

The Charlevoix Soaring Club will host an all-you-can-eat fly-in breakfast Saturday from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m.. Call 582-3229 for more information.

Rayders lose in final minutes

The Charlevoix varsity football team had its four-game winning streak snapped in the final minutes at Boyne City Friday evening. Charlevoix lost by a score of 16-8 on a Boyne City touchdown with 2:35 left to play. Charlevoix had scored just a minute earlier to tie the game at 8-8.

The game was played on a rainy field and neither team had a lot of luck mustering a sustained offense.

Boyne City scored the only touchdown of the first three quarters shortly before halftime. Aside from that, both defenses controlled the game until the fourth quarter when Charlevoix finally put together an offensive drive. The Rayders went 40 yards on nine plays. Quarterback Mark Boss scored the Rayders' touchdown on a fourth and goal play from the eight yard line. He then passed to Jason Smith for the two-point conversion and the tie.

The Rayders' elation was short-lived as Boyne City's Geoff Detcher returned the kick-off 66 yards to the Rayder 19 yard line. Boyne City scored on the next play.

Charlevoix played one of their best defensive games of the season. Gary Leitner, a senior linebacker, recovered a fumble, intercepted a pass and had seven tackles. Rory McKeown, also a senior linebacker, had five tackles. Defensive lineman Mike Rautio, a junior, also recovered a fumble.

On offense, senior fullback George McClellan had 65 yards on nine carries.

The loss dropped Charlevoix's season record to 4-2 overall and 3-1 in league play. Boyne City is 6-0 overall and 4-0 in league play. Charlevoix could still claim a piece of the league title. For that to happen they would have to upset Traverse City, St. Francis this Friday evening and have Traverse City St. Francis beat Boyne City the following Friday.

St. Francis has never been beaten in league play, but East Jordan gave them a scare earlier in the season and Friday is Charlevoix's homecoming. Kick-off time is 7:30 p.m.

Youth Soccer results

Oct. 2 (Under Age 12 Division) The Lions Club defeated Pat McKeown Ford 1-0. Roscoe Serrels scored the lone goal in the game. Klooster Equipment and Re/Max played to a 2-2 tie. Jordan Nystrom and Trevor Kline scored for Klooster's. Matthew Sheldon and Spencer Bryan scored for Re/Max.

Oct. 3 (Under Age 10 Division) Wolohan beat Wojan 4-1 while Belvedere Club defeated CB North, also by a score of 4-1.

(Under Age 8 Division) McDonald's defeated Northwest Design 1-0 and Healthwares defeated Charlevoix United Way 9-0.

(Under Age 6 Division) Top Rank Disposal defeated the Rangers 4-1 and the Rowdies beat the Arsenal 5-4.

Oct. 4 (Under Age 12 Division) Re/Max defeated Crown Motors 2-1. Brad Long and Craig Stockman scored for Re/Max. Pat Malewitz scored for Crown Motors. Pat McKeown Ford shut out Klooster Equipment 2-0. Patrick Gowell and Bryce Daly scored the two goals.

Oct. 5 (Under Age 10 Division) Wolohan beat CB North 4-1 and Waste Management defeated Radio Shack 6-2.

(Under Age 8 Division) McDonald's defeated Charlevoix United Way 3-0 while GHA Insurance beat Andy's Market 8-0.

(Under Age 6 Division) The Arsenal bombed the Rangers 6-1.

Rayder girls win Charlevoix cross country race

Brian Martinus (center) works his way up the hill at the driving range at the Belvedere Golf Course. Runners ran 3.1 miles on a course which took them up the hill twice.

Rachel Newcomb (center) strains as she comes up the steep hill which is the greatest challenge to runners on the Charlevoix course.

Charlevoix's girls' varsity cross country team won the Class C-D division of the 14th annual Martin Cross Country Invitational Saturday while the boys' team placed fifth in the Class A, B and large C division.

Chelsea Gorkiewicz led the Rayders, finishing second among Class C and D runners with a time of 21:36. Other Rayder runners and their places and times were: 3-Candice Vandergriff, 21:57; 4-Monica Browe, 22:01; 5-Tricia Hodge, 22:05; 8-Rachel Newcomb, 22:26; 10-Jessa VanGuilder, 23:09; 12-Candy Siwarga, 23:35.

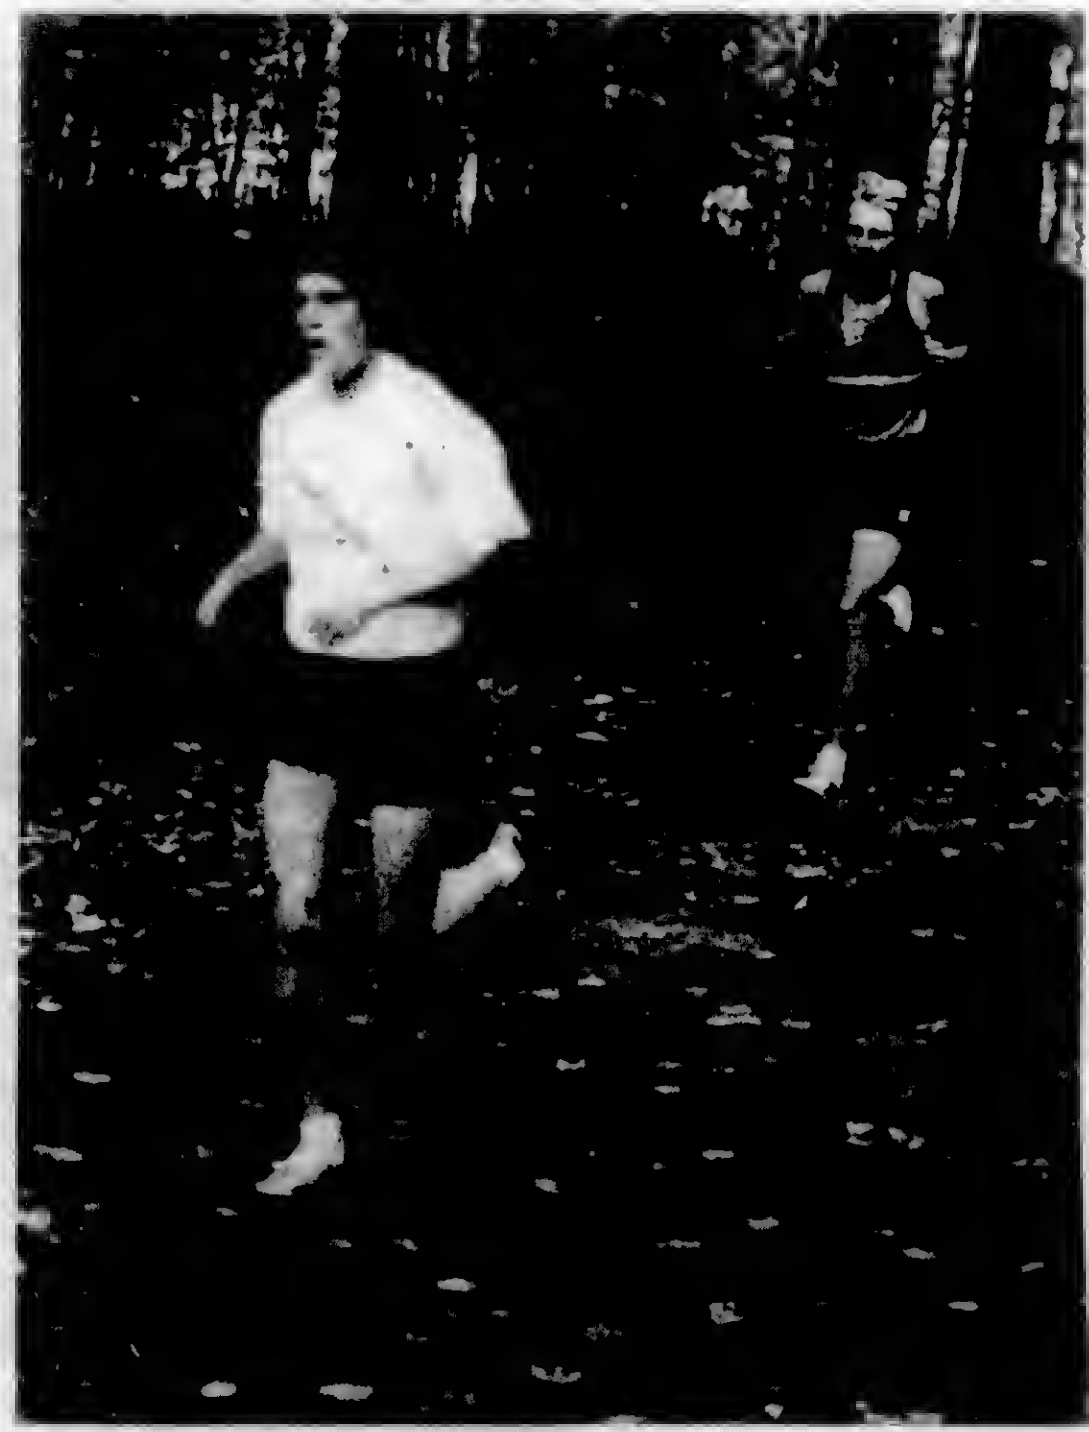

In the boys' race, Marc Dohm led the Rayders, finishing 29th with a time of 18:23. Other Rayder varsity runners and their places and times were: 33-Nate Martin, 18:39; 41-Brian Martinus, 18:50; 42-Dan Keehn, 19:03; 47-Nate Jones, 19:39; 51-Jeff Popenhagen, 19:55; 54-Patrick Butcher, 20:28; 56-Bill Parton, 20:55; 58-Julian Pignon, 21:10. Justin Davis was disqualified when an official said he missed a flag. Davis would have placed 11th.

In the junior varsity races, freshman Kelly McFarlin led the girls team, placing second with a time of 22:17. Andrew Moats led the boys, placing 30th with a time of 20:56.

This coming Saturday, Charlevoix will be running at the Reese Invitational.

Brian Martinus (front) wore a hat during Saturday's race. Although the temperature was a bit cold, for the most part the rain held off.

Six football contestants finish with 9-1 record

Nobody predicted Northwestern upset of U of M

Everybody did well with their picks for this past weekend. Only one person (and we're not mentioning any names) under .500 and six contestants finished at 9-1. Of the six, Leroy Buchanan won the tie-breaker. He predicted the total points in the Ohio State and Penn State game would be 57. The actual total was 53. The other five contestants who went 9-1 were Janet Buchanan, Gilbert Ice Jr., Randy Holccheck, Ralph Doan, and Mike Webb. The game everybody in the contest missed was Northwestern's upset of the University of Michigan. The faces of the Go Blue crowd are just a wee bit red this week.

Here are the games for this week: Traverse City St. Francis at Charlevoix: Charlevoix gave a good account of themselves at Boyne City, but fell just short. They've got to get the offense rolling earlier in the game. Much as I'd like to see St. Francis pick up their first league defeat here....Pick

Golf team tunes up for conference

Charlevoix's High School golf team is hoping to have everyone shoot well on the same day with that day being today. The Rayders are playing in the conference meet on the Spruce Run course at Grand Traverse Resort today. This weekend the Rayders will participate in the regional meet.

In the meets leading up to the conference and regionals the Rayders have gotten good scores from their top three golfers, but are looking for stronger rounds at the four and five positions. Throughout the season, different golfers have been shooting well on different days.

- Traverse City St. Francis. East Jordan at Harbor Springs - It's surprising how far East Jordan dropped in a single year. They've got some good players too, but things just haven't come together for them at all this season. Pick - Harbor Springs.

Central Lake and Inland Lakes - Aside from a slip-up at Pellston, Inland Lakes is having a good season. Pick - Inland Lakes.

Michigan State University at Illinois - Saban is working toward improving Michigan State, but there's still work left to do. Pick - Illinois.

Ohio State at Wisconsin - Ohio State was lucky to beat a Penn State team last week that Wisconsin upset the week before last. Ohio State has a nice offense that can hurt a defense in a number of different ways. Pick - Ohio State.

Auburn at Florida - This could be one of the toughest calls this week. It's at Florida, but Auburn's extremely well-coached. Pick - Auburn.

Washington at Arizona - Anybody heard any of that Heath Shuler hype floating around lately? I think Ferrotte is the better quarterback of the two. Although neither of them would look as good if they played for Arizona. Pick - Washington.

Detroit at Green Bay - So last week I show no confidence in the Lions and what happens? They pound Cleveland. All right, call me a convert. Pick - Detroit.

New England at Kansas City -

New England is suffering Lions' syndrome. They play well one year against a weak schedule and consequently get a tough schedule the following year and everybody is surprised when they don't do as well. Pick - Kansas City.

Philadelphia at New York Giants - Both of these teams are showing signs of life after dismal starts. Rodney Peete's now pitching for the Eagles and they've also got a strong running game. Pick - Philadelphia.

1. Anyone can enter except the employees of the paper and their immediate families. Use the entry blank from the paper or make your own following the same plan. A copy of the Charlevoix Courier will be available at the Courier office to anyone wishing to copy the list of names. One entry per person, please.

2. On the entry form write the name of the team you predict to win. Then predict the total points of the tie-breaker game. In case of a tie on the total points the score that is too high will lose. If there still is a tie the prize will be split.

3. Weekly prizes will be awarded to the person naming the most winners. Prizes are redeemable at the Courier office.

4. Send entries to: Contest Editor, Charlevoix Courier, P.O. Box 117, Charlevoix, MI 49720 or drop off at the Courier office, 112 Mason Street, Charlevoix, or fax it to us at 547-4992, no later than 5 p.m. Friday. Winners will be announced the following week. Good Luck!

Castle Farm mounts fund-raising effort to retain facility

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, October 11, 1995 - PAGE 19

Facing a Dec. 18 deadline for reversion of the Castle Farm property to the Reibel Family Trust, the non-profit group Castle Farm, Inc. is mounting one last effort to retain the facility as a regional recreational, educational and cultural center for youth, families and constituent communities.

"We have been encouraged by several potentially large donors to not give up on this effort," said Chris Fair, Chairman of the Board of Castle Farm, Inc. "We believe the plan we now have for operating Castle Farm is a viable one and one that can make the facility financially self sufficient while providing the community with a unique and valuable asset."

City trees being videotaped

It's the Charlevoix version of a drive-by shooting. Two retired guys, Bern Cannan and Robert Irving, cruise slowly along city streets in a car with a video camera poking out of the window. Cannan and Irving are members of the city's Shade Tree Commission. They've been shooting videotape of the shade trees which line city streets.

When completed, the videotape will provide a video record which will be used to supplement a written inventory of city shade trees. The video and written record allows the city to determine priorities in replacing old and dead trees.

John Martin, city street department superintendent, is coordinating the removal of dead and dying trees with a private tree service firm. Several mature trees appear to have been started on the road to their demise by the severe cold weather of the winter of 1993-94.

This fall, city workers will be planting approximately 100 new trees to replace those removed. The city accepts requests from homeowners for street trees. However, requests are currently outnumbering trees available. Consequently, new requests will be placed on the 1996 list. The requests are handled by Linda Weller, secretary to the city manager.

fall short, all contributions will be returned to donors with interest.

Said Porter, "We set up this arrangement to guarantee that donated funds will go either toward the intended cause, or not be used at all."

Porter noted that to date more than $400,000.00 has been raised for the purchase and operation of Castle Farm as a center for recreational, educational and cultural events. He added that some potentially large donors have expressed interest in contributing, but have requested that their involvement be combined with one last appeal to the community at large.

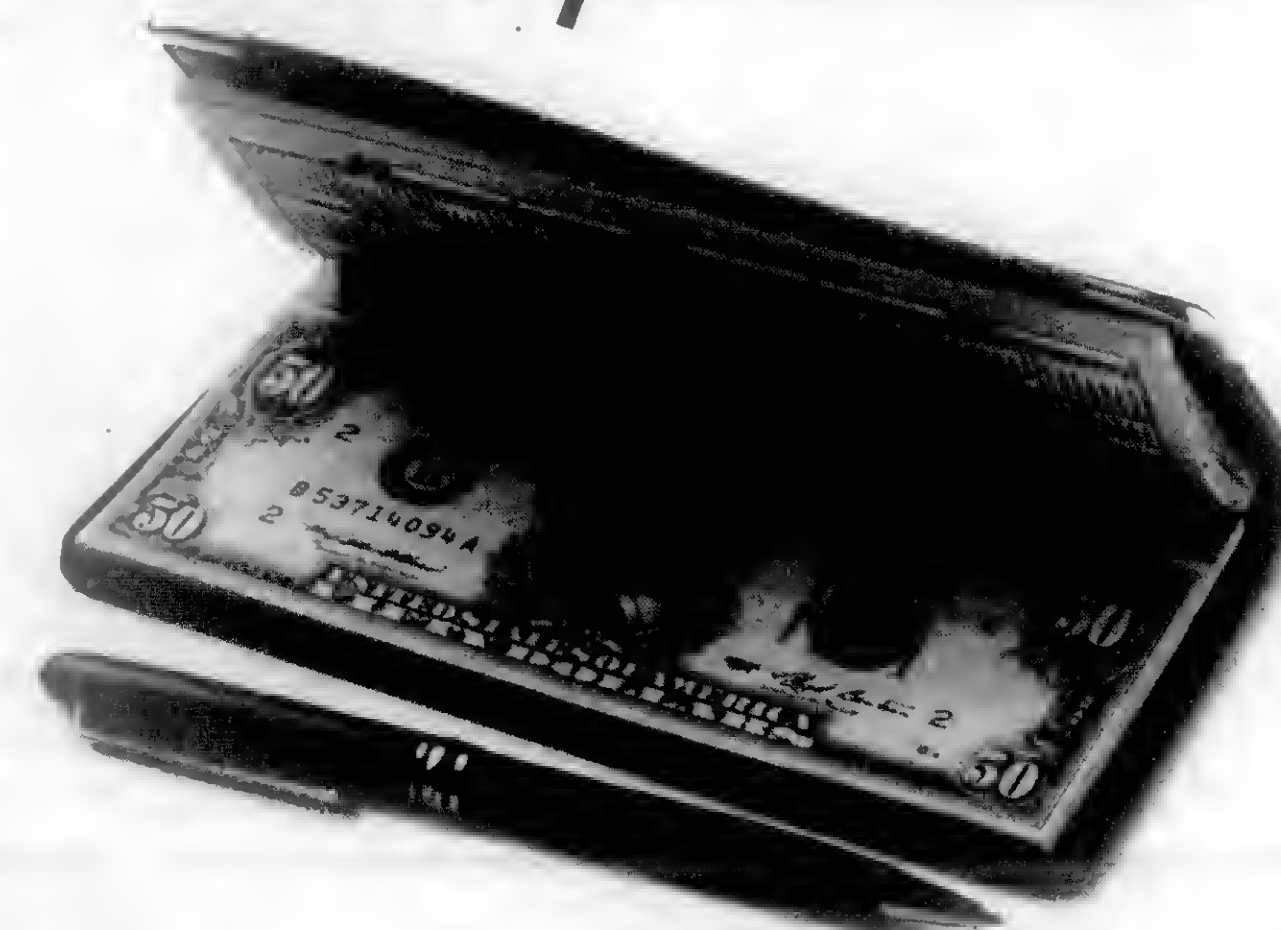

"This is the last opportunity this organization has for the acquisition of this property," Porter said. "We have been very grateful for the support shown by the community so far and think it is only fair to make one final good faith effort to see that the work and resources devoted to this project so far are not lost."

In a related matter, Fair announced that the 15 member Castle

Farm, Inc. Board recently adopted a revised mission statement and set of goals aimed at operating the facility on a multi-use self-sufficient basis.

"We have learned a lot over the past two years about what people want to see done with the Castle and how it can best be utilized as a public facility," he said. "We have also learned much about the financial realities of operating such a facility so the plan we now have includes a top priority of operating the Castle profitably."

CHIP Counseling receives commendation

CHIP Counseling Center has been Accredited with Commendation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations. This is the highest level of accreditation awarded by the Joint Commission, which is the nation's oldest and largest accrediting body.

Formed in 1951, the Joint Commission is dedicated to improving the quality of the nation's health care through voluntary accreditation. The Joint Commission's on-site survey of CHIP occurred in the month of July.

If there'd have been one more seagull, this section of the lake would have been short of rocks. The gulls were resting along the shoreline of Lake Michigan on a recent fall day.

It appears that Kendra Willett has the jump on all the other apple pickers. Did she figure out a magic way to pick the hard to reach apples on the tops of the trees? Actually, Willett was jumping on a trampoline in front of the apple tree in her own back yard. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

United Way campaign begins

The 1995-96 campaign marks a new era for the United Way in our area. Three local United Ways have joined forces to strengthen our communities by combining their resources and talents. The Boyne Area United Way, the Charlevoix/East Jordan United Way and the United Way of Emmet County support 16 of the same local human service agencies as well as those unique to each community. These agencies provided services to more than 17,000 residents of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties with United Way contributions in 1994.

All three United Ways are enthusiastic about this year's joint campaign. They have set a combined community goal of $160,000 and feel confident they will reach it. Because of the joint effort, two campaign co-chairs have been selected to lead the campaign. Representing Charlevoix County is Patrick Donnelly, Plant Manager at Big Rock Point and for Emmet, Robert Graham, President of North Central Michigan College. Both men have been involved with their local United Ways as past Presidents and volunteers and are supportive of the joint efforts of the three organizations.

The campaign officially began Sept. 18 and more than $10,000 in pledges has been collected so far. Eight local businesses were asked to begin their campaigns early this year. Each organization was the top contributor in their campaign division in 1994 and last year these "Pacesetter" raised more than $56,000 toward local United Way campaigns. This year's Pacesetter companies include: NBD, Consumers Power - Big Rock, Burns Clinic, Plunkett and Cooney, John Hoffman Landscaping, the City of Charlevoix, Women's Resource Center and the Petoskey Public Schools. Their combined goal is $60,000 for the 1995-96 campaign.

"I am pleased by the support and enthusiasm we have received from all of these companies," said United Way of Emmet County director Lisa Ashley. "Everyone is excited to get started and make this the best campaign we have ever done in our two counties. These three boards have come together to provide a more efficient fundraising campaign and support our area residents. They have worked very hard on this campaign and know that working together will ultimately benefit more people."

Anyone interested in making a contribution to their local United Way should contact the United Way office at 347-0115 or send the pledge to P.O. Box 21, Petoskey, MI 49770. Please be sure to indicate which community United Way should receive your contribution.

Old cemetery takes you back in time

by NANCY RITSEMA
Norwood Area Historical Society

Cemeteries can be places of quiet reflection and of beauty with their carefully tended grounds and arching pioneer trees. Choose a sunny fall day and discover also the history and charm of the small rural cemeteries of old Antrim City and Norwood for yourself.

Established in the early 1860s, Antrim City's cemetery lays atop a steep hill three miles south of Norwood. The old City itself declined and disappeared before the 1900s. Norwood's cemetery was established in 1871 when Ebenezer Wood sold three acres of land to Norwood Township for $150.

The oldest gravestones are limestone and are easily distinguished from the newer granite stones. Limestone erodes under years of exposure to weather and letters and dates will be worn away and the edges of the markers broken or gone.

Note the dates and years on the stones: young mothers who may have died in childbirth or in epidemics and the many markers for young children and infants. Early records attribute premature deaths of loved ones to pneumonia, "too weak to live," cholera infantum, diphtheria and typhoid fever. Suddenly, we have a window into a period of history which pre-dates penicillin by fifty years. And we are grateful for the present.

...cemetery offers insight into history

Flowery epitaphs and quaint engravings on old markers make us smile. Others arouse our curiosity. "Killed by the cars in Chicago in 1887," speaks a sorrow and mystery.

A thoughtful examination of the limestone markers leads to war veterans. Those who, along with 15,000 other Michiganders, volunteered for and died in this nation's Civil War from 1861 to 1865. Note also those who outlived the Civil War and became leaders in Norwood's pioneer settlement: Amos Richardson, who survived the horrors of the Confederate's Libby Prison and Jacob Van Dusen who served in the Union's navy before homesteading land here.

Headstone names such as Muirhead, Flanagan, McIntyre, LaClair, Pearl and Van Pelt reveal the European roots of these early communities. First came the French and English, then the Germans, Swiss, Yugoslavians and Bohemians and the Dutch. Find the old marker for the Guyer brothers whose real life story was the inspiration for Nancy Stone's "Whistle Up the Bay." The experiences of three Swiss immigrant boys in Antrim City a hundred years ago come to life in this engaging book.

Finally, stay long enough to locate Antrim City's century-spanning beech tree which spreads its limbs over the little cemetery. Once abundant in northern hardwoods, the beech was a food source for the now extinct passenger pigeon. The pigeons arrived here in flocks of thousands to nest and feed. Michigan's last pigeon was seen in 1898.

And before you go, slip a beech-nut into your pocket, a memento of the day's brief journey into the past.

Council approves boat fueling plan

Charlevoix City Council has given tentative approval for Ward Brothers Marine to expend their boat fueling facilities at the south end of Round Lake. Don and Bernie Ward appeared before the city council Monday evening with a plan that would extend a dock at the end of the harbor by 60 feet.

The dock extension would have fueling and pump-out facilities for boats.

City manager Mike Wiesner noted that with Bellinger Marine no longer functioning, Wards are the only fueling facility on the harbor.

Settlement agreement calls for payment of $6,200

by L. Scott Swanson

A settlement agreement of a two-year old lawsuit between the city and Curt Thompson calls for the city to pay Thompson $200 and attorney fees of $6,000. The city council approved the settlement Sept. 18, issuing a news release at that time. The actual agreement was not released until last week and according to Thompson was finally signed Friday, Oct. 13.

In addition to the monetary agreement, other provisions in the settlement include: the city acknowledging that memoranda written by fireman Bob Lindstrom and fire chief Doug Carver regarding Thompson and a Feb. 25 fire are personnel records; the clarification of those memoranda and Thompson being allowed to include his own memorandum regarding the incident in his personnel record; Thompson's waiver of any additional claims against the city; Thompson being reinstated to the city fire department and then resigning.

The lawsuit resulted from a Feb. 25, 1993 chimney fire in Hayes Township. Thompson, a volunteer fireman, was on his way to dinner with his wife when fire trucks were dispatched. He followed the trucks to the scene of the fire.

At the scene of the fire, which ended up being out either by the time the fire department arrived or shortly thereafter, Thompson and another fireman were told by Lindstrom, a shift commander, to put on turnout gear (i.e. fire coat, helmet, boots, etc.). Thompson told Lindstrom that since he had come to the fire in his wife's car, he didn't have his turnout gear with him.

The key point of contention is what was said next. The corrected memorandum, written by Lindstrom, says, "I then stated that I would like them to put their turnouts on and that there were several extra sets located in the fire truck, but they did not acknowledge it and I do not know if they heard me."

In a phone conversation with the Courier this past Friday, Thompson said, "Lindstrom did not tell me to get equipment off the truck. If he said something else, he didn't say it to me."

Thompson said that in regard to other turnout gear being on the fire truck, he knew that gear assigned to other firemen was on the truck, but not spare gear. Thompson added that when he joined the fire department and was outfitted with gear, the only extra gear to be found at that time was in a closet at the fire hall. He said that was the only place he knew of there being gear that wasn't assigned to somebody.

Thompson said that after his conversation with Lindstrom he stood at the fire scene for a few minutes until he concluded there was no danger and then got in his car and left. "There was no danger and I was let know I wasn't welcome there without my gear," he said. Thompson said that upon arriving at home, he heard the fire trucks returning to town and consequently saw no point in returning with his turnout gear to the fire scene.

In March of 1993, Thompson and three other volunteer firemen were discharged by the city for their actions at the Feb. 25 fire. The issues with the other three firemen involved one leaving after being told to put on turnout gear, another leaving with a fire truck and the third engaging in a verbal dispute with Lindstrom and then Carver at the fire scene.

After being discharged, Thompson requested all information in his personnel file. The information he received did not include the memoranda written by Carver and Lindstrom. Consequently, Thompson filed suit in order to get the additional information. Attorneys representing the city argued that the memoranda were not part of Thompson's personnel record and not something he was entitled to receive. This past summer Charlevoix Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas ruled that Thompson was entitled to the information.

City treasurer Rick Brandt said that the city's cost in the suit will be a $5,000 deductible as provided in the city's liability insurance. Additional costs and attorney fees will be picked up by the city's insurance carrier.

Thompson and his attorney, J. David Kerr of Mount Pleasant, say the critical issue in the case was not money, but restoring Thompson's reputation.

"We just want the record corrected in terms of Curt's reputation," Kerr said. "We're not trying to give

Charlevoix girl injured in car accident

Liz Grunch, 18, of Charlevoix was seriously injured and two other women killed in a traffic accident near Jonesville early Sunday morning. As of Tuesday morning, Grunch was in serious, but stable condition at the Hillsdale Community Health Center.

According to a news release from the Michigan State Police Post in Jonesville the accident occurred at 4:50 a.m. at the intersection of M-49 and Jonesville Road. According to the police report, the Grunch vehicle was travelling westbound on Jonesville Road, failed to stop at the intersection and struck a horse trailer being pulled by a pick-up truck southbound on M-49. The trailer contained four draft horses with a total weight in excess of 9,000 pounds.

Two passengers in the car, Kristi Cagampang, 18, of Buchanan and Sharon O'Malley, 18, of Wyoming, died from head and neck injuries sustained in the crash. Grunch sustained internal injuries and was taken to Hillsdale Community Health Center where she underwent emergency surgery. The women were travelling in a 1988 Chevy Corsica. According to the police news release none of the three women were wearing seat belts. The accident remains under investigation.

Castle Farm to host Halloween party

The Castle Farm Community Center will host a family halloween party beginning at 1 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 29. Events at the party will include a grand parade, story telling and music, circle dancing, apple pressing, hayrides, games and a bonfire. There will be a concession stand. There is no admission charge, however donations will be accepted.

Former Charlevoix resident Harry S. Baker got tired of hearing people talk about writing a book about their lives and sat down and wrote about his life.

Former resident writes autobiography

Former Charlevoix resident Harry S. Baker didn't just talk about writing a book about his life. He sat down and wrote one.

At the beginning of his book "The West Wind & April" Baker writes, "In talking to many seniors in my seventeen years of retirement I have met quite a number who feel that they have a life story to write and, in spite of much encouragement from family and friends have stated that 'someday I'll start writing' but so far have not written one word."

Baker grew up on a farm north of Charlevoix. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Baker. He attended school in Charlevoix, but spent most of his adult life in the state of Washington. He often returned to Charlevoix to visit his brother, the late Sims Baker.

Much of the book is devoted to his service as a medic in World War II. Baker served in Attu and the Aleutian Islands. He said the climate there is considered by many to be the worst in the world. Other parts of the book deal with his life in Washington.

The early portion of the book deals with life in Charlevoix. He recalls both special events such as Christmas on the family farm. He also recalls attending school, first at the Burgess country school and later at Charlevoix.

Baker recalls returning to Charlevoix in 1983 for the 50 year reunion of his graduating class. One of the people he saw was the late Ray Kipke. Upon seeing Baker, Kipke said, "I don't remember your name, but you are the kid that played in the first game you ever saw and after only two weeks of practice."

Baker said he wrote the book primarily for his family and friends. However, he plans to place a copy in the Charlevoix public library for local people who may wish to share his memories of early life in Charlevoix.

School board approves administrative restructuring

by Laurie Lounsbury

When school business manager Rich Kelly moves on to his new job at Char-Em ISD, his former tasks will be assigned to staff currently employed in the school district.

The school board made several adjustments to the work loads and salaries of school employees to compensate for the change at their Monday night meeting.

Mike Pearsall was appointed to the position of supervisor of buildings, grounds, and maintenance. His salary will be increased from $19.15 an hour to $21.15 an hour. Since Pearsall will be assuming more management duties, a new buildings and grounds custodian will be hired. The cost of the position, including benefits, is estimated at $40,000. The total cost increase in the buildings and grounds department is an additional $48,500.

Judy Boss will become a full time employee in the school's central office. She will receive a 10% raise from $17.87 per hour to $19.66 per hour. She will also go from part time employment to full time employment. The additional cost in this area is $16,530.

Two school principals, Dick Swenor and Dennis VanGuilder, will work an additional five days in the summer. For those extra five days, the school will pay an additional $4,049.

The total cost of redistributing Kelly's former job is $69,079.

100 student graduation had a better speaker than the Million Man March

Charlevoix people who saw Louis Farrakhan's speech on TV at the Million Man March Monday and who saw Joe Clark's speech at Charlevoix High School commencement exercises this past June have seen both extremes of prominent black speakers in the United States.

Farrakhan is a smug, self aggrandizing instigator of divisiveness who casts black people as victims. Clark, on the other hand, is not only nobody's victim himself - he refuses to accept that as an excuse from other people.

While Farrakhan attempted to sprinkle enough words about personal responsibility in his rantings Monday to make his message palatable, at heart his message is not one of people of all races working side by side to make our nation strong. His message is one of racial separation, suspicion and animosity.

Clark, on the other hand, hasn't just dressed up his speeches with talk of personal responsibility. Personal responsibility, taking control of one's own life even if that involves hard work and tough decisions are at the core of his message. Beyond just espousing the merits of personal responsibility, as a high school principal he demanded it of his staff and his students.

While Farrakhan spoke to hundreds of thousands in Washington Monday, in a way the message he offered was relevant to far fewer people than the message Clark delivered to a few hundred people in a Charlevoix gym in June. Farrakhan speaks only to black men. Black women he essentially ignores and most everybody else he seems to view as the enemy. Clark offers his message to people - all people, be they black, white, male, female or whatever else. All people.

Louis Farrakhan, Al Sharpton, Jesse Jackson and Marion Berry make a lot of noise and wish to cast themselves as leaders of black America. But they are not suitable leaders for black America, or any other segment of America - or more to the point for an America which should not see itself as segments, but instead should see itself as one nation.

In looking for black male leaders in the political arena, America shouldn't be looking to the likes of Farrakhan, Sharpton, Jackson and Berry. Men such as Joe Clark who have a view of an America that encompasses all people, separate only as individuals not as races, or men such as Colin Powell who are quietly strong and rely on intellect and reason rather than bombast are far more desirable leaders.

Honesty is not lost

Editor,

I am a fourth grade teacher at Charlevoix Elementary School. A few weeks ago one of my students found a quarter on the playground and turned it in to me. She could have kept the money and nobody would've known, but she chose to be honest. I rewarded her with a "Sparkle" student award we give for displaying good citizenship and behavior. I called her up in front of class and presented her with this Sparkle Award preceded by a short lecture on the merits of honesty. The class applauded and several other students followed suit after that day by also turning in things of value that they had found.

Last Friday on my way to school, I dropped off several items of drycleaning at Hooker's Drycleaners in Charlevoix. About an hour later they called my school with the message that they had found $46 in the pocket of one of the articles of clothing I had dropped off. I thanked them for their honesty and told them I'd be by to pick up the money on my way home from school. Then I took the opportunity to tell my students about this act of honesty and to remind them of the many times that they have been honest when it was so tempting to "keep the goods."

I can't help but equate these two incidents: one by a child, and the other by a member of the business community, who both deserve "Sparkles." It certainly has restored my faith in humanity. Yes, honesty does pay!

(Oh, about the $46. I wasn't sure until I stopped at Hooker's Drycleaners whether the money was found in my husband's or my pocket. It was from my husband's. Yes, I did give him back the money, even though he never would have known the difference if I had kept it. I guess even I deserve a "Sparkle.")

Visitor sees benefits to pool

Editor,

Dear Residents of Charlevoix:
For the past two years I've been Aquatics Director of a new $3.3 million community indoor pool and have been both amazed and heartened by the changes for the better I've seen in the lives of those who use our pool. When the Charlevoix pool opens I believe people will quickly discover the many benefits of a pool as we have.

We've helped people of all ages through our water exercise programs. We assist patrons in reducing stress, strengthening their cardiovascular system, toning and conditioning their muscles, and managing their weight. The lap swimmers are awarded prizes for swimming "The Great Lakes," — one lake at a time.

Our Learn to Swim program has helped hundreds of babies up to senior citizens become comfortable in the water while learning proper stroke mechanics.

The seniors enjoy not only the relief from aqua arthritis classes, but also the special swim times designated for them only, when they can water walk, swim laps, sit in the hot tub, or simply socialize.

The aqua therapy program has grown immensely in the year and a half since its inception, as the patients give testimonials to the healing powers of the warm water. Daily I'm thanked by our patrons for being so receptive to their needs by providing the programs necessary to help them feel better about themselves, both physically and mentally.

Recently I met with the Charlevoix Friends of the Pool directors to discuss their pool plans and was impressed by the versatility of the design. For example, the dual purpose ramp which accommodates wheelchairs and an instruction area for small children, the family changing room with handicap equipment, and the 14-person hot therapy spa.

I can't begin to express my heartfelt excitement for all your contributions and support you've given this committee. This community is so fortunate to have a group of people dedicated to making their dream and yours a reality.

All the ingredients for meeting your aquatic needs will soon be housed in your own back yard year round. Here's to you, Charlevoix, as you take the plunge in your commitment to making this a better and safer place to live.

O.M. program organizing

Odyssey of the Mind teams will be organized for students in grades three through 12 in all of the Charlevoix Public Schools. Parents who want their child to participate in this creative problem solving activity should be sure their student has completed and returned the registration form to the child's school by Friday, Oct. 20. Information and forms can be obtained by contacting Tom Sothard (547-3209) or Carol Elliott (547-3215). Parents should help students understand what responsibilities team members have, and help them decide which of the problems they wish to solve.

Parents are asked to be coaches, judges, or volunteer in some other way since this is an all volunteer run program. Each team will include five to seven members who work together to solve one problem, and prepare their solution for competition March 16. The teams will be competing on different division levels on the basis of age. High school teams have the option of coaching their own team experience.

During the last ten years Charlevoix teams have been very successful at all competition levels. Foremost in the Charlevoix program is that all students are placed on teams (as long as there are enough parent coaches) and have a chance to develop their creative problem solving skills.

Steps to ensure that all interested students are placed on OM teams include obtaining registration information, completing the form, and returning the signed form to the student's school by Oct. 20. A parent meeting for organizing the teams will take place at the elementary school library Tuesday, Oct. 24 at 7 p.m. A short video will be shown at the beginning of the meeting to give parents an overview of the OM program.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The City of Charlevoix City Council will hold a public hearing on Monday, November 6, 1995 at 7:00 p.m. at City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI to discuss a proposed amendment to chapter 51, Zoning and Planning of the City Code, Section 5.243, Project Staking and Inspections. The amendment is as follows:

5.243 PROJECT STAKING AND INSPECTIONS

The following project site staking and inspections shall be required:

- (1) Prior to the issuance of a Zoning Permit, the applicant or its representative shall accurately stake the location of the parcel property lines and the location of the proposed construction such that the Zoning Administrator may, by use of a tape measure and horizontal measurements, confirm that the construction as staked is as represented on the applicant's site plan which accompanies its application. On sloping sites, the lowest finished grade level shall be established on a grade stake which is offset from the construction such that it remains undisturbed during the course of the construction and may be used to check the final grade by the Zoning Administrator by means of a string line level.
- (2) After Issuing a zoning permit, the Zoning Administrator shall from time to time conduct inspections of construction, for which a permit has been issued, as may be required to determine compliance with the permit.
- (3) Prior to commencing any construction of improvements which are a part of a project approved with a special use permit such improvements shall be staked both horizontally and vertically such that the Zoning Administrator may verify that the improvements are located as shown on the approved site development plan.

At a minimum, the following inspections shall be required:

- (1) Prior to issuance of a zoning permit.
- (2) Prior to commencement of construction of any site improvements which are a part of a special use permit.
- (3) After site preparation, but prior to construction of any foundation system.

It shall be the duty of the applicant or its agent to notify the Zoning Administrator when work is ready for inspection. Such inspection shall be made within a reasonable time following notification giving due consideration to the Zoning Administrator's work schedule and work load. Required inspections shall be deemed a requirement of a zoning permit or a special use permit even though the inspection requirement is not listed on the permit document.

In the event the Zoning Administrator is unable to determine if parcel boundaries are accurately located or that proposed or actual construction is properly located on a parcel, the Administrator may require that the applicant have prepared, at its cost, by a registered land surveyor, a survey of the parcel or proposed or actual work. Such survey shall be submitted to the Zoning Administrator for review and as a part of the applicant's zoning file.

Inspections on the part of the Zoning Administrator shall in no way absolve the applicant of responsibility for properly locating and undertaking construction in a manner which meets the requirements of this ordinance or any permit issued in accord with this ordinance nor making any corrections to the construction which are necessary to meet the requirements of this ordinance.

A copy of the proposed ordinance is available for review at the City Manager's Office, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Written comments may be sent to the City Manager's Office, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI or may be presented at the City Council meeting.

FAMILY

Etienne - Lindeman

Christine & Dennis Lindeman

Christine Etienne, daughter of Chris and Joseph Etienne of Charlevoix and Judith Varner of Hemlock, married Dennis Lindeman of Cheboygan on August 26. The groom is the son of Adele Lindeman and the late H. Edward Lindeman of Cheboygan.

The afternoon ceremony was witnessed by 250 guests at the St. Anne's Catholic Church on Mackinac Island. Large white satin ribbon and tulle bows decorated each pew. The large altar flower arrangements were made of white lilies, snap dragons, freesia, and irises.

Father James Holtz, from the St. Ignace church in Rogers City, performed the double ring rites.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and mother, Joseph Etienne and Judith Varner.

The bride wore a white silk shantung gown with beaded Alencon lace. The dress had an off the shoulder neckline and cap sleeves, a lace bodice and a basque waist. The back of the gown was adorned with a rosette and bow, and lace on the train. She wore matching over-the-elbow gauntlets. Her white silk headpiece coordinated with the wedding gown.

The bride carried a flowing, cascade bouquet of casablanca lilies, roses, snapdragons, freesia, Queen Anne's lace, white iris, all white calisia, and draping ivy.

Vocalist at the ceremony was Ernest Varner, stepfather of the bride. He was accompanied by organist Alan Scott and bagpiper Sean Ley.

The maid of honor was Veronica Dawson. Bridesmaids were Angela Wiederhold, Deanne Hartman, Cris Bench, Toni Hansen, and Jeanine Etienne-Alexander, aunt of the bride.

The bridesmaids wore full, tea length dresses with short sleeves and off the shoulder, draped bodices adorned with crystal buttons. They wore black patent leather shoes and carried bouquets of irises, cornflowers, white freesia, Queen Anne's lace, casablanca lilies, snapdragons, and caspia.

The flower girl was Tory Saunders, niece of the groom. She wore a white frosted bengaline dress with illusion.

The ring bearer was Mason Bench, godson of the bride.

Best man was Pete Burger. Groomsmen were Mark Etienne, brother of the bride, Jerry Lindeman and John Lindeman, brothers of the groom, Jeff Howland, and Brian Ludlow.

A reception was held at the Mission Point Resort on Mackinac Island.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Chippewa Hotel's harborview room on August 25.

The couple took a wedding trip to St. Martin in the West Indies.

They are making their home in Petoskey.

The groom is the president and owner of Linde Furniture in Cheboygan. He graduated from Delta College with a degree in retail management and interior design.

The bride has a BS degree in business management from the University of Maryland and an MBA from Lake Superior State University. She is the cash management sales officer at First of America Bank, Northern Region.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum

Each fall our family celebrates the harvest season by canning and freezing the fruits and vegetables that come from our garden and the local orchards. We gather at the kitchen table to do all the preparations — slicing, dicing and spicing — until everything fits into the appropriate canning jars or plastic containers. The apples are especially fun because they need boiling before they are pressed through the sieve to make apple sauce. The room gets filled with a wonderful aroma and we can't wait until the final product is cool enough to have a sample. We also make and freeze apple pies so that we will have enough for all winter. Then, when company comes, we just pop one into the oven and the wonderful aromas and tastes of the fall season are suddenly unlocked for all to enjoy.

Recently I realized that what we do in our home has some spiritual application. Scripture speaks of the "fruits of the spirit" — love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, gentleness, faithfulness and self-control. These are gifts which God has given each of us to harvest, gifts which nourish our spirits and help us to remain healthy and happy individuals. But more than that, these special gifts are not to be kept only for ourselves. God gave them to us that we might share them with all who are in need. Clearly, preserving them is not the ultimate goal or the final measurement of their value. It's the use we make of them as we open them up and serve them to others.

The Apostle Paul writes about the "aroma of Christ," saying that we are to spread the "fragrance" of the knowledge of Christ everywhere we go. (II Corinthians 2:14-15). What an appealing idea! Just as we are attracted to the scent and taste of boiling apples and baking pies in the kitchen, so others are drawn to the fruits of Christ's spirit when they are properly prepared and presented by us. An otherwise cold and inhospitable place takes on a special warmth and cheer, and our families and friendships have a special new "taste" to them as we enjoy and share the fruits of the Spirit. Maybe this fall, as we receive yet another harvest of fruit from fields and orchards, we will recommit ourselves to sharing the fruits of the Spirit. In our homes, in our churches, and in other special spots around our community, may we "taste and see that the Lord is good," and then go and offer that goodness to one another, so that the "aroma of Christ" may be enjoyed by all.

(Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum is pastor of the Charlevoix First Congregational Church. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Schairbaum and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

School board proposes building new high school

by Laurie Lounsbury

It took the school facility committee three years to come up with a plan for a new school building. But after hearing grumblings from the community regarding the committee's recommendations, it took the three school principals a few hours to come up with a different plan. School principals Dick Swenor, Dennis VanGuilder, and Gary Grundman were asked by superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson to devise a plan that would be in the best interests of students and that the community would support.

The school facility committee originally recommended building a new middle school and renovating the elementary and high school buildings. The proposed new middle school would accommodate grades six through eight, as it currently does.

The three school principals came up with a plan to build a new high school and move middle school students to the old high school. Their plan also called for expanding the middle school to include fifth grade. The old high school would be divided into two schools within a school, with fifth and sixth graders occupying half the building and seventh and eighth graders occupying the other half of the school.

That idea was considered by the facility committee but rejected on the grounds that some people in the community would be opposed to having fifth grade included in the middle school.

The new arrangement of students and schools would divide the student population more equally among three buildings. The old high school could easily meet the needs of middle school students, with increased room for computer labs, science labs, shop rooms and classrooms. The school's athletic facility, including the football field and track, would still be used by high school students. If fifth grade moved to the middle school, the elementary school would gain four classrooms for enrichment centers and more computer space.

At the crux of the issue is the big question - Which plan will the public be willing to buy?

"We live in Charlevoix where it's going to be a tough sell," VanGuilder said, adding, "Everyone needs to support this wholeheartedly or it won't work."

In a board work session that lasted until 11 p.m., the board decided to ask Jackson, Howard Haselschwardt of Northwest Design Group, and Kingscott Associates to come up with a price for the new plan. The board's goal is to compare the two plans and make a recommendation in time for a bond issue a year from now.

In other business, the board hired two assistant kindergarten teachers, Elaine Kurtz and Frances Kling. Kurtz has worked as a substitute teacher in the school and volunteered as a room parent. Kling is currently attending North Central Michigan College, pursuing an associate's degree in special education.

Eckel bakes town's best apple pie

Jan Eckel's praline crust apple pie was judged to be the best of 26 pies entered in the Glen's Market apple pie contest this past Saturday. A panel of six judges sampled each of the 26 pies and graded them on appearance, taste, texture, smell and crust. Judging the pies took just under two hours.

For winning the competition, Eckel received a $75 gift certificate. Second place went to Eveline Seger, who danced a nimble jig upon hearing the announcement. Seger baked a tasty pie that also happened to be large enough to feed the better part of a lumber camp. She received a $50 gift certificate.

A third place award of $25 went to Vivian Shearer. Honorable mention and $10 awards went to Laurie Hughes and Yvonne Engler.

Pam Coen of Glen's Market organized the contest. She said the store has hosted the contest for several years. At 26 entries, this year's contest was among the most hotly contested.

Expo brings together education and employment

More than 40 area manufacturers and other businesses will be showcased at the School to Work Expo Oct. 20-21 at North Central Michigan College. Exhibits by area companies will include demonstrations and information about skills needed for different jobs within each firm.

The exhibits will open at 9 a.m. Friday, Oct. 20. Exhibits will be open until 5 p.m. Friday, and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Hundreds of area high school and middle school students and teachers will be hauled to NCMC for Friday's activities. Saturday's events will be especially geared toward parents and families, along with the general public. More than 2,500 people attended the last Expo in 1993.

In addition to exhibits, the School to Work Expo includes workshops for students, educators, businesses and the general public; a competition for area business education students, demonstrations of interactive television and video, industry tours, and other events. NCMC's Technology Center will host an open house with hands-on activities, and the College's Institute for Business and Industry Training will be giving Internet and software demonstrations.

Students from the Charlevoix-Emmet and Cheboygan-Otsego-Presque Isle Intermediate School Districts will be paired with exhibiting businesses prior to the Expo, to learn more about what businesses and occupations.

The Expo is focused on three goals: to develop and enhance relationships between businesses and educators that lead to a better understanding of employable skills and the curricula needed to attain them; to expose students and teachers to the existing and emerging employment needs of local industries; and to help parents understand the importance of School to Work programs in their child's education.

"I'm not aware of another event of this magnitude that brings together students, parents and businesses. The School to Work Expo will help students better understand career choices and the employable skills they'll need," said John Kafer, General Manager of American Spoon Foods and chair of the Expo Planning Committee. "This event also serves as a crucible in building relationships between area businesses and schools."

The School to Work Expo is a bi-annual event which is a joint effort of the Charlevoix-Emmet School District, Cheboygan-Otsego-Presque Isle ISD, Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce, Northern Lakes Economic Alliance, Northwest Michigan Industrial Association and North Central Michigan College.

For more information, call the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce at 347-4150 or the Char-Em ISD at 547-9947.

The CEO of the Michigan Jobs Commission, Doug Sites, will open the Expo with a keynote address Thursday, Oct. 19 at 7:30 p.m. in NCMC's Student Center. Sites will discuss the changing relationship between business and education, and changes in funding paths for job training. The Michigan Jobs Commission is the state's economic and workforce development department.

Workshop topics will include: school to work - how it really works; business and fine arts working together; job awareness utilizing distance learning; developing and implementing registered apprenticeship programs; job skills for health occupations; and other topics.

Rayders beaten 27-7

Charlevoix's offense had problems moving the ball while the defense had trouble finding the ball as the Rayder varsity football team absorbed a 27-7 homecoming loss to Traverse City St. Francis.

St. Francis used quickness and deceptive ballhandling to give the Rayder defense problems. St. Francis utilized a lot of misdirection plays and often gave the ball to the second man through from the backfield.

Charlevoix mixed a passing and running attack, but never got either going with any consistency. The Rayders' lone score came on a 65-yard pass from Mark Boss to David Manker. Manker had the defensive back beaten by two steps. Boss heaved a bomb which bounced up in the air off Manker's chest before he corralled it and hauled it into the end zone.

Charlevoix stayed close the Gladiators in the first half. The game was 7-7 until the closing moments of the first half when St. Francis hit a 31-yard field goal.

Charlevoix nearly scored in the fourth quarter when defensive back Jason Smith shot in and nearly intercepted a St. Francis lateral.

Charlevoix totaled just 196 yards rushing in the game.

Gary Leitner and Bruce Reinhart led the Rayder defense while Jason Cesaro recovered a fumble and played well on special teams coverage.

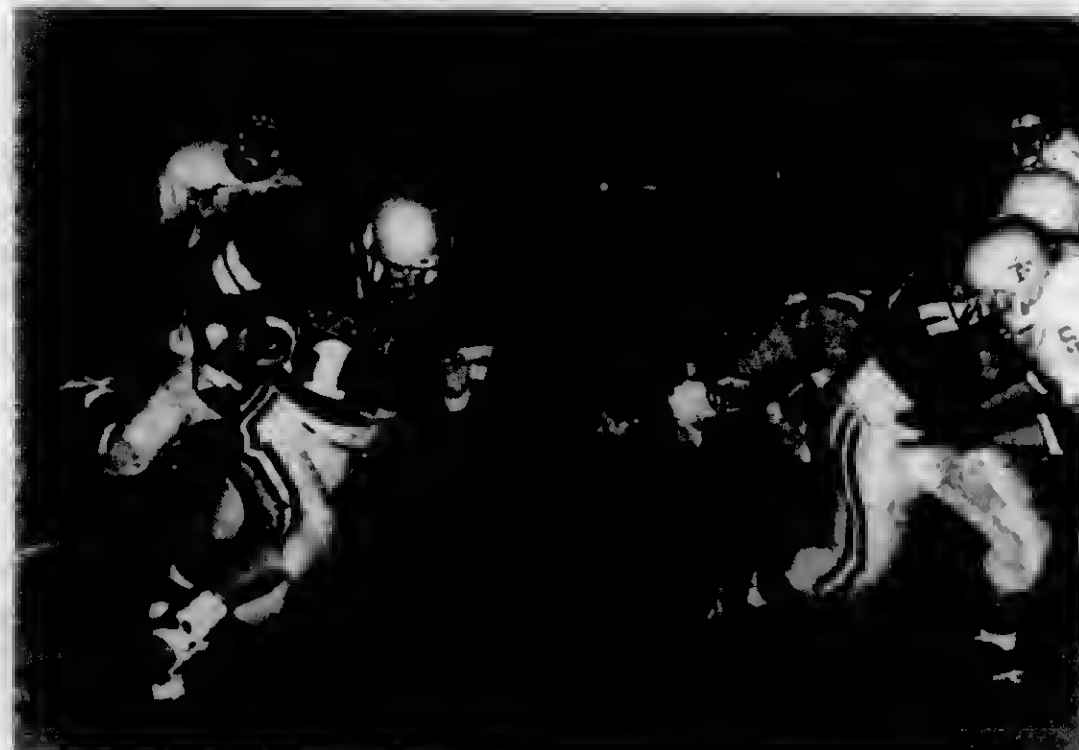

The loss dropped the Rayders' season record to 4-3. The Rayders host Rogers City Friday night and close out their season next week in Petoskey.

Dinner precedes football game

The Charlevoix High School publications class will host a spaghetti dinner at the high school prior to Friday evening's football game to raise money for the 1996 high school yearbook. Donations will be accepted at the door.

Golfers place fifth at regional Charlevoix's varsity golf team finished its season with a tough day at the regional meet on the Michaway Pines course in Gaylord Friday. The Rayders placed fifth with a team score of 373. Rudyard won the meet with a score of 366. The top three teams in the meet, Rudyard, Suttons Bay (372) and Rogers City (372) qualified for the state meet later this month.

Scott Blechel led the Rayders with a score of 87. He missed making the All Regional team by one stroke. Other Rayder golfers and their scores were: Ryan Murdick 88, Dan Pardee 97, Brad Eaton 101 and Keith Grunch 103.

Gusting winds made the course difficult.

"It was there for us to take," Rayder coach Jim Glynn said of the regional title. The Rayders missed first place by just seven strokes and missed qualifying for the state meet by just a stroke.

Glynn said that despite the fifth place finish among 12 teams at the regional meet, he's proud of this year's team. The varsity team was conference co-champions with Traverse City St. Francis and loses only two seniors, Blechel and Eaton, to graduation.

During his high school career, Blechel earned four varsity letters was named All Conference twice, All Regional once and played in three state finals meets. Eaton earned four varsity letters, was named All Conference three times and played in three state finals meets.

Ron Zellers wins week seven with 9-1 record

Ron Zellers won week seven of the Courier football contest. He was one of four contestants who went 9-1 on the week. He missed the tie-breaker by only a single point. The other 9-1 contestants were Becky Johnson, David Fowler and Randy Vogel. Several contestants were 7-3 or 6-4. The games most commonly missed were Michigan State over Illinois, Philadelphia over the New York Giants and the Green Bay Packers over those wretchedly inconsistent # Lions.

The top 10 list is getting real interesting. Only a couple of games separate one through ten. Tom Meggison has been leading all year, but Leroy Buchanan and Zellers are now breathing down his neck, just one game back. Zellers jumped from sixth to second this past week. John Richards is back in the top 10 after a week out. Gilbert Ice and Cody Morrison dropped out of the top ten this week, but are on the edge and could reappear next week.

Here are this week's games:

City.

Boyer City at Traverse City St. Francis: Supposedly Traverse City St. Francis is vulnerable this year. Well, they didn't look too vulnerable last week in beating Charlevoix. They looked very quick and slick with their ballhandling in the backfield. Pick - Traverse City St. Francis.

Pellston at Harbor Springs: This could be an interesting game. Pellston has a better record, but the competition they play isn't as strong. Pick - Pellston.

University of Southern California at Notre Dame: Week in and week out, Notre Dame either gets upset or narrowly escapes an upset. Meanwhile this is the best team USC has had in quite a while. Pick - USC.

Michigan at Indiana: Michigan is coming off an upset loss which is sure to motivate them, plus they've had an extra week to prepare. This won't be close. Pick - Michigan.

Michigan State at Minnesota: Michigan State is beginning to look like the college version of the Detroit Lions. They play great one week and terrible the next. Minnesota is more consistent. They never play all that well. Pick - Michigan State.

Atlanta at Tampa Bay: Are we finally ready to concede that Tampa Bay is for real? Why not? Pick - Tampa Bay.

Detroit at Washington: How many of us are still fuming at the Lions? It's tempting to pick Washington just out of spite. What's really frustrating with Detroit is that this inconsistent play, looking like world beaters one week and door mats the next, is nothing new. They've been doing this for decades. Let's say next week is an on week. Pick - Detroit.

Green Bay at Minnesota: Green Bay is not as good as Detroit made them look last week. Pick - Minnesota.

Denver at Kansas City: Everybody thought Kansas City was going to go down in flames when Montana retired, but they're doing just fine. Pick - Kansas City.

Contest Rules

1. Anyone can enter except the employees of the paper and their immediate families. Use the entry blank from the paper or make your own following the same plan. A copy of the Charlevoix Courier will be available at the Courier office to anyone wishing to copy the list of names. One entry per person, please.
2. On the entry form write the name of the team you predict to win. Then predict the total points of the tie-breaker game. *In case of a tie on the total points the score that is too high will lose. If there still is a tie the prize will be split.
3. Weekly prizes will be awarded to the person naming the most winners. Prizes are redeemable at the Courier office.
4. Send entries to: Contest Editor, Charlevoix Courier, P.O. Box 117, Charlevoix, MI 49720 or drop off at the Courier office, 112 Mason Street, Charlevoix, or fax it to us at 547-4992, no later than 5 p.m. Friday. Winners will be announced the following week. Good Luck!

Author to visit K-5 school

Children's book author Jane Stroschin will be visiting the Charlevoix Elementary School October 18, 19, and 20. All elementary students will have the opportunity to listen to Stroschin as she discusses the creation of a book.

Parents are invited to stop by the school anytime on Wednesday. Presentations will be held each hour in the gym.

On Thursday, October 19, a reception for Stroschin will be held at the Charlevoix Public Library on Clinton Street from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. Anyone is welcome to attend and purchase an autographed book.

The event is sponsored by the Charlevoix Elementary P.T.O. and the Charlevoix Education Enrichment Foundation.

Holidays don't have to be sad

Anyone who experiences "the blues" during the holiday season will find help in coping at the "Handling the Holidays" workshop at Charlevoix Area Hospital, Nov. 6 from 7-9 p.m.

Rev. Buzz Walls, Charlevoix County Hospice spiritual advisor, will provide information to those who are now alone during the holidays; those who are reminded of a loved one who has died at this time of year; or those who don't know the source of their "blues" at this time of year.

The workshop will be in the large classroom at the hospital. It is sponsored by the Charlevoix County Hospice, District Health Department No. 3, and Charlevoix Area Hospital. The public is invited to attend free of charge. Please call the Hospice office at 536-2842 to indicate your desire to participate in the program.

New In Your Neighborhood?

Still getting over the after-the-move blues? My Welcome Wagon Visit will cheer you up and help you get settled in faster. It's free to you, and there's no obligation.

I'll bring useful gifts, helpful information and cards from local businesses redeemable for even more gifts.

Take a break from packing crates and call me.

Dear Jim,

Just a note to say thank you for an excellent ad program this year. I know that our ads in the PhoneGuide have had a huge impact on our business. We know that when customers are ready to make a buying decision, they turn to the PhoneGuide and have told us so on many occasions.

Here's looking forward to a new book and ad program. I can tell you that Sears has used our ads as a model for other Sears Dealer Stores across America. Look forward to seeing you soon.

Thank you again,

Raven Hill opens new classrooms

Raven Hill Discovery Center dedicated the latest addition to its facilities during an open house Sunday, Oct. 15. The two new classrooms were funded in part by a $30,000 challenge grant issued by the Frey Foundation. As a match to the Frey Challenge, more than $100,000 in matching donations were raised. Donations included a $30,000 grant from the Herbert and Grace Dow Foundation, a grant from the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation, several grants from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, as well as donations from local service organizations, business, industry, and private individuals. As a result, Raven Hill has been able to significantly increase the hands-on experiences in science, history and the arts for visitors of all ages. The classrooms are the second phase in Raven Hill's planned expansion. The first classroom was added during the winter of 1993-94. The third additions will include a greenhouse and more museum space. It is in the planning stages.

The additional classrooms provide space for larger school groups to visit Raven Hill for informal educational activities, offer increased opportunities specifically geared toward high school students, and allow for better use of the existing space within the museum.

Since opening in May of 1992, more than 20,000 visitors have toured Raven Hill Discovery Center.

Where leaves go after the fall

City turns over an old leaf

by Laurie Lounsbury

It starts so innocently. One crimson leaf, gasping with its last tiny bit of chlorophyll, gives up. Wearily, it lets go of the mother tree and floats gently down to earth.

Talk about a trendsetter. Only disco dancing and streaking have enjoyed such a fleeting hoard of followers. The leaf barely touches the ground before every leaf in the neighborhood follows suit.

That first leaf - we'll call him Red - probably thought he was going to enjoy his golden years, or weeks, just riding the wind, traveling from one exotic back yard destination to another. Boy, was he wrong. Leaves in Charlevoix don't get early retirement anymore.

Two years from now Red is going to find himself actively involved in community service. He might be working at the soccer field or he might be pushing up petunias along the roadside. Either way, Red's name is going to be dirt in this town.

Red and all his leaf buddies, along with summer's grass clippings and assorted chipped branches, will unite to make a giant compost pile. The city street department orchestrates the composting process, with street supervisor John Martin acting as conductor. The street crew starts with a big vacuum and two trucks. With these, they vacuum up leaf piles and cart them to the compost pile. The vacuum is quite powerful and can suck up enough leaves to fill a truck in a matter of minutes. People walking small dogs should probably tighten their grip on the leash when nearing the vacuum. The street crew will be vacuuming streets until the leaves stop falling and the snow starts flying. Each truck will make about a dozen trips to the compost pile every day.

The leaves, grass clippings, and branches will amount to 3,000 cubic yards of compost. Our trendsetter Red might be lying at the bottom of the pile, but he'll get his turn to be king of the mountain.

Remember to turn your clocks back

Although nobody seems to know just why we're saving daylight, if everybody cooperates and turns their clocks back an hour this weekend, we'll be sure to have some daylight saved up when we need it.

People are reminded to turn their clocks back an hour at 2 a.m., Sunday Oct. 29. If you don't want to stay up until 2 a.m., it's not mandatory. Just set your clocks back an hour before you climb under the covers Saturday night.

Author gives creativity lesson

By Laurie Lounsbury

Children's book author Jane Stroschin shows kids how to enjoy stories from the inside out. Sure, they like to listen to Stroschin reading a story. But then Stroschin takes students inside the process, giving them hands on experience with story writing.

Stroschin visited the Charlevoix Elementary School last week, and spent three days working with every class in the school. With pencils and paper in hand, students worked along with Stroschin, creating their own stories. Stroschin also demonstrated drawing techniques, teaching kids fundamental shapes that form the basis of any drawing. "You have to teach the left brain first, then let the right brain take over," Stroschin told the teachers. That means teaching kids the basic geometrical shapes that lay the groundwork for art.

With humor, warmth, and a lot of bending over, Stroschin reached children effectively and at their own level. The students clung to Stroschin's words and encouragement.

Bridge repairs won't disrupt traffic

Traffic on the bridge will be narrowed to two lanes this winter as the Michigan Department of Transportation completes the final phase of a bridge renovation project.

Preliminary work is already under way on this winter's bridge repairs. This year's repairs are part of an overall refurbishment which has been taking place for the past several years. This year's work will include rebuilding the motors that lift the bridge as well as replacing all windows, doors and the heating and air conditioning systems within the bridge tenders' building.

Dave Pax, assistant resident engineer at MDOT's Traverse City office, said this year's work shouldn't really affect traffic. For a time this winter, traffic will be squeezed down to just two lanes, but unlike one of the previous winters, traffic will be two-way.

Mechanically, the bridge will be fully operational by March 24. Remaining aspects of the project will be completed by April 8. This year's work will cost $921,460 and will complete the bridge refurbishment. The total cost of the refurbishment project is approximately $3 million.

Historical Society program to focus on World War II

Charlevoix Historical Society's November meeting program will consider the fiftieth commemoration of the end of World War II. The program will be a roundtable discussion beginning at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 8 at the Charlevoix Depot building. The discussion will be about war related activities on the home front. Activities such as: blue and gold star mothers; rationing; ending of the war; and home town celebrations.

Two Historical Society members, Phyllis Gill and Edith Beck, will start the discussion with stories pertaining to their families and their own experiences. Gill will talk about Ben Gill, who served on the submarine "Perch" and became a Japanese prisoner in 1942. Beck will tell about living in her home country of Austria during the war.

...a story that leafs nothing to the imagination

City workers take a front end loader and turn the pile three or four times a year.

What happens when you pile leaves, grass clippings and tree debris on top of each other for two years? It gets steamy. Those organic products get together and generate a lot of heat. Martin said the temperature in the middle of the pile is well over 100 degrees all the time. "It's cooking all year 'round," Martin said.

After the compost mixture has cooked for two years, the stuff, having exhausted itself, turns into dirt. Rich, black, fertile dirt. Any non-conformists in the pile, like rocks or chunks of asphalt, get screened out of the pile. What started as a 3,000 cubic yard pile compacts into half its original size, leaving 1,500 cubic yards of dirt.

The quality of Charlevoix's composted dirt is beyond reproach. Martin sends a sample of the composted dirt to Michigan State University from each completed compost pile. MSU will perform a soil analysis on the sample and report back to Martin if any nutrients need to be added to the soil. Charlevoix's dirt is always ph balanced and appropriately loaded with nutrients. "From the amounts collected in town, we produce a good product," Martin said.

The city uses the dirt to top off the petunia beds each spring. They fill bare spots along the roads and in the parks with the dirt. Last year, the city gave 800 yards of dirt to the township soccer field. Best of all, the dirt is free to city residents for their own private use. Martin said a pile of composted dirt is available in front of the street department building. "That's the level of service we provide for the people here," Martin said.

Street department workers start on the enormous task of clearing all the leaves out of the cemetery. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

City street department supervisor John Martin checks the progress at one of the compost piles. Of the three piles, one is ready for a final screening, one is halfway through the cooking process, and the third pile is this season's leaves and grass clippings. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

County approves higher tax level

by Laurie Lounsbury

With almost seven million excess dollars in cash and investments, taxpayers might wonder why the Charlevoix County Commissioners needed to raise taxes. Taxpayers had their chance to question the commissioners at a public hearing held three weeks ago, but nobody came.

With no one from the general public in attendance, commissioners voted unanimously at the Oct. 4 meeting to increase taxes to their maximum allowable amount.

The tax hike will give the county an overall increase of 5.6 percent.

Grandvue is the big winner with a 15 percent increase, and transit gets a seven percent increase. Last year, commissioners rejected an increase for the transit department.

Grandvue will get an extra $86,000, for a total of $660,225.

The county's general operating fund will get an additional $179,472. The operating fund would have increased by $136,339 even without the mill increase, due to new construction and rising property values.

The 6.9 million dollars that the county maintains in cash and investments is in the delinquent tax fund. Some of this money will be used to pay for the courthouse renovation. When 911 is up and running, about $220,000 a year will be used to pay for the operating costs of the 911 system.

In other business, the commissioners passed a resolution that clarifies the county's position on retirement health benefits. The clarification states that county employees who are represented by a union do not qualify for retirement benefits. Only regular county employees, non-union employees or administrators, qualify for retirement benefits.

OPINIONS

Editorial

Charlevoix Halloween spirits are friendly

In Detroit, Mayor Dennis Archer is trying to round up thousands of volunteers to form citizen patrol units to stop arson fires associated with Halloween. In Charlevoix, Fran Tollas stopped by the Courier office a couple of weeks ago asking us to put a note in the paper to let people know she's trying to round up a handful of volunteers to help out at the Castle Farm Halloween party.

In large cities, if Halloween violence and vandalism were to get out of hand, the National Guard might have to be called in. In Charlevoix, we don't have any significant Halloween violence and vandalism. Military involvement is limited to the Coast Guard guys turning the Acacia into a "Ghost Ship" to entertain the community's children.

In some places, people worry about fires burning and destroying homes. In Charlevoix, we worry about burning calories from candy which has destroyed a diet.

In some places, parents worry about their children trick or treating at the homes of strangers. In Charlevoix, parents hurry children along in order to fulfill promises to stop by with the kids at the homes of other family members, friends and co-workers.

There are communities where parents carefully inspect all candy because in the past there have been incidents where candy was booby-trapped to harm children. In Charlevoix, sure, we inspect the candy, but normally the biggest problem is rationing it out so the kids don't eat it all at once and make themselves ill.

In some urban areas, if you see a group of a dozen young people together on Halloween night, it is quite possible that they are affiliated with a gang and the bigger ones are the gang leaders. In Charlevoix, if you see a dozen young people trick or treating together, it is quite possible that they are related and the bigger ones have parental orders to look out for the littler ones.

While other places brace for Halloween and accompanying problems, in Charlevoix we prepare for Halloween and accompanying fun. In Charlevoix, the spirits which are part of Halloween may try to be scary, but at heart they're like the spirits which are here the rest of the year. They're friendly spirits.

Why good help is hard to find

by EDITH GILBERT

You probably have wondered why the service in your favorite restaurant was so darn slow this summer.

In checking with both white tablecloth and fast food places in our area, I've been told there are several valid reasons. First, there is the population shift. No longer do we have stiff competition for jobs among teenage baby boomers. These youngsters have grown up. They now eat out and instead of providing service, they demand service. Secondly, there are many more eating places competing for help, and thirdly, the public today is more accustomed to eating out than ever before. Thus the demand for help is greater, with the unfortunate result that the supply and demand is largely out of balance.

A McDonald's fast food restaurant manager tells me that getting help was not the problem this summer, but keeping help is the problem. Teenagers were offered a variety of desirable summer jobs at better pay than $5.25 an hour, so they don't stick around the drive-in too long.

At the other end of the scale, the Charlevoix Country Club hired college students, who are inexperienced and need a lot of training. Many young people today have grown up on fast foods eaten in front of television. They have much to learn, such as not bringing wine, coffee and soup to a customer all at the same time! And even tho' the pay here is good — when schools start before Labor Day, the newly trained wait staff takes off by the middle of August — long before the season is over.

The Club, therefore, lost a substantial amount of business during the last two weeks in August because they could not honor reservations.

Several restaurant managers are now considering bonuses to keep help through August. Some are even flirting with the idea of building dormitories, as they have done for years on Mackinac Island. Another more immediate solution, is being proposed in Lansing by our Representatives Beverly Bodem, Republican, and Pat Gagliardi, Democrat. They have introduced bipartisan legislation that requires all public schools to open AFTER Labor Day in Michigan.

This proposed bill is not such an unusual idea. On the contrary, there are 12 other states that start classes after Labor Day. Even now, out of a total of 542 School Districts in Michigan, 297 start before Labor Day and 245 start after Labor Day. Since tourism is Michigan's number two industry, it is estimated that the additional total gross tourist revenue would amount to 35 million dollars.

The management of the Grey Gables restaurant agrees. "Early school openings really hurts our business. Parents leave with their college age kids in the middle of August, long before the summer season is over. I'm strongly in favor of this bill!"

Keeping staff through Labor Day is a problem that not only affects the restaurants in our area, but it is felt all over the United States. Many parents also approve of the idea. The hot weather in late August is not a desirable time for children to learn or teachers to teach. Yet, both the Michigan Association of School Administration and the MEA strongly oppose this bill.

If this bill is not passed, try to remember, the next time you are dining out to celebrate a birthday or anniversary — be patient. It may take twenty minutes before someone brings you a menu or takes your order.

Letters to the editor

Parkside building should be saved

Editor,

I was back to visit Charlevoix during Applefest last weekend and was informed that the city had purchased the old Parkside Restaurant building on Bridge Street. I was also told there was strong rumor the city planned to tear down the building and expand the park. If this information is correct, I find it most distressing. This is a fine old building that has been a historical part of Charlevoix for longer than many of us can even remember. Parks are wonderful but why must we acquire them at the cost of the loss of a piece of our heritage? My father's family has long been established with the settling of Charlevoix and having lived there for quite some time, I speak as a resident - not a tourist.

I would strongly urge you to thoughtfully reconsider this action and save this page from the past from being lost forever.

Sincerely,
Carol A. Campbell

New school building should include auditorium

Editor,

Thank goodness we have a Board of Education, an Administration and good teachers who are looking forward to the future welfare of the youth of Charlevoix by planning for new facilities. We need new buildings!

Anyone who does not agree should visit the high school and the middle school. Then they should visit new, modern schools in other districts to realize what the possibilities are and how far we are behind.

By the time plans are completed and the buildings built, it will be another five or ten years down the road. We must act now!

I also feel that while we are building, we should do it correctly and include a wonderful auditorium for the use of the entire community.

The youth are our future. We must get behind this bond issue. Our kids of Charlevoix deserve the best!

Thank You for Your Patronage.

See you in the Spring!

In Memory of my Beloved Anne Elizabeth Eve Sappington

I wish to thank all our wonderful friends in Charlevoix who have extended their heartfelt sympathy to me, and the Sappington Family, at this time of mutual sorrow and loss. Anne is gone, but not forgotten. This remarkable and wonderful young woman added so much to all our lives. God bless her and you all.

Thank You, have some bills

to look forward to.

It's easy to save with natural gas.
Call MichCon's Ideal Energy Dealer Network.

Why wait any longer to save on your fuel bills? All you need to do is make a toll-free call to MichCon's Ideal Energy Dealer Network, today. Because when you use natural gas appliances instead of propane, electric, fuel oil or wood models, you save big. And that goes for a long list of household items including furnaces, water heaters, ranges, clothes dryers, fireplaces and grills. We'll be happy to give you reliable referrals to licensed heating and cooling contractors and natural gas appliance dealers right in your neighborhood. Not only do they meet the strictest standards around, but they're also the kind of people you can trust to give quick, accurate estimates on the low cost and ease of installing or converting to natural gas. So no matter what kind of natural gas appliance you're considering, you'll find MichCon's toll-free Dealer Network a big help. Isn't it nice to know it doesn't take a lot of energy to save on your energy bills?

Margaret Witherspoon

Margaret Witherspoon, 85, of St. Louis, Missouri died Oct. 17. A memorial service took place at Westminster Presbyterian Church in St. Louis, Oct. 21.

Mrs. Witherspoon was born in Little Rock, Arkansas, July 6, 1910. She moved to St. Louis with her family in 1917. She graduated from Soldan High School in 1928 and Queens College in Charlotte, North Carolina in 1932. She taught biology in the Normandy School District from 1933 to 1940. In 1938 she married William Witherspoon.

Mrs. Witherspoon authored the book "Remembering the St. Louis World's Fair," and the pamphlet, "The Witherspoon Manuscript Bible," about the rediscovery of a fourteenth century hand-written Bible. She was an elder of Westminster Presbyterian Church and taught in the church school. For many years she was a summer resident at the Belvedere Club in Charlevoix.

She is survived by: her husband, William Witherspoon of St. Louis; a son James Witherspoon of St. Louis; two daughters, Jane T.

Witherspoon of Toronto, Canada and Elizabeth W. Vondra of Falls Church, Virginia; and four grandchildren. She was preceded in death by a sister Frances M. Fain and a brother, J. Eugene Johansen.

Memorial contributions may be made to Queens College or Westminster Presbyterian Church.

F. William Eberts

F. William Eberts, 95, of Delray Beach, Florida and Charlevoix died Oct. 20.

Survivors include: his wife Evelyn S. Eberts; son Dustin W. Eberts of Gainesville, Fl.; daughter, Sloan Frazer Pendleton of Wellesley, MA. He was preceded in death by his father, Jerome W. Eberts, his mother, Jane F. Eberts; and a brother, James B. Eberts.

Funeral arrangements were made by Seobee-Ireland-Potter Funeral Home of Delray Beach.

Chorale to present "Requiem"

The Charlevoix Area Community Chorale will be presenting the John Rutter "Requiem" Sunday, Oct. 29, at 4 p.m. at the First Congregational Church in celebration of All Saints Day.

The Chorale under the direction of Ellen Addington has presented concerts in the area since 1980.

Included in Sunday's program is an original work by local composer, Elizabeth Humphrey, entitled "Yizkor" and selected from the writings of the venerated Rabbi Morris Adler of Southfield, Michigan.

Humphrey, former soprano soloist at Bay View, and community concert artist was a five year fellowship student at the New York Juilliard School of Music. She is serving, currently, as organist of the Charlevoix Congregational Church.

The soprano soloist in the afternoon performance is Fredricka Herick, an outstanding artist from Grand Rapids.

A chamber ensemble will accompany the Rutter work, and is composed of musicians from Interlochen and Traverse City Symphony as well as three talented local instrumentalists from East Jordan, Boyne City and Petoskey.

The "Requiem" of Rutter is a popular work full of lovely melodic lines as well as a rich, colorful orchestration musicians enjoy performing. A reception will follow the performance which is open to the public without charge, but a free will offering will be accepted.

Methodist women to host luncheon

The women of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church are hosting their annual fall luncheon/bazaar/bake sale from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Friday, Oct. 27. The cost is $5 or $4.50 for senior citizens.

Acorn Cafe is a new career for O'Learys

by Laurie Lounsbury

When Richard O'Leary had the opportunity to take early retirement from his railroad job, he took it. Then he decided to study for a second career in life. His wife, Linda, joined him in the endeavor. Their new career choice means a lot of hard work and long hours, but they're sure they did the right thing. The couple owns the Acorn Cafe on Park Street, where they serve up breakfast and lunch six days a week.

After his railroad retirement, Richard studied culinary arts at Oakland Community College. Linda went for a degree in the hospital business. Then the two headed up the west coast of Michigan and looked for a place to start their new life. They landed in Charlevoix.

The O'Learys moved into the former location of Sweet Sam's Java Joint on June 1. In seven short weeks they scrambled to get kitchen equipment, decorations, tables and chairs into place for a July 20 opening. The restaurant serves breakfast and lunch six days a week, closed only on Monday.

Passersby knew they would be getting a dose of humor with their food even before the restaurant opened. For a few weeks, a sign in the window said, "Open Soon." After a month of that, the sign's message changed to, "Open Really Soon." That was followed with, "Open Really Soon. We mean it." When the new restaurant sign went up, people chuckled to read, "Acorn Cafe - Hemingway Never Ate Here."

"We'd like to take credit for that, but the truth is we saw that on a sign in Spain," Richard said. Spain, like northern Michigan, likes to lay claim to Hemingway visits whenever, and wherever, they can.

Entrees at the Acorn Cafe are reasonably priced and sure to please. Breakfast covers a wide range of tastes, from prosciutto and asparagus omelettes to apple, raisin, and walnut french toast. A luncheon favorite is the cobb salad, featuring roasted turkey, bacon, hard boiled eggs and crumbled bleu cheese dressing. The O'Learys roast their own turkey and make their own meatloaf for the meatloaf sandwich.

Even with a late start, summer business was good at the Acorn Cafe. Now the O'Learys are ready to settle into the off season trade. "We really do want to appeal to the locals. We moved up here because we're committed," Linda said.

The Acorn Cafe is open six days a week for breakfast and lunch, opening at 7:30 a.m. They are closed Mondays.

A collection of awards, accomplishments and milestones in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

Joe Trojanek, who owns and operates the Charlevoix Sears authorized retail dealer store at 06585 M66, recently completed a three-day, advanced training course that further developed expertise for name-brand products offered at the store. This specialized Sears training, known as "DealerFest," occurs twice per year and is available for Sears authorized retail dealers nationwide.

"DealerFest was designed to strengthen brand knowledge and business skills so that store owner/operators can offer the best product solutions to customers and grow strong businesses in their communities," said Steve Titus, divisional vice president, Sears dealer stores.

Grant to help develop work force

The Northwest Michigan Council of Governments is receiving a $28,002 grant to help the regional economy.

State Rep. Beverly A. Bodem, R-Alpena, said the Michigan Jobs Commission has approved a "No Wrong Door" grant to the council, a Michigan Works! agency based in Traverse City. The council serves Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim, Benzie, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Manistee, Missaukee and Wexford counties.

The grant will be used as venture capital to stimulate local activities and assist with implementing Michigan's No Wrong Door strategy. Doug Rothwell, commission director, wants a statewide system by June 1997 to provide employers and those seeking work force development assistance with a full range of services.

Keep kids safe on Halloween

A few safety tips from District Health Department No. 3 can protect children during this year's trick or treat activities.

Falls are the leading cause of Halloween accidents; design or buy costumes that are loose enough to cover warm outfits and allow freedom of movement, and short enough to prevent tripping. When purchasing costumes, masks, beards and wigs, look for the label Flame Resistant. Although this label does not mean these items won't catch fire, it does indicate the items will resist burning and should extinguish quickly once removed from the ignition source. To minimize the risk of contact with candles or other sources of ignition, avoid costumes made with flimsy materials and outfits with big, baggy sleeves or billowing skirts. Add strips of reflective tape to costumes and bags to make children highly visible.

To easily see and be seen, children should also carry flashlights. Apply a natural mask of cosmetics rather than have a child wear a loose-fitting mask that might restrict breathing or obscure vision. If a mask is used, however, make sure it fits securely and has eyeholes large enough to allow full vision.

Swords, knives and similar costume accessories should be of soft and flexible material.

Young children should always be accompanied by an adult or an older, responsible child. All children should walk not run from house to house and use the sidewalk, if available, rather than walk in the street. Children should be cautioned against running out from between parked cars, or across lawns and yards where ornaments, furniture, or clotheslines present dangers.

Children should go only to homes where the residents are known and have outside lights on as a sign of welcome. Children should not enter homes or apartments unless they are accompanied by an adult.

People expecting trick or treaters should remove anything that could be an obstacle from lawns, steps and porches. Candlelit jack-o lanterns should be kept away from curtains, decorations, and other furnishings that could be ignited.

Have change for a phone call in case a problem arises. Instruct children not to eat any treats until they are inspected by an adult. If you are driving during trick or treat hours, be especially alert. Slow down in residential neighborhoods and watch for children walking on roadways. Be prepared for children to dart into the street unexpectedly.

Any parent with questions about the safety of their child's Halloween snack, or proper times for trick or treaters, should contact their local law enforcement agency.

Ghost ship returns

After a one year sabbatical to study the ancient art of Haitian Voodoo, the Ghost Ship will be back in Charlevoix and scarier than ever this Halloween. Hours will be 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Coast Guard Cutter Acacia moorings in downtown Charlevoix. Due to construction activity in Bridge Park and on Clinton Street, the entrance to the Ghost Ship will be at the band shell at the south end of East Park. Tickets will be required to board the ship, but the tickets will be distributed free of charge at the band shell.

Jaycees host Halloween party

The Charlevoix Jaycees will host their second annual Halloween Costume Party Saturday, Oct. 28 at the Grey Gables Inn of Charlevoix. Admission is $10 per person with the party beginning at 9 p.m. There will be prizes for best costumes, a cash bar, hors d'oeuvres and door prizes. Proceeds from the party will benefit the Charlevoix Teen Center and other projects of the Charlevoix Jaycees.

Lutheran Church Halloween party

Bethany Lutheran Church will host a children's Halloween party from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Oct. 31 in the church's fellowship hall. The tricks will be games and a skit about the Bible characters David and Goliath. The treats will be sloppy joes and chips.

Parents are invited to accompany little ones dressed in non-violent costumes to Bethany Lutheran Church for fun and fellowship. There is no admission charge, but each family is asked to contribute a bag of candy for a take-home sharing gift.

Street Legends help area youth programs

The Charlevoix Street Legends car club recently made donations to three area organizations. Street Legends President Earl Muma presented checks to Louie McKenzie of the Charlevoix Senior Center, Sheriff George Lasater for the DARE drug education program, and to Jo Anne Beemon for the Charlevoix Teen Center.

Rayders maintain conference lead

Two big hurdles stood between the Rayders and defending their conference girls' basketball title. Charlevoix crossed the first of those two hurdles Oct. 18 basketball title with a 63-57 home court win over Traverse City St. Francis. The next big hurdle will be Nov. 3 when Charlevoix hosts league co-leader Kalkaska.

Charlevoix led most of the game against St. Francis, but had to weather a Gladiator rally in the game's final minutes. Lisa Parrish had 22 points, Kris Blanchard 13 and Amanda Eaton 10 in a balanced Rayder attack. Jenni Swenor scored eight points, but her main contribution came at the defensive end of the court where she had five steals. Liz Kelly had seven points to compliment 10 rebounds.

Charlevoix led 15-12 at the end of the first quarter. St. Francis ran a pick play across the base line which initially gave the Rayders trouble. Traci Allison came off the bench to give the Rayders some defensive stability and later in the quarter Parrish figured out what was transpiring on the play and put an end to it.

In the second quarter, Parrish went on a scoring binge. Christie Kaeynski scored the Rayders first basket of the quarter to put the Rayders up 17-12. St. Francis then scored six unanswered points to go up 18-17 before Parrish outscored the Gladiators 8-4 in the final 3:30 of the half to put the Rayders up 24-22 at halftime.

The Rayder front line of Parrish, Kelly and Blanchard played an interesting half. Parrish, a sophomore center at 5'9", was deadly shooting from mid-range. At 12 feet and in with any kind of room to navigate, she was money in the bank. Meanwhile, Kelly gobbled up rebounds like Pac Man. Despite being only 5'6" Kelly is quick and subscribes to the Charles Barkley philosophy of rebounding. "Just go get it." St. Francis didn't do a good job of boxing Kelly out and she made them pay for that. In addition to her ten rebounds, she got her hands on the ball on several other occasions and kept it active for her teammates. Blanchard, who normally is one of the Rayders' top scorers, didn't have a good first half. She made one of two free throws and nothing from the field. Rather than wearing her hair in a ponytail, she was wearing a double-braid. In the first half, both in hairstyle and in the way she played Blanchard just didn't look like her normal self.

Charlevoix started the third quarter with a 12-2 run to open up a ten point lead, 36-26. Eaton, a sophomore showed continued development at the point guard position. At the beginning of the season Eaton had a lot of tools - she's bright, quick, competitive, fairly strong and able to handle the ball. Her outside shot was all right, but nothing that was going to scare defenses. Being a sophomore, there were questions about how well she would make the decisions required of a point guard. Eaton has progressed rapidly and in the St. Francis game showed the potential she has for creating multiple problems for an opposing defense. Although she's still not settling the world on fire with her perimeter shooting, she's taking and making enough perimeter shots to keep the defense honest. The closer defenders have to play her on the perimeter, the easier it is for her to drive and that's where she's improved dramatically. When a basketball player dribbles the ball to the basket in traffic, there are decisions to be made. Do you shoot or pass? If you're going to pass, who are you going to pass to? Beyond that, how are you going to get the pass there?

Cross country teams sweep conference championships

Making these decisions isn't one of those government things where you appoint a committee, commission a study and report back in six months. No, these decisions have to be made instantly in the midst of a bunch of flying bodies and flailing arms. It's not easy, but Eaton is getting good at it. In the St. Francis game, she scored off the drive, slipped passes to teammates under the basket and occasionally when things were too cluttered, pitched the ball back out to the perimeter.

St. Francis stayed in the game in the third quarter due to a strong effort from Jasmine Swaney, who had eight of the Gladiators' 12 points. The quarter ended with Charlevoix leading 39-34.

While Eaton played well on offense, Charlevoix's other guard, Swenor, did what a defensive player is supposed to do - made a general nuisance of herself. On the press, she first made it difficult to pass the ball inbounds. Once St. Francis got the ball inbounds, Swenor poked and grabbed at it either scaling the ball or tying things up. When St. Francis players tried to dribble to get away from her, Swenor blocked the way. Swenor's defense left the St. Francis players feeling like a guy who'd spent a night on the town with a girlfriend in a bad mood. The whole evening would have been a lot more fun if she'd just stayed home. In the fourth quarter, adding injury to insult Swenor scored six of her eight points.

The other player who showed up big in the fourth quarter was Blanchard. Nearly silent through the first three quarters, the forward with the braided hair came to life for ten points in the final eight minutes.

Despite the play of Blanchard and Swenor, St. Francis got within a point at 57-56 with 1:27 remaining. Seven seconds later, with the game on the line Parrish was fouled. She had clanged two free throws at the 2:50 mark, but to keep any of that centers can't shoot free throws talk from starting she buried both free throws with 1:20 left to put Charlevoix up by three. Baskets by Blanchard and Eaton sandwiched around a St. Francis free throw made the final score 63-57.

Charlevoix will host East Jordan Oct. 31 and Kalkaska Nov. 3.

Charlevoix also won the junior varsity game, 50-37. Angie Potter was two points shy of a double-double. She had eight points and 11 rebounds. Katy Conlan had nine points while Julie Gregory and Lindsay Blechel each had eight. Carrie Blanchard had six steals.

The 1995 Charlevoix High School cross country team has added another page to the Rayder cross country program legend. Charlevoix won both the girls' and boys' conference titles at the Belvedere Golf Club race course Oct. 17.

Although both Rayder teams came away with the same championship results, the ways they arrived at those championships were quite different.

The girls team entered the race as the favorites, but nobody expected such complete domination of the race. To appreciate what the Rayder girls did, you have to understand how cross country is scored. Each team runs seven runners. The top five finishers from each team count toward the team score. A runner scores a one for a first place finish, a two for a second place finish and so on. A perfect score is a 15. Charlevoix scored an 18, with the top five Rayders runners placing first, second, fourth, fifth and sixth. Central Lake placed second with a score of 70.

And as if what the top five Rayder finishers did wasn't impressive enough, the other two placed seventh and eleventh. The top ten runners in the race are named to the all conference team. Six of the ten 1995 all conference runners are Charlevoix Rayders.

If that's not enough to make other conference teams cringe, throw this in. None of this year's Rayder varsity girls are seniors. Four are juniors, one is a sophomore and two are freshmen.

Chelsea Gorkiewicz, a junior, won her second consecutive individual league championship, taking the girls' race in 20 minutes 33 seconds. Monica Browe, also a junior, placed second at 20:44. Browe has been a good runner in the past, but in the past couple of weeks has taken her running to a new level. Tricia Hodge, a freshman, placed fourth in 20:46. Kelly McFarlin, another freshman, finished fifth in 20:47. Rachel Newcomb, a junior coming off some injury problems, placed sixth in 20:57. Candice Vandergriff, a sophomore who is one of the more motivated high school athletes you'll ever run into, placed seventh in 21:07. Jessa VanGuilder, a junior running cross country for the first year, missed making the all conference team by a matter of seconds at 21:59. VanGuilder passed a runner to put herself in tenth place less than 200 yards from the finish line, but the other runner came back and got her at the wire. VanGuilder led the second ten runners in the race who received all conference honorable mention.

Other teams in the girls race and their point totals were: East Jordan, 75; Elk Rapids, 101; Kalkaska, 122; and Mancelona, 133.

While the girls team came into the race favored, the boys' team came into the race expected to finish somewhere behind a strong East Jordan team. But the Rayders got a good race from five runners and pulled off an upset. The Rayder team total was 79. Kalkaska took second with 82 while East Jordan was third with 85.

Justin Davis, a senior, led the Rayders, finishing fourth and making the all conference team with a time 16:43. Central Lake's Ryan Shay won the race with a time of 15:37. He was followed by East Jordan's Josiah Middaugh in 16:27 and Andrew Otis in 16:37.

Complimenting Davis' performance was the race run by the Rayders' two through five runners. Marc Dohin placed 11th in 17:16. Nate Martin took 12th in 17:22. Dan Keehn placed 19th in 17:47 and Nathan Jones was 33rd, Brian Martinus 42nd and Patrick Butcher 43rd.

Jones, a senior, passed several runners at the end of the race. Each of the Kalkaska and East Jordan runners he passed represented a two-point swing in Charlevoix's favor.

The Regional race will take place Saturday, Oct. 28 at Schuss Mountain. Starting time is 10 a.m.

Randy Vogel wins with 8-2 mark in eighth week

Eight people went 8-2 in week eight of the Courier football contest. The winner in the tie breaker was Randy Vogel. The total points scored in the Lions and Redskins game was 66. Vogel called it at 54. Mike Webb called it at 53.

In addition to Vogel and Webb, other 8-2 contestants were LeRoy Buchanan, Cody Morrison, somebody who signed their entry Lee Coso (apparently someone has their own ESPN fantasy. Da da da...da, da, da), Lew Kline, John Haggard and Rick Brandt.

The games that tripped a lot of people up were: Pellston over Harbor Springs; Notre Dame over USC; Washington over Detroit; Atlanta over Tampa Bay; and Kansas City over Denver.

The Courier top 10 contestants remain tightly bunched and this week's games are tough. Some top changes could be seen next week.

Here are this week's games: Charlevoix at Petoskey: Charlevoix played well against Rogers City and nearly pulled off an upset that not only would have surprised Courier football contest participants, but would have really ticked off Rogers City. If this Friday night's match was a home game, I'd be tempted to pick the Rayders in an upset. But, unfortunately, it's a road game. Pick - Petoskey.

Boyne City at Rogers City: Here's a tough game to call. During the past two weeks, both these teams just squeaked past Charlevoix. The game's at Rogers City. Pick - Rogers City.

Minnesota at University of Michigan: Minnesota scored a lot of points against Michigan State. They won't do that against Michigan. Michigan's offense will spend too much time on the field for that to happen. Pick - Michigan.

Michigan State at Wisconsin: Aside from upsetting Penn State and playing fairly well against Ohio State, Wisconsin hasn't looked that good this year. But then, Michigan State struggled with Minnesota. Pick - Wisconsin.

Nebraska at Colorado: Colorado is not what they were last year. Nebraska will win here, but they won't be able to run up the score. Pick - Nebraska.

Kansas at Kansas State: Although Nebraska, Colorado and Oklahoma are hogging all of the spotlight, both of the Kansas teams are playing well this year. Pick - Kansas.

Cincinnati at Cleveland: So how long before Cleveland puts in Eric Zier? At the beginning of the season, Cleveland thought they were going to the Super Bowl. They may be rethinking that position. Pick - Cincinnati.

New York Giants at Washington: Washington's defense is shaky. New York doesn't have the creativity in finding ways to lose was shown by Washington's opponents this past Sunday. Pick - New York Giants.

St. Louis at Philadelphia: Last week St. Louis fell victim to a passing offense. This week they face one that runs. Pick - Philadelphia.

Green Bay at Detroit: Green Bay's on a roll. The Lions are finding ways to lose and preparing to write this season off. Consequently it only makes sense to pick Green Bay. But these are the Lions. Never do what makes sense. Pick - Detroit.

Football team loses 8-7

Charlevoix gave the seventh ranked Rogers City Hurons a muddy scare Friday night, but ended up losing 8-7. The loss dropped the Rayders to 4-4 on the season. They will finish the year this Friday evening at Petoskey.

Charlevoix took the lead with 32 seconds remaining in the first half when fullback George McClellan scored on a two yard run. Mark Boss kicked the point after. The touchdown drive was set up when Rayder defensive tackle Matt Shindorf recovered a fumble at the Rogers City 14 yard line.

On their opening drive of the second half Rogers City scored on a four yard run by Ryan Howell. Howell also ran in the two-point conversion which proved to be the game winner.

Much of the game was played in the rain on a field which was

Jewell F. Gillespie

Jewell F. Gillespie, 78, of Beaver Island, died Oct. 21, 1995, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

His funeral was Tuesday, Oct. 24, at Holy Cross Catholic Church on Beaver Island. The Rev. Joseph Scallan, S.J., officiated with burial in Holy Cross Cemetery, Beaver Island.

Mr. Gillespie was born Jan. 9, 1917, on Beaver Island, the son of Francis and Mary Ann (Boyle) Gillespie. He spent his entire life on Beaver Island.

Over the years, Mr. Gillespie contributed greatly to the quality of life on Beaver Island. During the Depression years, he worked for the W.P.A. building roads on the island, particularly the road to the lighthouse at the southern end. Later, he worked in Detroit on an assembly line at Ready Power Co., which built the first generator sets for the island. Mr. Gillespie helped install the generator sets. Later, he was hired to run them and did so for 45 years. He started the telephone company on Beaver Island in his own backyard. He also established the public swimming beach, and was instrumental in establishing the Beaver Island Medical Center.

He was an accomplished musician, played many musical instruments and wrote many songs.

Two years ago, he received the Michigan Heritage Award as Outstanding Citizen of the Year for his contributions to the cultural diversity of the people of Michigan.

He was a licensed Great Lakes captain, former president of the Beaver Island Civic Association, Beaver Island Transit Co., and Beaver Island School Board. He was supervisor of St. James Township, St. James Planning Commission, and a founding member of the Great Lakes Ferry Boats Association.

Mr. Gillespie established the barge link for transporting heavy equipment between Beaver Island and mainland ports with his tugboat, "The American Girl."

On May 2, 1945, he married Rita Mae O'Donnell on Beaver Island. She preceded him in death on April 15, 1988.

Survivors include five sons, John W. Gillespie and his wife, Jeanne, of Beaver Island, William "Billy"

Gillespie and his wife, Janice, of Bartlett, Ill., Robert J. Gillespie and wife, Lisa, of Beaver Island, Daniel G. Gillespie and his wife, Tammie, of Charlevoix, and Richard L. Gillespie and his wife, Laura, of Beaver Island; four daughters, Mary T. Palmer and her husband, Edward, of Beaver Island, Julie A. Gillespie of Charlevoix, Kathleen M. Maudrie of Beaver Island, and Cynthia Rose Brown and her husband, Kevin, of Beaver Island; one brother, Norman "Speck" Gillespie, of Gaylord; two sisters, Lucille Osborne of Williamsburg, Iowa, and Grace Cole of Beaver Island; 22 grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Mr. Gillespie was preceded in death by four children, Mary Sue, Bridget A., Gerard T. and James M.; one grandson, Jewell Perry Gillespie; and a son-in-law, Edward W. Maudrie.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Beaver Island Medical Center. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where arrangements were made.

Anna Marie Blissett

Anna Marie Blissett, 88, of Charlevoix, died Oct. 20, 1995, at Tendercare of Gaylord.

Her funeral was Tuesday, Oct. 24, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix with the Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton of the Community Church of God officiating. Burial is in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Blissett was born March 28, 1907, in Chicago, the daughter of Fredrick and Caroline (Nielsen) Christensen. She moved to Ironton as a young child and attended Ironton school. She had lived in the area since.

She married Nathan Blissett on Feb. 16, 1928, in Petoskey, and he preceded her in death on Aug. 9, 1944.

Mrs. Blissett was a life member of the Rebekah Lodge in Charlevoix. She was also active in the Charlevoix Senior Citizens.

Mrs. Blissett worked for the Charlevoix Public Schools as a cafeteria cook from 1944-1972. She was then manager of the Charlevoix Belvedere Golf Club dining room for 10 years.

Survivors include two daughters, Marilyn C. Jontzen of Westlake, Ohio, and Betty J. Cole and her husband, Harvey, of Charlevoix; one brother, Kenneth Christensen, of Friendship, Wis.; one daughter-in-law, Betty Blissett, of Charlevoix; seven grandchildren; and eight great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Blissett was preceded in death by one son, William; and by two brothers, Nelson and Fred Christensen.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the American Legion Auxiliary Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 in Charlevoix. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Write-in candidate seeks first ward seat

by L. Scott Swanson

Not that it's become interesting, but at least the Nov. 7 city election has become a little less dull. Cheri Hoffman, the only candidate on the ballot for the first ward city council seat, has announced that she will resign at the end of her current term and is supporting the write-in candidacy of Julia Tucker.

Hoffman, who has served on the city council for six years, is building a new home in the township. In a letter to Charlevoix Mayor Josh Barnes, Hoffman wrote, "When I

Good service in Charlevoix is no accident, it's a planned thing

by Laurie Lounsbury

Yes, you can get good food service in Charlevoix. But to find good service, you have to look beyond the glitzy exteriors and neon lights that beckon you into area restaurants. It's like playing the detective in your own cuisine mystery story.

The restaurants in town that can boast of a good wait staff have a few key ingredients in common. But you can't always see those ingredients with just a passing glance. A sense of family, teamwork, and thorough training seem to be necessary in order to get, and keep, good help. And of course money plays a role in the big picture.

At Terry's Place, owner Terry Left has a year 'round staff that he regards as family. He keeps his restaurants open all year, even though he loses money in the winter. Left knows his employees need permanent employment. "I need these employees as much as they need their jobs," Left said. Left not only provides year 'round employment for his staff, he sweetens the pot by offering profit-sharing and a 401K plan for full time employees. Employees can contribute up to 15 percent of their pay to the 401K plan, while Left kicks in another five percent. In the last year, two of his employees had enough set aside in their 401K plan to cash it in for a down payment on a home. "It made me feel really good that they could buy a home with that money. That's the way it's supposed to be," Left said.

At Whitneys Oyster Bar, Chuck and Gina Whitney put their wait staff through a vigorous training program before they put them on the floor, waiting tables. Gina's own training came from the Ritz

Carlton in Dearborn. Her expectations are high, so she trains her employees accordingly. Her test includes questions that range from describing the Pinot Noir wine or the dinner special to explaining why it's important to smile throughout the service process. "How can you sell a product if you don't know what it is and you can't pronounce it?" Gina said, explaining the thinking behind her tests.

Either Chuck, Gina, or their general manager Beth Roloff is always around to lend a hand to busy waiters. "We set it up so they make money," Gina said. Chuck relates the waiting process to a Broadway play. "Your actors are the waiters. If they entertain, then people will be happy."

Chuck and Gina know the importance of a good attitude when serving people. "We tell our staff to leave their personal problems at the door when they come to work," Chuck said, with Gina adding, "A bad attitude is like cancer. It spreads to the other employees." If an employee comes to work with a bad attitude, they are asked to leave. The Whitneys make a point of taking care of their full time employees. They pay above minimum wage, and provide health benefits to their managers. Other full time employees can buy into their group health insurance at very reasonable rates.

The Grey Gables is a family owned business and their help becomes part of the extended family. "I treat them well, I treat them like family," said owner Gary Anderson. Head waitress Ann Wagner agrees with that. She's worked full time at the Grey Gables since they opened. "You have to like where you work, and feel like you're part of a team," Wagner said. Wagner brings years of experience to the job.

from other restaurants around the state. "A lot of it is working with other people in the service industry. Everyone has something to contribute," Wagner said. For her part, Wagner has contributed the ability to read her guests. She has perfected the walk by, where she makes her presence known without being intrusive. "I like to be seen and only pleasantly heard. You learn to read your guests. If people are intimate, I leave them alone. If they're a boisterous group, they want you to entertain them. That's what I like about this job. Every night is different," Wagner said. The Grey Gables also pays above minimum wage and employs their staff on a year 'round basis.

Nanny's is another restaurant in town that nurtures a family feeling. The business is owned by Mike and Sue Barnard, and managed by Sue's sister Shelley Paramo. Either Sue or Shelley is on hand every day to greet guests and pitch in where they're needed. Some of Nanny's wait staff has been with them since they opened their doors in 1982. "We try to treat our employees like it's their business too," Sue said. "I also treat people like I want to be treated. I know that sounds trite, but that's how I feel," Sue said. Sue's approach must work, because she only needed to hire two temporary employees last summer. The turn-over at Nanny's is low.

Sue trains her employees in the importance of reaching out to the local clientele. "In the summer we can have a line of 20 people deep, but we still try to get to the locals, smile and wave to them. We take care of them, because without the locals, we're toast," she said. So if you're dining in Charlevoix and want good service, remember the trickle down theory. If owners treat their staff like family and make them happy, that feeling will trickle down to the customers.

filed my petition for re-election in early May. I had no idea that my life would have changed so much in six months. As you know, I will be moving out of the City in the near future. This means that I will not be able to complete the next Council term. If I could withdraw my name from the ballot, I would, but that is not possible. I had planned to serve until I move and let my fellow councilmembers appoint a replacement to fill the balance of the term. I recently learned that Julia Tucker is interested in that appointment, and would, in fact, be willing to run as a write-in candidate for the position. Julia is a business owner, serves on the Planning Commission and has a long-term commitment to Charlevoix. I believe that she would be an excellent Councilmember. In light of these facts, I am withdrawing as a candidate for City Council in the November 7 election, and lending my full and total support to Julia Tucker. I hope that you will do the same. Further, I am resigning from Council effective the end of the current term."

Tucker is the owner of the Charlevoix 7-Eleven store. She lives at 317 Mason Street. She has been active with the Planning Commission, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants Committee, United Way Board and Muscular Dystrophy Association. She said she doesn't have any particular agenda, but is interested in promoting tourism and industrial development within the community. Tucker will have stickers available for supporters and will be doing door to door campaigning in the remaining days prior to the election.

Tucker's husband, Tom, is a merchant seaman on the Great Lakes. She also has a daughter Autumn, 20.

In addition to the first ward council seat, incumbents Bruce Reid in the third ward and Butch Russell in the second ward as well as city clerk JoAnne Patrick are seeking re-election. There is no opposition.

Voting will take place between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 7 at City Hall.

High School conferences scheduled Nov. 13

Charlevoix High School is again using the new format this year that was used last year for Parent-Teacher conferences which will be in the gym Monday, Nov. 13 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Parents do not need to make individual appointments with their student's teachers; parents will arrive at above times in the hall by the gym, pick up their students report cards and then enter the gym to meet with the teacher of their choice. If you have any questions, feel free to contact the high school at 547-3222.

Editor's notes

This weekend will be a big one for Charlevoix High School girls' sports. Friday evening the girls basketball team will host Kalkaska in a showdown with the conference title on the line. Saturday, the girls cross country team will travel to Lowell for the Class C state finals.

Charlevoix and Kalkaska enter Friday evening's game tied for the conference lead. Each team has one loss. Traverse City St. Francis beat Kalkaska earlier this year. Charlevoix has beaten St. Francis twice, but earlier in the season lost at Kalkaska by 11 points.

Despite the loss earlier in the season, Charlevoix players have expressed confidence in their ability to beat Kalkaska if things go right. Charlevoix is the defending conference champion.

After playing Kalkaska, the Rayders will wrap up the season next week with games against Cheboygan and Harbor Springs and then begin district play. The Rayders are also defending district champions and are likely to be the favorites in this year's tournament. Despite losing four key players from last year's team to graduation, this year's Rayders are still strong and very deep. How deep? They've got good players clear down to junior high - where last week the Charlevoix eighth grade team beat a Harbor Springs team which hadn't lost in two years.

Last year's varsity Rayders went to the regional finals. A similar tournament run is certainly possible for this year's team. Although they have six losses and are unranked, with the exception of the Kalkaska loss, all of those losses have been to good teams from Class B schools. Last year's Rayders went to the regionals with several losses and unranked. At the regionals, they promptly beat a team that was unbeaten and ranked number three in the state. The more you look at high school rankings, the more you have to conclude that ratings are overrated.

Speaking of basketball players, Liz Grunch, who graduated last year is in Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey where she is recuperating from an Oct. 15 traffic accident. She was originally treated in a hospital in Hillsdale, but after returning to Charlevoix, additional problems were discovered and she was admitted to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey where she underwent surgery on her neck Monday morning.

As of Sunday, she was in intensive care, flat on her back with a big collar on her neck. In addition to the physical and emotional trauma of the accident, she also has the boredom of being immobilized in a hospital. That's been to some degree mitigated by the visits of friends and family. And it hasn't just been Charlevoix people who have stopped by or sent cards. Three of Petoskey's varsity basketball players have paid visits and a player from Boyne City sent a beautiful letter. Petoskey coach Matt Tamm has one of Michigan's best Class B teams on the court this year. He's also got a team that shows a lot of character off the court.

Liz's hospital room is getting kind of cluttered. The back of a door is filled with cards from various people. Flowers and little stuffed animals line a window sill with Little Traverse Bay in the background. The railings of the bed have been decorated in a Halloween motif with small paper ghosts and goblins. In and of themselves, cards, flowers and stuffed animals aren't such a big thing. But in this case, each one of them symbolizes the care, concern and compassion of someone.

Charlevoix's girls' cross country team placed second this past Saturday in the regional meet. Four Charlevoix runners made the All Region team. One of the most interesting aspects of Charlevoix's team is that the varsity team (i.e. the team's top seven runners) doesn't have a senior on it. At Saturday's regional meet, Charlevoix's top two runners were freshmen, followed by a junior, a sophomore and two juniors. This is a team that is performing at a high level now, yet is on the rise.

Beyond the race results, what's really impressive about the Charlevoix cross country program is the unity of the team and the people who support them. In a sport that is highly individual, the Charlevoix cross country program epitomizes the word team. The runners train together throughout the year with a week-long training session on Beaver Island just before the season begins. Parents take turns hosting pre-race dinners on Friday evenings during the season. During the girls race Saturday, Charlevoix junior varsity runners placed themselves at strategic places along the course to shout encouragement. Prior to Saturday's race, while other teams were scattered about, two or three here and two or three there, Charlevoix's team moved as a unit.

In a sport where there's no ball to be passed from one player to another, no players blocking for other players, or no baton being passed, it wouldn't seem like having a unified team would mean much. But for some reason it does. When you watch the Charlevoix Cross Country team it becomes obvious that the team approach that permeates the entire program gives Charlevoix an intangible edge.

Letters to the editor

Pool is exciting

Editor,

The building of the Charlevoix Community pool has begun. It is exciting to think of all the doors that will open for all of us. In 1951, upon earning my ARC WSI, doors were opened to me for the summer employment at the Belvedere, volunteer work with the Girl Scouts, and a long time teaching position at Ferris State.

The Charlevoix Community Pool opening is scheduled for September 1996. Pool programming is in process. This is a privately funded pool which will be used by the public. The pool usage will be paid by fees.

As the pool program develops, doors will open for children, adults, seniors, persons in need of therapy, and for those who need a fitness and recreational activity. One pool fits all.

Because we are a community of schools, city, townships, resorts and visitors, we need the financial support of all in the area.

During the Applefest, our Friends of the Pool booth had many visitors who expressed interest in this community pool, and who were glad for updated information. We received some pledges and offers for service. Many were glad to hear the pool will be open all year.

Fund-raising campaigns are being scheduled. Donations are vital for the reaching of our goal to pay for the cost of the building of the pool. We are thankful for the donations of land, material and labor, and for the kindness and efforts of those who are responsible for the grants we have received and the grants that are in the process of development.

The East Jordan and Harbor Springs pool programs have supplied our beaches with wonderfully qualified young people. Now it is our turn to serve our citizens with qualified water safety programs and to open aquatic opportunities for our young people. I am grateful every day for the doors opened to me because of the American Red Cross Aquatic programs.

FAMILY

Loper - Ruggerole

Carolyn Jean Loper and Jay Robert Ruggerole were married Aug. 19 at Charlevoix Christ Episcopal Church. The church was decorated with baskets of pink carnations, white gladioluses and baby's breath for the 2 p.m. nuptials. The Rev. Lander Carter performed the double ring rites in the presence of 100 wedding guests from Michigan, North Carolina, Washington and West Virginia.

The bride is the daughter of Jean Loper of Charlevoix and the late Arnold Loper. The groom's parents are Dr. Richard and Mary Lou Ruggerole of Livonia.

Escorted to the altar by her brothers, Greg and Mike Loper, the bride wore an off-the-shoulder ivory brocade gown adorned with embroidered lace and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses, white carnations and baby's breath. The bride also wore a self-designed hairpiece of cascading pearls.

Organist was Don Neidert.

Dori Olach Erber of Arden City, N.C. served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Bambi Balch of Charlevoix and Lisa Collins, sister of the groom, from Farmington Hills. The bridal attendants wore blush colored tea length gowns with white lace collars and empire waists. They each carried a bouquet of pink roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Jeff Porter of Boyne City was the best man. Groomsmen were Paul Camilleri of Milford and Ken Michniak of Livonia. Greg Loper and Mike Loper helped seat the wedding guests.

A reception given by the bride's family, was held at the Knights of Columbus hall in Charlevoix.

The rehearsal dinner, given by the parents of the groom, was held Aug. 18 at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant in Charlevoix.

Carolyn and Jay are making their home in Charlevoix.

Castle Farm receives $10,000 contribution

The Oleson Foundation has given a boost to the Castle Farm Escrow Savings Account with a donation of $10,000. "We of Oleson's are very concerned with saving Castle Farm as a recreational, educational and cultural center for the northern Michigan region. This is a unique facility which needs to be preserved for posterity," said Don Oleson. The Oleson Foundation gift was put into the Castle Farm Escrow Savings Account at CB North in Charlevoix. "This account was established as an all or nothing proposition," states John E. Porter, Executive Director of Castle Farm, Inc. Castle Farm is presently in default of the land contract with the Reibel Family Trust.

The Castle Farm Board of Directors is very concerned with meeting the expectations of donors. The Escrow Savings Account will do one of two things, either complete the land contract with the Reibel Family Trust, or the donors will receive their money back. Closing date of the account is December 18, 1995, the same date as the end of the redemption period for the land contract forfeiture. "As with most nonprofit organizations, this is a rocky time for Castle Farm, Inc.," said Porter. "There is always this critical point in the early history of a nonprofit corporation when the situation becomes do or die. This is the critical moment for the existence of this organization. We need the support of everyone."

Donations of the Escrow Savings Account can be sent to CB North, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Account Number 1700006221. You must include your name, address and social security number. The social security is only necessary if the project fails and donors want to receive interest on their returned funds.

Sen. North's representative to visit for office hours

State Senator Walter H. North's (R-St. Ignace) District Representative, Joe Gammons, will be in Charlevoix County Wednesday, Nov. 1 to hold district office hours.

Gammons will be at the Charlevoix County Courthouse from noon-1:30 p.m. to meet with constituents. Any citizen with concern regarding state government is encouraged to attend, and should bring all relevant information pertaining to their case.

K-5 conferences are next week

Charlevoix Elementary School will be hosting fall parent-teacher conferences Nov. 9, 10 and 14. Parents received the first information in a letter which was to be returned to the school no later than Oct. 25. Teachers then schedule conferences and send home the scheduled dates for the individual parent conferences. Parents are asked to look for this information that the children brought home.

Evening conferences will be held Nov. 9 and 14, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Afternoon conferences will be Nov. 10 from 1 to 3:45 p.m.

The elementary school will be dismissing all students from school Friday Nov. 10, at 11:30 a.m. for the remainder of the day. No afternoon kindergarten classes on that date, and no hot lunch served.

If you have any questions regarding fall conferences, please feel free to contact the elementary office at 547-3215.

Joseph Z. Spurgeon

Joseph Z. Spurgeon, 60, of Charlevoix, died Oct. 24, 1995, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

His funeral was Friday, Oct. 27, at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Dale P. Ostema officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Spurgeon was born March 21, 1935, in Indianapolis, Ind., the son of Zeno Butler Spurgeon and Georgiana (Temple) Spurgeon. He was raised in the Detroit area until the age of 12, then moved to the Epsilon area.

Mr. Spurgeon lived in Petoskey where he was display manager for J.C. Penney for 20 years, from 1960-80. He also owned and operated a coin and stamp collecting store, and designed several first-day covers.

In 1980, he moved to Charlevoix.

On June 20, 1981, he married Janice M. Bruce at Greensky Hill United Methodist Church, and she survives.

Mr. Spurgeon was an active member of the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix. He was an avid baseball card collector, and participated in the Emmaus Community in Northern Michigan.

Mr. Spurgeon was the original manager of the Charlevoix Rainbow Shoppe from the early 1980s until the current time.

Survivors include his wife, Janice M., of Charlevoix; two sons, Kelly E. Spurgeon, of Boynton Beach, Fla., and Jason T. Wiser of Charlevoix; two daughters, Kimberlin A. Oldham and her husband, Vernon, of Boynton Beach, Fla., and Trina Houghton and her husband, Roger, of Charlevoix; his mother, Georgiana Pantazopoulos and her husband, Pantageous, of Traverse City; two sisters, Betsey Hayford and her husband, Jim, of Glendale, Calif., and Georgene "Kitty" Fox and her husband, Bob, of Petoskey; and his constant companions, Stanley and Ollie. Mr. Spurgeon was preceded in death by his granddaughter, Tyana Marie Lundgren, on April 20, 1994; and by his brother, Zeno B. Spurgeon.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the family of Joe Spurgeon. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters growing

Big Brothers/Big Sisters has logged a record increase in volunteers this year. The six county program topped 100 one-to-one mentoring relationships this year. That number is up from 71 matches in the previous year.

Marketing chair, Lee Harrison, said there are several reasons that has happened. "We're more visible now," she said, "so more people know who and where to call to volunteer."

On a national level, the majority of volunteer to child matched relationships end after 14 months. "The average match length for our program is 26 months," Harrison said. "When we don't have to replace as many matches to remain at a status quo, we are positioned for greater growth, and bottom line, we can serve more kids."

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Northwestern Michigan provides services to children in single parent families in Grand Traverse, Antrim, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Emmet, and Charlevoix Counties. Children enter the program between the ages of 6 and 12, but may stay in the program, once matched, until they graduate from high school.

Volunteers are 18 years old and older. They come from all walks of life and with varied backgrounds. What they share in common is a willingness to spend a few hours a month with a child.

"It's a friendship," said Kay Vandervort, Executive Director. "We're not looking for volunteers with special skills. That's not what the kids in Big Brothers/Big Sisters need. They need a best friend. They need someone to spend a little time with them, to listen when they want to talk, to help them learn how to make positive decisions in their lives, and to provide some new cultural and recreational opportunities they wouldn't have otherwise."

For 1996, Big Brothers/Big Sisters has set a goal to increase the program by a minimum of 25 matches.

Charlevoix jail recognized for compliance

The Charlevoix County Jail and Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater were recently recognized by the Michigan Department of Corrections County Jail Services Unit (CJSU) for being in 100 percent compliance with the operational portion of Administrative Rules that govern county jails. The recognition ceremony took place at the Michigan Sheriffs' Association Educational Services, Inc. Annual Fall Training Conference, held Oct. 8-10, in Kalamazoo.

The Charlevoix County Jail opened in 1971 with a rated design capacity of 25 beds, with 22 beds in five dormitory style cells and 3 beds in 3 maximum security cells. An extensive maintenance program over the years has kept the facility, including the cells, hallways, multi-use areas, and kitchen, exceptionally clean and in good repair. Sheriff Lasater was praised for his efforts in maintaining a proper jail environment for inmates and correctional staff alike.

The facility was most recently inspected by County Jail Services Unit specialists in January of this year.

Charlevoix was one of 24 counties recognized at the MSA conference.

Eastern Star hosts reception

Ann Hufford was recently honored at a reception and dinner given by Charlevoix Chapter #72, Order of the Eastern Star. She was honored for her appointment as Grand Martha of the Grand Chapter of Michigan, Order of Eastern Star. It requires extensive traveling with the other Grand Officers to visit Michigan Chapters during her appointed year.

The dinner at the Argonne was attended by 185 guests and members from Michigan Chapters and other states to pay tribute to Hufford.

After the dinner, guests and members re-joined the Masonic Temple for a business meeting. Exemplification of the degrees was given by members of the Grand Family, with candidates Tony Lee, Deborah Hufford, and Dr. Steven Hufford being welcomed as new members.

tion center on the campus of Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey on November 1, or at Charlevoix Area Hospital on November 2. The events mark the kick off of National Diabetes Month in November.

Diabetes is a serious disease that can lead to blindness, heart attack, stroke, kidney failure and amputations. As the fourth leading cause of death by disease in the United States, diabetes kills more than 160,000 Americans every year.

There is no cure for diabetes, but with early diagnosis, proper treatment, and good control, complications can be prevented. Early detection by a screening such as those being offered Nov. 1 and 2 is very important. Warning signs include extreme thirst, blurry vision from time to time, frequent urination, unusual tiredness or drowsiness, and unexplained weight loss. You need to be screened for diabetes if you are over 30 and overweight, if you have a parent, brother or sister with diabetes, and if you are of Finnish, Native American, Hispanic or African American descent.

Anyone over the age of 10 can participate in the simple blood test to tell if you have diabetes. Those already diagnosed with diabetes will not gain any new information from this screening.

To participate in the screening, you should eat a high carbohydrate meal two hours prior to being tested. A suggested diet is cereal, toast with jelly, and orange juice for breakfast, or a pasta meal with garlic bread and fruit for lunch.

Sponsors for the diabetes screening are Burns Clinic, Charlevoix

Area Hospital, District Health Department No. 3, Health Wares, Lions Clubs of Charlevoix and Petoskey, Northern Michigan Hospital, and TIPDON Northern Michigan's Diabetes Outreach Network.

Date and times for the Diabetes Screening in Charlevoix are Thursday, Nov. 2 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Call 547-4024 for more information. Organizers are requesting a $5 donation for the screening to aid in covering costs.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by CARA HOCHALTER
Christian Education Director
First Congregational /UCC

A lot of people seem to be searching for healing and wholeness in their lives. Whether it be healing of physical ailments, of broken relationships with family or friends, or of grief experienced after a loss.

Our nation and world seem to yearn for healing in terms of racial understanding, political divisiveness, environmental misuse, war, poverty, crime, and on and on.

And yet, at the same time, we can say that there is a whole lot of healing going on! People do recover from illnesses, broken relationships are reconciled or healthier ones discovered, and griefs eventually are let go of often being replaced by creative and positive actions.

Although our nation and world struggle with discord and greed, there are thousands of instances where people are giving of themselves to ease the burdens of others, where governments are choosing to negotiate settlements and peaceful relationships develop.

The number one healer and peace-maker has been the example shown by Jesus. Reading His message in the Bible offers a wealth of inspirational thoughts which can lead to healing, if we but open our hearts to what God is saying through these words.

Twenty-five years ago, my mother experienced a terminal illness. During that time, she filled the pages of a large journal with quotes from the Bible and other religious writers. These words filled her with inspiration and spiritual healing. Here are a few of them:

God is love, and he who abides in love abides in God, and God abides in him. 1 John 4:16

Open wide the window of our spirits and fill us full of light; open wide the door of our hearts, that we may receive and entertain Thee with all our powers of adoration and love. Christina Rossetti

In my soul let me welcome God's transforming power, believe in it, foster it, encourage it, and by my faith in its working release it in greater measure that I, too, may be complete in God. Leslie Weatherhead

A Private House of Prayer

Nothing in the world is more intensely alive and active than purity and prayer, which hangs like an unmoving light between the universe and God. Through their serene transparency flow the waves of creative power, charged with natural virtue and with grace. Teilhard de Chardin

May we prayerfully discern what is called for to heal our relationships with each other, with God and with our world.

BUSINESS

Big Rock makes several contributions

The Consumers Power Foundation has contributed grants totaling $1,350 to assist area organizations in collecting much needed blood, providing pregnant women with information and education during crisis pregnancies, making vision testing available to high school students, and improving emergency services in local ski slopes.

The contributions recognize Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant employees George Petitjean, Darrel Turner, Bill Trubilowicz and Joseph Melin. Each earned a grant through the utility's Volunteer Investment Program (VIP). VIP grants are awarded to recognize employees who give their time and talent to non-profit organizations and to encourage greater levels of volunteerism by employees.

The American Red Cross will receive $500 in the name of senior engineer Petitjean. He organizes four blood drives a year at Big Rock Point, the only industrial organization in Charlevoix County to host such drives. He also serves on the speakers bureau for the local Red Cross. The grant will be used to support future blood drives in northern Michigan.

The Crisis Pregnancy Center of Char/Em will receive $400 in the name of senior engineer Turner. Turner is among the state-sanctioned volunteers at the center who

New doctor joins hospital staff

Geralyn M. Doskoch, M.D., family practitioner, has joined the active medical staff at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Dr. Doskoch will be providing primary care, including prenatal care at the East Jordan Family Health Center, in East Jordan, and at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

She most recently was a Lieutenant Commander, in the Indian Health Service, in Sitka, Alaska. From 1991 to the present she served on the medical staff of Mount Edgecumbe Hospital there.

Dr. Doskoch graduated from the University of Michigan Medical School, Ann Arbor, Michigan, in 1988 and served her family practice residency at Valley Medical Center, Renton, Washington, as an affiliate of the University of Washington School of Medicine, from 1988-91. She was Clinical Chief resident there for three months. She is board certified in Family Practice and is a member of the American Academy of Family Physicians and the American Medical Women's Association.

She has demonstrated an interest in diabetes through her involvement as team leader of the Mt. Edgecumbe Hospital Diabetes Strategic Quality Management Team, and serving as a lecturer on the subject. She has also been active in the area of domestic violence.

provide information, services, education, and support to pregnant women who are unable to pay for counseling services. The money will be used to improve office facilities.

The Charlevoix Lions club will receive $250 in the name of Trubilowicz, who is the outage manager at the plant and "King Lion" (president) of the club. The Lions have purchased a vision testing machine for use in the Charlevoix school system. The grant will be used to retire the debt on the $1,500 machine.

Nubs Nob National Ski Patrol will receive $200 in the name of auxiliary operator Melin. National ski patrol members are trained in outdoor emergency care at a level equal to that of emergency medical technicians. The money will be used for continued training.

Girls cross country team qualifies for state meet

All that senior leadership stuff coaches carry on about. It's over rated. Without a single senior in the race, Charlevoix's girls' cross country team placed second in the regional race Saturday and qualified for the state finals this coming Saturday.

Charlevoix was led by two freshmen. They were followed by a junior, a sophomore and two more juniors. Clare won the race with 31 points, followed by Charlevoix with 52 points and Bear Lake with 86. Those three teams qualified for state finals from the 11-team regional field.

The top three Rayder runners finished just six seconds apart in the 3.1 mile race. Freshman Tricia Hodge was the top Rayder runner, placing sixth overall in a time of 21:10. Another Rayder freshman, Kelly McFarlin, finished right on her heels in 21:11. Chelsea Gorkiewicz, a junior, was the third Rayder across the line, finishing 10th overall with a time of 21:16. The race was won by Abby Rys-tek of Benzie Central in a time of 20:30.

Prior to the season, Hodge wasn't even sure she was going to run cross country. She was waffling from day to day. One day she thought she would, the next day, well, she wasn't sure. Finally, her mother, Teri Hodge, made an executive decision. The waffling was ended by maternal decree. Saturday, mom's decision paid off.

In addition to Hodge, McFarlin and Gorkiewicz, sophomore Candice Vandergriff also made the All-Region team. Vandergriff placed 13th in a time of 21:24. The top 15 runners are named to the All-Region team. Junior Monica Browe missed the All-Region team by just seconds, finishing 18th in a time of 21:37. Rachel Newcomb placed 22nd in 22:14 and Jessa VanGuilder finished 34th in 22:55.

While Clare placed four runners in the top five at regionals, the Charlevoix runners still feel they can challenge them in the state race. The Rayders are peaking at the right time of the season. Hodge and McFarlin were the surprise of the day at the regional race. Gorkiewicz felt she went out too fast at the regional and is capable of a better race at state. Last year, she had a great state meet. Vandergriff had some off races in the middle part of the season, but has been running closer to her standards in recent weeks. Browe ran a great race at the conference meet. At the regional meet she ran well, but had too much left at the end of the race. Newcomb is coming off a leg in-

Football team finishes 1995 with 4-5 season record

Rayders lose mud bowl 14-6

Charlevoix's varsity football team closed its season with a 14-6 mud bowl loss in Petoskey Friday evening. The loss left the Rayders' season record at 4-5.

Aside from a lot of players slipping, sliding and getting their uniforms filthy, not a lot happened offensively in the game. Neither team reached 200 yards in total offense. Petoskey accumulated only 170 yards and Charlevoix had only 122 yards in total offense and only 37 yards rushing.

Charlevoix took the lead in the second quarter on a 12-yard swing pass from Mark Boss to Gary Leitner. The extra point attempt failed. The touchdown was set up by a 42-yard pass from Boss to David Manker.

Charlevoix's 6-0 lead didn't last as Petoskey immediately replied with a 52-yard touchdown drive.

The extra point kick was good and Petoskey led 7-6.

Petoskey then scored the game's final touchdown in the third quarter finishing a 66-yard drive with a one-yard touchdown run. The extra point kick was good.

While nobody lit up the world on offense for the Rayders, several players did turn in a strong defensive effort. Leitner had seven tackles. Rory McKeown had six tackles as did Manker and Josh Skeel. Jason Smith had four tackles.

jury, but in recent weeks that has improved and at the regional race her stride looked much better than it did a few weeks ago. VanGuilder, a junior in her first year of cross country, has been improving with each race. Like Browe, she had too much left in the tank at the regional finish line.

In the regional boys race, Charlevoix finished seventh as a team and failed to qualify for the state meet for the first time in 19 years. Rayder senior Justin Davis did qualify for the state meet as an individual runner, placing 15th with a time of 17:11.

McBain won the race with a score of 49. Benzie Central followed with 56 and Clare had 67. Those three teams qualified for the state race. East Jordan was fourth with 133 points. Charlevoix had 196 points.

Other Rayder runners and their places were: 39 - Marc Dohm, 18:13; 40 - Nate Martin, 18:15; 47 - Dan Kechn, 18:31; 57 - Brian Martinus, 18:51; 67 - Patrick Butcher, 19:11; 71 - Nathan Jones, 19:16.

The state finals race will take place this Saturday in Lowell.

Rod & Gun Club to host sight ins

The Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club has scheduled sight-in times prior to deer season. The times will be from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., Nov. 4 and 5 and from noon to 5 p.m., Nov. 6 - 12. The cost for non members is $3 per gun. Membership fees for the balance of 1995 and 1996 are $25. Targets will be provided.

The next meeting of the Rod & Gun Club membership will be at 7 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 2. The annual meeting of the membership will be at 7 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 7.

Mike Webb goes 9-1 to win in ninth week

Mike Webb won the ninth week of the Charlevoix Courier football contest with a 9-1 record. Several people, including the Courier Guru, went 8-2, but Webb, who has been on a roll in recent weeks after a slow start, was the only contestant to go 9-1. Alaina Simmons was one of the contestants to go 8-2. Had not Cleveland beaten Cincinnati in overtime, Simmons would have been 9-1 and had called the tie-breaker perfectly at 48 points.

Tom Meggison continues to hold on to the top spot in the cumulative top 10, but he's now tied with Ron Zellers. Zellers was another of this past week's 8-2 contestants. Several members of last week's top 10 had an off week this past week. Consequently, several people in the second 10 are knocking on the door, and the look of the top 10 could change quite a bit next week.

Here are this week's games:
Coleman at Rogers City: Rogers City didn't look that impressive against Charlevoix, but that was a mud bowl so you shouldn't weigh that performance too heavily. They played much better against Boyne City. Pick - Rogers City.

Hillman at Inland Lakes: Inland Lakes ended the season with a loss to Atlanta, but Atlanta's a very good team. Pick - Inland Lakes.

Michigan at Michigan State: After that performance at Wisconsin, Nick Saban's probably having fits this week. Meanwhile, after Michigan's performance against Minnesota, Lloyd Carr's probably just tickled as can be. That trend will continue into the coming week. Pick - Michigan.

Illinois at Iowa: Illinois was well thought of coming into the season, but with each passing week, they're less well thought of. Pick - Iowa.

Oklahoma at Kansas State: This should be a good game. These teams have two of the better college coaches around. The guy at Kansas State is going to have some pro teams looking at him soon - maybe even the Lions. Pick - Kansas State.

Penn State at Northwestern: Each week people keep wondering if Northwestern's for real. And each week they keep looking more and more like they are. But this week I think they're going to slip up. Pick - Penn State.

Detroit at Atlanta: Seattle has a good record this year, but most of the teams they've beaten haven't been good teams. When they play good teams, they either lose or just squeak by. Of course, Detroit's just the opposite. They beat the good teams. It's the bad teams that give them trouble. Pick - Atlanta.

Pittsburgh at Chicago: Eric Kramer and Rodney Peete have both been playing pretty well for teams that are on winning streaks. Andre Ware...well, he's another story. Pittsburgh is happy because they beat Jacksonville this past week, but when a win over an expansion team is considered a big win, that says a lot about a team. Pick - Chicago.

Green Bay at Minnesota: Think long and hard about this one. Green Bay beat Minnesota the first time around, but they also beat the Lions the first time around. Pick - Minnesota.

Buffalo at Indianapolis: Jim Harbaugh and the mighty Colts. Doesn't that have a nice ring to it? Not a Super Bowl ring, but a ring. Whatever happened to that draft day trade for Craig Ericson? About the only draft day move that has ever really panned out for Indianapolis was picking Marshall Faulk. Pick - Buffalo.

New fiber optic lines improve area phones

Ameritech is nearing completion of the installation of fiber optic cable beneath the sidewalk east of State Street between Mason Street and the channel. Installing the line is part of a $1.5 million upgrade to Charlevoix's phone system.

Mary Jo Fiferack, public relations director for Ameritech of Northern Michigan, said of the line upgrade,
"This is your front door to the rest of the world."

The new lines, in conjunction with work to be done at the Ameritech building at the southeast corner of Mason and State, will allow Charlevoix lines to handle additional phone services such as caller identification and computerized information transfer. It will also improve the quality of normal long distance calls.

Lines being installed now will be pulled through a conduit installed beneath the channel a few years ago. Ultimately, the lines will be linked to a new line being installed north of town.

The conduit is being installed by Lowery Construction.

United Way campaign moving toward goal

With only 16 businesses reporting in, the United Ways of Emmet and Charlevoix counties have reached 30 percent of their $160,000 goal.

"Our campaign is off to the best start we've had in several years," said United Way Executive Director Lisa Ashley. "I'm very happy with the progress we've made to date. Our communities have been extremely supportive and almost every business has contributed at a higher level this year."

This year, the United Ways selected eight area businesses to kick off the campaign ahead of time.
"The Pacesetters have really done an exceptional job this year," Ashley stated. "We can't say thanks enough to our Pacesetter companies and employees."

Proposed drain field causes concern in Ironton

A plan to install a commercial drainfield in Ironton has generated concern from about 20 community members. Dave Wilson of The Landing restaurant has purchased approximately six acres of property on the hill above the business. He plans to install a drainfield on the property to service the business.
People living near the property are concerned about the drainfield and have hired an attorney.

Currently, The Landing's septic needs are served by a 4,000 gallon cement tank which must be pumped out frequently. Wilson says that's simply not an appropriate way to deal with the business's septic disposal on a long-term basis. "I'm just looking for a suitable long-term sewer disposal solution," he said.

Earl Kroll, who lives near the proposed drainfield site, says he and other neighbors are concerned that a commercial drainfield might cause contamination problems or lower property values. "We're mainly concerned with protecting our property values and wells,"

Kroll said.

Wilson says that anything he might do on the site would follow health department and Department of Natural Resources guidelines.

Dick Joseph, an attorney representing Wilson, says the waste going into the drain field will be food and human waste, the same as what goes into a household drain field.
Although the quantity will be greater, the field will also be much larger. Joseph said the drain field will be constructed in accordance with Act 98, a law governing commercial drain fields. He said Act 98 fields are very common in this area.

Rumors have circulated in Ironton that other people might be forced to hook into the field or that Wilson intends to sell the restaurant or build condominiums. When asked by the Courier about other people being required to hook into the field, Wilson said, "That's the first time I've ever heard of that."
As for selling the business or building condominiums, he said he has no such plans.

Your address is about to change

by L. Scott Swanson

If you live in the city of Charlevoix, you might not be moving, but chances are you're getting a new address. In some cases, you'll just be getting a new house number, but in other cases you'll be getting a new street name as well.

With the coming implementation of a 9-1-1 emergency phone dispatch system, the city is attempting to establish a house numbering system that has some semblance of rhyme and reason. At Monday evening's city council meeting, Police Chief Dennis Halverson explained the renumbering effort to the city council.

Halverson said the city hopes to establish a logical sequence of numbering throughout the city with the bridge as a baseline. In other words, you could picture the city as a graph with the bridge as the zero point and house numbers rising as they get farther away from that zero point.

In addition to changing address numbers, the names of some streets and sections of streets will be changed. For example, there are currently two sections of Central Avenue. One of those will be changed. US 31 currently changes names three times within the space of 2.9 miles in the city. That will be corrected. The section of Michigan Avenue between the bridge and what most people know as Michigan Avenue will be changed to Petoskey Avenue. Norwood Road between the end of Sheridan Street and Carpenter will become a continuation of Sheridan Street. The little section of Sheridan Street which jogs off of the end of the rest of Sheridan and runs parallel to Norwood Road will be renamed. Those are just some examples. On other streets in town which have to be renamed, people who live on the streets are working on coming up with new names.

Halverson said that on paper, the renumbering is 85 percent completed. The new 9-1-1 system is supposed to go on-line March 1. Halverson said that between now and then the city hopes to complete the renumbering and renaming and create a directory with both old and new addresses. That directory will begin being distributed shortly after the first of the year.

The Post Office will honor old addresses for six months.

Cross Country team takes second at state

After placing tenth in the Class C girls' cross country state finals last year and second this year, there's only one more rung on the ladder for the Charlevoix girls' cross country team.

The Rayder girls finished second in the state finals at Lowell Saturday. Carson City Crystal won the meet with 61 points, followed by Charlevoix with 130 and Clare with 140. Clare had beaten Charlevoix at the regional

Builder finds that wood is good for building basements

by Laurie Lounsbury
Dave Matter is the type of builder who knows what he likes in a home. Matter also knows what he doesn't like. And he doesn't like cold, damp basements. But basements are always cold and damp, right? Wrong. Matter builds basements out of wood instead of the more typical cement block basements. And since wood is a better insulator than cement, it makes a better basement, according to Matter.

Matter and his brother Tim are currently building a home on McCauba Road, across from the ski hill. As neighbors watched the construction process, they were fascinated to see a wood basement go into the hole in the ground. The home's wood basement is constructed of two by eight studs and specially treated plywood boards. By all appearances, the basement walls look the same as the walls throughout the rest of the house. "I'm an advocate of wood basements. It gives you better living space," Matter said.

Matter's basement certainly doesn't have the feel of a typical masonry basement. The wood studs allow builders to run electrical and plumbing equipment through the basement walls, unlike masonry basements. The eight inch depth on the studs will allow Matter to insulate the basement with eight inches of fiberglass. Sounds toasty warm and cozy.

Matter is hard pressed to find any disadvantages with a wood basement. "This is not a new technology. People have been building wood basements for 60 years," Matter said. He attended several seminars on wood basement construction, where he learned that the Empire State Building in Manhattan is sitting on a wood foundation. Matter explained that concrete is a poor insulator, which allows the cold and dampness of the earth outside to seep into masonry basements. "Masonry basements aren't foolproof. You get cracks, moisture. I like to ask people, how many masonry basements don't have any problems?"

The common questions Matter hears are: Why doesn't the wood rot? How does wood hold up the walls and keep the dirt outside from caving in?

The most important aspect of the wood basement is having quality drainage around the house. If the earth outside is made of clay, then a moat of stone must be backfilled in around the house to allow for drainage. Wood basements involve more intricate construction that masonry basements. Extra cross joists and heavy duty hardware are used to support the walls. "It's a superior product, but it's not any cheaper than a masonry basement," Matter said.

But will the general home buying public like the wood basement? "I'm a little scared about the resale value," Matter admitted. "People either love it or they hate it."

Castle receives large donation

A single donor, who would like to be unnamed, has deposited $80,000 into the Castle Farm Escrow Savings Account. "The donor is very concerned that Castle Farm, Inc. secure the property for the children, families and communities of northern Michigan," states John Porter, Executive Director. This person believes that northern Michigan is a wonderful place to vacation and live in the summer and knows that support of the Castle Farm project will enhance community and benefit the people of this area. "I am confident with the support of the community that Castle Farm will be successful raising the necessary funds," said the unnamed donor after making the deposit. "Everyone needs to step forward to make this dream become a reality. I have made this personal commitment, because of my belief in the potentiality of making this place an advantage to the community."

The end of the redemption period is Dec. 18. Donations to the Escrow Savings Account can be sent to CB North, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI 49720, Account Number 1700006221. You must include your name, address and social security number. The social security number is only necessary if the project fails and donors want to receive interest on their returned funds.

For further information about Castle Farm, Inc., or the Castle Farm Escrow Savings account contact John E. Porter, Executive Director at the Castle Farm Office (616) 547-0155.

Virginia Schallbaum 547-5803

asked council members why a new theater was allowed to be constructed without requiring any additional parking. At Monday evening's council meeting, the council received a written explanation from city planner Gerry Harsch. According to the explanation, the city's zoning ordinance doesn't require additional parking for a building renovation in the city's central business district unless that renovation adds floor space to the building being renovated.

Council members said they appreciated the explanation, but feel the ordinance should look not just at floor space, but at the proposed building use and how much parking is needed for that use.

Harsch said that several years ago the planning commission reviewed the ordinance and basing parking needs on floor space worked out to be as fair an approach as they could arrive at.

Mayor Josh Barnes said he doesn't think the council is asking too much in asking the planning commission to review the parking ordinance again at this time.

In other matters Monday evening, the council:

*Approved increasing the city's liability insurance from $2 million to $4 million while dropping the deductible from $5,000 to $2,500. Raising the insurance level will mean the city will pay $82,693 for the coming year, rather than $73,039. Last year the city paid $78,976.

*Approved the purchase of a new police car at a cost of $18,734. The city will not receive a bill or the car until the spring or early summer of 1996.

*Extended the contract of city electrical consultant Roger Westbroek by two months, giving the city time to review a new contract.

*Directed the city attorney to draft a proposed revision of the city's weed ordinance.

*Set a temporary rate of $75 per month for the rental of hangers at the municipal airport.

*Approved a new ordinance which will require builders to stake construction projects to make it easier for city officials to make sure that the projects comply with site plans.

Council should proceed deliberately on traffic issues

You've got to watch the present city council when they start talking about traffic issues. They have a tendency to turn into self-appointed traffic engineers right before your very eyes.

Monday evening, council members discussed several traffic problems in town, among them: changing yield signs to stop signs; north-bound Bridge Street traffic merging near Antrim Street; accidents at the intersection of Bridge and Carpenter; and speed limits on Petoskey Avenue, particularly near the north edge of the city limits.

Having the city council take an interest in and discuss traffic problems within the city is all well and good. However, it's best if the council exercises patience and utilizes the expertise of traffic safety people rather than just coming up with a simple solution and declaring it good. Traffic issues are often more complicated than they seem at first glance. And fixing one thing, often doesn't correct the problem, but merely shifts it. A case in point is the stop light at US 31 and M-66. While the light may have helped at that intersection, it played a role in problems at the State and Bridge Street intersection which in turn created a problem at the Bridge and Carpenter intersection.

In regard to changing yield signs to stop signs, the council performed well. They suggested the possibility of changing the yield signs to stop signs and had Police Chief Dennis Halverson who is the city's traffic safety officer look into the matter to see if the suggestion would work. Halverson checked with a traffic safety expert at Michigan State University. The traffic safety expert not only told Halverson that changing the signs is a good thing, but he also told him what the advantages and disadvantages of the switch would be.

On the other aforementioned problems, the city should also proceed deliberately and consult experts to determine the advantages and disadvantages of various corrective measures. At Monday evening's meeting, council members were talking about skipping the Michigan Department of Transportation and writing a letter to the state governor. When you analyze that, it's a notion which seems kind of peculiar. The governor's no traffic expert. He relies on the expertise of MDOT.

Apparently city officials have had some conversations with MDOT and aren't completely happy with the answers they've received to this point. Even so, before writing letters to the governor or devising traffic solutions at council meetings, the city should have additional conversations with MDOT to see if the people who work in the traffic safety field on a day-in and day-out basis can come up with alternative solutions.

EDITH

Home garages are being built all around us on Michigan Ave., on Auld and on Dixon Streets. So why were there no garages attached to these lovely, old wooden, summer cottages, when they were originally built, you may well ask?

Because the family car only became popular during the twenties, after World War I! It was then that Charlevoix became one of the first cities in the nation to sport a short, concrete, paved road leading downhill from East Dixon Avenue to the picturesque railroad depot. And just to make sure the horses didn't slip, the paving was indented evenly to look like brick. If you'd like to see this road, the markings are still there.

In those days, the horse and carriage was still a common sight around town. The renowned poetess, Sara Teasdale, spent many summers in the cottage on Michigan Avenue, and her parents went for a drive almost every afternoon behind a handsome pair of black horses. They did not have a coachman. "I believe someone came from the livery stable to hitch and unhitch the horses," Laura Jean Wulfman told me.

The stable was run by Mr. Hooker. It was located downtown, or what we now call the valley. Henry Supernaw tells me that Hooker's used to store cars over the winter for the summer people. In 1920 the posh Inn Hotel built a garage on the northside for the Pierce Arrows, the Rolls Royces, and the Stutsmobiles that were transported from Chicago by boat.

Cottage owners arrived by train on the Pere Marquette, but their cars arrived on the North or South American cruise ships. The Inn Garage became the headquarters for motor car owners. Ralph Hamilton, age 94, vividly recalls the first automobile in town. It belonged to Doc Thieland, of the Chicago Club. He cranked the engine of his car, not in front like the old Fords, but on the side. The engine was located in the back and the automobile almost looked like a carriage.

Few people knew how to drive, let alone take care of a car. Thus everyone had a chauffeur. In fact there were so many chauffeurs in town during the summer that they gave a Chauffeurs Ball one year at the Beach Hotel for the benefit of the Hospital.

Barbara Godwin's present studio was one of the places where the chauffeurs roomed and they used to park the cars on the side street next to the building. Many of the chauffeurs were black. The Mineva Cafe on Bridge Street welcomed them in the back room, and on their day off they could attend the movies, if they sat in the back row.

During the early forties, I can remember when I bicycled up Michigan Avenue in the morning on the way to the tennis court, almost every "cottage" had a shiny limousine parked in front of the house that uniformed chauffeurs kept brightly polished. They stood waiting for the lady of the house to appear for a shopping trip downtown to the Polly Kay dress shop or to make "calls" on friends. What they didn't do was grocery shopping, take clothes to the dry cleaners or visit the laundromat.

Over the years, many Belvedere

Club resorters have gradually added attached garages, that blend quite tastefully with the architecture of the smaller cottages. The Chicago Club, on the other hand, has resisted this trend, however, allowing almost all their large, wooden cottages to rise majestically from the rolling green lawns.

Today the lady of the house/cottage drives her own car, fills the gas tank herself, has it washed at a drive-thru and even vacuums the inside from time to time. She presses a button to open the garage door and turn on the lights. Another button closes the door. Because she lives in Charlevoix year 'round, she expects the convenience of an attached garage — if there is room to build one on the lot. No longer do they need to park on the front lawn, or get a ticket from the police. This practice was and still is necessary in order for the snow plow to clear the streets during the winter months.

Gone are most of the stables that housed the horse and buggy, which were scattered throughout Charlevoix. Most of them have been turned into either guest houses or storage sheds. And the hoak of the automobile horn has replaced the once familiar clippety clop of Mr. Hooker's horses as they crossed the bridge.

Broder to speak at NCMC

North Central Michigan College and the Petoskey News-Review invite the public to hear national political correspondent David S. Broder Thursday, Nov. 9. Broder will be speaking from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the NCMC student center.

David Broder, a correspondent reporter for the Washington Post has covered every national campaign since 1960.

He has also reported for The New York Times, The Washington Star, and the Congressional Quarterly, and is a regular correspondent on the NBC Today Show.

In May 1973, Broder was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for "distinguished commentary." He has also received various other recognition, such as being named "Best Newspaper Political Reporter" and rated as Washington's most highly regarded columnist.

Besides reporting, Broder has authored many books including "Behind The Front Page: A Candid Look at How the News is Made" and "Changing of The Guard: Power and Leadership in America."

This is the second scheduled speaker from the NCMC's lecture series, which was created in 1991.

"The series is designed to bring prominent individuals to the community to speak on local, national, and global issues. Future speakers will include motivational speaker, Carl Eller, a former all Pro NFL football player, and Sarah Weddington, an attorney who will be speaking on women's rights and other topics," stated Sean Pollion, Foundation Executive Director.

The event is free of charge and everyone is encouraged to attend.

Carey - Merten

Nina & Stephen Merten

Nina Francine (Collins) Carey and Stephen James Merten, both of Traverse City, were married at the Central United Methodist Church in Traverse City, August 5. Two hundred guests witnessed the double ring ceremony, performed by Rev. Dean Bailey.

The bride is the daughter of the late Phoebe and Ray Collins Sr. She was previously married to the late Topper Carey. The groom is the son of Patricia and Joseph Merten of Bernardsville, New Jersey and Naples, Florida.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her brothers-in-law, John DeVoi and Larry Fay, both of Traverse City. The groom was escorted by his three year old son, Christopher Ryan Merten. The groom was previously married to the late Robin Merten of Traverse City.

The bride wore a full length, ivory gown of natural silk shantung with off the shoulder cap sleeves and a bodice of venise lace and scattered pearls. The pearls cascaded down throughout the semi-cathedral length train. Her headpiece was a silk hat adorned with a bow, strands of pearls, and tiered veiling. The bride also wore a cross neckline of sapphires and pearls which her father had given to her mother on their wedding day. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies, red and white roses.

Organ music at the church was provided by Robert Murphy of Interlochen Arts Academy. Vocals were performed by Lacala Hall of Chapel Hill, N.C. and the bride's nieces, Kelly, Sarah, and Marie DeVoi of Traverse City.

Matrons of honor were sisters of the bride, Lou Fay and Lorrie DeVoi of Traverse City. Bridesmaids were sisters of the groom, Jeanne DePodwin of Bernardsville, N.J., and Lynn Anne Merten of Arlington, Va.

The best man was the groom's brother, Jay Merten of Bernardsville, N.J. Groomsmen were Brian Nolan of Farmington, Ct., Michael Zamhito of Hoboken, N.J., and Michael Acerbo of Greenwich, Ct. Ushers were the bride's brother Ray Collins, the bride's nephews Adam and Peter Fay, all of Traverse City, and the groom's brother-in-law, Dave DePodwin of Bernardsville, N.J.

A rehearsal dinner was held at Bay Winds restaurant on East Grand Traverse Bay the evening before the wedding, hosted by the groom's parents.

A luncheon reception and dance was held at Mountain Jack's in Traverse City.

After the reception, the newlyweds took a wedding trip to Prince Edward Island and Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. They are making their home in Traverse City.

Joseph M. "Bussy" LaFreniere

Joseph M. "Bussy" LaFreniere, 77, of Beaver Island, died Nov. 3, 1995, on Beaver Island.

His funeral was Monday, Nov. 6, at Holy Cross Catholic Church on Beaver Island. The Rev. Joseph Scallon, S.J., officiated with burial in Holy Cross Cemetery, Beaver Island.

Mr. LaFreniere was born July 16, 1918, on Beaver Island, the son of Nelse and Sophia (Boyle) LaFreniere.

He was a World War II veteran.

Mr. LaFreniere was employed in Great Lakes shipping. He worked on the Frankfort C & O car ferries, cooked on Great Lakes freighters, and retired from Great Lakes Towing based out of Chicago, Ill.

He was a life resident of Beaver Island, and was a member of Holy Cross Catholic Church.

He married Alberta Gronke in Chicago, Ill., and she preceded him in death.

Survivors include one brother, Daniel Archie LaFreniere, of Beaver Island; three sisters, Helen Pike of Beaver Island, Winifred McDonough and her husband, Lawrence, of Charlevoix, and Rita Elms and her husband, James, of Ludington. Mr. LaFreniere was preceded in death by two brothers, Vernon "Dick" LaFreniere and Patrick LaFreniere; and by one sister, Eva McDonough.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the Beaver Island Medical Center. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Carlton Bowen

Carlton Bowen, 89, of Atwood and formerly of East Jordan, died Oct. 31, 1995, at Country Haven Adult Foster Care in Atwood.

His funeral was Friday, Nov. 3, at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth. Rev. Merlin K. Delo officiated with burial in Sunset Hill Cemetery, East Jordan.

Mr. Bowen was born July 23, 1906, in East Jordan, the son of Isaac and Nina (Hammond) Bowen. He graduated from East Jordan High School in 1925, and graduated with a Life Certificate from Central Michigan Normal School (Central Michigan University) in 1927.

After teaching several years in the East Jordan school system, Mr. Bowen took a job with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, D.C.

On Dec. 10, 1936, he married Jane Mauldin in Washington, D.C., where the couple made their home.

In 1941, Mr. Bowen purchased the Cherryvale Hatchery and the couple moved to East Jordan.

Mr. Bowen was a member of the Oddfellow Lodge in Charlevoix.

Survivors include his wife, Jane; one son, Paul Bowen and his wife, Judy, of Las Vegas, Nev.; one daughter, Carol Osga and her husband, Donald, of DeWitt; and by four grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to the East Jordan United Methodist Church Building Fund.

Sue R. Saenger

Sue R. Saenger, 76, of Indian Hill, Ohio and a long-time summer resident of Charlevoix, died Oct. 10. Services have been held with interment at Spring Grove Cemetery in Indian Hill.

Mrs. Saenger was married to Dr. Eugene Saenger for 54 years. She was active in many civic organizations in the communities where she lived during the course of her adult life. In Charlevoix, she was a long-time supporter of the Charlevoix Hospital. She was an accomplished pianist, golfer, tennis player and avid fly-fisherman. She also was a breeder of champion Weimaraner dogs.

In addition to her husband, survivors include: a brother; her son, Eugene of Anderson Township; and four grandchildren.

Memorials may be made to The Saenger Professorship, U.C. Foundation, 425 Oak Street, Cincinnati, OH 45219-2594.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

I need to ask you a "preacherly" question. How strong is your faith? I really want you to search your heart before you answer that one. I was at the hospital with a family last week. One of their loved ones was to undergo surgery. The operation was presented to them as being a relatively routine one. Yet, you never know.

In fact, almost to reinforce that feeling, the very loving caring anesthetist came in shortly before time with forms that needed to be signed. Those forms in essence said that no procedure is routine and while every precaution is taken, you never know for sure.

That's why I want you to think about how strong your faith really is. Suppose that loved one went down the hall for their routine procedure and for totally unanticipated reasons, did not come back? Suppose some one you worked side by side on the line at your job was there one day and you learned they were gone the next?

I don't mean to dwell on what might seem to be unduly negative thoughts. Think about something irritating that challenges your faith like ... a car deer collision? How about your heater breaking down in the midst of one of these cold nights?

No one ever said that life was easy. No one ever said that being a Christian would take away all the rough and bumpy times in life. But if your faith is strong enough, you will discover that God gives you the courage to handle all kinds of things.

It was a dark and stormy night that found Peter and the disciples out on a lake in a boat battling the waves and wind for all they were worth. About three in the morning, Jesus came walking across the water towards them. Not being used to people strolling across the waves, the disciples panicked. Then Peter realized who it was.

"If it's really you, Lord," he asked, "Tell me to come to you." Immediately, Jesus told him to come ahead. Peter got down out of the boat and started walking across to Jesus. Can you imagine any of us walking on top of the water in Lake Michigan?

You never know what you can do if your faith is strong enough. You'll be surprised at what you can get through if you are truly willing to believe. As long as Peter kept his eyes on the Lord, his stroll went just fine. When he let his circumstances get to him, he started to drown. But again, immediately, Jesus reached out and lifted him up.

I know the waters can seem rough from time to time. But I know the Lord is the Master of the winds and waves in every life and if your faith is strong enough, His own hands will see you through.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Hospital to raffle cottage

On Feb. 15, 1996, someone will become the proud owner of a cute "cottage" in a raffle being held by the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild.

The 12 foot by 30 foot, fully furnished home was donated to the hospital by Charlevoix Estates. It includes a microwave oven, CD player, queen-sized sofa bed, and central heat and air conditioning. It has a full-sized range and refrigerator, bath with shower, and queen-size bed. The cottage and furnishings are valued at over $30,000.

The public is invited to tour the cottage at Charlevoix Estates on M-66 across from K-Mart in Charlevoix. The winner must relocate the cottage within 60 days from the drawing and is responsible for all applicable taxes. Proceeds benefit Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Tickets are $10 each or six for $50 and may be purchased at several locations: Country Now & Then or Boyne Rehab Center in Boyne City; Busy Bridge or Carey's Corner IGA in East Jordan; Charlevoix Area Hospital, Charlevoix Estates, Rose Cargo, Cravings, Marvin's Gardens, or Don's IGA in Charlevoix.

Funds raised for food pantry

Bethany Lutheran Church participated in a second annual "Make A Difference Day" by collecting food and money for the local food pantry.

Sunday, Oct. 29, more than ten bags filled with canned goods and other staples along with cash donations of $313 were collected and presented to Mary Helen Riggle at the Charlevoix Community Food Bank by Mary Towlesley.

On the recent CROP walk, three members of Bethany, Dwayne Bean, Edith Dale and Reatha Trentham, collected $823 in pledges for this walk to help curb world wide hunger.

to look forward to.

It's easy to save with natural gas.
Call MichCon's Ideal Energy Dealer Network.

Why wait any longer to save on your fuel bills? All you need to do is make a toll-free call to MichCon's Ideal Energy Dealer Network, today. Because when you use natural gas appliances instead of propane, electric, fuel oil or wood models, you save big. And that goes for a long list of household items including furnaces, water heaters, ranges, clothes dryers, fireplaces and grills. We'll be happy to give you reliable referrals to licensed heating and cooling contractors and natural gas appliance dealers right in your neighborhood. Not only do they meet the strictest standards around, but they're also the kind of people you can trust to give quick, accurate estimates on the low cost and ease of installing or converting to natural gas. So no matter what kind of natural gas appliance you're considering, you'll find MichCon's toll-free Dealer Network a big help. Isn't it nice to know it doesn't take a lot of energy to save on your energy bills?

Waterfront salon has new owner

by Laurie Lounsbury

When opportunity knocks, it opens more than one door. Ruth Geck, former owner of the Waterfront Salon, jumped at an opportunity to buy a home she and her husband Russ wanted in Englewood, Florida. That decision opened up an opportunity for Vicki Seymour, a hair stylist in Charlevoix. She bought Geck's business. "It's something I eventually wanted to do, but I didn't know it would happen so soon. I guess opportunity knocked for both of us," Seymour said.

Seymour is a 1985 graduate of the Petoskey Beauty Academy. She styled hair at New Creations in Charlevoix for ten years before taking over the Waterfront Salon.

Geck is staying on at the salon through Thanksgiving to ease the transition. "I want to thank my customers for their many years of patronage and I hope they'll keep coming here," Geck said.

Geck's former employees, stylist Lori Ager, Judy Zednick, and nail technician Chris Bruce, will stay on with Seymour. "We're keeping everything the same," Seymour said. The business will continue to be open six days a week, with evening appointments available and walk-ins welcome. The salon will continue to sell Paul Mitchell and Nexxus products, and the tanning booth is still available.

Geck and her husband plan to settle into their Florida home around the first week of December. They'll take a month off before finding new jobs. "We're not retiring. We're just having a change in lifestyle," Geck said.

Ruth Geck is giving up her position in the driver's seat at Waterfront Salon, beneath Nanny's restaurant on Ferry Ave. Geck sold the business to Vicki Seymour, shown standing behind Geck.

The Michigan Department of State Police is pleased to announce that Sgt. Michael McCarthy has recently been transferred to the Petoskey Post from the Crime Lab in Northville, Michigan.

McCarthy joined the Department in 1978 and served as a trooper at the Owosso and Northville Posts. He was a member of the Department's Underwater Recovery Team from 1986 through 1988. In 1988, he transferred into the Department's Forensic Science Division and was assigned to the Crime Lab in Sterling Heights, Michigan. His duties in the Firearms Identification Unit of the laboratory were identifying fired bullets and fired cartridge cases to a particular firearm, gunshot distance and residue determination, serial number restoration, crime scene investigation and Bomb Squad responsibilities. McCarthy was promoted to the rank of Sergeant in 1990. He transferred from the Sterling Heights laboratory to the Northville laboratory in 1992.

McCarthy was raised in Livonia, Michigan. He attended Eastern Michigan University and received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Criminal Justice. He and his wife, Cindy (a critical care nurse), have two children, Sean, 5, and Kendal, 2.

...cross country team finishes second at State Finals meet

meet a week earlier, but the Rayders came back with a strong race at the state finals.

This year's Rayder varsity team has no seniors. Everybody will be back next year. Chelsea Gorkiewicz, a junior, led the Rayders at the state finals, finishing 15th with a time of 20:26. Gorkiewicz missed making the all-state team by just two places. Gorkiewicz had what for her was kind of an off race at regionals. To nobody's surprise, she came back strong at the state race.

A cluster of Rayders finished 27, 28, 29 and 31. Sophomore Monica Browne, who took her running to a new level in the closing weeks of the season, placed 27th in 20:51. Freshmen Kelly McFarlin and Tricia Hodge finished 28th and 29th at 20:51 and 20:52. Hodge came down with a head cold the day before the race and was hampered by the illness. Candice Vandergriff, another sophomore, placed 31st in a time of 20:56. Rachel Newcomb, a junior finished 64th in a time of 22:11. Newcomb had a leg injury which slowed her considerably in the last half of the season. Jessica VanGuilder, a junior running cross country for the first time this year, finished 74th in 22:22.

Rayder coach Ken Plude was pleased with the performance. "They ran well. They ran as a team," he said.

Going into the race, Charlevoix figured they were likely to finish third or fourth, possibly second if they ran a very good race and first if some type of catastrophe befell Carson City Crystal. Prior to the race, a blizzard hit the course. By race time the snow had stopped falling and the sun was out. However, the course was snow-covered.

Carson City graduates three runners from this year's team, but has a lot of depth. Going into next season Carson City and Charlevoix are likely to be the state favorites. Following Saturday's race, Plude said the runners were already excited about next year and want to do the work to move up.

Charlevoix did not qualify as a team for the boys' race. However, Justin Davis qualified and ran in the individual race. He placed 42nd with a time of 17:26.

Indoor soccer league opens season

The Charlevoix indoor soccer league began their season this past Saturday with three games at the Charlevoix Middle School gym.

In game one the Phoenix defeated the Crushers 7-1. Herman Madison scored two goals and Jason Firman five goals for the Phoenix. Heidi Miller scored the lone goal for the Crushers.

In game two the Big Green beat the Rockets 13-4. Scoring for the Big Green were: Carrie Beemon 2, Hagen Mankor 3, Marc Lane 5, Nikki Sheldon 1, and Ray Ellis 2. Scoring for the Rockets were: Frans VanderVelden 2, and Jeff Zappen 2.

In game three the Rat Pack defeated the Stingers 12-10. Scoring for the Rat Pack were Steve Carland 10, Jamie Opperman 1 and Matt Mikulski 1. Scoring for the Stingers were Noel Kammermann 5 and Greg Bryan 5.

Rayder basketball team wins conference showdown 74-63

by L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix put themselves in position to defend their conference girls' basketball title with a 74-63 conference showdown win against Kalkaska this past Friday.

Although Charlevoix led for much of the game, the visiting Blue Blazers stayed within striking distance until a critical 10 second sequence with less than three minutes left to play gave the Rayders some breathing room.

With 2:40 left to play, Charlevoix led 60-54, had the ball and was attempting to run down the clock. A soft pass was floated toward Jenni Swenor on the right wing, above the free throw line. The Kalkaska defender attempted to intercept the pass, but Swenor beat her to the ball. Swenor then drove into the lane, took a shot and missed. Swenor's teammate, Liz Kelly was lurking in the paint, cleaned up the rebound and put the ball back up and in. Kalkaska attempted to inbound the ball quickly, but Lisa Parrish stole the pass and put in another Rayder basket.

Had those 10 seconds gone just a little differently and the original pass been intercepted, Kalkaska would have been off to the races for an easy lay-up and the score would have been 60-56 and the game up for grabs. Instead, Kalkaska didn't score while Charlevoix scored twice and ended up with a comfortable 64-54 lead with 2:30 left to play.

In the first quarter, Charlevoix moved the ball around exceptionally well in the set offense and took an 18-14 lead. The Rayders not only had good entry passes from the guards to the interior players, but they also got second passes either back out to the guards or across the baseline to other interior players. A good set offense starts with good movement of the ball. When the ball is moving, offensive players are more motivated to move because they know that if they find an opening they're likely to end up with the ball. Having the ball and offensive players moving quickly obviously makes it more difficult for the defense to keep track of where people are. When Kalkaska found her with the ball and from about 12 feet and in, her shot is money in the bank. Parrish had 10 points in the first quarter. In addition to getting Parrish open, the offensive movement also created seams in the defense which allowed the Rayders to get to the glass for offensive rebounds. Kelly and Liz Blanchard aren't particularly tall as forwards go, but if defenders don't box out, they're very good at worming their way to the boards.

At the defensive end of the court, Charlevoix initially didn't do a good job of getting the ball stopped. They let Kalkaska drive too far toward the basket before challenging them. Kalkaska also hit two three-point shots in the first quarter.

Charlevoix opened the second quarter with a 7-4 run to take a 25-18 lead with 5:32 to play in the half. Kalkaska responded with an 8-0 run, beating Charlevoix on long passes, to take a 26-25 lead. Kelly finally scored with 2:17 left in the half to end a three minute Rayder scoring drought and give Charlevoix a 27-26 lead. Following two Kalkaska misses at the free throw line, Swenor scored to put Charlevoix up 29-26. After Kalkaska split two free throw shots, Kelly hit a hook shot from the free throw line. It was just like how Kareem Abdul Jabbar used to throw the hook, only from about two feet closer to the floor.

At halftime, Charlevoix led 31-29.

The third quarter turned out to be the most interesting of the game. With 5:42 left in the quarter and Charlevoix leading by just four points, 36-32, Parrish picked up her fourth foul. She and the 14 points she'd scored up until that time headed for the bench and Kalkaska was darned glad to see her go. Rayder back-up center Christie Kaczynski promptly squelched Kalkaska's enthusiasm. While Kaczynski isn't the scoring threat that Parrish is, she ain't chopped liver. For a tall player, she moves her feet quickly and runs the floor well. She also has long arms and good hands which makes it difficult for offensive players to see past her or pass around her. This year she's also added a new dimension to her game. She's aggressive. In basketball, there's only one ball to go around between several players on two teams and there are no rules of civility that say everybody has to play nice, share and take turns. The way it works is that if the ball is in the air or rolling around and you want it, you have to get it. If somebody from the other team gets to the ball at the same time as you, or even before you, if you want the ball you have to take it away from them. Rebounding is frequently the equivalent of wrestling in midair. Last season, if there was a pile of people on the floor fighting for the ball, Kaczynski normally could be found standing politely on the edge of the fray. Not any more. This season, it's no more Ms. Nice Guy. Kaczynski moves bodies, hits the floor when necessary and rips rebounds. Without scoring a single point, Kaczynski played one of the more important roles in the Kalkaska game. When she came into the game, Charlevoix led by four. When she left at the end of the third quarter, the Rayders led 49-41.

This season, Rayder coach Joe Powers has modified his defense. Rather than having his center back in the press, he's put the center up front on the ball. Granted, that sacrifices a little speed up front, but it puts a taller person on the inbounds pass and if the ball is stolen, you've got a bigger person under the basket to convert the steal to points. Against Kalkaska, Powers had Kelly and Blanchard at the back of the press. Early in the game, they had problems anticipating and breaking up long passes. In the second half, they read the passes better and even when the passes were completed, they got back to interfere with the shot.

Amanda Eaton had 11 second half points and went to the free throw line nine times. Her ball handling off the dribble continues to improve. Last year, she normally relied on speed and strength to drive to the basket. This year she's improved on her cross-over dribble and also added a spin move. In a first half drive, she did a double cross-over on a Kalkaska player that left the defender staggering.

Sophomore Ann Marie Terryberry also played a strong fourth quarter. She hit two quick passes where she knew where her teammate was prior to receiving the ball and consequently was able to make the pass immediately, before the defense could react.

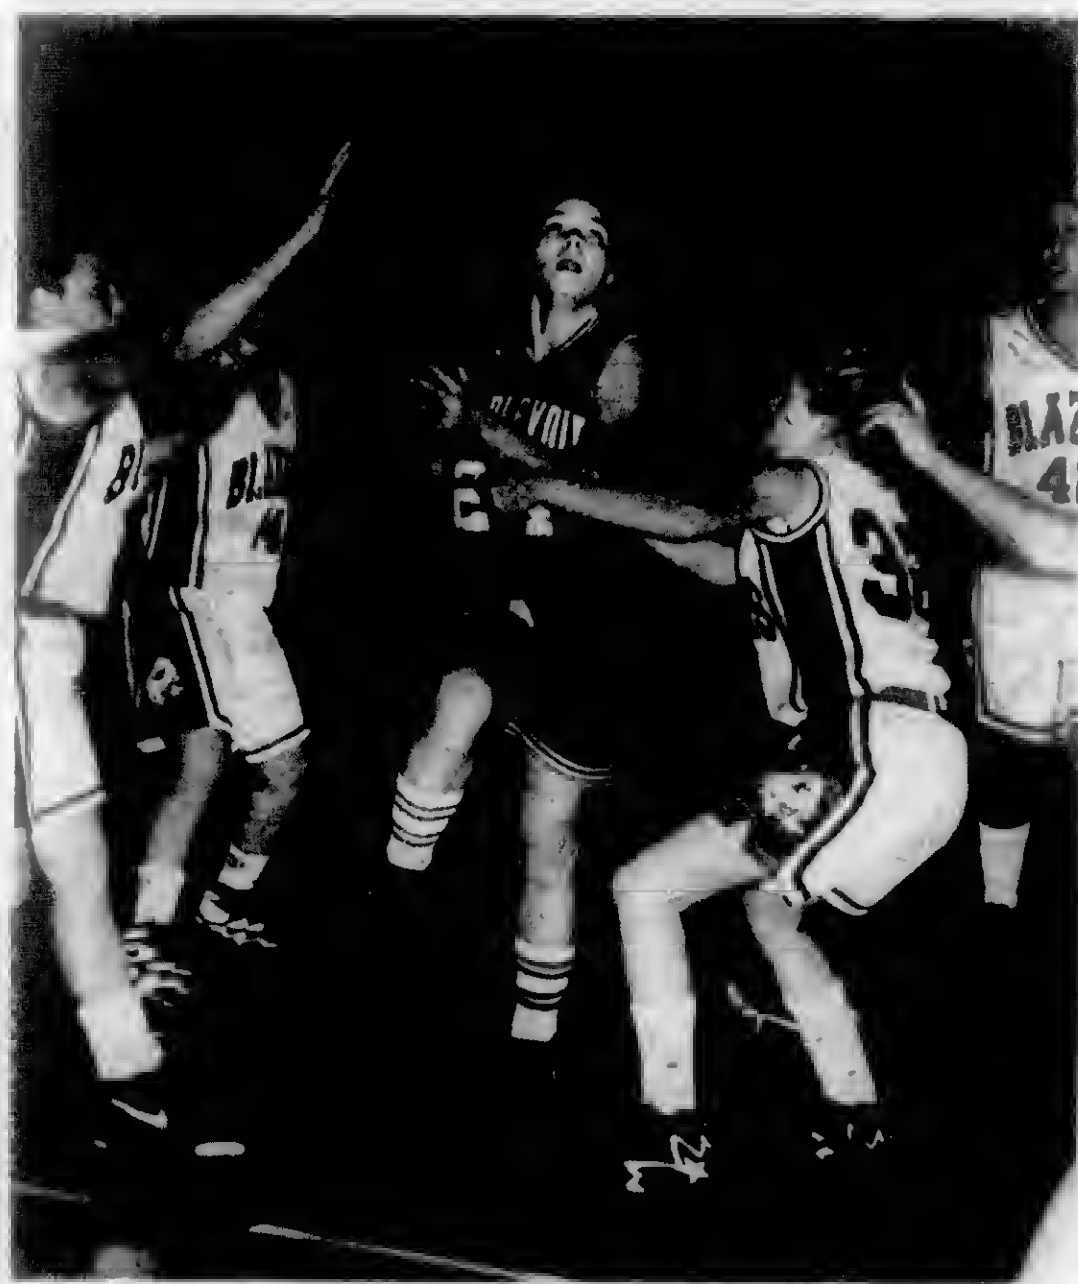

Charlevoix had four players score in double figures. Parrish finished with 22 points, Eaton with 17, Kelly with 15 and Blanchard with a dozen. The Rayders can keep the conference title all to themselves with a win Thursday at Harbor Springs.

Next week the Rayders begin district tournament play at Elk Rapids.

7-3 is good enough for Tom Berry to win contest

The Courier football contest gets stranger and stranger. Tom Berry won in the tenth week with a record of 7-3. Ryan Borths also went 7-3, but Berry beat him on the tie breaker. The Courier Guru and a handful of other folks were 6-4, but beyond that it was .500 or less. Cumulatively, all of the contestants in this past week's contest didn't do much better than .500. There were people who normally do well, who went 4-6 or 3-7 this past week.

The Michigan State upset of Michigan took almost everyone by surprise. Only a few people picked Pittsburgh over Chicago and a lot of people had Green Bay over Minnesota and Detroit over Atlanta. Interesting thing about Detroit - if you're a Detroit fan, but pick whoever they're playing to beat them in the football contest, it seems to take the edge off of your frustration when they lose. It's kind of like hedging your bet.

Here are this week's games:
Purdue at Michigan: Michigan is going to be all hot and bothered after losing to Michigan State. Purdue isn't really such a bad team, but they're going to be made to look bad this weekend. Pick - Michigan.

Michigan State at Indiana: Surprising how many Michigan State alumni there are this year compared to past years. Maybe they had a big graduating class this past spring or something. Sahan's doing a good job down there - with the offense as well as the defense. Meanwhile Indiana remains a state where they play better basketball than football.

Pick - Michigan State.

Western Michigan at Eastern Michigan: Eastern used to be a conference door mat, but in recent years they've improved dramatically. Pick - Eastern.

Washington at UCLA: Washington played USC well earlier in the season, but UCLA has a strong running game. Pick - UCLA.

Chicago at Green Bay: Despite that loss to Pittsburgh, the Bears are still the best team in the NFC Central. Pick - Chicago.

San Francisco at Dallas: San Francisco has fallen on some tough times. Later in the year they might beat Dallas, but not at the moment. Pick - Dallas.

Tampa Bay at Detroit: Detroit should beat Tampa Bay if they can keep their minds on the game, rather than wondering who's the best college defensive back available in next year's draft. Pick - Detroit.

Denver at Philadelphia: Philadelphia, behind the legendary Rodney Peete, has recovered from a bad start and is playing pretty well.

Pick - Philadelphia.

Inland Lakes vs. Lake Linden: Lake Linden is undefeated coming into the game and they'll probably leave the same way. Inland Lakes has had a great season, but this is where it ends. Pick - Lake Linden.

Rogers City vs. Traverse City St. Francis: And I don't want to hear a bunch of contestants whining about not knowing anything about the high school teams. Charlevoix played both of these teams at home this season. And St. Francis is the better team. Pick - St. Francis.

Varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders from the high school recently spent two evenings working on cheers with future cheerleaders from the K-5 school. The K-5 cheerleaders then joined the junior varsity cheerleaders in cheering at the final junior varsity football game. Among the K-5 students participating were (from left) Tara Marsh, Brittany Pizzuro and Lee Meggison. The varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders are preparing for a trip to Hope College for a cheerleading workshop and competition.

SCRAPBOOK

In the Nov. 1 Scrapbook, we asked if anyone knew the name of the old farmer in the photo and the make of the tractor. The general consensus was that the farmer was Hiram Brock and tractor was a Ford. However, not everyone was sure it was Brock. One person said the farmer looked like Elmer Green.

Erika Loucks, a member of the Brock camp, sent in the following letter: "Dear Charlevoix Courier, 'The picture of the farmer by the barn and tractor is my great uncle. The farmer is Hiram Brock and the tractor is a Ford. Hiram is my mom's uncle.'"

Blowin' Smoke! An evening spent smoking fine cigars

By Laurie Lounsbury

Smoke swirled sensuously, like a genie floating lazily around the head of its master. Matches flared, then flames swelled with the rhythmic puff, puff, puff of warm breath tugging persistently on the fire. The smoky air, combined with a healthy dose of testosterone, grew so thick you could cut it only with a good, sharp wisecrack.

It was the cigar dinner at the Rowe Inn, a night traditionally billed as a boys' night out. Outside of the cozy country inn, wind howled and snow flew horizontally. Abysmal weather conditions didn't stop 60 men and a few brave women from driving hundreds of miles to attend the dinner gala.

Cigar dinners at the Rowe Inn have become so popular that people sign up six months in advance to make sure they get a seat. Another 60 people put their names on a waiting list and hope someone will cancel. No one does.

For women on the outside looking in, the night has always been shrouded in mystery. "You don't want to go, the smoke gets so thick you can't see across the table," men warn women. "The jokes get pretty raunchy, you might be offended," they proclaim.

But they exaggerate. Consider the facts. This is the Rowe Inn, where gourmet food and fine wines are standard fare. It is a Thursday night, with another workday looming hours away. And today's cigar aficionados tend to be rather urbane. This is a crowd that prefers to spin fine wine in crystal, not swirl cheap tumblers of whiskey. After a

Timms wins first ward seat on write-in

In something of an election day surprise, former city council member Bob Timms was elected to a first ward council seat as a result of a write-in campaign. Timms will fill the seat previously occupied by Cheri Hoffman.

Timms received 106 votes. Julia Tucker, another write-in candidate, received 87 votes. Hoffman received 15 votes.

The election, which took place

Nov. 7, took a peculiar twist when Hoffman, whose name was the only one on the ballot for the first ward seat, resigned. Hoffman filed for election in May. Since that time, she has married former council member Ted Felter and they are building a home in Charlevoix Township. In order to allow voters few words of welcome from proprietor Wes Westhoven, the evening unfolded.

The tradition of cigar nights started eight years ago, when Traverse City's tobacconist Mike Nolan teamed up with Hattie's restaurant owner Jim Millman. Together, they hosted a dinner where cigar smokers could enjoy a fine meal and puff away on exquisite cigars, blissfully free of reprimands or complaints from non-smoking guests. A cigar representative from Chicago attended the first cigar dinner, and was so impressed he spread the word to clients all over the country. "Now, in a big city, you can go to a cigar dinner any night of the week," Nolan said.

So cigar dinners aren't new. The Rowe Inn has been hosting them for five years, always with a sold out crowd. But the presence of women at the dinners is a new twist. Three Traverse City women sat confidently at a corner table at the Rowe Inn, prepared to hold their own during the evening. Their delicate, well manicured fingers looked ironically appealing with a cigar held casually in between them. Susan Neering, Heidi Trunk, and Tammy Stricker, all nurses at Munson Medical Center, have discovered the pleasures of relaxing with a fine cigar. "We're here for the gourmet food, good wine, and cigars," Neering said.

"Obviously this is a good old boys' thing, but too bad," she added smirking slightly. These women were no shrinking violets. Dirty jokes didn't scare them. "We're going to blow these guys away with our raunchy jokes," Neering said.

By all appearances, the men had no objections to the presence of women. "If they like cigars and come with the right attitude, women are certainly welcome here," one man said. "Women have always been welcome, they've just never attended before," Westhoven said.

After a four course meal featuring pork tenderloin served with a black currant sauce, everyone settled in with an after dinner cigar and embarked on the long standing tradition of telling jokes. The jokes, like everything else served at the Rowe Inn, were of premium vintage. No cheap jokes were told. Only the finest stories, perfected after years of delivery, passed from table to table. Some men suggested that the jokes were tamer than last year's offerings, due to the presence of women. If so, that was a welcome change for Nolan. "I don't like the off-color, racist jokes. They make me uncomfortable," he said. The jokes told at the Rowe Inn's cigar dinner are legendary. Dan O'Donnell, a wine importer from Detroit, made the trip to Ellsworth based on that knowledge. "This cigar dinner has a tradition of great jewels being shared at the end of the evening," he said.

Cigar smoking becomes fashionable new trend

While cigarette smokers are being banished from the polite segments of society, cigar smokers are enjoying increasing acceptance, along with the growing popularity of fine cigars.

In Charlevoix, bank president Lou Hollow would look half-dressed without a big cigar in his mouth. And Bill Dreyer would probably get lost on his neighborhood walks if he didn't have his own cigar smoke to follow. But Hollow and Dreyer weren't the only Charlevoix cigar smokers to show up at the Rowe Inn for last week's cigar dinner. They were accompanied by Scott Beatty, Kit Foster, Ron Winchester, and Jeff MacFarlane, all cigar smokers. It was Foster's first trip to the cigar dinner, but it won't be his last. "It was a great evening, very relaxing. I really enjoyed it," he said afterwards.

Foster has more than a passing interest in cigars. He recently started selling fine cigars at his business, the Bridge Street Bookshop. "It was a decision driven by demand. People would be strolling down the street in the summer after dinner, and they would stop in and ask where they could get a good cigar," Foster said. On a good summer day, Foster sells between 30 and 50 cigars out of his humidor box on the counter. He's hoping to expand the line of cigars he offers soon. Foster said that more and more people are taking up smoking high end, fine cigars. Even the slick, glossy magazine, called Cigar Aficionado, is selling briskly at his store. Cigars, unlike cigarettes, are becoming a hobby, not a habit.

Even so, cigar popularity is way down from its wide acceptance 100 years ago. In 1895, 60% of the male population smoked cigars. Today, only 5% of the male population smokes cigars. But 100 years ago, no women smoked cigars (or at least they wouldn't admit to it), and today you will see an occasional woman puffing away on a big stogie.

At the turn of the century, Corona made 5,000 different types of cigars. Today, the company makes 25 cigars.

The price of cigars could almost be considered a bargain today, compared to what men were paying for cigars in 1895. A good cigar today costs between $2.50 and $5.00. In 1895, a domestic cigar cost 25 to 50 cents, and imported cigars were $1. As Traverse City's tobacconist Mike Nolan said, "A martini will not last you as long as a good, five dollar cigar, so stop bitching about the price."

Committee can't act until school determines who's on it

by Laurie Lounsbury

When deciding how to spend a nearly $9 million budget, the school board is trying to be fair. But fair comes with a price tag, and the price is time. It's going to take some time for a Budget Planning Advisory committee to be formed.

Superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson recommended that the following people serve on the budget committee: the superintendent, school principals, a representative from each of the school improvement teams, a support staff representative, a curriculum council representative, five community members, a few student council representatives, and the coordinator of business services, Judy Boss.

A lot of discussion ensued at the Nov. 6 school board meeting about who should get to serve on the budget committee. Teachers Karen and Barry Pierce questioned the selection process. "Who's going to determine who gets to serve on the committee? Who makes the selections?" they asked.

...Timms wins council seat

to select their council representative and to facilitate a smoother transition, Hoffman resigned just prior to the election.

In her resignation letter to Charlevoix Mayor Josh Barnes, Hoffman said that she supported the write-in candidacy of Julia Tucker. Timms declared his candidacy shortly before Tucker officially announced hers.

Timms said he went around door to door in the first ward and gave people stickers for their halllotts. Following the election, he said that despite his campaign efforts, he was still a bit surprised by the results.

Asked if he has any immediate items on his agenda, he said, "Nothing earthshaking right at the moment." One thing he mentioned was that rather than attempting to finish sidewalk work in the snow, he would prefer to just see the blank spots filled in for now and wait until next spring to deal with the remainder of the project.

Timms was on the city council for a total of 13 and a half years during two separate stints in the '70s and '80s. He was last on the council as a second ward representative in 1987. He said he's not sure if anyone has ever before been a representative of first one ward and later another.

Although he has not been on the council for the past eight years, Timms has regularly attended council meetings. He is fiscally conservative and has not hesitated to criticize city officials and decisions when he felt tax dollars could have been saved.

Last year, it was left to the individual groups to nominate a representative to the budget committee. Representation from five community members and three student council members is new this year.

Board member Sulane Hamilton asked what student council members would be expected to contribute to the committee. "We're trying to develop our student leaders," high school principal Gary Grundman responded, adding,

"Students are very insightful. They come at problems a different way and they're not afraid to approach things head on."

There were comments from the audience that the committee might be stacked to favor one building over another, or one community group over another. "I resent the issue of whether we're going to stack it. The whole thing's ridiculous," said board member Allen Telgenhof.

Telgenhof went on to say that the board would be lucky to get five people from the community willing to serve on the committee.

Board member Mary Lee Campbell maintained that the selection process would be fair because it is up to each group to make their own choices. "Those groups have the ability to get together and nominate someone to the committee," she said.

The board did agree that the budget committee should stick to a defined time frame for making their decisions. The committee will be formed and meet by Jan. 15 and hold meetings as needed between Jan. 15 and March 1. A final plan, reviewed by the school finance committee, will be presented to the board by May 1.

Anyone interested in serving on the budget advisory committee may contact the school's central office at 547-3200.

Killing deer - or just killing time

Firearm deer season opens today, and as usual the impact it has on northern Michigan will be tremendous. And this isn't just the economic impact we're talking about here, this is the overall impact on day to day life.

Think about how many businesses are going to be working short staffed today because half of the men in town are out in the woods sitting on stumps. According to a DNR news release, "This year during the 15-day firearm deer season, nearly 700,000 hunters will spend tens of millions of hours afield pursuing whitetail deer in Michigan."

Yes, 700,000 people spending ten million hours in the woods. Even if you don't hunt, that's got to affect you. Say a pipe breaks in your house. How many of those 700,000 people in the woods are plumbers? Enough so you yourself had better know where your house's main shut-off valve is. You can bet on that.

The aforementioned DNR news release doesn't say how many of those 700,000 hunters will kill a deer and how many will kill nothing but time. But then, for many hunters, killing time is enough for a successful hunt. That's something that many nonhunters just don't understand. To them, if a hunter goes to the woods and comes back without a deer, then the hunt wasn't successful. But to most hunters, going to the woods and getting away from the daily hustle of life, in and of itself is a successful hunt. If you get a deer, that's just a bonus.

Many a hunter spends more than 2,000 hours a year working on first this project and then that, fielding phone calls, sitting in meetings, trying to schedule one thing so it doesn't interfere with another, finishing up quickly here in order to be able to meet another set of demands there.

Compare that to contemplating whether or not you should stand up and walk back to camp after sitting and staring at the woods for three hours. Maybe you'll get up and go. And then again, maybe you won't. It's strictly up to you. Nobody else cares one way or the other. If you want to get up and move, fine. If not, that's fine too. It's not like you're going to miss anything important.

To understand this point on a higher intellectual plane, think of it this way. People in many other parts of the world center themselves, soothe their minds from the pain inflicted by the daily struggle to survive, or achieve harmony with the universe by utilizing various forms of quiet meditation. Here in Michigan, 700,000 simple souls don't go in for any of that freaky meditation stuff, because we don't have to. We've got deer hunting.

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

James D. Pfluecke of Charlevoix is among the students named to the Kalamazoo College dean's list for the summer 1995 quarter. To be named to the dean's list, a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4 point grading scale. Pfluecke, a junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Pfluecke.

Mike Bush of Charlevoix is among the runners written about in the Ball State University cross country team media guide. Bush, a freshman on the Ball State Cross Country Team, is considered to be one of the team's top two recruits this past season. Ball State coach Chris Buhler says of Bush, "If he stays injury-free and adapts to the stresses that go along with collegiate distance running, Mike has the potential as a freshman to run in our top 10."

Mystery readers form club

Charlevoix Ladies Murder & Mayhem, Ink. is a new Mystery Book Discussion Group that is meeting monthly in Charlevoix. The diverse, 15 member group came together in August as the result of a casual chat over coffee about good mysteries.

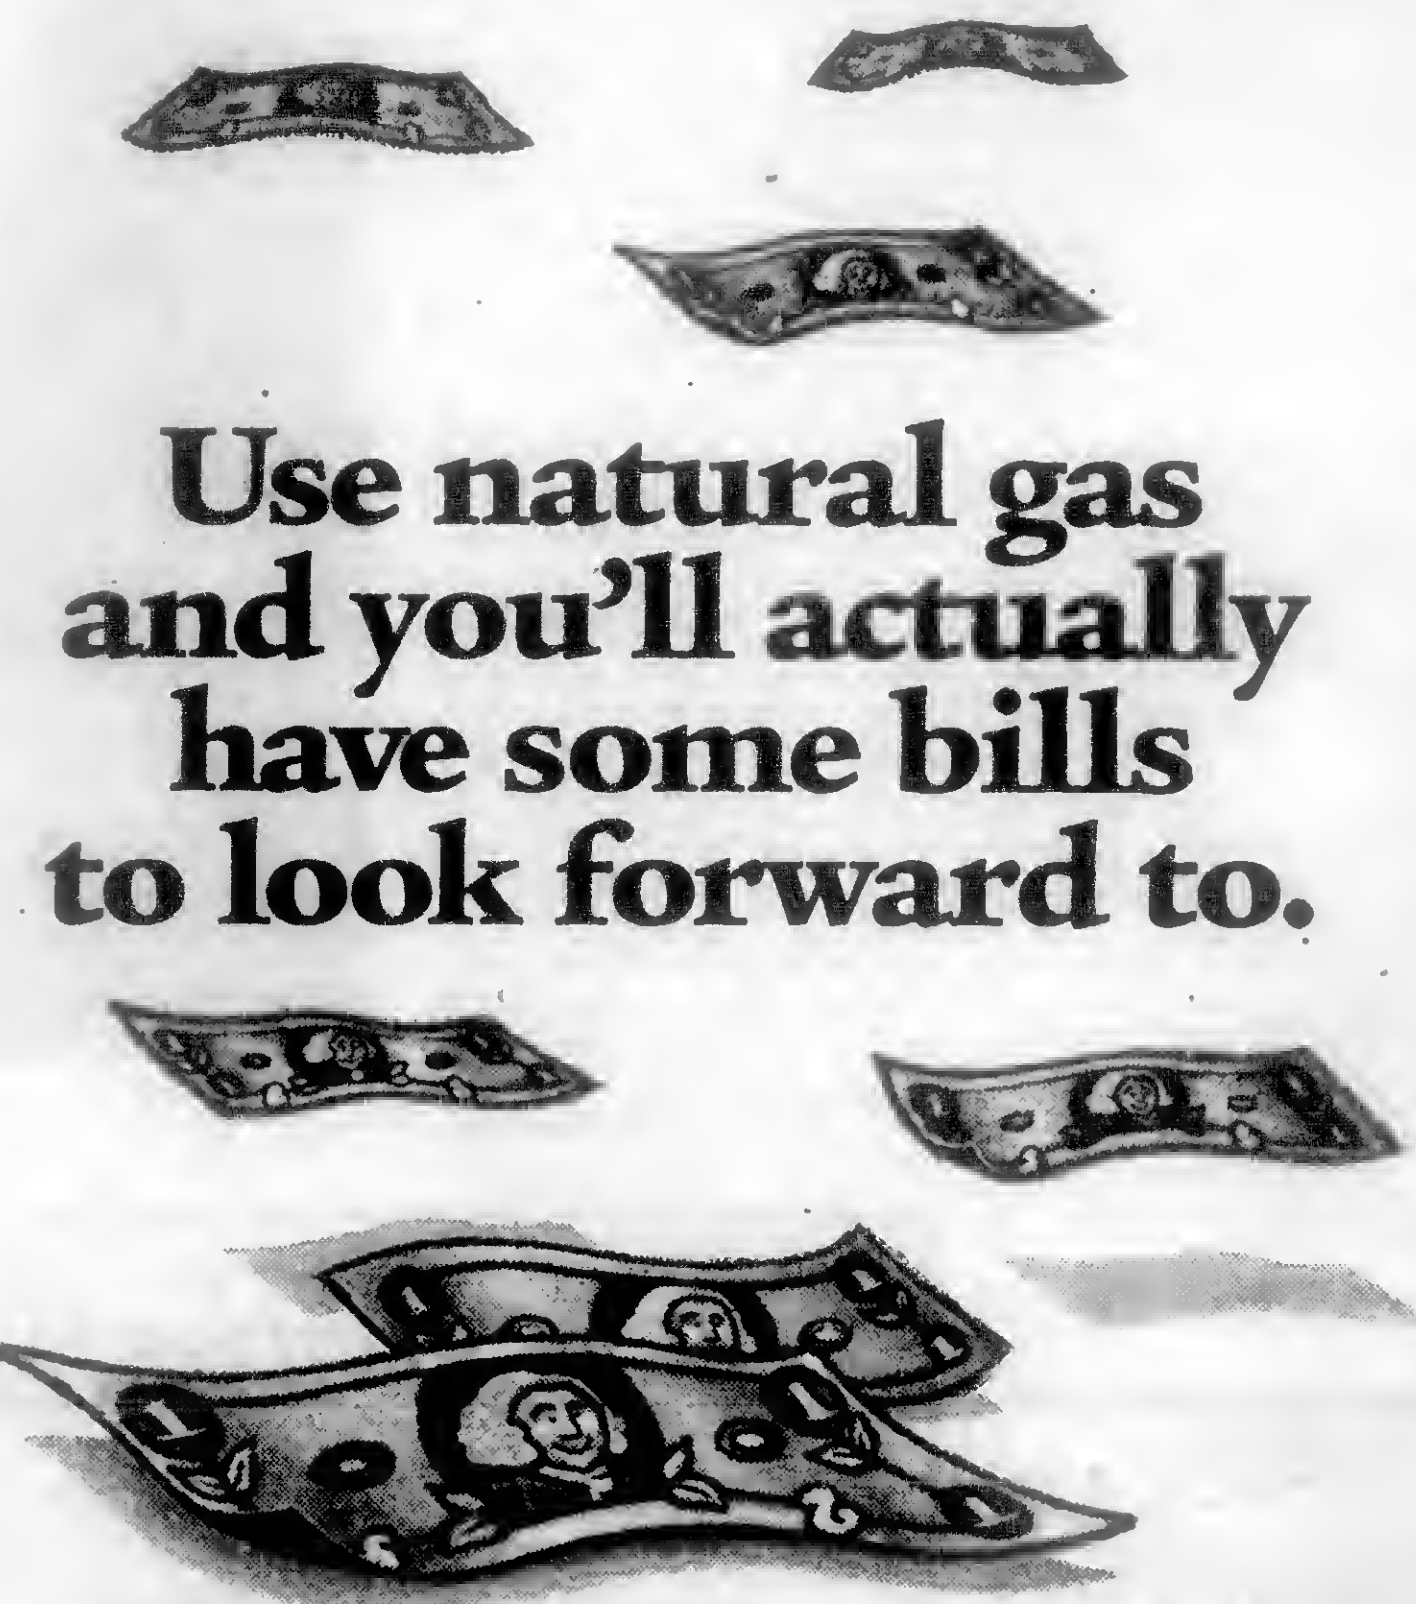

The group has selected nine mysteries to read and discuss. Information about the author is presented and the discussion can whirl around in many ways with a broad spectrum of issues, ideas and opinions emerging. The group rates the quality of each mystery using a "1 to 10 black cat rating scale" — with 10 being "highly recommended." Sue Grafton's new book, "L is for Lawless," received a rating of 8.6 black cats with group members considering this Grafton's best book yet in her 12 book series. Since Grafton is writing a mystery for each letter of the alphabet, the group speculated what "M" will stand for — agreeing that "Murder" is too obvious, but "Mistress" is a strong possibility for an interesting plot.

Author Carolyn G. Hart corresponded with the group via faxes and mail from her Oklahoma home when her newest book, "Mint Julep Murder," was discussed. Hart also sent each member of the group a personalized, autographed bookplate.

At the Nov. 30 meeting the group will be discussing "Fowl Prey," a Thanksgiving Bed & Breakfast mystery written by Mary Daheim. If you would like to attend the group as a guest, or are interested in starting a book discussion group, contact Dianne Foster, Bridge Street Book Shop, at 547-READ (that's 547-7323) for details or assistance.

FAMILY

Braun - Phillips

Sheryl Marie Patricia Braun of Fargo, North Dakota, and Brian David Phillips of Charlevoix, were united in marriage, June 24 in Moorhead, Minnesota. The bride is the daughter of Joan and James Braun of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. The groom is the son of Gale and David Phillips of Charlevoix.

The double ring ceremony, held at St. Joseph's Church, was performed by Father August Gohlman and Father Robert Keifer.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and her godfather, Dell Braun. She wore a gown of satin with pearls adorning the fitted bodice, which had an open, heart-shaped back. She carried a bouquet of white lilies, gardenias, and red roses.

Music during the ceremony was provided by pianist Bob Hachmeister. Vocals were performed by Amy Phillips and Steve Rage. The fathers of the couple took part in the ceremony, delivering scripture readings and singing the Lord's Prayer.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Shelly Wood, of Sioux Falls. Bridesmaids were Susan Braun, Amy Phillips, Janet Boelter, Marlys Bernhardt, Lynn Hanson, and Sandy Markel. Junior bridesmaid was Britney Braun, niece of the bride. The attendants wore floor length, off the shoulder, black velvet gowns. They carried smaller versions of the bride's bouquet.

Gerald Field of Charlevoix was best man. Groomsmen were Terry Braun, Kirby Wood, John Norman, Jim Mabee, Lawrence Petroskey, Bob Norman, and Curt Markel. Ushers were Jeremy Hanson and Mike Torkelson.

Flower girl was Taylor Markel, niece of the bride. Ring Bearer was Ty Bommersbach, cousin of the bride.

A dinner reception was hosted by the bride's parents at the Country Suites in Fargo.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner barbeque and picnic at Lindenwood Park.

A Michigan reception was given by the parents of the groom, Oct. 29 at Castle Farm. Fifty guests attended the reception, including the parents of the bride, Roy Phillips and his family of Lincoln Park. Amy Phillips, sister of the groom sang at the reception. The guests enjoyed music, dancing, and horse drawn carriage rides.

Following a honeymoon trip to Florida, the couple is making their home in Fargo. The groom is employed by Mericare Hospital as a cardiac monitor technician, and at Pracs Research Institute as a phlebotomist. The bride is the manager of Maytag Laundry. She is studying to become a legal assistant.

Community Christmas Project gearing up

The Charlevoix Community Christmas Project is once again gearing up for its annual distribution of food, gifts, and toys for children, senior citizens, and families who can use a little extra cheer at the holidays this year.

Representatives of numerous churches in Charlevoix met Wednesday, Nov. 1, for their organizational meeting and will continue to meet throughout the next few weeks until Christmas. Last year the group helped a total of 543 individuals, among whom were 219 children, 22 senior citizens, and 18 residents of Adult Foster Care Homes in the area. These people were able to have a little merrier Christmas due to the work of this committee (with more than 100 volunteers) and the generosity of caring neighbors in Charlevoix.

Names of families and individuals helped are obtained from many sources, such as the Department of Social Services and other social service organizations.

Money is always needed to finance this operation, and if individuals or organizations or businesses wish to make a monetary contribution or help in some other way, it will be greatly appreciated by the committee and the recipients of the

East Jordan to host Holiday Country Sampler

East Jordan's crafters, community organizations, and businesses are working together this holiday season to present a very special community event. The Holiday Country Sampler will be Friday, Nov. 17 from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 18 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Holiday shoppers can tour decorated homes, featuring hand-made gifts and treasures. Some homes will offer refreshments, door prizes and one will even help you make a Christmas craft. Most homes will have several crafters under one roof.

The Jordan River Arts Council will host five area crafters and on Friday night will be offering soup and sandwiches. The beautiful historic Easterly Inn will be an elegant backdrop for the donated crafts by area artists. All proceeds from the sales will go to the Charlevoix County Hospice. This event is being sponsored by FNB Northwestern Bank.

Saturday, Nov. 18 the Senior Center will offer a luncheon and host a live Christmas tree display. These live trees have been sponsored by various businesses and individuals, and decorated by area decorators. Raffle tickets will be available and all proceeds will benefit the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce.

Saturday, Grandview also invites you to stop by for a visit and will be offering crafts made by residents as well as donated items by family and friends. The "crafty staff" will have an opportunity to sell their crafts on consignment.

Co-chairs of this annual event are Mary Helen Riggle of the Congregational Church and Kay Smith of the United Methodist Church. They would be delighted to accept any donations. You can call Riggle at 547-9515 or Smith at 547-2920. If the trend continues as it has in the past 2-3 years, this year's Christmas Project will help even more people than did the project of 1994, and, consequently, will require more funds. If you are trying to think of a project for the Christmas season for your family or your organization, you might consider a contribution to this wonderful community tradition.

Although the weather hasn't been particularly friendly for construction recently, the footings for the Charlevoix Community Pool have been poured. The shell for the pool itself was poured earlier this fall and last week the shell was filled with water for test purposes. Plans are for building construction to begin in the spring with a target date for completion of late August, 1996.

Hundreds of teens to "jam"

The Charlevoix Teen Center will be sponsoring "Teen Jam 2," Friday, Nov. 17 from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the Jordan Valley Express in East Jordan. The event is for young people ages 13 to 19. DJ Music will be provided. The cost is $5 at the door. Nearly 500 young people from 37 different northern Michigan communities attended "Teen Jam 1" earlier this year.

David W. Streeter

David W. Streeter, 39, of Charlotte, N.C., died November 5, at his residence after a lengthy illness.

A memorial service was held at noon Saturday, November 11, at St. Peter's Episcopal church in Charlotte, N.C., with the Reverend Will Hinson and the Reverend Fred Masad officiating.

the family received friends in the parish hall after the service. Committal was private.

David was born November 26, 1955, in Limestone, Maine, the son of Mrs. Marilyn Streeter pardee and the late Lawrence Edward Streeter.

He was a 1973 graduate of Charlevoix High School and attended the Art Institute in Atlanta for photography and became an accomplished photographer. In addition to photographing weddings and charitable events, he also worked as a senior laboratory technician with Wolf Camera in Charlotte, N.C.

David is survived by his partner of 18 years, Ed Brumfield, of Charlotte, N.C.; his mother, Mrs. Marilyn Streeter pardee, of Charlevoix; his sister, Laurie Drayer, and her children, Kristen, Shannon, and Matthew, all of Atlanta, Ga.; his sister, Carol Hilton, of Charlevoix; his brother, Michael Streeter, of Asheville, N.C.; his brother, Dan Pardee, of Charlevoix; grandmother, Mrs. Leona Zanner, of Traverse City; and Ed's mother, who was a loving mother to David as well, Mrs. Lois Brumfield, of Charlotte, N.C.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers, memorials be made to the David W. Streeter Trust, 2517 Amber Creste Lane, Charlotte, N.C., 28212.

Arrangements were handled by the McEwen Funeral Service, Pineville Chapel, 727 E. Morehead St., Charlotte, N.C., 28235.

Charlevoix High School Band to perform

The Charlevoix High School Band will be performing a Marching Concert this Thursday, November 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

The concert will feature "A Beatles Tribute" as well as special numbers for the color guard. Donations to support the band will be accepted at the door.

Bethany Lutheran holds Thanksgiving service

Bethany Lutheran Church will offer praise and thanksgiving with holy communion on Wednesday, November 22, at 7 p.m.

Plans are going forward for the annual Christmas Cookie Walk which will be held on Saturday, December 2, beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the church fellowship hall.

Episcopal Church hosts old fashioned hymn sing

The Christ Episcopal church is hosting a Community Hymn Sing, featuring traditional, old-time American hymns.

The sing will be held Sunday, November 19, at 5 p.m., at the corner of Clinton and State Streets in Charlevoix.

This is a family activity for all ages. For more information call 547-4681 or 547-6322.

Song recalls the sinking of the Carl D. Bradley

This Saturday, Nov. 18 will mark the 37th anniversary of the sinking of the Carl D. Bradley. Even though it has been more than three decades since the event, many area people still have strong memories of the tragedy.

Barry Pischner, a former Beaver Island resident who now lives in Belmont, MI, recently wrote and recorded a song about the sinking of the Carl D. Bradley. The song, titled "The Big Bradley" is the title song on a cassette tape which is being sold at Glen's Market and the Harmony House in Charlevoix as well as in McDonough's Market and the Beaver Island Museum on Beaver Island and in other area music stores. A portion of the proceeds from the tape will help fund the preservation of one of the lifeboats from the Bradley. The lifeboat was returned to Beaver Island in 1993 and is on display at the Beaver Island museum.

Thirty-three men died when the Bradley went down approximately 12 miles southwest of Gull Island. Most of the men were from Rogers City, but several had relatives in Charlevoix. Beaver Island served as a staging area for rescue efforts. The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Sundew responded to the Bradley's Mayday call, searching for survivors in 60 mile per hour winds and rolling seas. The Sundew pulled the only two survivors of the tragedy from the water 14 hours after the ship went down. One of the survivors, Frank Mays, lived in Charlevoix for several years after the disaster.

Pischner has written the song from the perspective of a watchman on the front deck of the boat. Pischner did quite a bit of research prior to writing the song, receiving technical information about Great Lakes freighters from Capt. Francis E. "Bud" Left and Capt. Ray Cull, among others. He also received information from Jack Coppens of Charlevoix. Coppens was an officer on the Sundew when the Bradley went down.

Pischner has also written a second song about a shipping tragedy. That song is called "Raymond" and pertains to a November 1935 explosion on a grounded gas tanker at Simmons Reef. The explosion killed five men, among them Raymond Cole, who was married to Pischner's aunt.

City hikes electric rates

After one year of no rate hikes, the city of Charlevoix is raising electric rates slightly.

According to Rick Brandei, the rate hike is actually an adjustment that was made to compensate for an overpayment on fuel charges made by the city a year ago. Customers were getting a credit for the overpayment, but now that money is used up.

The rates will be going up by $.0031 per kilowatt hour. By raising the rates at this point in time, the city will be able to consider a different, and more efficient billing system. As it is, the city is always three months behind in actual billing.

The rate increase will go into effect with the November bills.

Lawyer returns to his Charlevoix roots

by L. Scott Swanson

Attorney Dennis Martin has joined attorneys Dan Barron and Harry Golski in practicing law in Charlevoix. For Martin, joining the practice is a homecoming. He grew up in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1979.

After high school, Martin did his undergraduate work at Michigan State University, graduating in 1985. He then attended Detroit College of Law, graduating Magna Cum Laude in 1989. Since that time he has been working with a Detroit area law firm.

Martin is thrilled to be returning to Charlevoix. "It's great. Long overdue," he said. He and his wife Jane have a seven month old baby, Madeline. Martin's mother, Mary Vetting, still lives in Charlevoix.

Golski and Barron became partners in 1992. They do general law work with an emphasis in real estate and business law. Martin's background is primarily in civil and commercial litigation. In Detroit, he did a great deal of work in construction law and spoke at seminars on construction lien and bond law.

Golski and Barron have seen their work load grow since 1992 to a point where they needed another person. "We had heard that Dennis was looking to relocate back up here, so we got in touch with him," Golski explained.

Barron said, "We're excited about having Dennis with us. It allows us to provide timely, quality business service."

Golski said having someone in the organization who has roots and family in Charlevoix is something that is a plus both for the business and the community.

Martin is not the only recent addition to the firm. Joan Miller, who had been an employee with the district court for 10 years, also recently joined the firm.

County commissioners consider new job of personnel director/ commissioner secretary

By Laurie Lounsbury

After years of debate, the Charlevoix County Commissioners finally unanimously agreed to take a step, albeit a small step, toward hiring a county manager of sorts.

At the last commissioner meeting, commissioner Richie Gillespie suggested that the commissioners hire a personnel/human resources director. Chairman Don Smith, who has long been opposed to the idea of a county manager, agreed that a personnel director might be a good idea. "I see it as a half time job, with the other half of the job being a secretary to the commissioners," Smith said.

Communication between commissioners and county employees has been an ongoing problem at the county. And the debate over the need for a county manager has been going on as long as the communication problem. Gillespie is hoping that a personnel director could be a solution to both problems, arriving at some middle ground to keep everyone happy. "It's all the little things (with employees) that come up. I'm so tired of fighting over the little things when we have big things to work on," Gillespie said.

Gillespie would like to look at the cost of a personnel director and see if it would fit into the county budget. "I'd be willing to look at it, but I want to see a job description first," Smith said.

In other business, the commissioners listened to a presentation from the county's chief medical examiner, Reid Freidinger.

Freidinger told the commissioners that medical examiners from 15 northern counties are looking into the possibility of forming a consortium and hiring a certified forensic pathologist to serve all the counties. Currently, in cases where a forensic pathologist is needed, the county must send the deceased person to Grand Rapids for examination. It costs the county $1,000 to drive the body to Grand Rapids for an autopsy. "This is a function of the prosecutor's office," Freidinger explained. "When there's a murder, we want a good autopsy, with good medical evidence. Nobody wants the embarrassment of Chapquidick in their county."

Freidinger said it will take at least a year for the 15 counties involved to arrive at a consortium agreement.

The county board also voted unanimously to give $1,250 to the county transit department for marketing funds. The money will be matched with $5,000 from MDOT (Michigan Department of Trans-

"It still bothers me that we're going to spend money to advertise so we can lose more money," said commissioner Jim Behling, adding, "Mass transit is a boondoggle."

The marketing funds for the transit department will be used to make a calendar, among other things.

Low Kline wins this week with 8-2 and tiebreaker score

Meggison drops to 3rd

Low Kline, Larry Nunemaker, John Richards, and Ron Zellers all tied for first this week, with Kline winning the tiebreaker. Meggison must have inhaled too much fire smoke last week. His judgment was obviously clouded, as seen by his 4-6 picks. This week:

Michigan at Penn State: Michigan hasn't had a lot of luck with Penn State since the Lions joined the conference, but Penn State isn't having such a great year this year. This will be interesting for those who like to watch receivers. These two teams have some of the better receivers in the country. Pick - Michigan.

Alabama at Auburn: This is the Southern special. Both teams are well coached. Auburn, we don't hear too much about up here in the north country, but they're a tough team. Pick - Auburn.

Central Michigan at Western Michigan: This is one of the great rivalries in college football because it's such a friendly thing. Students at both schools look forward to this game each year because they like to have monstrous parties after the game. Pick - Central Michigan.

Colorado at Kansas State: Kansas State has come up big in the big games this year, although every time I pick Colorado to lose to somebody like Wisconsin, they make me pay. I'm probably going to get burned again, but ... Pick - Kansas State.

UCLA at USC: USC's a good team, but don't think this is going to be a cakewalk. Remember, most of us in this contest thought Michigan was a pretty safe bet against Michigan State. UCLA has a nice running back and a big horse of a lineman blocking for him. But that's still probably not going to be enough. Pick - USC.

Green Bay at Cleveland: At least they're at Cleveland for the time being. Art Modell's troupes will soon be marching to Baltimore and trampling the heart of Charlevoix's Mark Muniak in the process. What's professional sports coming to. Out of spite ... Pick - Green Bay.

San Diego at Denver: I'm just putting this one in to see if people are paying attention as the season progresses. Early in the year, this would have been a great game. But now, San Diego is all dinged up and going down hill like a bobsled in Minnesota. Their season ranks right up there with the Lions as a major disappointment. Pick - Denver.

Dallas at Oakland: Pardon me in Kansas City, but this could be a Super Bowl preview. I hate Dallas and there's nothing I'd like to see more than Oakland's receivers burn Deion a couple of times. And having Jerry Jones get run over by a player on the sidelines would be fun to watch too. Here's my upset. Pick - Oakland.

Jacksonville at Tampa Bay: As a football battle in Florida, this probably doesn't measure up to Florida versus Florida State, but it could still be interesting. When talking about Tampa Bay, everybody talks about Trent Tilfer, but it's Eric Rhett and the defense that make that team go. Pick - Tampa Bay.

Detroit at Chicago: Title this game, "Eric Kramer's Revenge." If the Lions' season hasn't completely unraveled by the time they start this game, it will have, by the time they're finished. Should we give some kind of bonus points in this contest for correctly naming the Lions' next head coach? Pick - Chicago.

Castle Farms receives contract proposal for Renaissance Festival

Castle Farm, Inc., received a contract proposal to rent the facility to the Michigan Renaissance Festival of Holly, MI, for the July 4 weekend of 1996. According to the castle's executive director, John Porter, "Castle Farm Inc., will be evaluating the contract proposal from the Renaissance Festival after the acquisition of the property. Our first priority is to secure the property, prior to the December 18 deadline."

The festival presents a great occasion for the northern Michigan area as a source of entertainment, employment, and education. It gives everyone the chance to witness and participate in theater, art, handmade crafts, food, games, and equestrian events as they may have been held four hundred years ago.

The European Renaissance was a reawakening of the creative spirit of mankind. It is that very spirit which is the guiding force of the Renaissance Festival. Each year as the village of artisans, food purveyors, and performers comes to life with the arrival of the King and Queen to celebrate the harvest, the enthusiasm and artistry of the Renaissance Europe are recreated for everyone to explore and enjoy.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for the whole area. We need this kind of event at Castle Farm to replace the rock concert venue," Porter said. "This is the healthy kind of activity for the entire family that not only benefits Castle Farm Inc., but enhances the summer activities for everyone."

If you want this type of activity, in addition to others, send your tax deductible contribution for the acquisition of Castle Farm to CB North, c/o Castle Farm Escrow Savings Account, Account # 1700006221, 201 State St., Charlevoix, MI, 49720.

Third Annual "Holly Daze" to benefit hospital

The third annual Charlevoix Area Hospital "Holly Daze" event will be held on Nov. 24, and 25 at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

Jeanne Talboys, chairman of the event, says, "This year's 'Holly Daze' will be a great place to get in the Christmas spirit." There will be wreaths, Christmas trees, and gingerbread houses, kitchen items, and wine tasting. Shoppers may purchase beautiful angels, fresh greens for decorating, or choose a custom decorated wreath. In addition, there will be entertainment including children's stories, caroling, piano music, and dancing.

The "Holly Trolley" will shuttle between downtown and the elementary school so shoppers can park at either place and be returned to their car. Holly Daze takes place on Friday, Nov. 24, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Saturday, Nov. 25, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. A silent auction will conclude at 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Funds raised will go toward new and replacement hospital equipment and remodeling costs.

all Seasons."

Cards are 10 for $70 and will be on sale at Holly Daze, Nov. 24 and 25 at the Charlevoix Elementary School, in the hospital gift shop, or by calling Kathy Johnson at 547-4024.

Official NoticeORDINANCE #629

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY AMENDING SECTION 5.243 OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

- 1) That the current Section 5.243 of the City's Zoning Ordinance (Chapter 51 of the City Code) be deleted and Section 5.243 be amended by adding new language as follows:

5.243 PROJECT STAKING AND INSPECTION

The following project site staking and inspections shall be required:

- (1) Prior to the issuance of a zoning permit, the applicant or its representative shall accurately stake the location of the parcel property lines and the location of the proposed construction such that the Zoning Administrator may, by use of a tape measure and horizontal measurements, confirm that the construction as staked is as represented on the applicants site plan which accompanies its application. On sloping sites, the lowest finished grade level shall be established on a grade stake which is offset from the construction such that it remains undisturbed during the course of the construction and may be used to check the final grade by the Zoning Administrator by means of a string line level.
- (2) After issuing a zoning permit, the Zoning Administrator shall from time to time conduct inspections of construction, for which a permit has been issued, as may be required to determine compliance with the permit.
- (3) Prior to commencing any construction of improvements which are a part of a project approved with a special use permit such improvements shall be staked both horizontally and vertically such that the Zoning Administrator may verify that the improvements are located as shown on the approved site development plan.

At a minimum, the following inspections shall be required:

- (1) Prior to issuance of a zoning permit.
- (2) Prior to commencement of construction of any site improvements which are a part of a special use permit.
- (3) After site preparation, but prior to construction of any foundation system.

It shall be the duty of the applicant or its agent to notify the Zoning Administrator when work is ready for inspection. Such inspection shall be made within a reasonable time following notification giving due consideration to the Zoning Administrator's work schedule and work load. Required inspections shall be deemed a requirement of a zoning permit or a special use permit even though the inspection requirement is not listed on the permit document.

In the event the Zoning Administrator is unable to determine if parcel boundaries are accurately located or that proposed or actual construction is properly located on a parcel, the Administrator may require that the applicant have prepared, at its cost, by a registered land surveyor, a survey of the parcel or proposed or actual work. Such survey shall be submitted to the Zoning Administrator for review and as a part of the applicant's zoning file.

Inspections on the part of the Zoning Administrator shall in no way absolve the applicant of responsibility for properly locating and undertaking construction in a manner which meets the requirements of this ordinance of any permit issued in accord with this ordinance nor making any corrections to the construction which are necessary to meet the requirements of this ordinance.

SCRAPBOOK

That was no fishing boat - It was a light vessel

An Oct. 7 Scrapbook photo of a boat at dock has drawn quite a bit of response. When we ran the picture, we didn't know what it was and assumed it was one of the many fishing boats that used to be in Charlevoix. After the Courier ran the photo, some of our more nautically astute readers called and wrote in to correct our mistaken assumption. The boat, which had the word "GRAYS" written on the side, was not a fishing boat, but was Gray's Reef Light Vessel #57 and it has quite a history.

the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia contacted the Courier and told us that the boat was no fishing boat, but was a light ship. In the early 1900s, in some instances, light ships, rather than other forms of navigational aids, were used in some places on the Great Lakes.

This past week, Roy Ance, a former Charlevoix resident who now lives in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, sent a letter and some other information offering a great deal of insight into the life and eventual demise of Gray's Reef Light Vessel #57.

Ance's father, Peter D. Ance, worked on the boat from 1914 to 1923. The boat was one of three light vessels built by the Blythe Craig Ship building company. It was placed in service Oct. 24, 1891. Between Nov. 17 and 20 it left its station without orders and put in to Cheboygan. The crew was discharged for dereliction of duty and replaced. During the winter, equipment problems on the boat were corrected.

Duty on the boat was challenging. A crew of five had to remain on the boat throughout the shipping season. Beyond that, even though the boat was anchored, it had to be powered and steered to keep from sinking during storms. The ship's wheel, on top of the deckhouse, was unsheltered.

The boat was nearly 103 feet long and had a beam of 20 feet. She was powered by a steam screw and constructed of white oak. Three oil burning lens lanterns lit the ship. She also had a six inch steam whistle and a hand operated bell to guide ships past the reef.

By 1923 the oak in the ship was suffering from dry rot and the ship was retired. Peter Ance, with the help of Roy Ance, took the ship to Milwaukee. In Milwaukee the ship was sold for $465.48 to a salvager who stripped the boat. It then remained at dock until 1928 when a group of teenagers bought it for $75 and hired a tugboat to take it to another site near Milwaukee where it eventually sunk.

Gobblers to go

Area restaurants do the cooking, you dine at home

By Laurie Lounsbury

It's Thanksgiving day, and you'll be driving across town to Aunt Ruth's house, where all the relatives will gather. Aunt Ruth will serve a wonderful turkey dinner - so wonderful that the bird bones will be picked practically clean, leaving little for leftovers. Oh sure, she'll take some tin foil, a few slices of turkey and a dollop of dressing, wrap it up and send it home with you, but it's hardly enough. You'll need several turkey sandwiches to appease your stomach while you watch the Detroit Lions get pummeled again.

Or maybe you're the one hosting Thanksgiving dinner for out of town relatives. If you get off work at five o'clock Wednesday, you'll be hard pressed to stop at the grocery store, buy two cartloads of food, go home, and whip up a feast in time for the early arrivals.

So what's the solution? More and more people are finding that Thanksgiving dinners-to-go are the answer to turkey trauma. In Charlevoix, both the Weathervane and Mahogany's at the Charlevoix Country Club offer complete Thanksgiving dinners that you can pick up and take home. They do all the cooking. You just do the eating.

Both restaurants send you home with a whole turkey, mashed potatoes, dressing, cranberry relish, gravy, veggies, and a homemade pie.

Kevin Dunn, manager at Mahogany's, said quite a few of the dinners were ordered for the sole purpose of leftovers. "A lot of people going somewhere else for Thanksgiving want leftovers at home. They like turkey sandwiches, but they feel funny about asking for leftovers from their hostess," Dunn said. The staff at Mahogany's debated about what type of side dishes to prepare for their take-out turkeys, but finally settled on traditional Thanksgiving fare. "We have a great apricot and sausage dressing recipe, but we decided to go with traditional dressing. We're going to make it a down home, old style dinner."

At the Weathervane, manager Christopher Ames is geared up for the 40 or so dinners they'll prepare for take-out. The Weathervane, along with the other Stafford restaurants, has been offering turkey dinners-to-go since 1989. Dudley Marvin, general manager of Stafford's restaurants, said the need for dinner-to-go surfaced in 1970 at the Pier in Harbor Springs. "We've always had a certain demand for turkeys out the door," Marvin said. He explained that resorters coming north for the holidays have no advance time to prepare a meal. Since many stay in condominiums or cottages, they don't have the equipment to cook a big turkey dinner. "Over the years, more locals found out about it and like the idea," Marvin said.

Cooking more than 40 turkeys properly and having them ready for a designated pick-up time is quite a production, Marvin said. "We start cooking at two in the morning," Marvin said. Timing is everything.

Bob Clock's words remain timeless

By Laurie Lounsbury

Judy Clock bounded into the Courier office last week, her eyes sparkling like a woman who had just delivered a baby. She was, in fact, making a delivery. "Look, I had a book," she announced with great enthusiasm. Then she revealed the object of her joy. It was a book, with the trusted face of her late husband Bob Clock on the cover and a title familiar to everyone in Charlevoix - "Clockwise."

After months of work, Judy finished a project that she and Bob had talked about before his death last spring. Judy compiled a selection of Bob's "Clockwise" columns written during his first two years in Charlevoix. Reading through hundreds of columns was a treat for Judy. It was the first time she'd ever read them. "Bob used to call me on the phone and read his column to me, to see if it sounded right. Then, when the paper came out I didn't read it, I just clipped it out and saved it," Judy said.

The job of selecting columns for publication was a labor of love for Judy. "It was fun to do. All he really left us were his words,” she said, clutching the book in her lap.

And oh, what words he left us. Some of his columns will make you laugh out loud. And the laughing brings back poignant memories of Bob; his wry sense of humor, his integrity, and his insightful ability to comment on sensitive issues.

The book will take you back to the years between 1965 and 1967, when Clock was editor of the Charlevoix Courier. Clock shared with his readers the simple joys of life. Of his move to town he wrote, “I saw what appeared to be a hay wagon on the crest of South Hill. At closer range it turned out to be our furniture, the whole load bristling with dining room chairs and floor lamps.” On his first smelt fishing expedition, Clock fell into the creek. In his column about it, he wrote, “I did catch a few smelt which looked quite surprised finding me at the other end of the net, having met me so recently as a denizen of their own environment.”

Other columns touch on curbing his young daughter's penchant for dog food, “It is certainly better to take precautions now than to have Kathleen start chasing cars or barking at strangers,” cherry picking in Traverse City, and trips to the family homestead in Canada.

A few columns take the reader back in time to that turbulent, Vietnam war era. Clock handled the subject with careful sensitivity.

The book is on sale at the Apple-tree, Shop of the Gulls, the Bridge Street Bookshop, and the Charlevoix Bookshop. Judy Clock will be on hand to sign books at the Bridge Street Bookshop, Dec. 2.

In the forward of the book, Judy Clock included a passage from one of Bob's columns, written after his mother died. “...there was laughter, and good humor, and good company, just like always. Suddenly I realized what I should have known all along: a person who leaves so many pleasant memories behind never really goes away at all.”

Pool supporters continue fundraising efforts

Five hundred letters mailed last week to Charlevoix area residents and visitors launched the second phase of the capital campaign for construction of the Charlevoix Community Pool.

Board members of Charlevoix Friends of the Pool and others wrote to friends and neighbors to ask for their enrollment in the Triple Three Plan. In their letters, the writers outlined the reasons for their financial support of an indoor pool and suggested a minimum pledge of $333 a year for three years. Donors are eligible to have engraved name plaques displayed in the pool lobby.

The concept was tested earlier among a limited number of residents and had favorable results, according to CFOP vice-president Bruce MacArthur.

“We hope a minimum of 300 families will enroll which would boost the campaign fund by $300,000.” Meanwhile, he added, the campaign's first phase of seeking support from major donors and foundations continues. So far, 60 people have signed up.

The organization's construction goal is $880,000. A gift of $250,000 toward operation of the pool becomes available in monthly allotments after the pool opens. Target date for the grand opening is Fall of 1996.

The third phase will begin in the spring with several fund raising events planned to encourage broad participation by the community.

...take-out turkey is popular

According to Marvin, the timing gets trickier in years when the Detroit Lions are playing well. “If the team is a contender for the playoffs, no one wants to pick up their dinners until right after the game,” he said.

Not too long ago it was unheard of to let a restaurant prepare a turkey dinner for home consumption. And it was totally unthinkable to go out for dinner on Thanksgiving. That too, has changed with the times. “Thanksgiving is rapidly becoming one of the popular meals to go out for,” Dunn said.

Restaurants are happy to accommodate this trend. Mahogany's and the Stafford's offer tableside turkeys, where an entire bird is brought to the table, along with all the trimmings. Guests are welcome to take the carcass and any other leftovers home with them.

High school adapts to new scheduling format

By Laurie Lounsbury

Comparing the atmosphere at Charlevoix High School from last year to this year is like comparing the chaos of a children's tee ball game to a foursome of bridge.

This year, the halls are quieter. Students are learning more in a shorter amount of time. Delinquency is down, completed homework is up. Teachers are calmer. Hallways are cleaner.

Has Charlevoix created the Shangri-la of high schools? Not quite, but most students and teachers would probably agree that the new block scheduling is a step in the right direction.

Block scheduling was put into effect this year at the high school. The scheduling technique stretches class length from 50 minutes to 85 minutes. Students have specific classes every other day instead of every day. The result is a more college type of format. Students also have an 85 minute “seminar” period twice a week. This free time is devoted to homework, make-up tests, extra help from teachers, and a host of meetings or assemblies.

That means class time remains completely uninterrupted. No assemblies, no student council meetings, no pep rallies ever disrupt learning time. Announcements blare over the loud speaker only during the seminar period.

Block scheduling also means that students, over the course of a semester, will have 15 percent less class time to learn course curriculum than they had last year. But high school principal Gary Grundman maintains that with block scheduling, students learn 102 percent of the material in 85 percent of the time.

Block scheduling is not some magic panacea for all students and teachers. It does have some glitches.

Here's how the pros and cons of block scheduling are surfacing after one marking period:

*Pro - Every time the bell rings and students move to a new classroom, it takes about ten minutes before they settle into the work routine. With block scheduling, students spend more time in one class and less time moving around.

*Con - Teaching methods need to change in order to fill an 85 minute class time effectively. “With some teachers, 85 minutes of lecture time is just too much. It gets really boring,” one student remarked.

*Pro - With four long classes each day, instead of seven shorter classes, students spend less time in the halls. That means less litter, less commotion, less time to sneak out of school. “Students are calmer, and teachers are in a better mood. After 85 minutes in a classroom, the students' adrenaline slows down,” Grundman said.

*Con - If a student misses one day of school, they've missed quite a bit of curriculum. “If you miss one day of school, you'll be making it up for a long time,” said senior Jess Wood.

*Pro - The seminar period, held twice a week, allows students to get extra help from any teacher in the building. For kids taking extracurricular activities, it gives them a chance to get homework done in school, freeing after school time for other pursuits.

*Con - Mondays are mayhem. In order to divide class time equally over five days in a week, all classes meet for 45 minutes on Monday.

Seminar periods at the high school are a time for homework, extra help from teachers, or a time to work on projects with classmates. In the computer room, working at a table together are, from left, Erik Butcher, Leah Dulaney, Mary Scharenbroch, Nikki Bunting, and Jess Wood. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

The result is mass confusion. “Even at McDonald's (restaurant) they're confused about the lunch rush hour on Monday, because the schedule is different,” said Erik Butcher, a high school freshman.

*Pro - Block scheduling keeps kids in school. And keeping kids in school is imperative under the new state funding formula. Students must be in school a total of 990 hours in order to qualify for funding as a full time student.

*Pro - The seminar period, which is an integral part of block scheduling, allows students to work one on one with teachers. “It takes a lot of energy on our part, but it's been great for the kids. It lets us build relationships with students,” said teacher Mary Lieberman.

Overall, the general consensus seems to be that block scheduling works, and after some modifications, it will work even better. As Grundman said, “The best thing about it is that there's a real commitment (from the staff) to improve.”

Starting, sliding and hooping

For those of you who hadn't noticed that they had been closed, Federal Government offices idled by the budget debate have reopened. The short length of the closing was predictable - not because the offices closed are so vital, but because many of the offices closed are very nonvital and had they stayed closed longer that would have become more and more obvious. From here, in the budgetary debate, Congressman Newt Gingrich and Senator Robert Dole look to be closer to reality than President Bill Clinton. Seven years should be long enough to get the federal government back to the point where it isn't spending more money than it's taking in. Limiting the growth of some entitlement programs such as Medicare is going to have to be part of correcting the budget deficit.

On an issue we notice more locally, it's turned winter on us and brought the normal winter driving challenges. Even though we sometimes get more snow in later winter months, the storms of November and December seem to create more than their share of driving difficulties. As for why that might be, here are a couple of theories: 1. In November and early December, people have yet to reacclimate themselves to driving in winter conditions. Even for good drivers who have several winters behind them, driving in the first snowstorm of the year always seems to be something of a new experience; 2. Storms in November and December tend to be wet and slushy or icy. Storms later in the winter tend to occur in cold enough weather so that the snow is drier and not so slick.

Those are just theories. They're based on observation, not scientific research. Whether you see any validity to them or not, please take your time navigating area roadways during the early winter storms. Even if you think these theories are hogwash, we'd still like to see you have a safe trip.

Charlevoix's varsity girls' basketball team continues to be a giant slayer in regional basketball tournaments. Last year the Rayders beat an undefeated team that was ranked number two in state polls. This year the Rayders beat an undefeated team that was ranked number three in state polls. Charlevoix entered this season's regional tournament unranked, with seven losses.

Asked about beating unbeaten teams despite the disparity in regular season records, Rayder coach Joe Powers said, "I think there's a little difference in our (regular season) schedules."

Powers said he thinks the teams with glistening records have a hard time taking Charlevoix seriously. The Rayders' tallest player is only 5'9". The Rayders have a 5'6" player take the opening tip.

So how do the Rayders win? They play smart and they play hard - every minute for all four quarters. Opponents begin the game fresh and confident and finish it beaten and dazed.

Charlevoix will be playing in the regional finals Wednesday, Nov. 22 in Roscommon.

HUNTIN'! That's all they talk about - but this is the first year I've had a buck hanging from my apple tree. Jay Gilbert arrived in his Chevrolet pickup truck, packed with hunting gear, his ATV, ready for opening day.

Now my home resembles nothing to a huntin' camp in the Upper Peninsula. My guest room has ruffled curtains and a group of Audubon prints neatly arranged over the bed. Orange juice, coffee and pecan rolls are waiting for him in the kitchen. But Jay prefers to meet his pal at the Flapjack Shack for breakfast at dawn.

They drive to their secret hideaway located 10 minutes from my place, and split up. Jay settles in with his thermos bottle, puts on his earphones, turns on the radio, stashes his handy warmers around his body, and enjoys the scene. He sees a small doe on the far side of the woods, but he's waiting for bigger game. No one ever admits this, but I wouldn't be surprised if these hunters don't doze off once in awhile.

And I'm also not surprised when he ambles in for a cup of homemade chile around noon. He's wearing his bright orange cap and a bright orange, down-filled jacket and his face is pink and his eyes are sparkling. My thoughts fly back to when it all began in Charlevoix.

Long before landfills, during the 1950's, Charlevoix had a city dump. One of the fellows at the skeet club told us that a real fun thing to do is to go out to the city dump and shoot rats. You must admit, the prospect of shooting rats at the city dump would be a major turn-on for most normal fourteen year olds, and Jay was no exception. He had learned to handle a gun shooting skeet and he was a fine shot, frequently scoring 25 out of 25. Many afternoons his father took Jay to the dump to shoot rats.

Once in a while his father was unavailable, and with much pleading, Jay coaxed me to drive him to the smelly, smoky, place where I sat in the car reading Vogue, while he happily roamed the dump, shooting away.

No huntin' in 1995 ain't what it used to be. Not around here, anyway. This afternoon, Jay drives back to his secret spot, and while sitting in the truck, an eight point buck walks across the field. Jay's heart pounds with anticipation. Unfortunately, at that very moment the cellular car phone rings and of course the buck takes off in a flash. Major disappointment!

All is not lost however. At dusk, Jay shoots a young buck. He loads it on the truck and brings it home to show me. So there it is now hanging on my apple tree, until it can be cut up, labeled and wrapped for Venison Stew.

THREE DAY VENISON STEW RECIPE

About two pounds venison
1 onion
2 tablespoon butter
1 grated lemon rind
salt and pepper to taste
MARINADE:
1/2 pint vinegar
1 onion
marjoram, thyme, sage 1 bay leaf

juniper berries

Possible variations: marinade the meat in red wine and buttermilk. Instead of butter, lay thin slices of bacon over the meat. Or add 1/2 lb. mushrooms and a little tomato puree. Or carefully peel and core a few small apples and put them into stew, whole, in the liquid with the meat.

Prepare a marinade by boiling the vinegar briefly with chopped onion, lemon rind, salt and pepper. Leave meat in liquid for about three days. Then remove the meat, dry and rub with butter. Place in heavy duty pot, or Romertopf, and add marinade again. Cover and cook in a very hot oven (475) for 2 hours. Then carefully drain off the liquid and strain through sieve and mixed with -

1 tablespoon red currant jelly
1 tablespoon mustard
1 tablespoon grated ginger
1 pint sour cream
lots of chopped parsley.

Heat sauce gently until of an even consistency. In the meantime, return meat to oven - without the lid - and allow to brown.

Serve sauce with potatoes or dumplings, brussel sprouts and cranberry sauce.

This recipe makes 6 good helpings.

Letters to the editor

Anti-tobacco group offended by cigar smoking events

Editor,

I am writing to you regarding the front page article "Blowin' Smoke!" which appeared in the November 15, 1995 issue of the Courier. This article causes a great deal of concern for me. As a member of the Emmet-Charlevoix-Antrim Tobacco Reduction Coalition, we strive to create a community standard that is less tolerant of tobacco use in Northern Michigan. This coalition is motivated by the belief that tobacco use is a major public health problem in the Northern Michigan community. We are committed to reducing tobacco use, especially among youth, in order to improve public health and to reducing the incidence of tobacco-related disease and disability.

The article I referred to promotes cigar smoking. What kind of message does that give the youth of our community? Youth look to adults as role models. Is this scene of business men smoking cigars at dinner, the picture they want their children and other youth of the community to think of when they are deciding what they want to do with their friends?

Are cigar smoking events an attempt by the tobacco industry to shed a positive light on smoking? Cigar smokers have a more "benign image" than cigarette smokers, the group that usually receives the most criticism.

Perhaps the people who attended the cigar smoking event are not aware of the health risks of cigar smoking. Cigar smokers have over all cancer death rates 34 percent higher than nonsmokers. Their risk of dying from laryngeal, oral, or esophageal cancer is four to ten times greater than that of nonsmokers. Heavy cigar smokers face an additional risk of lung cancer which is two to three times greater than for nonsmokers. These statistics are from the American Medical Association, "American Medical News," July 24, 1995.

I urge the people who attended the cigar smoking event to consider how their actions may have affected the youth of our community. I encourage the staff at the Courier to publish articles on the rise of teenage smoking, the effects of secondhand smoke, and the affects of tobacco on the health of members of our community.

County CROP Walk raises $13,560

Topping all previous records, the 1995 Charlevoix County CROP Walkers and their sponsors raised $13,560 to combat hunger needs, reports Marge Teske, Walk treasurer. A total of 131 walkers partici-

One quarter of this amount will be returned to food pantries in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan.

Charlevoix had 65 walkers, raising $6,500; Boyne City 16 Walkers for $2,000; East Jordan 50 walkers for $5,060. Top money raiser, for the second consecutive year, was Lucy Witthoeft, again turning in $1,000.

Twenty other local walkers raised more than $100. Representing First Congregational Church: Witthoeft, T.J. Christiansen, Nancy Fowler, Cara Hochhalter, Barbara Plagge, Philip Schairbaum. Representing Bethany Lutheran Church: Dwayne Bean, Edith Dale, Reatha Trentham. Representing Church of God: Marian and Millard Hand, Lorene Goss, Bonnie Voorheis. Representing United Methodist - Charlevoix: Sandra Gregory, Randy Maurer, Jill Washburn and United Methodist - Barnard: Janet Van Stedum, Michelle Van Stedum, Robert Bellairs. Representing Community Reformed: Marianne DeYoung, Sam VanderHeide and St. Mary's, Monica Maillieux.

Service clubs from the three cities take turns serving refreshments at the Ironton destination. In 1995 Charlevoix Kiwanis, with donations from Glen's, Olesons and Rosenthal Orchards hosted the walkers.

FURNITURE BY YOUR WINDOWS

Oddly enough, many home makers forget to furnish one of the most appealing parts of a room. How many people think to put chairs or tables in the area immediately in front of a window - and yet this can be an ideal place because you can take advantage of natural light and a view of the outdoors, and add extra beauty and convenience to your interior decor.

What are some of the ways you could decorate this area?

Here are several ideas.

How about a comfortable chair and companion table by the window as an ideal spot for reading or just sitting and day-dreaming. Or, this could be the perfect spot for a sewing table, a desk or game table. Or you might want to put a small table and chairs by the window for snacks or light entertaining.

We're speaking not only of the living room, but other rooms, too, such as the bedroom where you can use space in front of windows very imaginatively with various combinations of different tables and chairs. You might want to use a make-up table by a bedroom window, or a telephone table and chair where you can talk and look outside at nature's beauties at the same time.

Remember, for all your furnishing needs and ideas we invite you to shop here.

Robert C. Fochtman

Robert C. Fochtman, 78, of Laingsburg, Mich., died Nov. 19 in Zephyrhills, Florida.

Funeral services will be at the United Methodist Church, Laingsburg on Friday Nov. 24. Burial will take place in East Lawn Memory Gardens, Okemos, Mich.

Mr. Fochtman was born March 20, 1917 in Petoskey, the son of Angus L. and Ella M. (Cross) Fochtman. The family moved to Charlevoix in 1928. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1935. He graduated from General Motors Technological Institute and was employed by the family business, the Charlevoix Oil Company, and by General Motors in Flint. He entered the Army Air Corps in 1939 and served as a warrant officer with the Air Force in the south Pacific during World War II.

He married Frances Shelley of Lima, Ohio, on October 22, 1944. They made their home in Charlevoix and Haslett, Mich. His wife preceded him in death, Feb. 22, 1971.

He worked for Michigan Bell Telephone and was employed by the Michigan Department of Transportation for 13 years before his retirement in 1975.

He was a member of the United Methodist Church of Laingsburg, Mich. and the Trinity United Methodist Church of Zephyrhills, Florida. He belonged to the Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F&AM of which he was past master.

Mr. Fochtman married Mildred Sayles of Laingsburg Aug. 5, 1972.

He is survived by his wife, Mildred, daughter Sharon (Anthony) Conti of Lansing, Mich., son Robert F. of Key Largo, Florida, three grandsons, G. Todd (Kristin) Pelton of St. Petersburg, Florida, Matthew and Zachary Conti of Lansing, Mich., two sisters Mary Helen (Robert) Riddle of Charlevoix, Esther L. Hammond of Largo, Florida, two brothers, Edward G. (Mary) of Elmhurst, Ill. and William E. of Charlevoix, sister-in-law Bonnie Fochtman of Charlevoix, and aunt Mildred Webster of Jacksonville, Florida. Brother Richard preceded him in death, Feb. 3, 1994.

Stepchildren are Robert (Lois) Sayles of Laingsburg, Mich., Shirley (Robert) Aldrich of Laingsburg, Mich., Philip (Jean) Sayles of Clinton, Iowa, and Gerald (Mary Ann) Sayles of Owosso, Mich., sixteen step-grandchildren and numerous step-grand great children.

Visitation will be held Wednesday and Thursday at the Nelson House Funeral Home, McDougall Chapel, Laingsburg, Mich.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Methodist Church of Laingsburg, Mich., or St. Gerard School, 4437 W. Willow, Lansing, Mich. 48917 for library books or Trinity United Methodist Church, 33425 S. R. 54 West, Zephyrhills, Florida 33543.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. PHILIP G. SCHAIRBAUM
First Congregational UCC

A couple of years ago I thought I'd write a poem for Thanksgiving using the letters T-H-A-N-K-S as prompts for the many things we might be thankful for. As I started out, it became increasingly clear that such a poem would be very long, so I decided to develop my Thanksgiving writing around only one letter each year. That might also be a fun thing to do with family and friends around the Thanksgiving Day table. You will be surprised at the number of words a group can think up when given that assignment.

Here is the product of my first efforts, using the letter "T". I'd be glad to get additional contributions from anyone who wishes to extend the stanzas. If there is interest, we might even make this an annual community project! At any rate, I hope you enjoy this little piece and use it as a starting place for the many things you are grateful for this Thanksgiving.

On Thursday this week it's Thanksgiving Day,
An occasion to celebrate in a special way
The many good things that God has bestowed,
For which our deepest gratitude is owed.

There is surely no way to say all we should,
It's impossible to do so, for we know that it would Take us more time than we have before us
And we certainly don't want this writing to bore us.

So we'll simply lift up some words and phrases
That are some of the reasons for speaking God's praises.
As we make our list, focusing this year on "T"
Let's remember the church and what it means to you and me.

"T" is for togetherness, tolerance, and trust,
Gifts of the spirit, which are a must.
It's also for teaching, especially the golden Rule,
Which all of us learned in Sunday School.

"T" is for toddlers, for ten-year-olds and teens,
All ages of children whose lives, it seems,
Are of such great value; they're our greatest treasures,
And bring us some of our greatest pleasures.

"T" is for traditions, music is one kind.
It helps us keep the faith in heart, soul, and mind.
The Trinity is another; it's a blessing to hear it —
The fullness of God as Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

"T" is for our temple, the sanctuary we love
Giving tangible evidence of God above,
Who sent long ago great tidings of joy
And in Jesus asks us timeless truths to employ.

"T" is for Testaments, both New and Old,
Through which the story of faith is told.
A story of God's triumph over all sorrow
Which offers us hope for every tomorrow.

So, on Thanksgiving Day no matter where our place is,
Let's be sure to remember those transforming graces.
As we're eating turkey and trimmings, or whatever is in store,
Let's give thanks for these blessings, and so many more.

Doyle L. Warner

Doyle L. Warner, 66, of Charlevoix, died Nov. 17, 1995, at his home in Norwood Township.

His funeral was Nov. 21, at the Barnard United Methodist Church. The Rev. Robert Bellairs officiated with burial in Barnard Cemetery, Marion Township.

Mr. Warner was born Jan. 27, 1929, in Norwood Township, the son of Charles L. and Emma Ethel (Brown) Warner. He attended the Clarke School.

On May 3, 1949, he married Bernice Stone in Charlevoix, and she survives.

Mr. Warner worked on the family farm his entire life. He also worked at the East Jordan Iron Works in East Jordan, retiring in 1994 after 25 years.

He enjoyed landscaping his yard and gardening. He was an avid outdoorsman and enjoyed fishing and hunting. Mr. Warner played the guitar, and loved his children and grandchildren.

Survivors include his wife, Bernice; six sons, Doyle and his wife, Susan, of Ellsworth, Gaery of Ellsworth, Kenneth of Lakeland, Fla., Brian of Charlevoix, Kelly of Charlevoix, and Bradley of Charlevoix; three daughters, Donna Cross and her husband, Marc, of Charlevoix, Patti Left and her husband, Terry, of Charlevoix, and Melissa Shay and her husband, Todd, of Largo, Fla.; 15 grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; and three sisters, Leona Habel of Charlevoix, Irene Nadeau and her husband, Raymond, of Taylor, and Lucille Anderson and her husband, George, of Lansing.

Mr. Warner was preceded in death by nine brothers, Clyde, Giles, Homer, Dixon, Burton, Harrison, Harley, Jasper, and Everett; one sister, Lyda Mae Warner; a grandson, Doyle Kevin Warner; and daughter-in-law, Debra Warner.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Barnard United Methodist Church for the Barnard Youth Camp.

Helen F. Looze

Helen F. Looze, 95, of Charlevoix, died Nov. 17, 1995, at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

Her funeral was Monday, Nov. 20, at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Looze was born Jan. 10, 1900, in Advance, the daughter of Morritz and Louise (Sable) Martin. She was raised in the Advance area.

In 1925, she married Frederick J. Looze in Gaylord. The couple moved to Charlevoix in 1928 from South Manitou Island. Mr. Looze preceded her in death in 1975.

Mrs. Looze continued to live in Charlevoix until 1988 when she went to live with her daughter in Beloit, Wis. She returned to Charlevoix in 1992.

Mrs. Looze enjoyed gardening, quilting and embroidery.

She is survived by her daughter, Beverly H. Southern, of Charlevoix; three grandchildren, William E. Southern Jr. of Phoenix, Ariz., Mark D. Southern of DeKalb, Ill., and Linda Hagen of Lafayette, Ind.; and by two great-grandchildren, Ashley and Adam Hagen.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Looze was preceded in death by three brothers, Herman, Walter and Benjamin; and by one sister, Mary Fett.

Eastern Star installs officers

Worthy Matron Rosalyn Goldstick presided at the November meeting of the Charlevoix Chapter #72, Order of the Eastern Star.

Installation was held for Marshal Nancy Wood, American Flag Bearer Ray Wood, and Chaplain Diane Rosendahl, who had been absent at the installation of officers Nov. 1.

The Sunshine Committee reported that cards and calls had been made to all shut-ins and ill members. Ember Witthoef sang a beautiful solo entitled "My Part" dedicated to all of the officers who were conducting the first meeting of the 1995-96 season.

A new program initiated by the Worthy Grand Matron asks that all members record all volunteer hours for community service, rehabilitation, hospital work, helping neighbors, etc. A contest between chapters will be held, with all Chapters competing only in their size categories, and a plaque given at the end for the Chapter having the most valid volunteer hours.

The annual Vesper Service will be Dec. 20 starting with a pot-luck dinner at 6:15 p.m. and followed by the regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Evangeline Chapter #95, Boyne City, has been invited to participate in the Vesper Service. All other chapters are invited to attend. In lieu of gift exchange, all members are asked to bring a sack of non-perishable foods or paper products, which will be donated to the Charlevoix Christmas Food Pantry.

Balloting was done for two new candidates and five transfers of membership. Initiation of the new candidates will be Wednesday, Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m. All members are asked to attend.

Community Foundation receives $300,000 from Kellogg Foundation

Grant will help area youth programs

Charlevoix County youngsters have received an early holiday gift - one that will continue to benefit them for many years to come. A $300,000 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation will become part of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's youth fund, a permanent endowment that's set aside to support programs and projects for young people.

To qualify for the Kellogg grant, the community foundation raised $600,000 in local donations over the past year. In 1992, Kellogg pledged to match 50 cents for every local dollar the foundation collected over a five-year period - up to $1 million. To date, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation has received $703,000 in Kellogg matching grants.

"This is just terrific for our community and our kids," says Vel Kammermann, community foundation president. "We're building a significant fund that can help us enrich the lives of families and children well into the next generation."

According to Robert Tambellini, who serves as executive director of the community foundation, the Kellogg challenge has acted as a strong incentive to encourage local support. "Our donors are amazed and delighted when they discover their contribution can almost double in value through matching gifts like Kellogg's," he says. "They see this as a permanent investment in children - and a gift that can go to work on behalf of young people right away."

The Youth Advisory Committee has already helped a variety of programs in the area to the tune of $21,500 so far - and another $14,000 is ready to be given out before the end of this year. Programs that have received youth grants include Raven Hill Discovery Center, the D.A.R.E. drug prevention program, a youth theater program of the Jordan River Arts Council, a sexual assault prevention project and the Women's Resource Center, and a number of recreational, environmental awareness, health, and education programs.

A Youth Advisory Committee, made up of three students from each of the county's high schools, oversees the special fund and participates in grantmaking decisions. Y.A.C. members regularly survey their peers, talk to teachers, and study existing nonprofit organizations to learn more about what kinds of services and activities are needed. Only interest income is used to make youth grants, so the endowment can continue to grow over the years.

Youth participation is an important component of the community foundation's work, explains Tambellini. "The whole idea of community foundations is about investing in the future - and this is a way for our young people to help shape the world they'll live in. In the process, they learn the value of philanthropy, volunteerism, and leadership."

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation was established in 1930 to "help people help themselves." As a private grantmaking organization, it provides seed money to organizations and institutions that have identified problems and designed constructive action programs aimed at finding community solutions.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation was started in 1992 by a group of civic leaders from throughout the area. The charitable organization received donations from individuals, families, and organizations and manages them in a permanent trust. Investment income is used to fund a variety of educational, human service, health, civic, and cultural programs in the county. Although new to our area, community foundations have been in existence for more than 80 years. Today, there are more than 475 such organizations in the United States, 54 of them in Michigan.

Cliff Biddick, Bob Johnson, and Roger Sievertson set sail on Lake Charlevoix last Wednesday aboard Biddick's boat Solstice. The sail, called the "Deer Hunter's Alternative," takes place every year on opening day of firearm deer hunting season.

United Way wrapping up 1995 campaign

Local United Ways are on their way to a successful finish to the first ever combined campaign. To date, more than $100,000 in pledges have been collected by United Way volunteers, about 63 percent of their $160,000 goal. More than half of the pledges so far have come from the eight United Way Pacesetter companies as well as summer residents and individuals. Several new company campaigns were started this year with the help of the campaign chairs and division leaders. The two largest accounts, CB North and Medusa Cement Plant, are from the Charlevoix area.

"We feel that our campaign is successful this year because we have been able to develop two new, large accounts who have contributed for the first time," said Charlevoix United Way President Ellen Zienert.

CB North held their first employee campaign and raised more than $900 with 85 percent of the employees participating. The company then matched the employee gifts dollar for dollar doubling the impact of their contributors.

"This has been an unexpected gift," said Zienert. "CB North has proven themselves as a community leader by taking the initiative to match funds. Very few companies in our area are doing this yet. The benefits to the community would double if more participated as they have."

The Medusa Cement Plant campaign, under the leadership of Joyce Gehm, Local 480, and Bruce Reid, is proving to be another successful first year effort.

"Medusa is going for the ultimate goal of 100 percent participation," said United Way Executive Director Lisa Ashley. "Employees are being encouraged to participate in the United Way campaign and have had opportunities to be placed in prize drawings as they pledge."

As co-chair Joyce Gehm puts it, no amount is too small to provide support to our community. During her presentations to fellow employees she reminds them that the gift of one's time as a volunteer is often as valuable as the monetary gift and has encouraged employees to become involved with their communities in some way.

To date, more than $2000 has been raised by Medusa employees for the United Way campaign this year. "Again we are pleased by the generosity and caring of this company, its employees and their union leadership. Medusa has allowed us the time to meet with their employees and given the ok to begin payroll deductions," said Zienert. "We are grateful for their enthusiasm."

The United Way campaign will wrap up at Thanksgiving and they will begin distributing funds to local human service agencies in February. Anyone interested in participating on the fund distribution panels should contact the United Way office at 347-0115.

DSS office moving Dec. 8

The Charlevoix DSS office will be closed to all normal business on Friday, December 8, 1995. Telephone and voice-mail systems will also be disrupted on that date.

Emergency Adult or Children's Protective Services referrals should be telephoned to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department at 616/547-4461. The 24 Hr. Protective Services Hotline, 616/347-1700, should be used as a back-up number.

The office will open for business as usual at 8 a.m. Monday, December 11 at its new location, directly adjacent to the existing office.

Beware of carbon monoxide

Every year about 300 people in the United States die from carbon monoxide (CO).

Carbon monoxide is produced by burning any fuel. Therefore, any fuel-burning appliance in your home is a potential CO source. Some of these sources of carbon monoxide can be a room heater, furnace, charcoal grill, range, water heater, clothes dryer, auto in closed garage, or fireplace. When appliances are kept in good working condition, they produce little CO. Improperly operating appliances can produce fatal CO concentrations in your home. Likewise, using charcoal indoors or running a car in a garage can cause CO poisoning.

To help protect your family from carbon monoxide:

- Make sure appliances are installed according to manufacturer's instructions and local building codes. Most appliances should be installed by professionals.

- Have the heating system (including chimneys and vents) inspected and serviced annually.

- Follow manufacturer's directions for safe operation.

- Examine vents and chimneys regularly for improper connections, visible rust or stains.

- Notice problems that could indicate improper appliance operation.

For added protection, install a CO detector that meets the requirements of Underwriters Laboratory Part 2034. This information should be part of the literature that comes with the detector. CO detectors have helped to save lives in Northern Michigan.

When an alarm is activated by carbon monoxide, it is important to remove people and pets from the affected area. Unless life safety is involved to someone being trapped inside, calling the fire department is not necessary. The CO detector should not be confused with the smoke detector. In most areas it's better to contact the utility company that supplies your fuel or a professional that installs and maintains fuel burning appliances in your home.

Carbon monoxide poisoning can kill you. The initial symptoms of CO are similar to the flu (but without fever). They include: dizziness, fatigue, headache, nausea, and irregular breathing. Remember, if you have any of these symptoms and you feel they are related to carbon monoxide poisoning, you should seek medical treatment.

Rayders advance to Regional finals

Charlevoix upsets team ranked third in state

by L. Scott Swanson

Entering Monday evening's Regional semi-finals against Charlevoix, the Lincoln-Alcona team did not have a loss. Now...they do.

After trailing 35-21 at halftime in the Rosecommon regional, Charlevoix rallied to upset the number two ranked Lady Wildcats 68-63. It is the second year in a row that the Rayders have upset an undefeated highly ranked team in regional play. Last year the Rayders beat number two ranked Whittemore-Prescott before losing to McBain in the finals.

Wednesday evening the Rayders will be looking to avenge that loss to McBain. In Monday evening's other semi-final game, McBain worked over Benzie Central 63-42.

Rayder coach Joe Powers is looking forward to the rematch. After beating Lincoln-Alcona, Powers was asked how he felt about upsetting the number three ranked team in the state. "Good," he replied. "I don't want to say great, because I don't want this to be the game. I want to get past McBain. I've wanted to play McBain again since last year."

Charlevoix and Lincoln-Alcona

both started slowly Monday evening. The first 3:14 of the quarter was scoreless. Two baskets by Lisa Parrish, sandwiched around a free throw by Amanda Eaton gave the Rayders a 5-0 lead. Lincoln-Alcona responded with a nine point run to finish the quarter.

Neither team shot well in the first quarter. Charlevoix gave up several offensive rebounds, but fortunately for the Rayders, Lincoln-Alcona's second shots often weren't any more successful than the originals. The Rayders pressed when they could, but Lincoln-Alcona succeeded in breaking the press not with their guards, but with 5'10" sophomore Michelle Unkovich dribbling the ball up the middle of the floor.

Charlevoix's varsity girls' cross country team recently received Academic All State honors. In addition to placing second in the Class C State Finals race, each member of the varsity team has a grade point average of 3.6 or better. Members of the team are: (front row) Rachel Newcomb, Kelly McFarlin, Tricia Hodge, (back row) Monica Browe, Chelsea Gorkiewicz, Candice Vandergriff, and Jessa VanGuilder.

...Rayders to play in Regional finals

Powers scouted Lincoln-Alcona twice before Monday evening's game. Although the Rayder players didn't know it, for the past four weeks some of the things they've been working on in practice have been geared toward Lincoln-Alcona.

Two of the front court players, Powers was worried about were Unkovich and 5'9" junior Shawna Stewart. Powers felt he could put Liz Kelly on Stewart and keep her under control. That worked. Kelly held Stewart to nine points total and only four in the second half. Powers wanted to take away Stewart so that if Lincoln-Alcona was going to beat Charlevoix with a front row player, it would have to be with Unkovich. For a while in the second quarter, it looked like that's exactly what was going to happen. Unkovich scored 14 points in the final four minutes of the second quarter. Charlevoix countered with sophomore point guard Amanda Eaton who had eight points in the second quarter.

While Unkovich had a big first half, Charlevoix's sophomore post player, Lisa Parrish had a tough time of it. Putting up some uncharacteristically ugly shots, after scoring the two first quarter baskets, she was shut down for the remainder of the first half.

At halftime, Powers huddled with his assistant coaches Leanna Mosoryak and Jim Parrish before going to the locker room with the players. Between them, they came up with several adjustments. Among the adjustments were: increasing the size of the rebounding area by having the Rayders push Lincoln-Alcona farther away from the basket (several Lincoln-Alcona players shot hard and flat which creates long rebounds); on the press the Rayders brought their guards closer to the center of the court to make it harder for Unkovich to get the ball and come up the center of the floor; encouraging all of the Rayder players to simply be more aggressive on offense.

The Rayder players responded perfectly to the coaching adjustments. "Everything we adjusted at halftime, we did (in the second half)," Powers said.

Charlevoix opened the third quarter with a 10-5 run in the first 3:13 to whittle Lincoln-Alcona's lead to nine points. Kelly and Parrish began setting up shop beneath the Lincoln-Alcona basket. Kelly operated on the right side and Parrish on the left. In the third quarter, Parrish scored 10 points and Kelly eight.

The Rayder guards had foul trouble in the third quarter. With three guards with three fouls, Powers turned to sophomore Ann Marie Terryberry. Terryberry responded with several solid minutes, which not only kept Eaton out of additional foul trouble, but left her fresh for the fourth quarter. Guard Jenni Swenor also sorted out a couple of key rebounds from among the big people.

By the end of the third quarter, the Rayders had trimmed the Lincoln-Alcona lead to 51-46 and the Lincoln-Alcona bleachers had taken on a less jovial air. After the first 1:30 of the fourth quarter when Charlevoix scored six straight points to take a 52-51 lead, that section of bleachers was getting downright somber. Meanwhile, across the gym, a small, but passionate Charlevoix crowd was really beginning to enjoy this game.

The final six minutes of the game were back and forth and exciting. Lincoln-Alcona guard Alicia Kilbourn hit two baskets to give Lincoln-Alcona a 55-52 lead. Eaton then made two free throws, followed by a Parrish basket to put Charlevoix back on top 56-55 with 5:09 left to play. In the next two minutes, the lead changed hands four more times.

Charlevoix finally went on top to stay when Parrish hit a shot with 3:26 left to play and gave the Rayders a 60-59 lead. Lincoln-Alcona then missed a free throw and Eaton drove to the basket with her right hand, crossed over to her left hand and hit a sweet driving scoop shot and put Charlevoix up by three. It was the second dazzling shot of the quarter for Eaton. Earlier, she got the ball beneath the basket, pump faked a taller Lincoln-Alcona player into paratrooper school, spurt while the defender hung and put a shot off the glass and through.

Lincoln-Alcona cut the lead to one with two free throws and Eaton struck again. She broke the press of the dribble, was fouled with 1:04 left to play and hit two free throws to put Charlevoix up 64-62.

Lincoln-Alcona had one last chance when they went to the free throw line trailing 66-63 with nine seconds left to play. They missed both free throws and Kris Blanchard capped off a solid all around game with a basket at the buzzer.

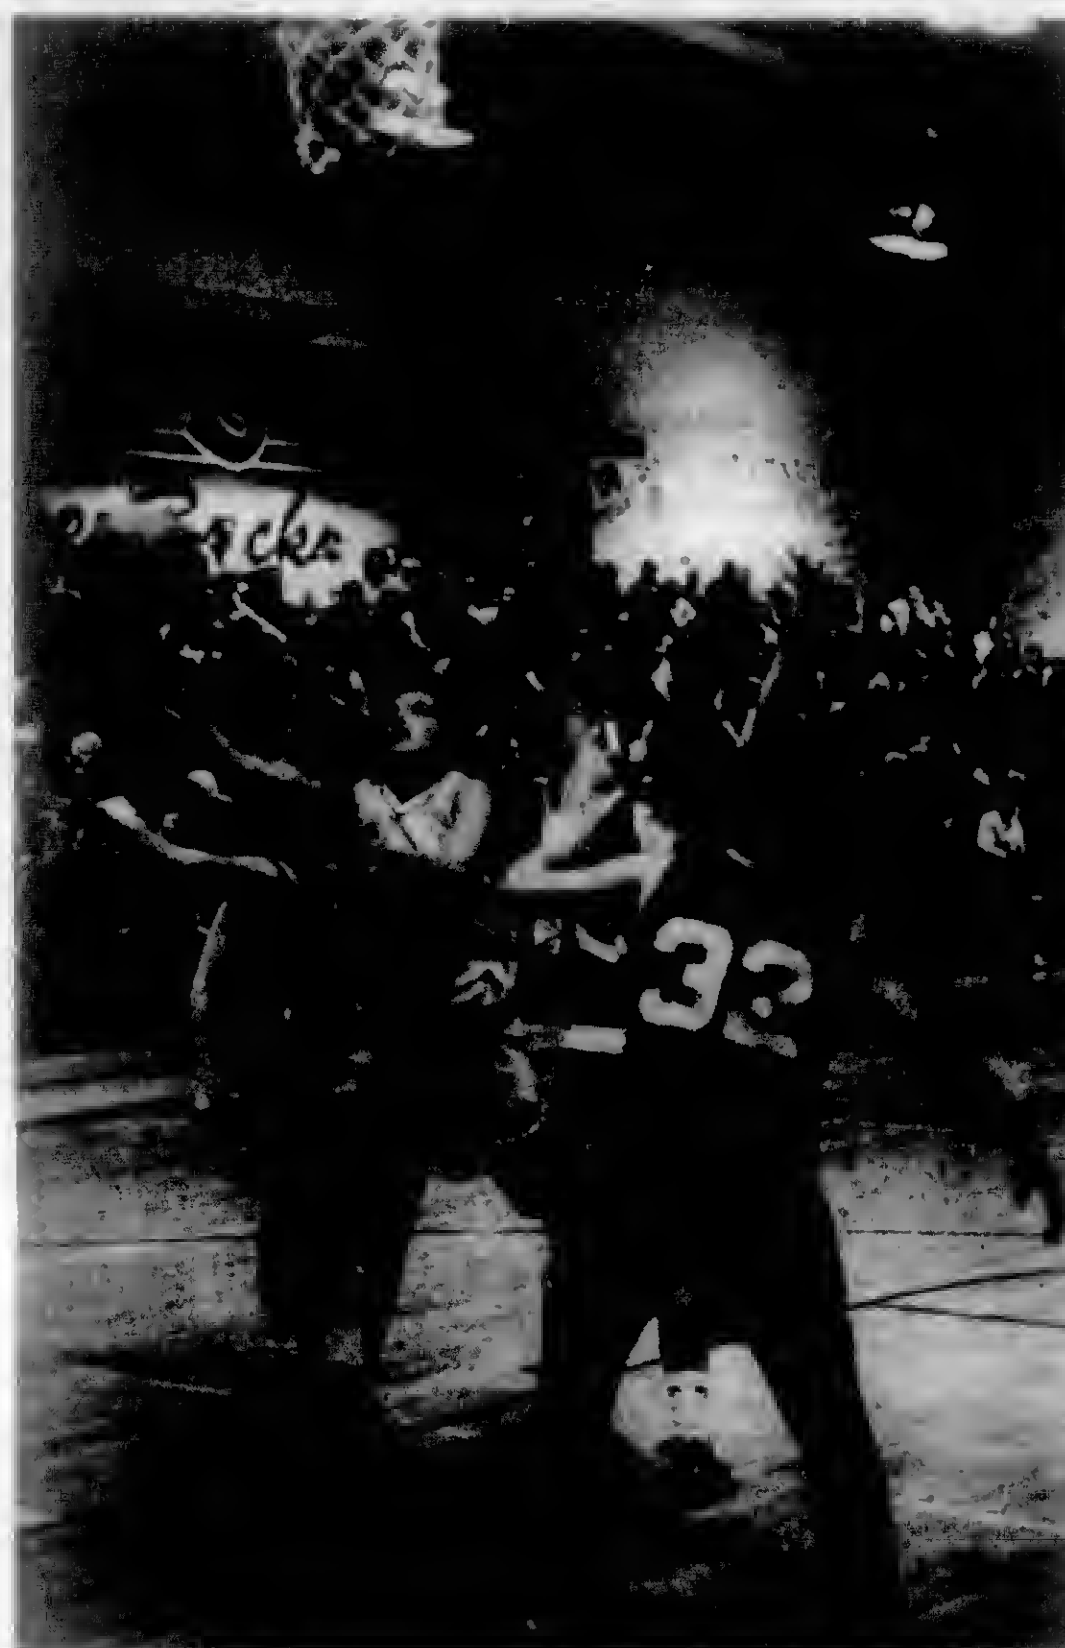

Powers had praise for his entire team after the game. "My team never lost heart," he said. As an example, he said, "Lisa Parrish was down on the floor three times in the second half. That's 'I want to win this ball game.'"

Charlevoix had 23 offensive rebounds in the game. In the fourth quarter they outshot Lincoln-Alcona 26-8. Kelly led the Rayders in rebounding with 11 while Parrish and Blanchard each had nine. Blanchard also had five assists and Eaton three.

Parrish led the Rayders in scoring with 26, followed by Eaton with 17, Blanchard with 12 and Kelly with 10.

Charlevoix will play McBain in Roscommon at 7 p.m. Wednesday evening.

SPORTS

Kris Blanchard (50) finds a seam between the defenders Monday evening. Blanchard had 12 points and played and excellent all around game for the Rayders.

Ok, so her form wasn't perfect, but Liz Kelly did get this shot up on the rim.

School discusses building options

by L. Scott Swanson

What does the community want to do about replacing a middle school building that is nearly 70 years old? Well, that depends on what community member you're talking to and on what day you're talking to them.

Nobody's arguing that the Charlevoix Middle School building hasn't seen its days of usefulness pass, but there also isn't agreement on what the school should do to replace the 1927 building. Monday evening, at a community meeting in the high school, people discussed three proposals: building a new grade 6-8 middle school; building a new high school; or building a new grade 5-8 middle school.

Each of the preliminary proposals also calls for renovation work to other school buildings in addition to building a new school. The preliminary price tags on the proposals are: $16 million for a new grade 6-8 middle school; $17 million for a new high school; and $16.4 million for a new 5-8 middle school.

Approximately 40 people attended Monday evening's meeting. It is the latest meeting in a process which has been going on for approximately four years. The process started with a structural study of all of the school buildings. A facility committee made up of community members, school administrators and staff members then met for approximately two years. Last year, the facility committee recommended that the school build a new 6-8 middle school. Since that time, there have been ongoing discussions within the school system.

Middle school principal Dennis VanGuilder opened Monday evening's meeting with a slide presentation detailing problems at the current middle school building. He noted that although landscaping work several years ago has made the outside of the building look good, inside there are a multitude of problems. Among those problems are: cracks in the floor; lack of space for classrooms and storage; more than 300 stairs which makes the building out of compliance with handicap accessibility laws and create liability problems; undesirable foot traffic patterns which leave the gym used as a hallway; unsafe balcony seating in the gym; lack of a science lab for sixth and seventh grade students; bumps and ripples in classroom floors; poor energy efficiency and worse acoustics; a lack of electrical outlets requiring excessive use of extension cords.

Elementary school principal Dick Swenor discussed the school's planned course of action for arriving at a decision about how to address facility problems and also explained some of the problems at the elementary and high school buildings. Among the problems cited at the elementary school were: overcrowding - the school currently has 623 students which Swenor said he believes makes the building, by enrollment, larger than any other elementary school in northern Michigan; and no science lab. The high school, like the other two buildings, needs electrical work to provide additional outlets as well as a wiring system to allow networking of computers. The high school also has some asbestos and handicap accessibility problems and lacks an auditorium.

Swenor said that following the community meeting, the school plans to empanel a citizen review task force to come up with a final proposal. That task force will then forward a proposal to the school board. Following a school staff review to refine specific points of the proposal, the proposal will go before community members in a bond election.

Following school staff comments, community member Dale Boss stood up and made a pitch for a new high school with an air-conditioned auditorium and an air-conditioned gym. Boss also recommended having the new high school include new administration offices and be located on a 49-acre site north of town on US 31. He suggested that only minimal improvements be made to the existing elementary and high schools.

Comments following discussions among small groups raised a variety of issues. Among them:

*Given that the present high school is approximately 35 years old, will a new school be paid off before another bond issue is needed to finance another school building? School superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson said that barring a population explosion, she doesn't envision the school coming back to voters for additional building money for at least five to 10 years.

*Should an auditorium be included as part of the bond issue package or be a separate issue? Feelings were mixed among those attending Monday evening's meeting.

*Technological/Vocational education needs to be addressed in any building issue.

*Who will vote in a bond election and upon what issues will they make their decisions?

*What's enrollment going to do? The effects of charter schools, schools of choice and Big Rock's proposed plant closing need to be considered.

*While it's easy to show that problems exist in the present middle school building, it will be more difficult to show the educational virtues of a new building.

You can avoid having the flu for the holidays

The flu usually hits from November through April, however, January, February and March are the worst months.

The flu shot can help prevent the flu. The shot should be given to the elderly and people with health problems who might get very sick or die from the flu. People who take care of high risk people should also get the vaccine. The vaccine may be helpful for anyone who doesn't want to get the flu or be off sick from work.

High risk people are:

* Adults and children with long term heart or lung problems needing regular visits to a doctor.

* Residents of nursing homes and other institutions housing persons of any age with serious long term health problems.

* All people age 65 years or older.

* People of any age who during the past year have regularly seen a doctor for treatment of illnesses such as kidney disease, cystic fibrosis, diabetes, anemia or asthma.

* People who have a type of cancer or immunological disorder or who use certain types of medicines that lower the body's normal resistance to infections.

* Children and teenagers who must use aspirin. They might be at risk for Reye's Syndrome if they get the flu.

Most people have no problems with the flu shot and the vaccine does not cause the flu. A common

Scouts and Hams contact the nation

Saturday, Oct. 21 the Boy Scouts of America held JOTA (Jamboree on the Air) throughout the United States. This event encompassed Amateur Radio as well as the Boy Scouts.

The intent was to assist the boys in attaining the Radio Merit badge as well as developing interest in Amateur Radio. Contacts were made primarily on the East coast as far south as the Carolinas. The scouts were delighted to converse with other boys and compare troops, responsibilities and rank.

Appreciation is extended to the Little Traverse Bay Amateur Radio Club and its members for conducting this event. Both the Boy Scouts and amateur radio have significant opportunities to guide the youth of today.

Hams who served as radio operators were: WA8MMC Dave Burns; KG8CS Floyd Davis; KB8PQQ Gary Ruehle; KB8OLD Bill Parton Jr.

Allergic or more serious reactions could occur after the shot, but are not common. People with a history of allergic reactions to flu vaccine, chicken eggs, or to any component of the vaccine, should call their doctor first for evaluation. Do not

Editorial

School should build a new middle school, rather than a new high school

Charlevoix's 70-year-old middle school should be replaced with a new middle school, rather than a new high school.

Although there is some sentiment for building a new high school and moving middle school students into the old high school, an objective analysis indicates that makes less sense than just building a new middle school.

Currently the school system and the community are trying to figure out how to go about replacing a middle school building which is approaching 70 years old. A facility committee of school personnel and community members met over a two-year period to discuss the school's facility needs. The committee (which the writer of this editorial was a member of) was assisted by architectural and engineering professionals.

After lengthy discussions on a variety of options and issues, the committee recommended building a new grade 6-8 middle school and renovating the existing high school and elementary schools. The committee forwarded its recommendation to the school board last year. Since that time, additional community meetings have resulted in two alternative proposals: constructing a new 5-8 middle school; or constructing a new high school and moving the middle school students to the existing high school.

While some might think the two alternatives are brand new proposals that the facility committee failed to consider, that's simply not the case. The committee considered both of those proposals (as well as the possibility of renovating the present middle school) at length. When all was said and done, the committee concluded that the most sensible thing to do from a financial and educational perspective is to build a new grade 6-8 middle school.

L. Scott Swanson

Among the key reasons for that are the following:

*It took some real prodding, but when pushed hard to come down off the fence one way or another, the architect working with the committee said if it was his decision, he would build a new middle school rather than a new high school. He said he feels with some renovation, the present high school building will adequately serve the community's educational needs for several years.

*Many of the peripheral facilities at the present high school are designed for high school, not middle school needs. In the past decade the community has put more than $2 million into just the football and track facilities. Moving the high school away from those facilities would mean either grossly underutilizing those facilities, or transporting students from the new high school to the old high school to use them. Another prime example is the high school gym. The high school gym will hold approximately 1,000 people. Seventh and eighth grade basketball games just don't draw that kind of crowd.

*In recent years, Charlevoix (along with the rest of the nation) has made some real strides forward in its view of middle school education. At one time, middle school was simply a holding tank for students until they got down to serious education at the high school level. Fortunately, that philosophy has changed. No longer are middle school years wasted. At the middle school level, broad based education is stressed. Middle school is a time for students to explore a lot of different educational options. That prepares them for high school and college where they can then zero in on more specific educational pursuits. The current reality is that, done correctly, even though middle school education is not the same as high school education, it's just as important.

At a community meeting Monday evening arguments were made that Charlevoix should have a new high school because a high school is a community showplace and that historically, school decisions to spend more money, rather than less, on facilities and equipment have worked out for the best.

When analyzed objectively, those arguments just don't hold water.

In regard to a high school being a showplace, that is something that didn't come up in facility committee discussions. The reason it didn't come up is because building a showplace was not a committee priority. The committee's priorities were addressing Charlevoix school facility needs so that students can be educated in the best and most cost-effective manner.

As far as using past school spending decisions as guidance for future expenditures, that has its drawbacks too. In the past, we built a northern Michigan high school with a "breezeway." Beyond that, if past spending decisions had been all that stellar, we wouldn't have a 70-year-old building with no money set aside to replace it. We need to look to the future.

And our best bet for the future is a new middle school.

How to deal with city traffic problems

Editor,

I read with interest your editorial of November 8, 1995 concerning Charlevoix traffic problems and recalled an earlier comment you made concerning traffic northbound at the Bridge/Antrim "squeeze."

While this whole matter is probably a July 1st to August 31st problem, I have a few observations to make about traffic in beautiful Charlevoix. If David Letterman will not object, I'll put them in a "top ten" form.

10. The Courier should always publish a map along with an article about intersections and traffic in Charlevoix and the surrounding areas. My memory isn't as good as it used to be.

9. State should be one way southbound and Bridge one way northbound from the Bridge/State intersection to the Bridge/Park intersection. If that can't be done, then at least one side of Bridge should be designated "No parking."

8. The "No Left Turn" sign at Bridge and State northbound should have flashing yellow lights attached.

7. The Charlevoix County Road Commission should put signs up along M-66 from Captain's Corner shopping center to Wolohan's warning motorists that "You will be nailed by the Sheriff if you pass vehicles on the paved shoulder."

6. The left turn experience northbound at the Bridge/Carpenter intersection is better than the "D tick-et ride" at Disneyland. The mayor and the entire city council should be there to shake your hand every time you negotiate that course.

5. There should be a four-way stop at the intersection of State and Antrim! A body could get killed!

4. A by-pass along the old C&O right-of-way could be built with a high suspension bridge over the channel at the Coast Guard buoy station. We then wouldn't have to drive all the way to Mackinaw to show our grandkids a bridge. What the heck, while we're at it let's build a second suspension bridge from the top of the hill at Bridge and Thistle Downs to the top of the hill at Bridge and Hurlbut. Think of the view! Not a bad idea now that the water tower has been toppled.

3. If a suspension bridge is out of the question, ferry service should be offered from the C&O depot to the Irish marina. The Arnold folks could be persuaded to run the thing. If not, the Ironton ferry could be pressed into doing double duty. The county would, however, have to provide a rudder for the vessel so it could make the journey.

2. Newspaper editors from Charlevoix (or anyone else) should not attempt to "squeeze" into traffic at Bridge and Park southbound at the last minute. Please plan ahead. Turn arrows should be painted on the pavement in the right lane.

1. Newspaper editors from Charlevoix (or anyone else) should not attempt to "squeeze" into traffic at Bridge and Antrim northbound at the last minute. Please plan ahead. Turn arrows should be painted on the pavement in the right lane.

I'm sure the city's traffic problems will be solved. I hope sooner than later.

Sincerely,
Chad Ervin

P.S. I let editors (or anyone else) squeeze into traffic at Bridge and Antrim.

MDOT defends road funding decision

Editor,

Recently, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) and Governor Engler announced the three-year redirection of $64 million per year in federal aid. This action represents an investment decision to meet the needs of more than 300,000 motorists per day. This redirection announcement was met with allegations that local government could not plow snow or fill potholes.

Wrong. Federal aid cannot be spent on snow plowing or pothole filling. These funds are for capital improvements only.

Michigan is more than generous with sharing aid. We are the only state to "share" federal aid with independent road commissions. As a matter of fact, in 1992, Michigan spent more than three times the national average on local roads.

Additionally, federal law neither requires sharing nor direction of federal aid to local road jurisdictions. However, it does require a small amount of funding be invested in bridges and urbanized areas, and we more than meet these requirements.

The redirected federal aid represents about 9 percent of the Charlevoix County's 1995 total transportation funding. This does not change the need to set local transportation priorities and make decisions locally. MDOT will continue the long-established dialogue with local officials and residents to establish priorities for Michigan's federal aid transportation projects and fulfill federal requirements.

Michigan's state roads carry 53 percent of all traffic and 80 percent of the commercial traffic that keeps Michigan working. It makes sense to meet the needs of the majority of our customers first.

The real issues here are those of change - acceptance of responsibility and establishment of priorities to meet customer needs. Times are changing and so are our customer needs. If we continue to do what we have always done, we will continue to get what we have always gotten, deteriorating roads and bridges and increased congestion. I do not believe this is what our customers want.

Sincerely,
Patrick M. Nowak

Thanks for lunch

Editor:

On behalf of the Bergmann Center of Charlevoix and the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate Community Based Programs of Charlevoix and Petoskey, I would like to express our sincere appreciation to the Christ Child Society of Northern Michigan for hosting a delicious luncheon at the Edgewater Inn of Charlevoix on November 3, 1995.

This was a particularly successful get-together. The participants thoroughly enjoyed the food, the entertainment, and most importantly, the camaraderie of their friends and hosts.

This was an event that will remain a cherished memory forever.

Sincerely,
Earl A. Kilander
Director of Special Education

Metcalf - Mousseau

Tina Metcalf of East Jordan and Kevin Mousseau of Charlevoix were married October 7 at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Shirley and Don Metcalf of East Jordan. The groom is the son of Maryetta and Ken Mousseau of Charlevoix.

Approximately 140 guests attended the wedding, where the church was decorated with baskets of white gladiolas, calla lilies and deep purple lisianthus and ivy.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. She wore a mermaid-style, white silk gown with a v-neck and open back and long train covered with pearls and lace.

The bride also wore a crown made of roses and beaded pearls, and carried a bouquet of white and purple silk flowers.

Patty Sadowski sang "The Power of Love" at the ceremony.

Matron of honor was Sheila Johnstone, sister of the groom. Bridesmaids were Sharyl Morris, sister of the bride, and Samantha Firman. They wore tea length purple satin dresses with a sweetheart neckline and satin bows accenting the sleeves and the open back.

Flower girl was Melissa Ann Morris. Her costume matched the bridesmaids' dresses.

Ring Bearer was Hunter Johnstone. Best man was Scott Kehrer. Groomsmen were Scott Johnstone and Chris Coen. Ushers were Bobby Joe Givens and John Haggard of Charlevoix.

A reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Charlevoix, where a catered dinner was served and entertainment was provided by a disc jockey.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents the night before the wedding at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

The couple spent their honeymoon at the new Sleep Inn in Charlevoix, then moved into their new home in Charlevoix.

The groom is a partner in K and J Excavating in Charlevoix. The bride is employed at Harbor Industries.

Official Notice

PUBLIC NOTICE
PUBLIC HEARING
CHARLEVOIX CITY COUNCIL
REGULAR MEETING
Monday, December 4, 1995
7:00 P.M.

The Charlevoix City Council will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to hear public comments (oral and written) regarding an ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix by updating the Weed Control Ordinance being Sections 6.71 - 6.74 of Chapter 63 of said Code by repealing the current ordinance and enacting a new Weed Control Ordinance.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT CHAPTER 63 WEED CONTROL

6.71 WEED GROWTH PROHIBITED

No person owning and/or occupying any premises in the City of Charlevoix shall permit or maintain on any such premises any growth of noxious weeds: nor any growth of grass or other rank vegetation to a greater height than twelve (12") inches on the average; nor any accumulation of dead weeds, grass or brush. "Noxious weeds" shall include Canada Thistle (Cirsium Arvense), Dandelions (any species of Cuscuta), Mustards (Charlock, Black Mustard and Indian Mustard, species of Brassica or Sinapis), Wild Carrot (Daucus Carota), Bindweed (Convolvulus Arvensis), Perennial Sowthistle (Sonchus Arvensis), Hoary Alyssum (Berteroa Incana), Ragweed (Ambrosia Elatior 1), Poison Ivy (Rhus Toxicodendron) and Poison Sumac (Toxicodendron Vernix). The term "person" as used in this Ordinance means an individual, partnership, corporation, limited liability company or any other legal entity.

6.72 DUTY OF OCCUPANT OR OWNER

It shall be the duty of the occupant as well as the owner of every premise within the City to cut and remove or destroy by lawful means all such noxious weeds and grass, as often as may be necessary to comply with the provisions of Section 6.71; provided, that the cutting, removing or destroying of such weeds and grass at least once in every three (3) weeks between June 1 and September 15 of each year, shall be deemed to be in compliance with this Chapter.

6.73 WHEN CITY TO DO WORK

If there is not compliance with the provisions of Sections 6.71 and 6.72, the City Manager shall notify the occupant or owner of such premises to comply with the provisions of said Sections within ten (10) days after service of such notice. Notice shall be given in accordance with Section 1.11 of this Code. If there is no compliance with such notice within the specified time, the City Manager shall cause such weeds, grass and other vegetation to be removed or destroyed and the actual cost of such cutting, removal or destruction including supervision and overhead costs shall be a lien against the premises and collected in the manner prescribed in Act 359 of the Public Acts of 1941, as amended. The City manager shall be commissioner of Noxious Weeds of the City, and shall serve as such without additional compensation.

6.74 ALTERNATIVE PUBLICATION

In lieu of the notice required by Section 6.73, the City Manager may publish a notice in a newspaper of general circulation in the City during the month of March. The notice shall state that vegetation not cut by June 1 of that year will be cut by the City. It shall also state the continuing obligation of a person to comply with this Ordinance and that the owner of the property may be charged with the cost of compliance pursuant to Section 6.73. The notice shall also contain such other information as is required by Act 359 of the Public Acts of 1941, as amended.

FAMILY

Murray - Wilmers

Kimberly and Roger Wilmers

Kimberly Ann Murray of Aurora, Illinois, and Roger Ronald Wilmers of Lapeer were married September 2 at Camp Daggett.

The bride is the daughter of Wanda and Bruce Murray of Lapeer and Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Kay and Ronald Wilmers of Lapeer.

The wedding took place under a large white tent, with 250 guests in attendance. The altar was decorated with two silk fig trees and a grapevine arch covered with white wisteria garlands and ivy accents.

Rev. Bruce Hamilton of the Charlevoix Community Church of God performed the double ring rites. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a gown of white shantung, venice floral lace, pearls, and sequins. The dress had a sweetheart neckline with short puffed, tulip sleeves, a basque waistline with a fitted bodice embellished with beaded lace. The dress had a semi-cathedral train. The bride's veil was a tiara of satin flowers and a pouf of bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of white and peach roses, yellow daisies, lavender freesia, pink lilies, with ivy streamers and ribbon accents.

The Traverse City String Quartet performed at the wedding with Lori Warich performing as vocalist.

Matrons of honor were Kristen Oppermann, twin sister of the bride, and Susan Schall, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Lori Watrich, Carman Turkelson, Kelly Morris, Linda Birkenhauer, and Kay Wadley. They wore jade, floral, tea length dresses with touches of pink, yellow, lavender, and peach. They also wore white, wide-brimmed hats with jade tulle accents and carried bouquets in shades of either pink, yellow, lavender, or peach.

Groomsmen were Tony Whitman, Peter McCready, Jay Erickson, Ben Hale, Eric Grossbauer, Dan Wilmers, and Mark Wilmers, brother of the groom. Ushers were Jamie Oppermann, brother-in-law of the bride and groom, Chris Warner, cousin of the bride, and Tim Hogan, cousin of the groom.

A reception was hosted by the parents of the bride and groom at the Mort Noff center at Camp Daggett, with assistance provided by Dennis and Linda Warner, and Richard and Debbie Hogan, aunts and uncles of the couple.

A rehearsal dinner picnic was hosted by the groom's parents at Ferry Avenue Beach. The groom's parents surprised the wedding couple with a hot air balloon ride at the picnic.

The wedding couple took a honeymoon trip to Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. They are making their home in Aurora, Illinois.

The bride is employed by the Weyerhaeuser Corporation in Aurora. The groom is employed at The North Face Store in Schaumburg, Illinois.

GOOD NEWS IN FURNITURE

Not long ago, the thought of costly cleaning or re-upholstering made many people worry about buying upholstered furniture -- always fearful of spots, stains and spills. But it can be a different story today.

Many upholstered pieces are now treated with one of several good chemical soil and stain repellents that protect your furniture. It's good news to know that the furniture industry has done so much about an age-old problem.

And there are now other fibers on the market, too, mostly the products of chemistry that almost wholly reject stains and soil without the need of a repellent. They are called polypropylene and are known by various trade names, such as Vectra and Herculon, and are also used in the manufacture of both outdoor and indoor carpets.

This fiber is almost completely moisture proof and non-absorbent so that it's almost impossible for waterborne stains, dirt, oil, grease, lipstick, crayon, even ink, to get into the fiber.

Seating comfort has also improved tremendously. Many manufacturers use a foam cushion filling for the center which has a soft outer wrap of polyester. This combination gives the soft feeling of down but costs less and keeps its shape much better. There are many improvements in furniture, and we invite you to come in and see them.

obituaries

Rita Catherine (McCauley) Long

Rita Catherine (McCauley) Long, 68, died Nov. 21 at North Oakland Medical Center as the result of an automobile accident suffered Nov. 15 in Pontiac.

Services were held Nov. 24 at St. Benedict Catholic Church in Waterford, MI where she had been a faithful member for many years. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery on Beaver Island, Nov. 25.

Mrs. Long was born Dec. 30, 1926 on Beaver Island to Peter Owen McCauley and wife Elizabeth Ricks. She attended Sunnyside Elementary School and then St. James High School on the Island, graduating in 1945. She then became an employee of the King Strang Hotel on the Island before moving to Pontiac where she was an employee of Michigan Bell Telephone Company and of the Dayton-Hudson Department Store from which she retired in 1984.

On May 13, 1950, she married Dennis Wayne Long and they resided in Pontiac. They had four children, who survive her: Karen Elizabeth Beutler (Paul) Van Bibber of Clarkston; Robert Wayne Long of Clarkston; Judith Ann (Lloyd) Bailey of Durham, NC; and Marilyn Joyce (Bradley) Baker of Clarkston.

She is also survived by four brothers: Peter James of Louisville, KY; Charles William of Rochester; Hubert Joseph of Drayton Plains; and Walter Henry of Battle Creek. Eight grandchildren also survive her: Wayne Loris, III and Byron James Beutler; Jeffrey Michael Long; Edmond Owen, Ansel Asa, and Aaron Andrew Bailey; and Matthew Orin and Kayla Marie Baker.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Holy Cross Catholic Church on the Island.

Raymond D. Scheck

Raymond D. Scheck, 77, of Charlevoix, died Nov. 15, 1995, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

His funeral was Saturday, Nov. 18, at Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix. Pastor Merle Wellhausen officiated with burial in Norwood Cemetery, Norwood Township.

Mr. Scheck was born Nov. 20, 1917, in Chicago, the son of Raymond Dietrich and Eunice (Gee) Scheck.

On May 10, 1940, he married Mildred E. Stilwell in Calumet City, Ind., and she survives.

Mr. and Mrs. Scheck moved to Charlevoix in 1947 from Winthrop Harbor, Ill.

He was a member of Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix, and was very active in the Civilian Conservation Corps camps, attending many of the CCC's recent functions.

Mr. Scheck retired from Super Tool in Elk Rapids as supervisor, after 25 years of employment with the company.

He enjoyed hunting and fishing and being with people.

Survivors include his wife, Mildred E., of Charlevoix; one son,

Donald and his wife, Marilyn, of Manistique; one daughter, Patricia Paradis and her husband, Thomas, of Elk Rapids; six grandchildren; 11 great-grandchildren; four brothers, Robert, Donald, Wilson and his wife, Belin, and Larry, all of Florida; and by one sister, Lorraine Vogeli and her husband, John, also of Florida.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to Bethany Lutheran Church Building Fund. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Frank Kubicek

Frank Kubicek, 88, of Charlevoix, died Nov. 22, 1995, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

A graveside service will be held at a later date. Burial will take place in Trojanek Cemetery, Jordan Township, Antrim County.

Mr. Kubicek was born Oct. 5,

1907, in Hostovnice, Austria, the son of Vincent and Katerina (Trpkova) Kubicek. He came to the United States at a young age, where he settled in the Bohemian Settlement in Jordan Township, Antrim County. He resided there for 60 years, before moving to Charlevoix.

Mr. Kubicek was a trustee for Jordan Township for 10 years.

He sailed for Pittsburgh Steamship Co. during World War II. The remainder of his working life was spent self employed.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Garth Crump

Funeral and committal services for Garth Crump, 68, of Kentwood, were held Monday, Nov. 27, at the DeVries Funeral Home in Grand Rapids. The Rev. Berton Van Antwerpen officiated. Interment took place in Rosedale Memorial Park, Tallmadge Township.

Mr. Crump died Nov. 25, 1995, at Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids.

He was born July 24, 1927, in Alanson, the son of Martin and Florence (Freed) Crump. He grew up and attended school in Alanson, graduating from Alanson High School. He then completed a degree at the Milwaukee School of Engineering.

On March 5, 1954, he married Bonnie Dekker in Grand Rapids, and she survives.

Mr. Crump worked most of his life for the Carrier Corp., retiring in July 1992.

The Crump family were frequent summer visitors to the Charlevoix and Petoskey area.

Mr. Crump is survived by his wife, Bonnie, of Kentwood; children, Clarke and Laura Crump of Hastings, Karen and Mike Rozelle of Rockford, and Mike and Nancy (Pepper) Crump of Grandville; grandchildren, Larry, Jerad, Joe, Katie, Becky and Nate; mother-in-law, Mrs. Genevieve Dekker, of Grand Rapids; brother and sister-in-law, Walt and Mable Crump, of Tucson, Ariz.; two sisters, Mrs. Mildred Shadko of Lansing, and Mrs. Gail Winnell of Charlevoix and Florida; sister-in-law, Mrs. JoAnne Crump, of Grand Rapids; and by several nieces and nephews.

Mr. Crump was preceded in death by his twin brother, Glade; his brother, Ranald; and his sister, Ruby.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Visiting Nurse Hospice.

Don't rush out and buy a child a pet for Christmas

Thinking about buying/adopting a new furry friend for your children this Christmas? You might want to do some research to avoid making a rash decision.

"Many parents, caught up in the holiday spirit, buy a pet without considering whether or not their family is ready for one," says Dr. Dan Carey, a veterinarian with The Iams Company. "Truth is, a new puppy or kitten is like a baby; they require a tremendous amount of attention, time and money, but the rewards of having one are immeasurable."

Is your family ready for a pet? Here are some things worth considering.

• Do you have time, time and more time? All new pets command a lot of attention, but this is especially true of puppies. Until a puppy is housebroken and comfortable with his surroundings, he will need constant supervision. A comfortable crate is effective while everyone is at work or school (providing that someone is on hand to walk and feed the dog at certain times during the day). Remember, puppies thrive on human companionship and will not hesitate to let you know this, at any time of the day or night.

It will be your job, not your children's, to properly housebreak your pet. This takes time and an abundance of patience. Good training from the start means less headaches for you, fewer messes on your carpet and a happier Fido or Fluffy.

• Veterinarian visits are vital to your pet's good health. It is important to remember that pets need yearly veterinary check-ups, even if nothing is wrong. Preventative medicine is easier — and often less expensive — than curing an illness or correcting a problem. At the yearly check-up, make sure your pet receives its proper vaccinations.

Also, unless you plan to breed your dog or cat professionally, spaying/neutering is essential. Along with helping to alleviate the growing number of unwanted pets in this country, spaying can prevent some forms of cancer in pets. The operation is safe; your veterinarian can advise you of the proper age for your pet to be spayed/neutered.

• The right match. Here's the situation ... you live in an apartment in the city. Your kids have been begging Santa to stuff their stockings with a Siberian Husky this Christmas. Against your better judgment you get them the Husky pup. Really, a puppy so little and cute can't get that big. Right?

Many people purchase puppies based on pressure from their kids or on the puppy's appearance. They do not take into account how big that puppy will get, that the breed may not adapt to young children, or is high-spirited and needs room to run. It is best to research the breed before you purchase the puppy to save yourself the heartache of owning an animal that's not a good match for your family's lifestyle.

• Some (pet) food for thought. You spend plenty of time picking out the best goods for your family, and chances are you'll do the same

Rayders fall in regional finals

Too much McBain height leads to 96-70 loss

by L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix's 1995 girls' basketball season ended the same way as the 1994 season, with a loss in the regional finals to McBain. In Wednesday evening's game at Roseomon, the Rayders got the pace they wanted, but simply couldn't cope with McBain's height and mobility and ended up losing 96-70.

"I think that we got beat by a good team," Rayder coach Joe Powers said following the game. "We played hard. We played to the best of our ability. I felt coming into the game that that game would be won on the boards, specifically our defensive boards."

From the first quarter, it became apparent that Charlevoix would have trouble keeping McBain off the glass. The Rayders' tallest player is 5'9". McBain has seven players who are 5'10" or taller. Not only are the McBain players tall, they're also quick and mobile which made it difficult for the Rayders to get and maintain good rebounding position. Further complicating things, the officials allowed a physical game in the lane.

At the offensive end, the Rayders attempted to drive the ball hard to the basket. Early in the game, the Rayders had some success with that as forward Kris Blanchard scored twice in the opening minutes of drives. Although the McBain height bothered the Rayders to some degree at the offensive end, where it really took its toll was at the defensive end. Time and time again, McBain scored on second and third shots.

The final three minutes of the first quarter were played at a frantic pace, end to end. That pace normally favors Charlevoix. The Rayders' style is to play a constant pressure, fullcourt defense which confuses and wears out opponents. McBain had the height, poise and depth to handle the Rayder press. By the end of the first quarter, Charlevoix found themselves in a 32-15 hole.

"I don't think there's a team that's harder for us to match up against than McBain," Powers said.

In the second quarter, McBain extended their lead to as much as 23 points and went into halftime leading 54-34. In the second half, McBain led by as many as 31, leading 75-44 at the end of the third quarter.

Blanchard and sophomore center Lisa Parrish shared scoring honors for the Rayders, each with 16 points. Sophomore point guard Amanda Eaton had 15 points and guard Jenni Swenor scored 11. Kelly DeRuiter led McBain with 29 points.

The game marked the end of the high school basketball careers of seven Charlevoix seniors: Liz Kelly, Blanchard, Christie Kaczynski, Beth Norton, Shari Gels, Swenor and Traci Allison.

"I wouldn't coach if I didn't enjoy being with kids and those seven seniors, I've loved being with them," Powers said. He noted that between summer camps, practices and games for the better part of four months a year, a coach ends up spending a lot of time with players who spend two years in the varsity program. That time is a lot more pleasant if in addition to being good players, those players are also good people. Of his seven graduating seniors, Powers said, "I've enjoyed being with them and I'm excited for their futures."

During their two years on the varsity team, Charlevoix won the conference and district titles twice and advanced to the regional finals twice.

The Rayders began the season looking to replace four starters from the 1994 team, including four-year- varsity player Liz Gruneh. During the first 10 games of the 1995 season, the Rayders were 5-5. During the last 14 games, they were 11-3.

"It's been a neat year in the fact that it's been really easy to see the progression," Powers said. "Once the players begin to see that, it begins to snowball."

Even though the Rayders are losing seven seniors, including three starters, Powers is optimistic about next season. The Rayders return junior Jenni Eveleigh and sophomores Eaton, Parrish and Ann Marie Terryberry. Powers said he expects the league to be a lot tougher next year, but the two-time defending champion Rayders will be OK.

Charlevoix: Gels 1-0-0 3, Terryberry 1-0-0 3, Kaczynski 0-0-4 0, Kelly 1-0-2 2, 4-7-10 15, Swenor 3-2-3 11, Allison 1-0-2 2, Norton 1-0-2, Blanchard 7-2-4 16, Parrish 6-4-9 16, 15-19-10-26 70.

Soccer players named to All-District team

Jason Firman and Noel Kammermann of the Charlevoix varsity soccer team were recently named to the All District Team.

Firman, a senior, scored eight goals and had five assists this past season. He was named the Rayders' most valuable player his junior and senior seasons and received coach's awards his sophomore, junior and senior seasons.

Rayder coach Mike Dennis said Firman was an all-around player who was versatile enough to play center in both the front, middle and back rows.

Kammermann, also a senior and co-captain of this year's team, scored six goals and had six assists. He received coach's awards his sophomore, junior and senior seasons.

Dennis said Kammermann led the team defensively and had the best work ethic on the team.

Both players also maintain grade point averages of better than 3.5.

The All District Team was selected by coaches in the district. Fourteen players were named to the All District Team. Charlevoix, Harbor Springs and Suttons Bay each placed two players on the team. The remaining eight were from Elk Rapids.

Senior forward Kris Blanchard played the final game of her high school career last week, with 16 points in the regional finals. For the past two seasons, Blanchard has been one of the Rayders' and the leagues' best all-around players. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Brandi wins final week of football contest

The winner in the final week of the 1995 Courier Football Contest was Rick Brandi. Brandi was one of three contestants who went 8-2 this past week. He won on the tie-breaker, missing by just three points. The other two contestants who went 8-2 were Alaina Simmons and Ron Zellers. Simmons was among the top contestants more than once in the final weeks of the contest. Zellers finished with the best cumulative total of all 1995 contestants who entered at least 10 times. The top 10 was very close throughout the year. Tom Meggison led for the first 10 weeks of the contest, before being nudged out by Zellers and Randy Holecheck. More than 75 contestants entered the contest at least once during the course of the 12 week contest.

We've had plenty of rain this fall

During the month of October precipitation was above average on each of the Great Lakes basins. For the year to date, precipitation is about 1 percent above average for the entire Great Lakes basin. The net supply of water to each of the Great Lakes was above average in October.

(1918-1994) averages, the October monthly mean water levels of Lakes Superior, and Michigan-Huron were 2 and 1 inches below average respectively, and Lakes St. Clair and Ontario were 3, 4, and 2 inches above average respectively. Shoreline residents are cautioned to be alert whenever adverse weather conditions exist as these could cause rapid short-term rises in water levels. Should the lakes approach critically high levels, further information and advice will be provided by the Corps of Engineers.

A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron water levels follows. All elevations are referenced to International Great Lakes Datum 1985.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of October were at elevation 578.87 feet (176.4 meters) above the mean water level at Rimouski, Quebec, or about 16 inches (41 cm.) above Chart Datum. The October monthly mean level of 578.94 feet (176.46 meters) was about 1 inch (3 cm.) below the long-term average for October. The lakes were about 30 inches (76 cm.) above the all-time, low October monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1964. The forecast shows that the November monthly mean level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 2 inches (4 cm.) below what it was at Mid-October. The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal decline into January. The water level in Mid-April 1996 is expected to be about 1 inch (3 cm.) above the long-term average for that month, or about 1 inch (3 cm.) below what it was at the same time in 1995.

for your pet. Here are some tips: Growing and active pets need a high-protein, high-fat diet; what's good for you is not necessarily good for your pet. Read pet food labels carefully to be sure your dog or cat food is high in animal-based protein (chicken by-products, lamb, egg) — it should appear at the top of the list.

To prevent stomach upsets, find a well-balanced, dry pet food and stick with it, using a nutritious, canned food for variety. Foods with better quality ingredients are more readily absorbed and utilized, which means pets need less food and produce less waste.

Owning a pet can be a wonderful, rewarding experience — if you do your homework. Also, giving your children a pet not only gives them a best friend, but teaches them the basics of responsibility and reliability.

SCRAPBOOK

Getting our farms straight

Woops! We goofed on a recent photo identified as the Hiram Brock farm. The new photo was actually of the neighboring John Brock farm on Flagg Road. The Hiram Brock barn no longer stands. We heard from Burr Blanchard and Hiram Brock's daughter, Mary Brock Reich, who corrected us on the Brock barn photo.

Speaking of Brocks, this week's scrapbook photo shows a fire that occurred quite some time ago at Aaron Brock's farm near Ironton. Brock lost 12 calves, three tractors, feed and other equipment in the blaze that destroyed his outbuilding.

Greeting cards to help hospital

This year Charlevoix Area Hospital donors have a way to show they support the hospital. Through the generosity of artist Jan Glass, a beautiful card is being sold to benefit the hospital.

The front of the card features a bright blue jay printed on cream stock. Or, a black line drawing may be selected. Cards are without message or offer the wish "May Health and Happiness be yours in this and all Seasons."

Cards are 10 for $70 and will be on sale at in the hospital gift shop, or by calling Kathy Johnson at 547-4024.

A Christmas gift from Charlevoix can be

Shop Charlevoix - It's a great idea, but a rather long drive to the Charlevoix stores if you live in Arizona, Texas, or Florida. But that doesn't mean you can't shop Charlevoix. Anyone, anywhere can shop Charlevoix because most Charlevoix merchants are willing to ship Charlevoix. That's right. Pick up a phone, call your favorite store, order that item you fell in love with last summer, and they will ship it to you. Our local merchants are no dummies. They are more than willing to accommodate out of town shoppers. So go ahead, get some Murdick's fudge for yourself. Ship some Tom's Mom's cookies to your grandchildren. Ship a delicate little Charlevoix Christmas ornament, or ship a 200-pound sculpture. The possibilities are endless. All you need is a telephone and a good memory of what's available in the Charlevoix stores. And if your memory is not quite what it used to be, here are some reminders of what's available for shipment in Charlevoix.

Bullfrog Light Company - Bill and Betsy Stewart are masters of the shipping business. They ship their original, high glow candles to retail outlets all over the country. Locally, customers can go to the store and buy candles at the outlet prices. For out-of-state phone orders, customers will need to pay retail prices. The Stewarts will ship them anywhere.

Karl's Pastry Shop - Karl and Carol Gilewicz ship Tom's Mom's cookies all over the world. Last year, the business wasn't officially open in time for Christmas, yet the Gilewicz's received orders for about 200 dozen cookies to be shipped for the holidays. "We get phone calls from Texas asking to ship cookies to Japan," Karl said. Karl's will also be making home made fruitcakes, available for shipping.

Aartvark Studio - Terry Salmonson's photos of Charlevoix linger in tourists' memories all year long. The lingering often creates a powerful yearning by Christmas time. Terry and his wife Lynne can send Charlevoix right to your living room with a Charlevoix print. Lynne reported that the aerial photo of Charlevoix during Venetian festival is a favorite holiday gift. A haunting shot of Bellinger Marine, with sailboats quietly moored in front, is sure to please the nostalgic resorter.

Shop of the Gulls - Owner Jeanine Wallace gets lots of requests from summer visitors for holiday gifts. This year, the popular items are whimsical nun sculptures, called Happy Habits, the perennial favorite, C.T. Design vases and candleholders, and Vera Bradley quilted bags and purses. This year, Wallace is particularly fond of her Old World ornaments, a collection of hand blown, painted, glass ornaments for the tree. Each ornament comes with a little story of the history behind it. The ornaments are made from antique molds, handed down through 13 generations of German ancestry.

Appletree - Mike Holmes had a Charlevoix throw blanket designed especially for his store. The blanket, with Charlevoix scenes woven into it, was a huge success for Holmes. "I've shipped throws to every state in the union," Holmes said. Popular items are; the Kathleen Chaney Fritz watercolor prints of Charlevoix, Charlevoix computer mouse pads, throw blankets, and Charlevoix cup coasters.

Bridge Street Bookshop - Dianne and Kit Foster have a great gift item, ready to be shipped - and it's not a book. The Fosters offer Distinctive Diplomas, a great way to display your college diploma. The Distinctive Diploma comes matted and framed, with a landmark photo of your college and a matted opening for your diploma. There are 79 colleges participating in the Distinctive Diploma project, including all of the Michigan schools, the Big Ten schools, and other notable mid-west colleges. Bridge Street Bookshop is also doing a brisk shipping business with Edith Gilbert's book, Summer Resort Life, and Clockwise, by Bob Clock. The video, Charlevoix Dreams, is also a popular item to ship for Christmas. For the avid outdoorsman, the book store also ships hard to find hunting and fishing books.

Koucky Gallery - Talk about a challenge. Koucky carries some terrific pieces of art. But many pieces are either six feet tall or weigh hundreds of pounds. That doesn't discourage employee Tamie Gillespie. She finds a way to pack, wrap, and ship works of art from the gallery. "Some pieces take two hours to wrap and pack for the shipper," Gillespie said. The Todd Warner sculptures are among the favorite art pieces for gifts. If shipping is not a practical way to get a huge piece of art to a customer, Chuck Koucky will go a step farther. He makes delivery trips all over the country, driving a van loaded with art to his customers. However, Koucky doesn't have Santa's advantage of a magic sleigh and flying reindeer, so personal deliveries might not occur in time for Christmas.

...sending someone a bit of Charlevoix for Christmas

What says Charlevoix more than a homemade gift from Charlevoix? If you've made your own presents, you can ship Charlevoix too. At the Charlevoix Commons Apothecary, they will pack, wrap, and ship your presents anywhere.

One common denominator lifts the Charlevoix merchants above the mall merchants. They all know and respect their customers, and all are willing to do what it takes to accommodate their customers at the holiday season.

Address changes explained to council

Two council members aren't thrilled about new system

by L. Scott Swanson

At Monday evening's city council meeting, city police chief Dennis Halverson explained how the new city address system will work. Despite the explanation, not all city council members are happy about the new system.

The new address system, which will go into effect in February, will use a grid system with Veterans'

Memorial Bridge serving as the zero point on the grid. From the bridge, as blocks go out either north or south they will be 100, 200, 300 etc. The next letter of a building's address will depend on where it is located relative to the block, rather than relative to other houses as is currently the case.

One end of the block will be zero, the other end will be 95 and the mid-point will be 50. In other words, if your house is at the middle of the block, the middle number in your address will be 50. It doesn't matter if you're the fifth house from the corner or the 25th house from the corner. According to Halverson and police officer Dale Meredith, the new system will make it easier for emergency services personnel and other people to find homes and businesses.

Currently, houses on the corner of blocks are usually numbered something-01 or something-02 (depending upon which side of the street they're on) and the next house is two digits higher, i.e. either something-03 or something-04 etc. Over the years, several problems had popped up in this system. For example, if there's an empty lot between 110 and 112 Whatever Street and somebody builds a house on the empty lot, there's no logical address to give the new house. You can call it 110 and 1/2, but that can lead to people looking for an apartment in the upstairs of 110. Another problem occurs when one side of the street has large lots with only a few buildings while the other side of the street has small lots with tightly bunched buildings. Rather than being across the street from 215, the house number 216 might be half a block down the other side of the street.

Halverson said that under the present numbering system, over the years the addresses in some parts of town have become kind of random looking.

Councilmembers Butch Russell,

"I just think it's putting a lot of people through a lot of anguish that isn't necessary."

First ward council member Bob Timms, expressing reservations about the city's new address system.

Hal Forbrig sits next to a little piece of Charlevoix history. The wheel in front of Forbrig used to be the drive wheel at the Argo Milling Company which is located where Stafford's Weathervane is today. The wheel was hooked by a belt to a 50 horsepower electric motor, and drove various other pieces of equipment throughout the mill.

HOW TO GIVE YOURSELF BEAUTY & STORAGE AT THE SAME TIME

If you need more storage space in your home (and who doesn't), you can really give yourself the best of both worlds by not only adding that storage - but also getting added beauty in the bargain.

It's easy to do if you select the right pieces. Here are just a few ideas:
How about a breakfast that can hold so many things and have so much beauty in itself.

Then there's an armoire, a tall cabinet that can be used as a wardrobe or storage chest.

Or, a commode, a low cabinet with drawers or compartments that can be used nicely against a wall or as an end table.

Or you can choose from many other cabinets - there's really a big, varied supply of pretty pieces that can give you precious extra storage space with shelves and drawers in many different kinds of combinations.

In thinking about these pieces, you should consider both how they fill your storage needs, and what they can add to your overall decorating scheme.

We invite you to shop here for these - and all your furniture needs. We can show you selection and value, and give you help in making your home as beautiful and convenient as possible.

...city residents will be getting new addresses

Don Meggison, Bruce Reid and Jackie Cross said they felt the new numbering system makes sense. Councilmembers Gabe Campbell and Bob Timms expressed reservations.

Meggison said he had talked to Charlevoix Postmaster Jay Wheatley about the proposed system. Wheatley was in Sault Ste. Marie when that community switched to the system and has also offered Halverson guidance in switching to the new system in Charlevoix. Meggison said Wheatley told him that the new system worked well in Sault Ste. Marie.

Campbell said he agrees that the present system can be improved, but he still prefers the present system of numbering within each block (i.e. 01, 03, 05 etc.)

"I think there's problems with numbering, but I think we're going to be in worse shape when you're done, than we are now," Campbell told Halverson.

Timms said he feels there should be a simpler way of correcting the problem and that there isn't a good reason for the majority of the address changes.

"I just think it's putting a lot of people through a lot of anguish that isn't necessary," Timms said. He added that he doesn't believe that many people, particularly business people, are aware of what's happening with the proposed address changes. "When they get to know what's happening, there's going to be hell to pay," he said.

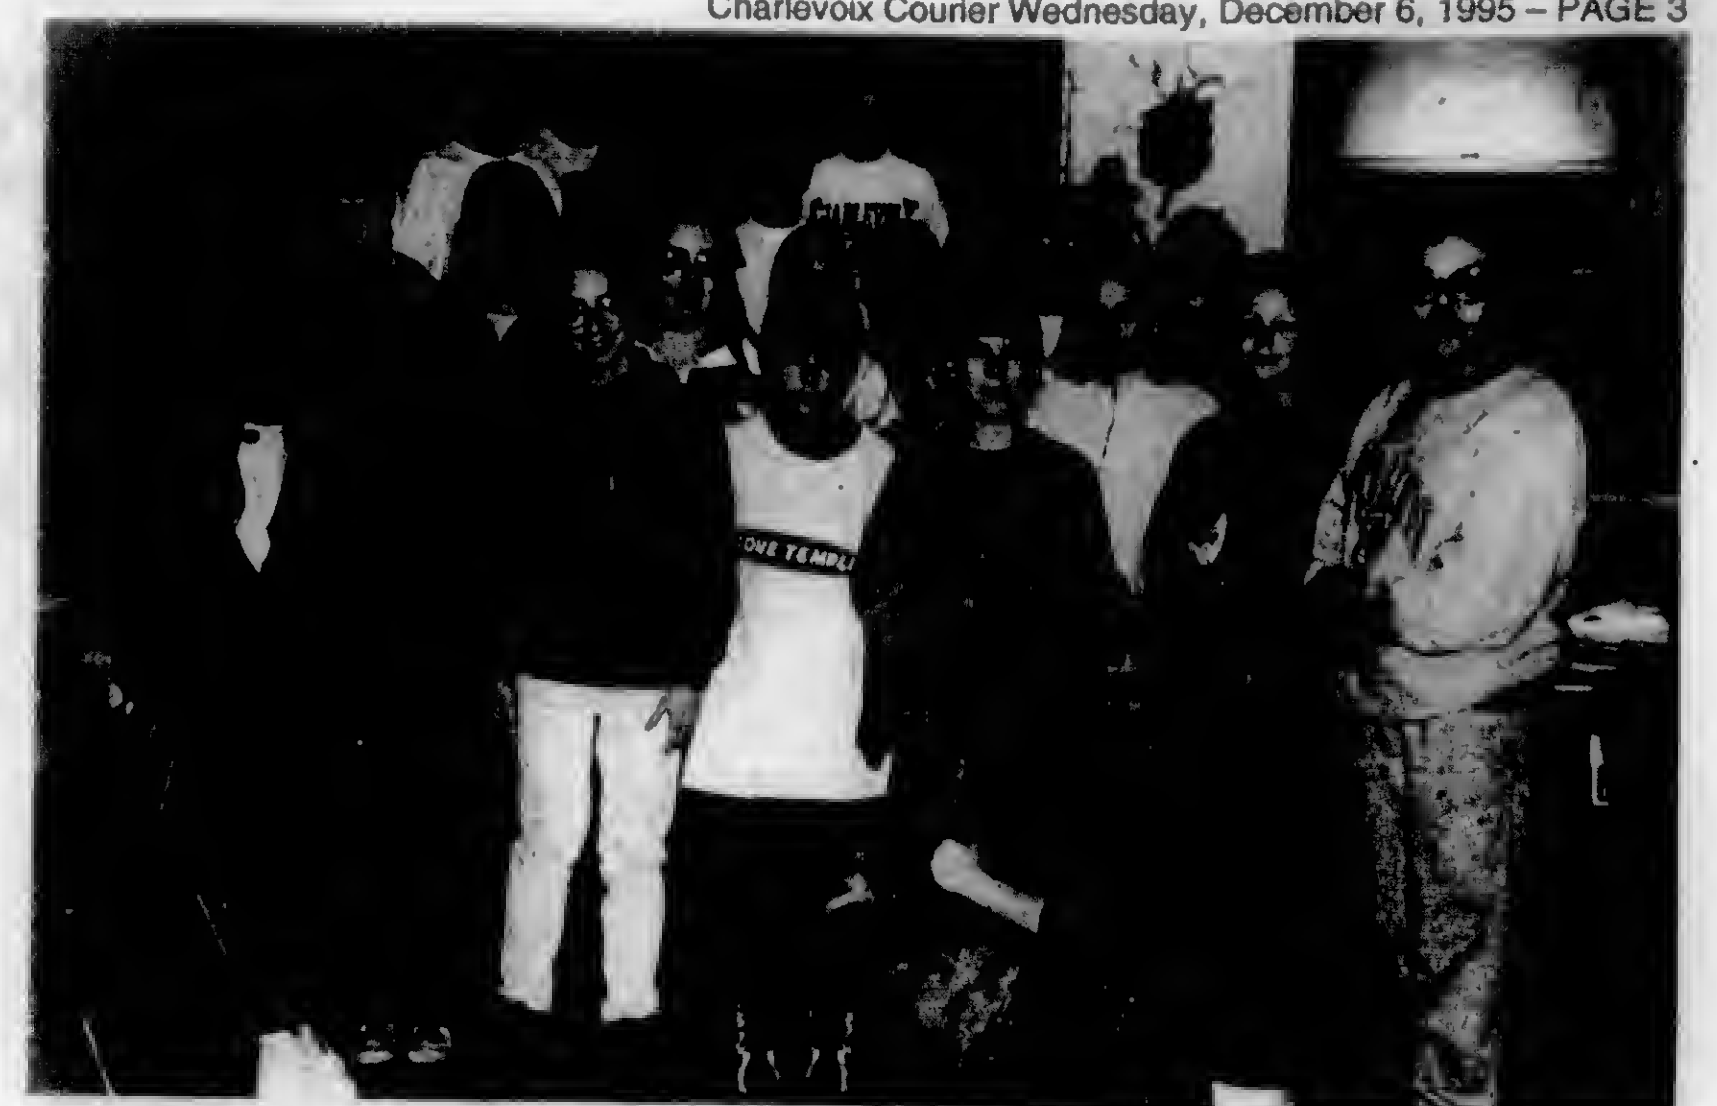

People will receive post cards notifying them of their new address with their January utility bills. The post cards will tell people their new address, why their address is being changed and will have a phone number to call if they have questions or concerns. The new address will not be effective until Feb. 1. Even after the new address goes into effect, the post office will continue to honor both the new and old address for at least six months.

Halverson said that with the new system, the city should be in a position to leave addresses alone for a long time.

"Hopefully, the next time we do this, it'll be a hundred years from now and none of us are going to be here," he remarked.

League of Women Voters chapter organizes

The League of Women Voters of Northern Michigan held its last meeting for the year in Charlevoix, Nov. 28. The "Northern Michigan" part of the name of the group was formally adopted to convey the message that people from the entire area are invited to join. Since the nearest chapters are in Traverse City and Alpena, this newly formed group offers the opportunity to become politically informed and active without extensive travel. At this time there are already enough members to become a unit-at-large which will provide support and involvement at state and national levels. Members receive information from LWV Michigan and LWVUS, and will be kept posted on local issues as participation grows.

Plans for the new year include opening a dialogue with public officials via personal interviews in order for our membership to become aware of strengths and weaknesses within our communities. The next meeting will be Jan. 23, at which time the results of these interviews will be reported.

Editor's notes

A story of friendship and compassion

(Editor's note: The following letter was written by Nina Carey to Traverse City Scoutmaster John McKinney. It concerns the friendship of Andrew Moore, one of McKinney's Scouts, and the late Topper Carey, a former Charlevoix resident. During the holiday season, when many people's thoughts turn to acts of care and compassion, I felt it would be appropriate to print this letter on the Courier Opinion page.)

Dear Mr. McKinney:

I thought it would be appropriate, and in keeping with the Boy Scout tradition, to bring to your attention the extraordinary service of Andrew Moore of your troop.

My husband Topper and I have been Andrew's next-door neighbors for four years, since shortly after we were married. Andrew has always been a friendly and helpful neighbor, but he went above and beyond the call of duty beginning in March of last year when Topper was diagnosed with a brain tumor. The diagnosis was sudden and unexpected, and Topper had surgery the next day. As a result of the surgery he lost the use of his left side and required the use of a wheelchair.

During our hospitalization from March until the first of May, Andrew and his mother visited regularly bringing smiles and various gifts. But Andrew really showed his character after we returned home. Previously, Topper played basketball with Andrew and was otherwise robust, energetic and always on the go. Now he was relegated to the use of a wheelchair with his left side paralyzed and it probably would have been much easier for a 13-year-old boy to just stay away. But not Andrew. He spent hours at our house visiting and entertaining Topper. He talked about what he was doing in school and brought over his science projects to share.

During the summer months he invited us to his baseball and football games and we went, wheelchair and all. He let me know that he was always available if I needed to run an errand or if I had to go to work and the care provider for that day couldn't make it.

Andrew would bring his dog over to visit Topper as well. He knew Topper enjoyed Sandy's company. In fact, when I finally got a dog of our own for Topper the first thing he did was have Andrew bring Sandy over to make sure our dog would get along with Andrew's dog. He said we could only have a dog that could get along with Sandy.

Andrew also went to a movie at the mall with Topper. Afterwards, he pushed Topper's wheelchair and took him window shopping, and then got him situated at the restaurant until I arrived to pick them up.

Last July Andrew spent a few days with us while his mother was away on a family emergency. The morning of July 13 he asked me if he could go to his house and use the kitchen even though his mother was not home. Not knowing the reason for his request, I offered him the use of our kitchen. But Andrew could not use our kitchen because it was a surprise. You see, July 13 was Topper's birthday and Andrew planned to bake Topper a birthday cake all by himself. He had everything he needed. So Andrew went back and forth between our house and his until the cake was baked. He also frosted it himself and included the words "HAPPY B-DAY TOPPER - 48TH". I'm not sure which one of them was happier when Andrew presented that cake to Topper. Andrew was so proud of his accomplishment and Topper was so proud that Andrew would do that for him.

Then the new school year started in the fall and once again Andrew shared his school news with Topper. He also was on the wrestling team and he entertained Topper with many of his wrestling moves.

Topper's condition was stable and in fact improving through Christmas, but by January the tumor was progressing and he was slowing down. We reached a point where I could no longer assist Topper's transfers from the wheelchair to the bed, the couch, the shower or the car by myself. Andrew offered to help with those transfers if I needed it. I remember one Friday night in particular when Andrew called to tell me he was spending the night with a friend. At first I thought it was just a social call. But then he gave me the telephone number and said that the friend was right down the street and if I needed him during the night or early Saturday morning for any transfers to feel free to call.

Andrew kept up his visits even as Topper continued to slow down. During the last few weeks when Topper rested more Andrew would sit in a chair next to his bed and watch a movie with Topper or just watch him sleep. Even then he did not stop coming over, although I know that would have been the easier thing to do.

Topper died at home in the afternoon of February 24, 1994. When Andrew got home from school he saw the funeral coach and several cars in our driveway and on the street. My family and friends who were with me informed me later that Andrew immediately came over and took our dog to his house so she would not be in the way of all the activity going on at our house. Andrew further honored Topper by agreeing to serve as a pallbearer at his funeral with our five nephews. Topper's burial service is next week in Charlevoix and once again Andrew will be called upon to be a pallbearer.

I share the details of this experience with you because I believe that Andrew's conduct and actions epitomize so perfectly the scouting creed of service to others. You probably are not aware of these circumstances because I doubt that Andrew would tell you about them. He did not do any of the helpful things he did for recognition or for any reason other than to be helpful. Whenever we would try to thank him and let him know how much he was helping us he would downplay it.

I just learned that your scouting banquet is to be held soon and I think it would be most appropriate if you could acknowledge Andrew's assistance in whatever manner you see fit.

Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to share this information with you and to publicly thank a very special young man for his extraordinary services.

Sincerely,
Nina Collins Carey

(Moore received a Boy Scout award of merit at the northern Michigan Boy Scout Council's annual awards banquet.)

EDITH

by EDITH GILBERT

It's always challenging and fun to establish a link between Charlevoix and the rest of the world.

While reading Colin Powell's well-written book, "My American Journey," I came across a neighbor's name, the late Don Atwood, who ran the Pentagon under Former Secretary of Defense Cheney, during operations "Just Cause" and "Desert Storm" in the Persian Gulf.

I wrote to his widow, Sue, that we have three copies of the book in our Charlevoix Library and according to Mary Beth Wallick, the librarian, "the book has been very well received and I've heard a lot of favorable comments. There were many people who seriously considered voting for Powell, if he had run for the presidency."

In today's mail, Sue Atwood writes, in return, "I, too, was disappointed that a Cheney-Powell ticket was not promoted. I felt it would have been a combination hard to beat."

"We knew Alma and Colin well and have been entertained in their home on several occasions and have reciprocated ourselves. I remember a social occasion when I was about to meet them for the first time after their recall to Washington. I was told I would like Alma very much and on meeting Alma, I told her what our mutual friend had said, never dreaming General Powell would soon be named Chief of Staff of all the Armed Forces. When Alma was studying in Boston to become an audiologist, we lived almost next to one another (not at the same time) so we had fun talking about the good times in Boston."

"General Powell came to our hometown in Massachusetts to attend Don's funeral. You can imagine the excitement that created to have someone as well known as General Powell showing his respects to a native son."

She concludes, "The Powells are an outstanding couple with great family values. Their service and dedication to our country are of the highest order."

Even though General Powell has decided not to run for president this time, his sensible book is still worth reading.

It is enlightening to learn the behind the scenes, two-steps that started the Korean War, for example. It is fascinating to read about his experiences while on his two tours of duty in Vietnam. It is engaging to read about his feelings when visiting his parents' simple home in Jamaica, or his reaction to a visit to the dark continent of Africa. It is enviable how humbly he accepts being feted by royalty in the capitals of Europe. It is amusing to read about his favorite form of relaxation, working under the hood of a rusted out old Volvo. It is astonishing how well he manages to get along with the variety of people around him — both people in the military, and people in politics. And it is heart warming how he connects with family and old friends, yet doesn't live in the past. And finally, it is salutary that he chose such a perspective biographer as Joseph Perisico to write it all down for us so smoothly.

Somehow, Powell reminds me vividly of that man we would all like to be — described in the inspirational poem IF by Rudyard Kipling — a poem that has been translated into over 100 languages. This is an excerpt.

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue

Or walk with Kings — nor lose the common touch,

If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,

If all men count with you, but none too much;

If you can fill the unforgiving minute

With sixty seconds' worth of distance run

Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,

And — which is more — you'll be a Man, my son!

Out of the Blue

Three words you might mention
To rivet my attention,
As you might know or ascertain,
Now are simply 'lower back pain.'

Pool supporters continue fund-raising

Charlevoix Friends of the Pool has received its 501(c) (3) tax exempt status from the State of Michigan and now is eligible to receive tax deductible donations directly from the public.

Until now, contributions for pool construction have been directed to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and held in a special project fund.

The Triple Three Campaign, launched early last month, invites enrollees to pledge $333 per year for three years. According to CFOP vice president Bruce MacArthur, 70 individuals and families have enrolled at the Steward Level ($999). In addition, there are 10 Patrons ($25,000 or more), and 16 Sponsors ($5,000 or more) and several hundred people in the $1 to $999 range.

A gift from an out-of-state foundation in response to the direct mail effort was reported by CFOP treasurer Joanne Curtis.

Checks made payable to CFOP may be mailed to P.O. Box 1, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Appreciated stocks may also be used for donations. Call 616-547-0982 for an appointment with a member of the finance committee.

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Marine Pfc. Paul M. Keehn, a 1993 graduate of Charlevoix High School of Charlevoix, recently reported for duty with Marine Light Attack Helicopter Squadron 269, 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing, Marine Corps Air Station New River, Jacksonville, N.C.

He joined the Marine Corps in September 1994.

Amy Phillips, a 1994 graduate of Charlevoix High School, has recently completed a season as a member of the Cross Country Team at Warren Wilson College in North Carolina. She participated in all the races including the well known Greensboro Open.

Amy has a one-hour radio program on station WWC 107.9-FM each week. She and Nikki Foltz of New York will be leading the cheerleaders in cheers and dance routines for the 1995-96 basketball season.

James D. Pfluecke of Charlevoix is among the students named to the Kalamazoo College dean's list for the summer 1995 quarter. To be named to the dean's list, a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4 point grading scale. Pfluecke, a junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Pfluecke.

Mike Bush of Charlevoix is among the runners written about in the Ball State University cross country team media guide. Bush, a freshman on the Ball State Cross Country Team, is considered to be one of the team's top two recruits this past season. Ball State coach Chris Buhler says of Bush, "If he stays injury-free and adapts to the stresses that go along with collegiate distance running, Mike has the potential as a freshman to run in our top 10."

Two students from Charlevoix have been named to the Lee Honors College at Western Michigan University. The students are Andrew Laucher, son of Jack and Sandi Laucher; and Callie Siwarga, daughter of Ron and Rhonda Siwarga.

Eric Dickinson, a University of Michigan freshman from Charlevoix, is among 370 U of M students performing with the U of M Marching Band.

Don Jess of Charlevoix is listed on the roster of the Alma College basketball team. The college's winter sports media guide lists Jess as a 6'10," 160 pound guard. (Editor's note: Although I haven't seen Don in a couple of months, I suspect that 6'10" figure is a typo. Playing at the Ferry Beach courts this summer, he appeared to be much closer to 6'1" than 6'10.") Jeff Joy of Charlevoix is listed as a sophomore diver on the Alma College Swimming Team.

Charlevoix Bookshop matches angels and books

The Charlevoix Bookshop is participating in the Book Angel Project again this year in cooperation with the Charlevoix Christmas Project. The goal of the program is to provide needy children in the area with a book for the holidays.

Charlevoix Community Christmas project, a group of several Charlevoix churches, gathers names of families with special needs ranging from clothing to toys to Christmas dinner. The group takes donations during the holiday season to purchase the goods, and distributes them before Christmas. The book angel project would add a book for each child to the gifts gathered for the family.

Each child will be represented by an angel hanging from the tree or garland in the store. Charlevoix Bookshop customers may pick an angel with the ages and gender of a child from the tree, and purchase an appropriate book at a 20 percent discount. The books are then delivered to the Christmas Project for distribution.

Mary Jane Barnwell of the Charlevoix Bookshop hopes parents will encourage their children to come and shop for an angel book.

"It's a great way to teach the importance of giving during the holiday season, and to learn the true meaning of Christmas," Barnwell said.

Barnwell promises every angel on the tree will receive a book. Last year, the bookshop customers donated 158 books.

Organizations, businesses and individuals are invited to call Charlevoix Bookshop for more information, or to pledge either a dollar amount or quantity of books. Mrs. Barnwell can be reached at the shop at 547-4335.

Angels bring books for holidays

Last year, through very generous support of our community, Bridge Street Book Shop gift wrapped books for more than 75 needy children. The Book Angel Tree is up again with more than 115 Angels on the tree representing needy children in Charlevoix County who would like to receive a book for Christmas. Reading frees and gives meaning to dreams and imagination ... it opens doors to a world far, far beyond the world we know today. Last year the Book Shop received calls from as far away as Florida and Arizona. People just wanted to share their favorite children's book with a child and the Book Angel project provided that opportunity.

Bridge Street Book Shop welcomes the support of individuals, families, businesses and service clubs to help put books into the hands of children on Christmas morning. The project involves selecting an angel from the Christmas tree and choosing an age-appropriate book for that boy or girl. Books for the Book Angel project are discounted 20 percent. The Book Shop staff will provide assistance in choosing a book if needed. The staff will gift wrap and deliver the books to the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services for Christmas delivery to the children. Each star hanging on the Christmas tree represents a Book Angel who provided a book for a child. Our goal is to have only stars adorning the tree by Dec. 18 — meaning that all of the children on our Book Angel list have been taken care of.

Bridge Street Book Shop is located in downtown Charlevoix, across from the Chamber of Commerce. Or, call 547-7323 for more information.

FAMILY

Harrison - Bailey

Cecy & Craig Bailey

Cecy Lizbeth Harrison and Craig Dwight Bailey were married Saturday, Oct. 7 in a double-ring ceremony at Tennant Chapel of the Lake Louise Christian Community in Boyne Falls. The bride is the daughter of Rob and Rona Harrison of Thumb Lake. The bride spent several summers in Charlevoix which is the hometown of her mother and her grandparents, Bruce and Norma Henley.

The groom is the son of Ron and Sharon Bailey of Caledonia.

The afternoon wedding took place before 150 guests. Rev. Asa T. Comp-ton, a long-time friend of the bride's family, officiated the service. The bride was escorted by her father.

The bride wore an ivory satin gown with an embroidered Batenberg cut out lace chapel length train. The gown had a high neck with a jeweled collar and long sleeves with a shoulder puff. She also wore an illusion veil attached to a circlet of flowers. She carried a cascading bouquet with a variety of flowers.

Jennifer Richard served as maid of honor. Liberty Harrison, sister of the groom, Sherry Bailey, sister of the groom served as bridesmaids. Christy Quale was the bride's attendant.

Keith Tubergan served as best man. Groomsmen were Rich Moon and Don Bonzheim. Ushers were Ned Henley and Steve Devries.

Music was provided by pianist Barbara Harrison Thurmond. Judith Harrison Longfield sang "The Lord's Prayer" and Rich Moon sang "The Wedding Song."

Following the wedding, a reception was given by the bride's parents at the Harbor-Petoskey Room at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey. Prior to the wedding, a rehearsal dinner was hosted by the parents of the groom at the Argonne Supper Club in Charlevoix.

Following the wedding, the couple took a leisurely tour of northern Michigan. They are now at home in Reading. Both are graduates of Ferris State University. The bride is a veterinary technician at Hillsdale Veterinary Hospital. The groom is a quality co-ordinator with Quincy, L.P. in North Adams.

obituaries

David M. Moss

Charlevoix summer resident David M. Moss, 81, of West Bloomfield Township, died Dec. 2, 1995, at Windmere Nursing Home in West Bloomfield.

His funeral was held Sunday, Dec. 3, at the Ira Kaufman Chapel Inc., 18325 W. Nine Mile, Southfield. Burial was in B'Nai Israel Memorial Gardens in Novi.

Mr. Moss had been appointed to the Michigan Board of Pharmacy in May 1949 by Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams, and was elected president of the board in 1951. He became the director of drugs and drug stores in 1955 and was reappointed by Gov. John B. Swainson in January 1960.

Mr. Moss attended Detroit Institute of Technology Pharmacy School at night during the Depression while working on the assembly line at the Plymouth division of Chrysler Corp.

In addition to serving on the state pharmacy board, Mr. Moss was president and executive secretary of the Detroit Retail Druggists Association.

He also was a charter member of Temple Israel in West Bloomfield.

Mr. Moss is survived by his wife of 58 years, Beulah; two daughters, Judith M. Urdan and Shelley Borsuk and her husband, David J.; two sons, Daniel H. Moss and his wife, Ellie, and Robert Moss; and by 11 grandchildren, Matthew Urdan, Paul Urdan and his wife, April, Douglas Urdan, Bradley Urdan, Rachel Moss, Benjamin Moss, Sara Moss, Nicole Borsuk, Courtney Borsuk and Benjamin Borsuk.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the American Heart Association, 16310 W. 12 Mile, Southfield, Mich. 48076.

Harvey W. Watros

Harvey W. Watros, 70, of Ellsworth, died Dec. 1, 1995, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral was held Dec. 4, at the Ellsworth Undenominational Church of God with pastor Joyce Weisler officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery, Manicoua.

Mr. Watros was born Nov. 20, 1925, in Ludington, the son of Frederick and Mary (Williams) Watros.

On July 16, 1944, he married Joyce Everett in Alba. They made their home in Hazel Park, where Mr. Watros was employed at Fisher Body in Pontiac until retiring in 1969. They moved to Echo Township in 1969 and in 1984 moved to South Arm Township.

Mr. Watros was employed at the East Jordan Iron Works, retiring in 1989.

Survivors include his wife of 51 years, Joyce; three sons, Frederick Terry Watros of Ellsworth, Alan Watros and his wife, Jan, of Grayling, and William Dell Watros of East Jordan; three daughters, Sherry Lynn Fisher of Ellsworth, Allene Parker of East Jordan, and Donna June Clintworth and her husband, Kenneth, of East Jordan; 18 grandchildren; 12 great-grandchildren; four brothers, Fred Watros and his wife, Betty, of Central Lake, Charles Watros and his wife, Sarah, of Ellsworth, Clinton Watros and his wife, Stella, of Rochester, and Cliff Watros and his wife, Barb, of Charlevoix; two sisters, Hazel Maurer and her husband, Larry, of Charlevoix, and Laura Hathaway and her husband, Jim, of Alanson. Mr. Watros was preceded in death by a daughter, Ellen Duncan, and by six grandchildren.

Visitation was held Sunday, Dec. 3, at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth, where arrangements were made.

Mary (Hebert) Sebbem

Mary (Hebert) Sebbem, 83, formerly of Charlevoix, died Nov. 18 in California.

Mrs. Sebbem received her last rites in Victorville, California and her body was cremated. Her ashes will be returned to the Catholic cemetery in Charlevoix in the spring of 1996.

She was one of 12 children born to Charles and Emma Hebert of Charlevoix. During her adult life she was a restaurateur.

Mrs. Sebbem was preceded in death by her husband Buster Sebbem. She is survived by: a son, Dick (and Gabriele) Vine of Talent, Oregon; a daughter Gloria Vine-Plasket; and eight grandchildren.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

It was one of those "thaw-then-freeze" days. You know the kind that I mean. We get lots of snow at night. It sort of melts during the day. But then a front comes turning things cold in the middle of the melt and you end up with big huge icicles that hang down from the edge of your roof.

Our son had just come up the hill from the middle school to wait at the church for his afternoon papers. It was a cold, but nice, afternoon so he went back outside. That was when he spotted them; icicles galore hanging from the church roof.

It was as if he had discovered some rare treasures. He hopped up and broke them off one at a time. A few he even tasted (what does an icicle taste like anyway?). But what really fascinated me was when he started "planting" them in the snow right by our office door. It was like the teenager in him yielded to the little kid as he reverently assembled this wintry garden.

He did not realize that his Dad was watching him through it all. It probably was a good thing too. If he had seen me, the magic would have disappeared. It would have taken away from the wonderment, the sheer joy, he had in playing with his frosted "flower" bed.

I wanted to pass on this special moment to you because at Christmas it can be awfully easy to lose sight of the wonderment, the sheer joy, that God means for all His children, young and old alike, to experience. The pressures of shopping, getting the house ready for company, meeting deadlines and all the daily routines of life can just overwhelm you.

You might not be into icicles like my son was. But have you ever watched how ingenious squirrels can be when it comes to invading even the best protected bird feeders? On those days when the snow falls in those big lazy flakes, have you ever looked at how utterly unique and beautiful each flake can be? Even though the deer are probably still recovering from the shock of hunting season, glimpsing a white tail flying through the winter woods is a sight you long remember.

I hope your heart is open to all the blessings the Lord has in store for you this Christmas season. I hope your senses are ready and alert for the surprise of unexpected treasures that can fill your heart as God sets them before you. But above all, I hope you come to value the wonderment, the sheer joy, that knowing Jesus Christ can bring you not just during the Advent season but throughout the coming year.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

SEE-North to host math/science night

Join SEE-North for an evening of exploration and discovery! SEE-North's Family Math and Science Night is an opportunity for adults and children to learn together by exploring ideas, solving problems and participating in hands-on activities. Activities are designed for third through sixth graders and their parents. Families will have fun experimenting with roller coasters, the center of gravity, electricity, the human brain, and "weight" there's more.

The fun begins at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 14 at SEE-North, located in the Mort Neff Outdoor Education Center at Camp Daggett. Admission is $4 per person. Pre-registration is required because space is limited. Food and beverages will be served and many prizes will be given away.

SEE-North is a regional center for science, mathematics and environmental education. It serves teachers, students and residents in 13 counties of the northern Lower Peninsula. Family Math and Science Night is one of many events conducted by the non-profit organization. For more information or to register, call SEE-North at 348-9700.

Greeting cards to benefit hospital

This year Charlevoix Area Hospital donors have a way to show they support the hospital. Through the generosity of artist Jan Glass, a beautiful card is being sold to benefit the hospital.

The front of the card features a bright blue jay printed on cream stock. Or, a black line drawing may be selected. Cards are without message or offer the wish "May Health and Happiness be yours in this and all Seasons."

Cards are 10 for $7 and will be on sale at the Charlevoix Elementary School, in the hospital gift shop, or by calling Kathy Johnson at 547-4024.

New law office to be built on Mason Street

Following demolition of a house at 203 Mason Street, a new office for the law firm of Pointner, Joseph and Corcoran PC will be constructed. Tom Pointner said the construction timetable calls for the office to be occupied by June 1 of next year.

The one story building will have approximately 4,000 square feet of office space. The building was designed by Charlevoix architect Jack Begrow while the interior is being designed by Tim Fisher of InDesign. The general contractor for the project is Site Planning.

The law firm currently occupies the second floor of the CB North building at the southwest corner of Clinton and State Streets. Pointner said a pleasant combination of circumstances led to the construction of a new building. The bank needs additional space. The law firm needs additional space. And the house at 203 Mason Street was for sale.

The new law office will be located in Charlevoix's central business district and right across the street from the Charlevoix County Courthouse. "We believe that it is the perfect location for law offices in Charlevoix," Pointner said.

This architectural drawing shows how the new Pointner, Joseph and Corcoran law offices will look upon completion next spring.

House fires should not be a holiday tradition

The holiday season is traditionally a joyful time of the year, but it can also be a dangerous one if caution is not exercised with Christmas trees and holiday lighting, warn Consumers Power Company and the State Fire Marshal.

"Last year, 244 deaths in our state were caused by fires," said Captain Wade Schaefer, State Fire Marshal. "These deaths are particularly tragic when they occur during the holiday season, so we encourage residents to check their smoke detectors to be sure they're operating properly."

Consumers Power and the State Fire Marshal offer these safe holiday suggestions:

- Choose a fresh Christmas tree and water it frequently. Place the tree in a stand that will not tip over and keep the tree away from heat sources and exit ways.

- Keep burning candles away from decorations and other materials that can catch fire. Do not leave children unattended in a room with lighted candles and remember to keep matches and lighters out of children's reach.

- When decorating with lights, purchase only those labeled by a testing laboratory, such as UL. Check for frayed or damaged cords and replace them. Don't overload electric outlets and always unplug all lights before leaving home or going to sleep.

- When hosting holiday parties, provide guests who smoke with large, deep ashtrays. After the party, remember to check inside and under upholstery and in trash cans for smoldering cigarette butts.

- Never leave the stove unattended while cooking. Keep cooking arcas clean, wear clothes with tight fitting sleeves, and turn pot handles inward on the stove and out of children's reach.

- Special care should be taken around the fireplace during this season. Make sure the flue is open before starting a fire. Never burn wrappings or a Christmas tree in the fireplace.

- Always keep a fire extinguisher handy.

This fall was terribly rainy and winter is bound and determined to arrive early. That situation has been a nuisance for several construction projects taking place in Charlevoix. Despite a lack of cooperation from the weather, projects around town continue to move forward.

Klooster to be inducted into state softball Hall of Fame

Bob Klooster of Charlevoix is one of nine people who will be inducted into the Michigan Amateur Softball Association Hall of Fame at a banquet Jan. 13 at the Sheraton Inn Hotel in Lansing.

A press release announcing Klooster's selection read, "Bob Klooster's softball career spanned a period of 33 years from 1949 through 1982. The one time pitcher and first baseman participated in five state championship tournaments. As all top pitchers early in the game, Klooster was also known for his hitting ability, both for average and power.

"Much of his career was spent with Bare Construction, but the highlight of his career had to be the 1963 season when he pitched his team, L.J. Ormsbee Motors of Cheboygan, to the MASA Class C State Championship while finishing the year with a personal high of 44 wins and only four losses."

Klooster was inducted into the Cheboygan Sports Hall of Fame in 1981.

Local United Way begins distribution of money

Last year, funding from the local United Way allowed local health and human services agencies to support more than 17,000 residents in Charlevoix and Emmet counties. Not that the 1995-96 United Way campaign has come to an end, the United Ways will begin the local fund distribution process to support local agencies in providing needed community services.

The United Ways of Charlevoix and Emmet counties have established criteria that agencies must meet to the best of their abilities to be considered for funding. These guidelines include:

- A non-discrimination policy
- 501 c (3) or unit of government status
- A license to solicit funds or exemption letter

- An annual budget/financial statements available
- A copy of IRS 990 or letter exempting them from filing
- A voluntary board of directors and hold at least four board meetings annually

All applications will be reviewed and any previously funded agency requesting more than $1,500 will be asked to present their information to a panel of volunteers who will be assisting with the fund distribution process. The board of directors will make the final determination and funds will be distributed quarterly. Any non-profit health and human service agency or qualifying organization that has not been supported by the United Way in the past and is interested in applying this year can request an application by calling 347-0115.

Charter school plans to open in January

By Laurie Lounsbury

Charlevoix's first charter school, Northwest Academy, is ambitiously planning to open their doors Jan. 22. If all goes according to plan, 15 to 30 students will be attending the charter school in 1996. The school will move into the Bartlett's furniture store building on Hurlbut Street.

Opening the school in January presents some challenges for the students and parents. But ad hoc chairman of the charter school, Gerald Chase, isn't willing to delay the opening any longer. "There are some parents who would be very disappointed if we waited until September to open the school," Chase said.

Those parents who would be disappointed by a delayed opening are ready for change. They are the parents who have grown frustrated with the existing public school system.

They are parents who want better education. As Chase says, they are brave people, willing to make a leap of faith into the unknown for their children's sake. "The people who have signed up are really concerned about improving the education of their child. They're putting a lot of faith in us, and we have to deliver. That's the scary part," Chase said, adding, "It's one thing to start a new business, and that's what this is. I'm not worried for my own part, but there are a lot of people whose hopes are riding on us."

The small group of Charlevoix parents forming the charter school are not struggling alone in their pursuit of a better educational system. Michigan Gov. John Engler is committed to charter schools, and the concept of "public schools of choice." A state wide support committee, called the Michigan Partnership for New Education, was commissioned by the governor and the state board of education. Its purpose is to help charter schools get the results they want and to guide them through the maze of educational state requirements.

The Charlevoix charter school will be a public school chartered by Grand Valley State University. The college provides assistance with curriculum planning and educational resources. The state allows each student to take their allocated $5,500 of public school funds to the public school of their choice. Chase said many parents confuse a charter school with a private school, which is not the case. "People think we're taking money away from the public school system, but we're not. The money just follows the child to their public school of choice. We're the other public school," Chase said.

Northwest Academy will focus on science and technology, but will also deliver a complete curriculum, including language arts, social studies, and math. The technology will run throughout the curriculum. The school plans to utilize interactive teaching systems, where a master instructor teaches a class, which comes through to the school on a video monitor.

Chase anticipates that the school will grow to a maximum size of about 140 students, covering grades six through 12, with a maximum of 15 students per classroom. The initial enrollment for a January start is made up of 15 sixth through tenth graders.

The charter school will comply with state requirements regarding hiring policies and teacher certification. "We're lucky that in Charlevoix there is an abundance

Charlevoix Scout Master receives top honor

By L. Scott Swanson

As Boy Scouts go, Charlevoix Cubmaster Jim Mansen has been kind of a late bloomer. In his youth, Mansen was involved with scouting for a while, but never made it past the rank of Tender Foot. But as an adult, when his son needed a Den Leader in 1980, Mansen tackled the job. And a year later, when Charlevoix needed a Cubmaster, Mansen was there for the program. And he's been there ever since.

During the past 15 years, Mansen has been named Cubmaster of the Year, received training awards, a District Committee Member award, Diamond Jubilee Training Recognition, Scouter's Key, the Arrowhead honor, a certificate for Cub Scout round table planning, and Wood Badge training and served on the Wood Badge training committee. Nov. 9, at the Scenic Trails Council's 56th Annual Recognition Dinner at the Park Place Dome in Traverse City, Mansen received the Silver Beaver award. The award is the highest honor a Boy Scout council can bestow upon an adult troop leader.

In presenting the award, Rev. Milton G. Walls said of Mansen, "During his tenure of Cubmaster, he gave leadership to over 1,000 different boys and was instrumental in creating activities for youth in his home town. Not only active in scouting, this busy husband and father found time to do volunteer work for the DNR, conducting

...Cubmaster receives award

Mansen, who is employed as a training instructor at Big Rock, said he was happy and excited when his name was announced and is proud to receive the award. He said his years as Charlevoix Cubmaster have been enjoyable and rewarding.

As Cubmaster, not a lot of Mansen's time is spent with the kids. Most of it is spent working with leaders, training them to work more effectively with the scouts.

Asked why he has continued to volunteer his time as Charlevoix Cubmaster for more than a decade, Mansen said, "Because I enjoy it." He says it's not just being involved with the local dens, but with other scout leaders throughout the district, from Cadillac to Cheboygan that makes the job interesting.

Wood Badge training is the most advanced training program for scout leaders. Mansen not only has taken the training, but has been involved in coordinating the program for other scout leaders.

All of the leadership training is geared toward scouting's bottom line, the benefit boys receive from the scouting program.

"They get out of it a sense of belonging to a group, working and socializing with their peers. They develop respect for their leaders and their country," Mansen explained.

Charlevoix's Cub Scout program currently has approximately 45 scouts. The Cub Scouts work on their different badges and awards while the older Webelos Scouts also participate in events such as the Jamhoree on the Air and the Klondike Derby. The Pinewood Derby, a model car race in February, remains one of the Cub Scouts more popular events. Older scouts also enjoy camping and other outdoor activities.

Mansen sees a bright future for scouting. "I think it will continue," he said. "Eventually, you might even see Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts combined."

of qualified people for teaching positions," Chase said.

Since the charter school concept is new, there are still some aspects that are unclear to both the charter schools and the existing public schools. The charter school would like to send students to the existing middle and high schools for extracurricular activities like band and sports. The charter school has planned to set aside funds so that they could reimburse the Charlevoix schools for these student activities. No one knows exactly how a shared curriculum between the charter school and the other schools will work.

New organization chooses name

The League of Women Voters of Northern Michigan met Nov. 28 and officially adopted the name, "League of Women Voters of Northern Michigan." The words "of Northern Michigan" were added to welcome people from throughout the area to join the group. The next closest chapter to Charlevoix is in Traverse City.

Plans for the coming year include opening a dialogue with public officials through personal interviews so that chapter members can become more aware of governmental strengths and weaknesses in the area. The next meeting of the local chapter will be Jan. 23. For additional information about the chapter, contact Mona Bergeron at 547-2742 or write to P.O. Box 331, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Castle Farm approaches fund-raising deadline

By Laurie Lounsbury

In less than a week, Castle Farms will either become a non-profit youth center or revert to being Reibel Family property. The deadline for Castle Farms, Inc., to redeem the property, which is in forfeiture, is midnight of December 18.

"I'm gonna go down as an idealistic fool or the savior of Charlevoix youth, depending on what happens," the castle's executive director John Porter said last week. Whatever he's called when it's all said and done, he will also be called tenacious. Porter is still making phone calls to potential contributors right up to the moment of forfeiture. Just last week, Porter was making phone calls to Lansing, seeking confirmation that the Castle has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places. Indeed, the Castle has officially been named to both the state and federal National Register.

The news of the historic designation was good news to Art Reibel. "This will give us some real tax advantages," Reibel said, working on the assumption that he will soon Congress and 10,000 bureaucrats have had more than 200 years to confuse things in Washington D.C. Given merely a week to get things straightened out, Rachel Newcomb, a Charlevoix High School junior, did what she could.

Newcomb was one of 350 high school juniors and seniors who came from all corners of the nation to participate in the 1995 National Young Leaders Conference. The conference, under the direction of the Congressional Youth Leadership Council, took place from Nov. 28 through Dec. 3 in Washington.

Newcomb found the experience to be eye-opening. "It was a lot of fun, but at the same time it was the best learning experience. It gave me a bigger picture of what's out there."

The conference brings together young people from across the nation and provides them with insight into the governmental process. The

Trash TV should be attacked on demand side

It's one of those peculiar issues. In and of itself, it's not necessarily an issue of grave social import, yet it's an issue that raises questions related to more important matters.

Former Education Secretary William Bennett, a Republican, and Democratic Senators Sam Nunn of Georgia and Joseph Lieberman of Connecticut have launched a campaign to put a damper on, or better still, put an end to trash TV talk shows. Perhaps, you'd heard this bit of news. But then again, if your TV is constantly tuned to Sally Jessy Raphael, Geraldo Rivera, Montel Williams, Maury Povich, Ricki Lake et. al, maybe you haven't heard. That's understandable. Start spending your time watching a group of guys in dresses alternately speak the praises of and bemoan the pitfalls of transvestism, and a few other things are bound to sneak by you.

Anyhow, just to bring everyone up to date, this is what's happened. TV talk shows featuring some pretty strange people talking about some pretty strange stuff have gotten fairly popular. Bennett, Nunn and Lieberman have called into question the cultural value of thousands of Americans sitting around watching a group of teenage girls describe the anxiety they feel because their mothers dress like bimbos.

Initially Bennett, Nunn and Lieberman simply criticized the shows and asked the TV people producing the shows to police themselves. That didn't pan out, so now they're trying to get corporations not to sponsor the programs. Odds are, that's not going to go too far either.

To a degree, Bennett, Nunn and Lieberman deserve some credit. It takes a certain amount of nerve to get up in front of a microphone and say that something thousands and thousands of people make a part of their day is "cultural rot."

Unfortunately, Bennett, Nunn and Lieberman's campaign against TV talk shows has been misguided. The campaign has been misguided because they've misconstrued the core of the problem. The problem is not that TV producers offer shows where models with shoulders that are just too broad and square to match the curves they're showing in other places, sit around and explain how much better life is now that they're no longer men. The problem is that for some odd reason thousands and thousands of Americans enjoy watching these shows.

It's a supply and demand thing. As long as thousands of people want to watch a group of parents commiserate over their children hosting skinhead meetings in the basement, then one way or another that demand will be met. As soon as enough people decide such shows aren't worth the time, the shows will be gone.

In order to bring an end to the shows, Bennett, Nunn and Lieberman shouldn't be working the supply side. They need to work the demand side. They need to encourage the people of America to step back, take a long, hard look at themselves and ask some tough questions:

Why is it that so many people enjoy, via television, an invitation to someone else's group therapy session? How bored are we as a nation of people when we can find nothing better to do with our time than to watch a TV talk show host bait a group of screwballs into a frenzy? What flaw in the social fabric of a country that once produced Abe Lincoln, Thomas Edison and Eleanor Roosevelt now has spawned a legion of Peg Bundys?

When we start asking ourselves questions like that and coming up with some honest answers, the demand for trash TV talk shows will wither.

Proposed address system shouldn't be adopted

Editor,

The new proposed numbering system for the City of Charlevoix is NOT a "done deal." The new system will impact almost every address in the city. The new system is NOT necessary to implement 911! The present numbering system needs slight adjustment. Think of all of the documents that would have to be changed with a new address. The new disruptive "50 in the middle of the block" system would be the only one in northern Michigan and would be very confusing.

City government should be of, by and for the people. Demand a public hearing. Call the City Council members: Robert Timmis, 547-2918; Don Meggison, 547-6444; Butch Russell, 547-9654; Gabe Campbell, 547-9739; Jackie Cross, 547-5734; Bruce Reid, 547-6657.

by to read and talk.

In one exercise, the 350 students were divided into 22 caucuses with each caucus assigned to come up with an amendment to the welfare bill. Newcomb drafted her group's amendment. After drafting their amendments, the groups lobbied the other students for adoption of the amendments. The exercise concluded with a mock caucus in the Jefferson Building on Capitol Hill.

In another exercise, the students filled the role of Supreme Court Justices in hearing a simulated Supreme Court case. Newcomb and her partner played the role of Justice Stephen Breyer in a case involving college funding of a religious newspaper on campus.

The students heard several speakers at the conference. Newcomb said her favorite was Albert Robles, the mayor of Southgate, California. She said he was very inspiring. After a bad childhood, he went to UCLA and eventually got into politics. He got elected by doing a lot of door to door campaigning and drinking a lot of coffee while talking to people about how government should work.

Students visited several of the normal tourist places, monuments etc. They also listened to a segment of the International Relations Committee's debate on U.S. policy in Bosnia. Newcomb visited the offices of Congressman Bart Stupak and U.S. Senators Carl Levin and Spencer Abraham.

Newcomb said she feels lucky to have been able to go to the conference and hopes other Charlevoix students will attend future conferences. Newcomb, who is on the high school student council, became aware of the program last spring. Student council advisor Mary Lieberman received some mail about the conference and asked Newcomb if she thought it looked interesting. Several individuals and civic organizations helped Newcomb with conference costs.

have a clear title to the place. There is always the possibility that Reibel will combine the best of the castle's old regime with the newer, youth focused regime. "We'll continue with some of the community youth programs, like the Scout jamboree," Reibel said, adding, "And the concert venue will be reinstated."

With only days to go, the castle still needs about $800,000 to redeem the property for the full amount of $927,775. "Unless big time people step up to the plate, it's not going to happen," Porter said.

Middle School students broaden their interests

Nov. 22, the day before Thanksgiving, Charlevoix Middle School students enjoyed their third annual "C.M.S. Celebration." All 6th, 7th, and 8th graders were allowed to choose two activities from among 25 offered. These activities included: self defense, soccer clinic, cards/comics/paperback book trading, bread making seminar, guitar lessons, football clinic, mime workshop, OM hands on brainstorming, drama, free throw contest, civil war re-enactment, hacky sac, computers, internet, scuba seminar, make-up tips, remote control cars, deer hunting, snowboarding, gameboy/tetris tournament, euchre/card games, wild and crazy science experiments, mountain biking, skiing, and golf basics.

"The idea for this Celebration came from our teachers. We were looking for three things: a way to introduce and expose students to a wider variety of activities, hobbies, and interests; a fun activity to enhance student/teacher relationships; and a way to celebrate the end of a long marking period in a positive way," said Dennis VanGuilder, Principal. VanGuilder says the Celebration has been very popular with students and staff. "Many students tell me they want one every week — they like it so much," he added. Normal classes were shortened to make time for all the special activities.

VanGuilder cites two key reasons for the success of the Celebration. "Students have an opportunity to be involved with their teachers in something other than the normal classroom routine and all the hands-on, fun activities. We know that students learn best when that learning incorporates fun and interesting hands-on activities for the learner."

Student flute players take their show downtown for shoppers

Getting into the Christmas spirit, Dena Sheldon and Kelly Sullivan tooted their flutes Dec. 2, at American Spoon Foods downtown during the annual Charlevoix open house. They played various kinds of music, mostly Christmas music, and were a great success. The duo attracted youngsters, elderly and even a group of middle school kids.

As one little boy's parents shopped he listened in awe and asked for "More, more!" Of course the pair could not resist those expectant little eyes and played on. Another person, older this time, came into Spoon Foods while they were getting ready to pack it up and asked where the musicians went and wondered if there would be more music. When the salesclerk answered no, the elderly man didn't stick around to sample the jams and sauces.

Both customers and pedestrians were obliged to these students' gesture of playing their flutes. It brought the Christmas cheer to the hearts of many.

Eighth grade students share knowledge

by LAUREL ENGLISH
CMS Student

Every Monday through Thursday a handful of eighth and sixth graders, teachers, and parents meet after school in a CMS classroom until 3:15 p.m. to help the sixth grade students with their schoolwork in a program called peer tutoring.

Coordinated by Kathy Gowell and Anne Shindorf, peer tutoring has become a success for three years running, thanks to all who have volunteered for the program.

The eighth graders help with proofreading, encouraging, and guiding the sixth graders through their work. They also provide the extra help that some of them require and come there to get. Sometimes it's just a matter of assisting in getting them caught up on missed assignments.

Although there isn't always a lot of active "tutoring" for them to do,

Mrs. Gowell says that many of her pupils participate because they have trouble concentrating in class. She adds that, "just by sitting there," the eighth graders aid tremendously in keeping their peers focused and giving them some one-on-one attention that they may not otherwise receive.

Both teachers agree that the eighth graders generally make good tutors for the program because they already know some of the sixth graders, they're fairly close in age, and they're familiar with the work.

Mrs. Gowell credits the sixth grade teachers with doing most of the work in guidance and supervision, but the program just wouldn't be possible without the student and parent volunteers. Parents especially are needed to supervise when the teachers are unavailable to do so.

Eighth, or even seventh graders who are interested in lending a hand can talk to either teacher for further information.

Adults who would like to volunteer; may contact CMS office secretary Bev Boss at 547-3206. Mrs. Gowell or Mrs. Shindorf will get in touch with you as soon as possible.

Mrs. Shindorf and Mrs. Gowell would like to extend their thanks to the students and parents who have helped with the peer tutoring program, especially Karen Dickinson, Bethany Torres, Bill Strong, Pam Newcomb, and Kathie Shoenheit, who have donated a lot of time to this cause.

They would also like to thank the following local businesses: Village Inn Pizza, Kmart, Subway, Charlevoix Book Shop, Little Caesars, Burger King, Harmony House, 7-Eleven, Bridge Street Book Shop, and Horizon Videos for providing gift certificates and other items with which to reward the eighth graders for all their hard work, along with everyone else who has actively supported the peer tutoring program.

Jamie Opperman, a substitute teacher, talks to students about what it would have been like to be a soldier in the Civil War.

Winnie R. Wier

Winnie R. Wier, 58, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 5, 1995, at home.

A memorial service was held at noon Friday, Dec. 8, at Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix, with the Rev. Lander Carter officiating.

Mrs. Wier was born Oct. 1, 1937, in Lapeer, the daughter of Leigh and Beryl (Reyment) Hile.

On Oct. 8, 1955, she married Earl E. Wier in Imlay City, and the couple moved from Lapeer to Charlevoix 21 years ago.

Mrs. Wier was a member of Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix, and served as altar guild directress at the church for several years.

She worked in her home as a seamstress, and also managed the Illusions store in Charlevoix for two years.

Survivors include her husband, Earl E. Wier, of Charlevoix; two sons, Robert E. and his wife, Brenda, of Columbiaville, Mich., and Steven C. and his wife, Sharon, of Pellston; one daughter, Janice L. Wier of San Antonio, Texas; eight grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; one brother, Raymond Hile and his wife, Mary, of Lapeer; and four sisters, Barbara Hile of Eller-slie, Ga., Darlene Hile of Alpharetta, Ga., Maxine Green and her husband, Duane, of Pueblo, Colo., and Judy Raymond and her husband, Bob, of Imlay City.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the Winnie Wier Foundation. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home or at Christ Episcopal Church, both in Charlevoix.

Trenton David Michelsen

Trenton David Michelsen, infant son of Jason A. and Rebecca Lynn (Bellairs) Michelsen of Petoskey, died Dec. 10, 1995, at Northern Michigan Hospital.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 13, at Cross of Christ Lutheran Church in Petoskey. The Rev. Ilene Mattson will officiate.

Trenton was born Dec. 10, 1995, at home in Petoskey.

He is survived by his parents, and one brother, Ian Michelsen, of Petoskey; paternal grandparents, Kenneth and Mary Michelsen, of Petoskey; maternal grandparents, Robert and Jennifer Bellairs, of Charlevoix; and great-grandparents, Jason and Lois Snyder of East Jordan, Willis and Kathryn Michelsen of Genoa, Ohio, Winfield and Rosemarie Sluyter of Petoskey, and Edward and Dorothy Bellairs of Rochester Hills.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the family of Trenton D. Michelsen.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Sarah M. Wright

Sarah M. Wright, 87, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 9, 1995, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

Funeral will be 11 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 16, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Dale P. Ostema of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church will officiate. Burial will take place in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

She was born April 11, 1908, in Elgin, Ill., the daughter of Frank V. and Sarah Wales.

On June 29, 1929, she married Carl S. Wright in Muskegon, where they made their home until 1957 when they moved to Charlevoix. Mr. Wright preceded her in death in February 1975.

Mrs. Wright was a homemaker. She is survived by two sons, Carl D. Wright of Charlevoix, and Rodrick L. Wright and his wife, Nancy, of Worland, Wyo.; five grandchildren, Pamela Kirtley of Hartland, Matthew and Mark, both of Brighton, Patrick of Tampa, Fla., and Eric of Casper, Fla.; and six great-grandchildren.

Memorial contributions are suggested to Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

There will be no visitation. Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

A story that seems to have escaped big notice this weekend took place on the campus of Auburn University in Alabama. In a day and age where the money of professional sports lures all too many young athletes out of school before they complete their education, one young man came back to school to finish up the work that the gridiron interrupted.

Bo Jackson, perhaps the first modern day two sport athlete, came back to complete his degree in child and family development. Could it be that now Bo really knows? All the acclaim that sports had brought him, all the fun that those sneaker commercials had to be, did not take the place of what he really needed to be doing with his life.

As one who had sat in the stadium at Chicago and alternately heard Bo cheered and booed, you knew that such things could not last forever. As one who has taken a few hits and had my bones jarred over the years, when his hip was injured, you knew his days of fame and fortune were all too fleeting. It is a wise person who does more than take advantage of the opportunities life offers. It is a wise person who has a base course firmly fixed in his heart that he can always return to.

My heart goes out to the unsung hero of the Christmas story, Joseph. When Mary shared the vision of her visit with the angel and God's prophecy regarding her son, it had to throw Joseph for a loop. An immaculate conception was not something he had counted on. It was not something he could easily discount either.

His first tendency was to make "some private arrangements" for Mary's well being and carry on with his life. But faith was so much a part of Joseph's spirit that when the Lord spoke to his heart and confirmed all that Mary had shared with him, he knew he could accept this holy opportunity and still have years of happiness ahead.

In fact, I find myself thinking that is why God chose Joseph to be Jesus' earthly role model. He was a man who kept the long term goals of his life in view. He was a man who could handle life's unexpected twists and turns without being rattled. He was a man who knew what he believed and relied on those beliefs to be a guiding star for his life.

I would challenge you to look at what your base course in life is; just what it is you really believe. I would challenge you not to be distracted by things that might rob you of the hopes and dreams that you hold for your life. God is still looking for men and women who will follow the star He sets before them. Blessings come when we trust in what we do best.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

KCB sponsors annual Christmas lighting contest

The cream of the residential Christmas display crop will be judged Wednesday, Dec. 20 in a contest sponsored by Keep Charlevoix Beautiful.

To be judged, houses have to be registered with Rita McAvoy at Vacation Properties Network, 547-9905 or Jackie Krutsch at 547-5444.

Homeowners can register their own home or neighbors can also enter other houses if they think the decoration is special.

Dale and Marilyn Boss will drive the judges around in the Petunia Truck.

Four divisions have been set up:

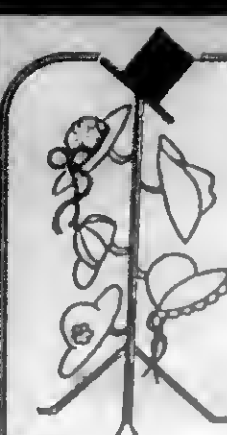

north of the bridge, east of US 31, west of US 31, and out of town, which covers a four-mile radius from the city limits.

An overall winner will be picked, and two houses from each area will be recognized. Judging covers the entire display, not just lights.

Judging will be between 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 20.

Social Services is moved and renamed

By Laurie Lounsbury

Throughout the state of Michigan, the Department of Social Services is getting a new name. Here in Charlevoix, the DSS is also getting a new home. DSS will now be referred to as the Family Independence Agency, as part of Gov. Engler's welfare reform program. And in Charlevoix, the newly named agency is moving next door to their former location on M-66 Highway. After completing a total renovation to the former furniture store, DSS moved into their new digs last Friday. The new location doubles the total square footage of space the department had in their old building. "This just meets the square footage of space we've been entitled to for a long time," said Terry Salacina, director of DSS.

The move to a bigger building coincides with the passage of Gov. Engler's welfare block grant reform bill in the Michigan Senate and House of Representatives. But the timing is purely coincidental. Locally, the Charlevoix DSS has been planning their move for the last 18 months. The DSS has been in the same building since 1977. Before that, they were housed in the county building.

Since 1977, the DSS staff has grown from a staff of 20 to a staff of 29 employees. The number of people needing welfare hasn't grown significantly since 1977, but the number of government programs has grown dramatically. In 1977, there were only two medical assistance programs available to needy people. Today, there are at least 20 different government medical assistance programs.

Welfare reform doesn't mean the entire operation will shrink. It means taxpayers should be getting more service and a more effective program for their money. The government is taking a strict position on welfare benefits. People applying for benefits are expected to get a job, make every effort to get a job, or risk losing their benefits.

Salacina doesn't know how welfare reform will ultimately affect the staffing of the Charlevoix office. Cutbacks are possible, but unlikely. All but a few people at the management level are members of the UAW union, and are protected by a union contract. "They might have to move to a different DSS office with the changes being made, but I think almost everyone will be able to keep their job," Salacina said.

New building is more user friendly

From the outside, the former Charlevoix Home Furnishings building on M-66 still looks like a furniture store, not a DSS building. But inside, a major transformation has occurred. The building is a state of the art, ergonomically designed work place, sure to please both the workers and clients of DSS. "Some of our staff think they've died and gone to heaven, especially the ones where three people were sharing a space designed for one person," DSS Director Terry Salacina said. The offices are lighted by parabolic, non-glare lights, to reduce eye strain caused by computer glare. Computer keyboard and mouse pad stands are adjustable in height and pop out of sight when not in use. Office chairs provide lower back support and file cabinets are within arms' reach.

Wait - there's more. A conference room will allow independent contractors, such as Work First or counselors to have a place to work with clients when they're in town. A family visit room will give privacy to parents and children who are on a visitation basis. The spacious employee lunchroom will no longer have to double as a meeting room. "We now have the space to do things that are just plain humane, that we couldn't do before," Salacina said.

United Methodist Church to present Christmas Cantata

Sunday, Dec. 17 at the 11 a.m. worship service, the Charlevoix United Methodist Church Choir under the direction of Donna White will present the Choral Cantata - "Love Came Down." Celebrations of Christmas through music date back to the early Christian church. "Love Came Down" uses some new as well as familiar material to add to our celebration of God's gift of grace this Christmas. The public is invited to come hear this Christmas message in song.

Forty Charlevoix High School students recently traveled to Chicago to see an exhibit of the French Impressionist Claude Monet.

The Art Institute of Chicago was the location of the exhibit, which ran from last summer until Thanksgiving weekend. One hundred and sixty-one of the artist's works were displayed, making it one of the most extensive and comprehensive collections of Monet's painting in recent history.

Wednesday, Nov. 22, Marti Mathers' Advanced Art and Tom Shelton's French 4 classes loaded into a bus and made the seven-hour journey to view the exhibit.

Because of a generous grant from the Charlevoix Enrichment Foundation, the students were able to take this trip at minimal cost. Without this grant, the cost of the admission to the exhibit and the charter bus would have been prohibitive.

The trip had been in the planning for almost two months, so students had plenty of time to get excited and prepared for the trip. Shelton's French class did a research project on impressionism and impressionist artists in preparation for the exhibit. A large part of their research was conducted through the Ebsco electronic magazine catalog and through the Internet. The students then prepared both oral and written presentations in French about Impressionism. Mathers' classes became acquainted with Monet's work by completing sketchbook assignments using Monet's techniques.

T-shirts and water color paints provided by student fundraisers, were given to each tour guest. Although the trip was long, students found the exhibit well worth it. "It was an absolutely amazing experience," said Junior Emily Murray.

Official Notice

ORDINANCE #630

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY UPDATING THE WEED CONTROL ORDINANCE BEING SECTIONS 6.71 - 6.74 OF CHAPTER 68 OF SAID CODE BY REPEALING THE CURRENT ORDINANCE AND ENACTING A NEW WEED CONTROL ORDINANCE.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

That Sections 6.71 - 6.74 of Chapter 63 of the City Code be amended by repealing the current weed control ordinance and enacting a new weed control ordinance which shall read as follows:

Chapter 63
WEED CONTROL

6.71 WEED GROWTH PROHIBITED

No person owning and/or occupying any premises in the City of Charlevoix shall permit or maintain on any such premises any growth of noxious weeds: nor any growth of grass or other rank vegetation to a greater height than twelve (12) inches on the average; nor any accumulation of dead weeds, grass or brush. "Noxious weeds" shall include Canada Thistle (Cirsium Arvense), Dodders (any species of Cuscuta), Mustards (Charlock, Black Mustard and Indian Mustard, species of Brassica or Sinapis), Wild Carrot (Daucus Carota), Bindweed (Convolvulus Arvensis), Perennial Sowthistle (Sonchus Arvensis), Hoary Alyssum (Berteroa Incana), Ragweed (Ambrosia Elatior 1), Poison Ivy (Rhus Toxicodendron) and Poison Sumac (Toxicodendron Vernix). The term "person" as used in this Ordinance means an individual, partnership, corporation, limited liability company or any other legal entity.

6.72 DUTY OF OCCUPANT OR OWNER

It shall be the duty of the occupant as well as the owner of every premise within the City to cut and remove or destroy by lawful means all such noxious weeds and grass, as often as may be necessary to comply with the provisions of Section 6.71; provided, that the cutting, removing or destroying of such weeds and grass at least once in every three (3) weeks between June 1 and September 15 of each year, shall be deemed to be in compliance with this Chapter.

6.73 WHEN CITY TO DO WORK

If there is not compliance with the provisions of Sections 6.71 and 6.72, the City Manager shall notify the occupant or owner of such premises to comply with the provisions of said Sections within ten (10) days after service of such notice. Notice shall be given in accordance with Section 1.11 of this Code. If there is no compliance with such notice within the specified time, the City Manager shall cause such weeds, grass and other vegetation to be removed or destroyed and the actual cost of such cutting, removal or destruction including supervision and overhead costs shall be a lien against the premises and collected in the manner prescribed in Act 359 of the Public Acts of 1941, as amended. The City Manager shall be commissioner of Noxious Weeds of the City, and shall serve as such without additional compensation.

6.74 ALTERNATIVE PUBLICATION

In lieu of the notice required by Section 6.73, the City Manager may publish a notice in a newspaper of general circulation in the City during the month of March. The notice shall state that vegetation not cut by June 1 of that year will be cut by the City. It shall also state the continuing obligation of a person to comply with this Ordinance and that the owner of the property may be charged with the cost of compliance pursuant to Section 6.73. The notice shall also contain such other information as is required by Act 359 of the Public Acts of 1941, as amended.

Several protest address changes

But council continues to support new system

by L. Scott Swanson

Despite complaints from several people and a call for a public hearing, the city council is going forward with a proposal to change nearly everyone's address in the city of Charlevoix.

The proposal, which has been spearheaded by city police chief Dennis Halverson, will change the names of misnamed streets and give names to unnamed alleys and private drives. That aspect of the proposal has not generated a great deal of controversy.

The proposal will also change the way houses and buildings are numbered. Currently, houses are numbered with a block number followed by a 2, 4, 6 etc. on one side of the street and a block number followed by a 1, 3, 5 etc. on the other side of the street. In the new system houses at one end of the block will be numbered with a block number followed by a 0 or a 5 depending on the side of the street, and houses at the other end of the block will be numbered with a block number followed by a 90 or 95 depending on the side of the street. Houses in the middle of the block will be numbered with a block number followed by a 50.

Proponents of the change feel the new system will give rhyme and reason to city addresses and make it easier for emergency services, utility and delivery personnel to locate houses and businesses. Opponents of the proposal feel it will create a major headache to solve a few minor problems.

At Monday evening's council meeting, Mayor Josh Barnes said the address change was first discussed by the council in July of 1994. It was also discussed at November and December 1995 council meetings. Barnes said that since the council had previously voted to have Halverson go ahead with the project, it would by charter requirement take a five-sixth's vote of the council to reconsider the matter.

Several citizens objected to the proposal and asked the council to schedule a formal public hearing before going forward with the change.

"Any plan that rennumbers almost 2,000 addresses in the city should be discussed at a formal public hearing," said Bob Hoffman, a local accountant.

Theater owner Bill Supernaw disagreed, saying calls for a public hearing were too late and nothing productive would come from one.

Volunteer fireman Jerry Meggison voiced support for the address change saying, "This is a change that I think will help the city."

Others in the audience argued that their new addresses in early January. The new addresses will not take affect until early February.

Business owner Susan LeButt said that even though the council has instructed to Halverson to come up with a plan, he could be directed to go back and come up with something simpler. "I think that you're trying to do too much to solve a small problem," she said.

Former city mayor Ken Staley voiced similar sentiments. He said that whenever something new is implemented there's always a trade-off of benefits and problems. "I think in this case the trade-off is a bum deal," he said.

Polle VerWys, a resident of Hurlbut Street, said she feels that some numbering corrections are needed and that naming the alleys is a good idea too, "but it doesn't seem like we would need to disrupt the whole town."

A motion to reconsider the council's previous support of the address change failed by a 4-2 vote. Council members Bob Timms and Gabe Campbell favored reconsideration. Council members Butch Russell, Don Meggison, Bruce Reid and Jackie Cross favored going ahead with the address change.

Following the vote, Timms said, "I really feel this is a travesty on the citizens of the city of Charlevoix." He added, "I'm ashamed of the council for doing this."

People will be mailed notices of their new addresses in early January. The new addresses will not take affect until early February.

The Post Office will continue delivering mail to old addresses, as well as new, for at least six months after February.

When the big snowfall hit last week, it was nearly the undoing of many snowbound people in town. Thankfully, good neighbors like Jerry Staublin were armed with snowblowers, ready to lend a helping hand. Staublin cleared a path to one neighbor's home who was expecting friends over for coffee. Then he cleared his neighbor Florence Uhrick's driveway. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Castle funding drive falls short of goal

By Laurie Lounsbury

It didn't happen. The Castle Farms group trying to buy the castle from the Reibel Family Trust didn't come up with the nearly million dollars they needed to make the purchase.

Monday, at six o'clock in the evening, the castle's executive director John Porter handed the keys to the castle back to Art Reibel.

"It was not a fun day," Porter said. Porter and a small band of castle supporters spent the day liquidating their few remaining assets. Desks and bookcases were donated to the Charlevoix teen center. A large secretarial cabinet went to the

Norwood street to remain open

by Laurie Lounsbury

Frank Richards has a beautiful home in Norwood, sitting high on a bluff overlooking Lake Michigan. From his flagstone terrace in front, he can enjoy spectacular sunsets. Richards has it all - including a public road that cuts in front of his lovely home and terrific view.

The road that comes between Richards and Lake Michigan is First Street, a road as old as Norwood Township. Richards has asked the county road commission to abandon the road, based on his concerns for safety. According to Richards, First Street intersects with Lake Street at his property's corner, in a hazardous manner. And according to today's road building standards, Richards is right. The angle at the intersection is not a 90 degree angle, and Lake Street rises up from Lake Michigan at far too great a slope to meet today's requirements. Richards has an engineer's report that substantiates the dangers of the intersection.

But the road has been there since 1869. It's as unique as the village itself, and township residents don't want to see it abandoned. Is it safe? "In the history of the township, there has never been an accident at that intersection," Doris Pearl, township clerk said. Sheriff George Lasater concurred with Pearl. He said there is no record of an accident at that intersection and there have been no complaints about it.

Richards remains steadfast in his contention that the road should be abandoned for safety reasons. He petitioned the Charlevoix Road Commission to close the road. The Norwood Township counter-petitioned the road commission, asking that the road be kept open. At their

Nov. 9 meeting, the road commission decided to honor the township board's request to keep the road open.

The dispute didn't drop there. Richards went before the Charlevoix County Commissioners at their last meeting, asking them to review the matter. He said that the road commission's decision was like holding kangaroo court, with the outcome already decided. Commissioner Jim Behling, who attended the Nov. 9 road commissioner meeting, shed light on the issue. "The road commission consistently goes with the recommendation of the townships," Behling said.

Norwood Township residents are upset by the ongoing problem. "When you have someone who pursues their individual interests rather than the community interest, it doesn't bode well for the rest of the people trying to maintain a community," Pearl said. The township board members are convinced that there is no safety hazard with First Street and Lake Street. One Norwood resident, who asked to remain anonymous, said, "Richards wants a front yard that doesn't have a roadway in it and an unobstructed view. It's very selfish on his part."

Richards' only support for abandoning the road comes from his next door neighbor, Bruce MacLean. Richards and MacLean own all of the property that stretches along the front of First Street.

County commissioners requested a report from Fred Welch, road manager, to clarify the situation. Norwood Township has also asked Welch for a report and recommendations about possible traffic signs that would make the intersection safer.

This photo shows the view of Lake Michigan from First Street in Norwood. The Charlevoix County Road Commission has rejected a request to abandon the street.

Retrospective

A brief look back at a bit of this area's past.

Norwood Area Historical Society
by NANCY RITSEMA

They called him "Apple-Blossom William." Uncle Bill, the Sage of Norwood. Marion Township in Charlevoix County was named in honor of his wife Marion. They were pioneers and they came from a long line of adventuresome and wilderness-breaking ancestors.

William Harris' roots were Welsh and his family were colonists in eastern New York long before the beginning of the Independence War in 1775. Marion Harris' ancestor, Thomas Angell, arrived in the New World from London aboard the Ship LION in 1631. Angell and others, followers of religious leader Roger Williams, formed the Providence, Rhode Island colony, fleeing colonial Salem after five years of religious persecution.

In the spring of 1866, work had begun in another wilderness, the Lake Michigan shore of northern Michigan. Adams, Wood and Company had begun work on a new sawmill and dock, the beginnings of what was to become Norwood. They hired William, a public school teacher from Battle Creek, Michigan, to come north and open a boarding house for them, a job commonly known as that of "mine host."

William, Marion, five-year-old Ernest and three-year-old Carrie arrived in Antrim City in July of 1866 aboard the steamer Sunny-Side. One week later William loaded his family and belongings and supplies in a big row boat and rowed the three miles to Adam's and Wood's new dock at Norwood. They moved into the first house built in Norwood.

The first house built in Norwood was a big squared timber log house. It was known as the Boarding House and William built cheap wooden beds for the boarders that first year. Early settlers and dock and mill workers Max Genet, Steven Moore, J. Fisher, Harvey Wilson, Joseph LaShore, O.D. Hilton, George Olney, William Phelps and others boarded with Harris and his family for $4 a week.

The job provided Harris a good income, and after a year he resigned from the post, purchased forty acres of land in the newly platted Norwood Township and cleared the virgin forest for farming. The "Boarding House" was eventually torn down by John Runyan. He took the squared logs down to his farm and built a barn from them.

William and Marion built their own home in the spring of 1868. Elmore Clark was the builder. In 1870 Daniel Stafford built their barn and charged them $78 for his labors.

When the first Post Office was established in Norwood April 1, 1868, William was its postmaster. For his duties he received $1 a month.

The rest of his life, William was a leader in village, county and state government. He was Norwood Township Supervisor, organizer of Marion Township, arbitrator in the 1880 Charlevoix County seat controversy between Charlevoix and Boyne City.

The apple blossoms from the old orchards in Norwood inspired William Harris of Norwood to introduce legislation in 1897 that made the apple blossom Michigan's state flower.

Three times William was elected to the State Legislature in Michigan as a representative of Charlevoix, Antrim and Manitou Counties. In the legislative session of 1897, William introduced a bill which would make the apple blossom Michigan's state flower. The bill passed both houses and became law.

Every school child is taught the state flower of Michigan, but very few ever learn about "Apple-Blossom William." William Harris, the man who helped carve out the wilderness of Norwood Township and who spent his last years in the village homestead he loved, close to the apple orchards whose spring flowers have become one of our state symbols and treasures.

Arguments on both sides of address issue have some holes

We probably shouldn't be surprised that constructing and implementing a new address system for the city of Charlevoix is proving difficult. After all, we're trying to apply a logically conceived square grid system to a town that's been illogically constructed with its center occupied by a body of water known as "Round Lake."

At Monday evening's city council meeting several people complained about the proposed new system which will change the address of nearly every home and business in the city. Several people called for a public hearing. The council, by a 4-2 vote, declined to schedule a public hearing and instead chose to go forward with plans to change the address system.

Proponents of the address change contend that the new system will give the city's address system some sense of rhyme and reason and make it easier for emergency service personnel and a variety of other people to find people's businesses and homes. Opponents of changing the address system contend that with minor modifications, the current system can be made functional and that the benefits of wholesale change are outweighed by the headaches it will cause.

Whether or not the benefits of changing the city's address system are worth the headaches it will cause is a tough call. The advantages and disadvantages are impossible to quantify. What is more interesting in this particular issue is some of the arguments that were made either for or against the proposal and for or against holding a public hearing.

Those who did not want a public hearing scheduled tried to make it appear as if the matter has been discussed by the council in the past on several occasions and that the people now protesting just weren't paying attention and are now complaining too late in the game.

L. Scott Swanson

That's not completely correct. Although the council discussed updating the city's address system in 1994, the dramatic scope of the change wasn't evident until about a month ago. As soon as the magnitude of the change became apparent, people began to complain.

At Monday evening's council meeting, city mayor Josh Barnes claimed a section of the City Charter would have made it impossible for the city council to stop the proposed address system change without a five-sixth vote of the council. Former mayor Ken Staley, who opposes the address change, said he had a hard time believing that is the case and he's probably right. While the council may have needed a five-sixth vote to completely reverse course, it's hard to believe they couldn't have modified or amended their course with a simple majority vote. That is, if council members had been of a mind to do that. In fact, scant moments after discussion of the address issue ended, the council began discussing where to place a stone monument at Lake Michigan Beach. Although the council had voted on that matter back in August, Monday evening consideration was given to modifying the August decision. On that issue there was no mention of any requirement of a five-sixth vote. In fact, they didn't even formally vote. They just went by general consent.

On the other side of the aisle, some of the arguments opposing the address change and favoring a public hearing also had some holes.

For example, some people have argued that the section of Michigan Avenue north of the bridge to the curve where what most people consider Michigan Avenue begins should not have its name changed because there are several businesses on that stretch. Well, if you're going to change street names so that the same street doesn't have different names in different places, do that to all the streets. Don't pick and choose. If the Michigan Avenue people have any valid complaint, it is that they don't want to have a Petoskey Avenue address on a Charlevoix business. That has some credibility. The problem could be rectified by either naming that section of Bridge Street, North Bridge Street or better still renaming Petoskey Avenue, Charlevoix Avenue.

The argument for a public hearing also implied that people opposed to the address change have somehow been denied an opportunity to be heard. There again, that's just not the case. The proposed address change was discussed and public comment allowed at the first December council meeting. The following week, third ward council member Bruce Reid set up a public meeting at the high school to discuss and explain the proposed address change. At Monday evening's council meeting, the proposed address change was again discussed at length.

It's not as though the proposed change hasn't been thoroughly scrutinized. It's just a matter of whether or not people are going to like it.

Citizen objects to new address system

Editor,

Are all you Charlevoix tax payers satisfied with the fall out you are now facing because you voted for 911? Do every one of you tax paying residents relish the prospect of changing all your house numbers, notifying all your correspondents, business concerns, legal requirements such as driver licenses, car registrations, etc., letter heads, credit cards, personal checks, insurance companies and all others, ad infinitum, too numerous to mention?

According to the local Chief of Police; renumbering the entire city is the one and only solution. Certainly there are irregularities, as there are everywhere else. Many of the streets would require little or no corrections at all. He certainly maximized the problems and in his eyes, it's a wonder entire households don't get lost in such an antiquated system. That's about as close to the truth as ice cream and horse droppings. Renaming some of the streets that cause problems is certainly acceptable as are renumbering streets where growth was much greater than normal.

The Chief was asked how many public workers were involved in emergency duties, (police, firemen, ambulance crews) he estimated about 45.

Maybe this solution isn't the best answer but in my humble opinion, it makes more sense than a total upheaval of the lives of the city tax payers, to say nothing of the time and expense involved.

There is plenty of time before 911 goes on line to send each and every one of the 45 involved, with the city postal carriers on foot or car or both to learn the irregularities that can't seem to be resolved. Any dedicated public servant would, or should, be more than willing to do this in the pursuit of greater efficiency. Maybe a normal training fee could be included. God knows we spend money in this city on things that border on the ridiculous.

If any of the public servants object, show them the exit door. The present City Administration fired better firemen than their replacements and even if it's odious to beat a dead horse, would a new street address have saved the City Light Plant or more competence at the head of the department? Remember, tax payers when we ran out of water with untold billions of gallons less than 200 yards away?

The cop told us at the Dec. 14 meeting in the high school band room how pleased some postal dignitaries were at the proposed numbering system. They may have been giving lip service as my personal experience tells me no postal laws are being broken, everybody will still get mail delivery and will some of you tax payers please tell me if you aren't getting all your bills on time? Or even ahead of time?

One tax payer at the meeting asked a question, while unanswered, certainly met with approval when he asked, "Why in this city, is the minority always telling the majority what to do?"

In conclusion, two of our worthy councilmen were interested enough to come to the meeting. Mr. Timms and Mr. Campbell attended. Neither was asked for comment or input even though Mr. Timms put his hand up to be recognized on several occasions but was ignored. I would like to apologize to both these gentlemen on behalf of the tax payers in attendance who also noticed this oversight and commented about it. It wasn't in very good taste.

Thanks for your time,
Perry Smith

Things were much simpler in the old days before telephone surveys, market studies, fact finding missions, legal opinions and State and Federal regulations became routine. Want to launch a new project? Just ask Dale Boss how quickly the Mt. McSaubia Ski Area was organized in 1955, merely 40 years ago.

It all began during the usual 9:45 a.m. coffee break. A bunch of cronies met every morning at the soda fountain of Schroeder's Drugstore on the corner of Bridge Street for coffee and rolls. Dale suggested to John Schroeder, the druggist, that Charlevoix should have a ski area, because he felt there wasn't enough for kids to do here in the winter.

"Why don't you call a meeting?" suggested Schroeder, and that's just what 24-year-old Boss did. Archie Livingston, the local banker, Charles Hampton, the insurance agent, Dick Fochtman, the Chevrolet car dealer, Don Campbell, shoe store owner, Schroeder, the druggist and Boss met on a stormy December night in the basement of the city hall. Archie Livingston was designated to approach the city council on the matter of leasing the city owned property to the newly formed Mt. McSaubia Recreation Association. The council wholeheartedly agreed to the proposal, and by the next day Boss and Fochtman crawled all over the mountain to figure out the lay out of the newly designated ski run.

Now mind you, there wasn't a skier on the whole newly formed board of directors! Dr. Grate was elected first president. Frank Boss volunteered to be in charge of construction. Greg Shadko offered to be in charge of engineering. Maurie Foster was the only treasurer during the 20 years the organization existed. The board decided to sell stock at $10 a share to raise $10,000, which in today's market would amount to $70,000. Everyone was amazed at how fast the money came in. Working men dug into their overalls and little old ladies dipped into the sugar bowl and bought stock to further the dream.

On weekends, locals Bob Lieberman, Don Parsel, Bob Neff, Bill Lusk, Dick Fochtman, Bob Pearl, Gerald and Spike Goss, Marle Foster and others, cut down beech and maple trees to make way for the ski run. It was discovered that there wasn't enough earth to complete the hill, so Boss talked to Don Campbell, who owned 60 acres adjacent to the area.

"Go ahead, take it. I'll give you a deed to it when we have time!"

Ten acres of dirt was moved onto the hill and "that's the way we did business in those days and it worked," adds Dale, laughing. "The job was all done in three weeks."

"Then a well was needed to supply water. Elmer Crain had a new drilling machine and he drilled a hole 182 ft. down and no water. I told Crain to go 100 ft. to the east on Mr. Campbell's property."

"You can't do that," Crain said, "We don't own the property."

"Go ahead," Dale answered, "He won't care, and 35 minutes later, Crain had the most beautiful well at 20 ft. That, in spite of the fact that the Health Department specified it should be at least 35 ft."

It was three or four years later that Campbell presented the deed to the Club.

...Castle funding drive falls short

Charlevoix/Emmet County Housing Coalition. Kitchen equipment, bought with the possible intentions of having a cooking school, went unused, back to an equipment vendor. Phone lines were promptly disconnected.

The bank will be returning donations in the castle's escrow account with interest.

John Porter is out of a job, but his concerns still remain. "The needs that brought the Castle Farms group together in the first place are still out there. For high school kids who aren't in sports, there still is nothing to do," Porter said.

To some degree Art Reibel agrees with Porter. On his first day back at the castle, Reibel said he and his family want to carry on with youth programs. His daughter Kim plans to continue with the Story tree program and the Boy Scout jamboree.

The Reibel family also has plans to pursue restoration of the property, in keeping with the historical landmark designation. Kim Reibel is already looking into grant applications for restoration. "It's a new beginning," Art Reibel said, adding, "I think you're going to see some nice things happening that will be beneficial to the community." Reibel spoke of antique shows, car and boat shows, and the Michigan Renaissance Festival when he discussed the possibilities for future events.

Reibel acknowledged that concerts will return in a limited venue. "There's an economic side to any business. Concerts are where the money is, and you've got to pay the bills, even with a non-profit organization," Reibel said.

And what will the man do who has spent the last year and a half trying to redeem the castle? "I haven't the foggiest idea. I'll worry about that after the first of the year," Porter said.

School bands to perform in concert

The Charlevoix High School and the seventh and eighth grade bands will host their annual Christmas program, Wednesday, Dec. 20 at 7 p.m. in the High School gymnasium. Also, the newly formed Charlevoix School Choir, under the direction of Raphael Rittenhouse and accompanied by Fran Tollas, will make its debut performance.

Program provides shoes

The Rose Cargo store located at 100 1/2 Mason Street (behind Suhway) in Charlevoix has "planted" its annual Shoe Tree to benefit the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan (WRC). Shoppers at Rose Cargo who donate a useable pair of shoes or boots to the Shoe Tree receive a 20 percent discount on any new shoe or boot purchase. In turn, the donated shoes are given to the WRC.

Diane Liverance (Gorkiewicz), owner of Rose Cargo and creator of the Shoe Tree said her customers donated 44 pairs of high quality shoes and boots to the Shoe Tree in 1994. "Last year customers saw the donated shoes hanging on the tree in the store and thought they were for sale," state Liverance. "I am pleased to help the Women's Resource Center in this way and hope to get a lot more donations this year," she adds. Since Rose Cargo specializes in earth-friendly products many customers feel it is a natural place to recycle their shoes.

...Edith - the building of Mount McSauba

"Next, Frank Boss rounded up some guys and built a 20x40 ft. building and Earl Young donated the fireplace," continued Dale. "Then Don Parsel, the Oldsmobile dealer and an excellent mechanic, donated an old ton-and-half Ford V8 truck to use as the power plant. This propels the rope tow, that transports the skiers up the hill. He and Bob Neff took an old elevator that was located in the now Mettler Building and used the gears for the mechanism that pulled the rope up the hill. This bunch of junk worked perfectly and there was never a mishap. It wasn't until 10 years later that the State inspected the equipment."

"King Saunders, a retired newspaper man, was in charge of running the ski area. To start the rope tow, he turned on the old Ford tow truck engine and set the throttle speed with a wooden clothes pin. One time, when he wasn't looking, the kids removed the clothes pin and pulled the throttle out, which made the rope run faster than a scared rabbit. You should have seen those kids flying up the hill, until King threatened to shut down the hill if they ever did this again!"

"After twenty years, all the junk equipment wore out and there was no money in the treasury. The stock certificates have been written off long ago, so in 1975 the City Recreation Department took over the management of the ski area and has been running it ever since."

For the last 20 years, Dale's son, Bo, has been in charge of the hill. Today, approximately 600 people in the community enjoy the use of the lovely beginners' area, that looks like a Grandma Moses scene, with colorful ski jackets, bobbing against the blue white snow, fenced in by stately green pines on both sides.

A tip of the hat goes to the old timers, who gathered around the soda fountain at Schroeder's drug store forty years ago, and to Dale Boss, who remembers so vividly the way things were done then to make a dream come true.

Robert W. Malison

Robert W. Malison, 61, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 12, 1995, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A memorial service was held Saturday, Dec. 16, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. Pastor Merle Wellhausen of Bethany Lutheran Church officiated.

Mr. Malison was born Nov. 22, 1934, in Chippewa Falls, Wis., the son of William Robert and Cora (Ellenson) Malison. He was raised in the Mankitowoc area.

He served in the U.S. Air Force and U.S. Army.

In 1967, he moved to Charlevoix. He married Sandra Krouse on Oct. 22, 1989, in Charlevoix, and she survives.

Mr. Malison had been employed by the Medusa Portland Cement Co. in Charlevoix for 30 years.

He enjoyed the outdoors, especially hunting.

Survivors include his wife, Sandra K.; two sons, Robert and his wife, Stacey, of Plymouth, Wis., and Gary M. of Charlevoix; stepdaughters, Terri Jordan and her husband, Sean, of Cocoa, Fla., Renee Hood and her husband, David, of Neuman, Ga., Rhonda DeVine of Huntington Beach, Calif., Heather DeVine of Roswell, Ga., Cindy Idema and her husband, Roger, of Rockford, Mich., and Connie Krebs and her husband, Brian, of Boise, Idaho; eight grandchildren; and two sisters, Beverly Schneider and Pat Bloedorn, both of Sun City, Ariz.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the American Lung Association or to the American Diabetes Association. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Virginia L. Erlandson

Virginia L. Erlandson, 81, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 13, 1995, at Boulder Park Terrace in Charlevoix.

A memorial service was held Monday, Dec. 18, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Robert V. Warren, pastor of Parr Memorial Baptist Church, officiated.

Mrs. Erlandson was born May 18, 1914, in Superior, Wis., the daughter of Thomas and Mabel (Kontz) Bruden.

In December 1949, she married Philip Erlandson in Chicago. He preceded her in death in 1989.

Mrs. Erlandson moved to Charlevoix from Florida in 1993.

She enjoyed skiing and sailing, and was a member of the Chicago Yacht Club and the PGA Golf Club in Palm Beach, Fla.

Survivors include one sister, Jean Clarke, of Sarasota, Fla., and one niece, Sharon Clark, of Charlevoix.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the Boulder Park Terrace Activity Department. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

I remember it like it was only yesterday. I had the pastoral pleasure of visiting a mother and her newborn child in the hospital. The smile on her face was as big as all outdoors as she described the wondrous events of the night before. But her greatest joy in telling about her labor and delivery was introducing me to her daughter and asking, "Do you want to hold the baby?" She didn't have to ask twice. I bent right down and she placed her bundle of joy in my arms.

Have you ever stopped to think how little ones effect us? It is amazing how normally intelligent and fully conversant adults can be reduced to cooing and gurgling in a flash in response to the presence of a baby. We love it too! Those tiny hands grasping our fingers with all their might fascinate us. Their total faith, trust, and acceptance of us lift our spirits in a fashion that few other things can do. There is something about holding a baby that suddenly makes everything seem brand new.

God shares the weariness when life's worries and stresses have robbed us of joy. That's why each Christmas He calls us back to the manger to remind us of how life is really meant to be. He does more than call us. He asks us, "Do you want to hold the baby? Do you have room in your heart?"

God shares the uncertainty of so many who seem unable to find meaning or purpose for what they are doing with their lives. That's why each Christmas He calls us back to the manger to show us where meaning and purpose for every situation can be found. Our hopes rest in Jesus. Do you want to hold the baby? It's amazing how clear things can become when the Savior of the world rests within your arms.

God shares the burden that weights so many hearts down who wonder if the struggle is worthwhile, if anyone really cares what is happening to them or not. That's why each Christmas He calls us back to the manger to not only let us marvel at the innocence and purity of the tiny child, but to show us that He loves us now more than ever. Do you want to hold the baby? God trusts you so much. He believes in you so much and all that you can be that He is willing to put the most precious gift He can imagine in your total care.

Do you want to hold the baby? It had to amaze Mary somewhat to hear the shepherds tell of the angel's story and how they knew right where to find her young family. Then again, from the very first stirrings in her womb she knew her son was more than her own. She knew he would touch far more hearts than hers and Joseph's alone. And so it began with the shepherds. Now it is our turn. God has called us to the manger. Called us to share in the birth of His son and just as she pondered it all long ago, the invitation is given to us. Do you want to hold the baby? He'll change your life forever.

BUSINESS

Valerie Barnes returns home to practice law

Valerie K. Barnes has joined the Charlevoix law firm of Pointner, Joseph and Corcoran P.C. Barnes, who has been admitted to the Arizona bar, will be working as a law clerk at the office pending her admission to the Michigan bar this coming spring. Following admission to the Michigan bar, she will be working as an attorney.

For Barnes, joining the Charlevoix law firm is a return to her hometown. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1987. Barnes said she came home in August for a vacation and ended up staying.

"I just decided I wanted to come back and be closer to my family," she said.

After graduating from Charlevoix High School, Barnes did her undergraduate work at Adrian College, receiving her Bachelor of Arts degree with magna cum laude honors in 1992. She received her Juris Doctor degree from Willamette University College of Law in 1995.

Although she will be practicing a wide variety of law, her special areas of emphasis are domestic relations, estate planning, real estate, environmental and business law.

Barnes says she's looking forward to working with people in Charlevoix. She said of the community, "I am so happy that I was able to find a job back here. It's just such a nice place to be."

Writer helps businesses communicate

by Laurie Lounsbury

When a company downsizes, it can be bad news for some of its employees. When Wendi Wright's employer, Harbor Industries, decided to downsize, Wright turned it into good news for herself. She saw it as an opportunity to start her own business, Word Wright Business Services.

Wright's business is tailored to meet the needs of small businesses and companies that are downsizing. She offers freelance business and technical writing services to companies that don't have an in-house staff to meet their writing needs.

Wright got the idea for her business from a friend who sought her help. "I figured if he needed this type of work, others would need it too. That proved to be right," Wright said.

Through word of mouth, business writing has kept Wright busy since she started her endeavor. She's been writing business manuals, press releases, policy and procedure manuals for small companies.

Wright is convinced that effective communication for businesses is the key to success. "It doesn't matter if you have a quality product if no one knows you have a quality product. You have to communicate that to the people who will want your product," Wright said, adding, "Every business can use communication to market themselves better."

Wright received a degree in journalism from Grand Valley State University 12 years ago, and has been a free lance writer ever since. Working full time as a writer has put a fresh new outlook on life for Wright. "I'm just loving it. I have such freedom, and I feel like I'm finally doing what I'm supposed to be doing," Wright said.

Wright can be reached at 547-9367.

Matt Mosoryak puts up a three-point shot during the first half of the Petoskey game. Mosoryak had eight points in the first quarter, six of them coming on three-point baskets.

George McClellan carves out some space for a shot in the paint against Petoskey. McClellan provided much of the little offense Charlevoix was able to generate in the lane against the Northmen.

David Manker attempts to make a bounce pass around a Petoskey defender. Later in the week, Manker turned in a strong performance at Boyne City.

Marc Jacobs wasn't completely balanced as he went up for this shot, but he was able to get the ball in good shooting position.

Reinhart wins heavyweight title

Charlevoix heavyweight Bruce Reinhart promptly dispatched three opponents to win the championship at the Scottville Optimist Invitational wrestling tournament Saturday. Reinhart's teammates, many of whom were coming off the flu, didn't fare as well and as a team Charlevoix finished tenth among 12 teams.

Reinhart, wrestling for the first time this year, pinned his first two opponents quickly and won in the finals when his opponent was disqualified.

Ron Haggard placed second at 171 pounds, losing to a state qualifier from Lakeview in the finals. Haggard went 3-1 on the day.

Six other Rayders wrestled, but failed to pick up a win. Going 0-2 on the day were: Kyle Russell, 160 pounds; Dan Bennett, 152; Clayton Soulliere, 215; James Pop, 140;

Steve Speigl, 125; and Rob Reiter, 112.

Eric King, one of the Rayders best wrestlers, was unable to attend the meet due to a family commitment.

Charlevoix is now off until after the Christmas break. The Rayders next match will be Jan 4 with Whittemore-Prescott. The Rayders will compete in the Elk Rapids Invitational Jan. 6.

Basketball team starts season 0-4

Rayders beaten by Petoskey 73-50

Charlevoix stayed reasonably close through the first half, but faltered in the second half in losing to Petoskey 73-50 in the Rayders home opener Dec. 12.

The Rayders stayed in the game with some good perimeter shooting in the first half. Senior guard Matt Mosoryak had two three-point baskets and a deuce to account for eight of Charlevoix's 16 first quarter points. While Charlevoix played fairly well from the perimeter, the Rayders had a tough time competing with Petoskey in the paint. At the end of the first quarter, the Rayders trailed 17-16.

Charlevoix scored the first three points of the second quarter to take a 19-17 lead with 7:03 remaining in the half. That lead lasted slightly more than a minute. With just under six minutes left in the half, Petoskey started a 12-0 run which put them in the lead to stay. The Rayders hurt themselves during the Northmen run with some sad and sloppy ballhandling. Charlevoix's offensive output in the final seven minutes of the first half consisted of three baskets and three free throws. The half ended with Petoskey leading 39-28.

In the second half, Charlevoix continued to have problems finding offense in the paint. The Rayders were at a height disadvantage, but failed to compensate either by being more physical or by making good interior passes. While the Rayders were somewhat timid offensively, they played aggressive defense and held the Northmen in check through the third quarter. Entering the final quarter, Charlevoix trailed 54-45.

Charlevoix and Petoskey essentially traded baskets for the first three minutes of the final quarter. Then, the roof fell in on the Rayders. During the final five minutes of the game, Petoskey outscored Charlevoix 13-1.

Mosoryak was Charlevoix's only player to score in double figures. He had 10 points. Charlevoix had seven three-point baskets in the game.

The loss dropped the Rayders' season record to 0-3.

Charlevoix also lost the junior varsity game by a score of 53-49. Rusty Simmons led the Rayders with 15 points.

Rayders fall to Boyne City 78-63

Another second half fade led to the Charlevoix varsity basketball team's fourth consecutive defeat this season. At Boyne City Friday evening, the Rayders trailed 34-32 at halftime, but ended up losing 78-63.

Charlevoix led early in the game, but faltered as the game progressed. The Rayders led 11-8 after the first quarter, but were outscored 26-21 in the second quarter.

In the third quarter, Boyne City picked up the tempo and Charlevoix couldn't keep pace. Going into the fourth quarter, Boyne City led 62-50.

Mark Boss led the Rayders with 14 points while David Manker added a dozen.

Volleyball team has a 3-5 day

Charlevoix's varsity volleyball team opened its season at the Roscommon Invitational Saturday and went 3-5 on the day. The Rayders split with Beaverton 15-3, 13-15, beat Harrison 15-3, 15-11, lost to Lakeview 15-11, 15-12 and lost to Cheboygan 15-12, 15-4.

Top servers for the Rayders were Jenni Swenor, Theresa Johnson and Kristin Czerkes. Top setters were Swenor and Johnson. Leading the offense were Johnson, Liz Kelly and Emily Murray. Standing tall on defense were Aprilie Pisehner and Jessa VanGuilder.

obituaries

Helen "Lorraine" Palmer

Helen "Lorraine" Palmer, 81, of Beaver Island, died Dec. 18, 1995, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

Funeral Mass will be held in the spring at Holy Cross Catholic Church on Beaver Island.

Mrs. Palmer was born Nov. 9, 1914, on Beaver Island, the daughter of William J. and Elizabeth (O'Connor) Boyle.

She was a life resident of Beaver Island, and a member of Holy Cross Catholic Church.

She married Clarence G. Palmer, and he preceded her in death in June 1976.

Survivors include four sons, Perry J. of Detroit, Russell E. and his wife, Jean, of Beaver Island, Edward and his wife, Mary, of Beaver Island, and Robert C. of Ludington; five daughters, Virginia I. Palmer of Hayward, Calif., Evelyn C. Oleksy and her husband, Thomas, of Charlevoix, Irene Henize of Charlevoix, Roberta Palmer of Beaver Island, and Mary Anne Ferguson and her husband, Roger, of Alanson; 22 grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; and one sister, Irene Gallagher, of Manistee.

Mrs. Palmer was preceded in death by a daughter, Grace Palmer Nugent.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the American Heart Association or to Holy Cross Cemetery on Beaver Island. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. A rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 20, at the funeral home.

Irene E. Seymour

Irene E. Seymour, 85, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 18, 1995, at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

Funeral will be 11 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 21, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix will officiate. Burial will take place in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Seymour was born Dec. 29, 1909, in Petoskey, the daughter of John and Frances E. (Babcock) McCann. She was raised in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School.

In 1932, she married Versal I. Seymour in Detroit. He preceded her in death on Jan. 8, 1967.

Mrs. Seymour was a member of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix and the Mary Burns Circle at the church.

Survivors include one daughter, Marian Carol Hardy and her husband, Dave, of Valley Springs, Calif.; two sons, Michael K. and his wife, Jean, of Charlevoix, and E. Brian and his wife, Jeanne, of Charlevoix; seven grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; one brother, Dale McCann and his wife, Frances, of Flint; and by one sister, Shirley Greene and her husband, Jerry, of Charlevoix.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Seymour was preceded in death by two brothers, Richard C. and Edwin McCann.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Coast Guard Auxiliary officers installed

Jeannie Kilgour, newly-elected commander of the Charlevoix Coast Guard Auxiliary flotilla; and Dan Miller new vice-commander, were sworn in by Joc Traverse, Charlevoix Coast Guard Station Chief at a change of watch dinner recently at Grey Gables restaurant.

Also sworn in were the following staff officers: Member Training, bob Versey; Vessel Examinations, Alan Kolinski; Operations, Roger Tyrrell; Member Resources, Rodney DesRoches; Public Affairs, Hope Tyrrell; Secretary, Brian Hall; Finance, Bonnie Bates; Communications, Bill Parton; Career Candidates, Bob Davis; Materials, Mandy Ilasenko; Information-Systems, Gene Hutchings; Navigation Aids, Paul Theriault; Marine Visitation, John Ilasenko. Public Education and the Newsletter will be handled by Jeannie Kilgour.

Special awards from Coast Guard Rear Admiral Rudy Rudd were presented to Donna and Paul Theriault for their outstanding contribution to identifying area Private Aids to Navigation.

Other awards included Certificates of Appreciation from the National Safe Boating Council to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department for their special efforts to promote safe recreational boating.

Mandy Ilasenko received the Commander's award, a mug naming her 1995's outstanding member. Mandy served more than 400 hours crewing on boating patrols and also served as materials officer.

Hope Tyrrell was recognized for her efforts in Public Affairs — writing articles about flotilla activities, furnishing radio stations with public service announcements on boating safety, and sending out news releases about safe boating procedures.

SCRAPBOOK

It isn't often these days that you see a sizeable group of people walking along the south pier in the dead of winter. In the late 1950s quite a few folks were on hand to watch the cutter, Mackinaw, pull out of the channel. Surrounding the cutter, probably heading out to fish, were the fishing boats Jackie C., in front, the Eddie Ann, and the Jackie II. The Jackie C and Jackie II were owned by John Cross Senior. the Eddie Ann was owned by Jim Drigget. Photo courtesy of Jill (Cross) Picha.

Winter driving tips offered

Winter has made an early arrival in northern Michigan and Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater has issued a press release with the following tips for drivers re-learning to drive on slippery winter roads:

*Let common sense rule - vehicles cannot stop as quickly on snow or ice covered roads. Slow down.

*When applying brakes on either snow or ice, don't lock the brakes - depress them as far as you can without locking them - this allows you to maintain control of the vehicle while still slowing the car down. If you have anti-lock brakes, don't pump the brake pedal, that's the job of the anti-lock brakes. (Refer to your car's owner's manual for specific instructions.)

*Make sure your gas tank is kept full to prevent fuel line freeze-up, and always keep your windshield washer full.

*Check your wiper blades and tires and make sure they are in good condition.

*Don't be a peep-hole driver. Make sure your windows, outside rearview mirrors and headlights are free of ice and snow.

*If you do find yourself stranded in your vehicle, stay put and wait for help. Run your engine and heater for short intervals only, and with the window partially rolled down. Check the tail pipe to make sure it is clear of any obstruction.

*When the weather is especially severe - just stay home.

THE FOUNDATION OF A GOOD DECORATING SCHEME

The foundation of any good decorating scheme is just that - its foundation, or the choice of the right floor covering, which can add the final touch to a room, as well as tying together the entire design theme.

What type of floor covering should you select?

The type you choose should be determined by such things as the room's function, amount of traffic, insulation and sound-proofing need, and, most important, your personal preference.

Thanks to miracle fibers today, carpeting can be practical in every room including the bath, kitchen and outdoors.

One advantage of wall-to-wall carpeting is that it visually enlarges the size of a room since it offers an unbroken sweep of color. One advantage of room-size rugs is that they can show off a pretty floor, while area rugs can be advantageous to set off a particular area and add a decorating highlight.

You can get carpet in almost any price range to fit your budget, but top quality cushioning extends the life of the carpeting and protects fibers against repeated traffic. And to see a wonderful selection of home furnishings - including fine values in furniture, stop in here and browse. There's no obligation, and we'll look forward to seeing you.

Booklet tells kids what there is to do

by Laurie Lounsbury

There's no need to be young and bored in Charlevoix

There's nothing for kids to do in this town. It's a common lament we hear in Charlevoix, but is it true? Charlevoix Teen Center Director Scott Kelly didn't think so. And now, with the help of a dozen Charlevoix teens, he's got a booklet to prove there's plenty for kids to do in Charlevoix.

Last summer, through a state grant, Kelly received funds to run a reading improvement program at the teen center. Part of the program included canvassing the county to see what activities are available for Charlevoix youth. Tying the reading program with writing an activities booklet gave kids hands-on experience in real work application of reading and writing.

The 12 students' efforts are in print now, in a booklet called, "Getting Connected." The table of contents reveals 47 activities available to youth and teens. The activities include everything from the arts, reading improvement, and dancing, to snowboarding, skeet shooting, and ping pong. The booklet will be distributed to all Charlevoix students through the schools.

Kelly has a simple enough explanation for kids who complain of nothing to do. "Kids doing drugs and drinking always say there's nothing to do. It's an easy excuse for their behavior," he said, adding, "When I see those kids, I know their parents don't care where they are or what they're doing."

Kelly maintained that no amount or variety of activities will lure 100 percent of the teen population into participation. "There will always be kids who will drink, and there will always be kids who die from drinking and doing drugs," Kelly said sadly.

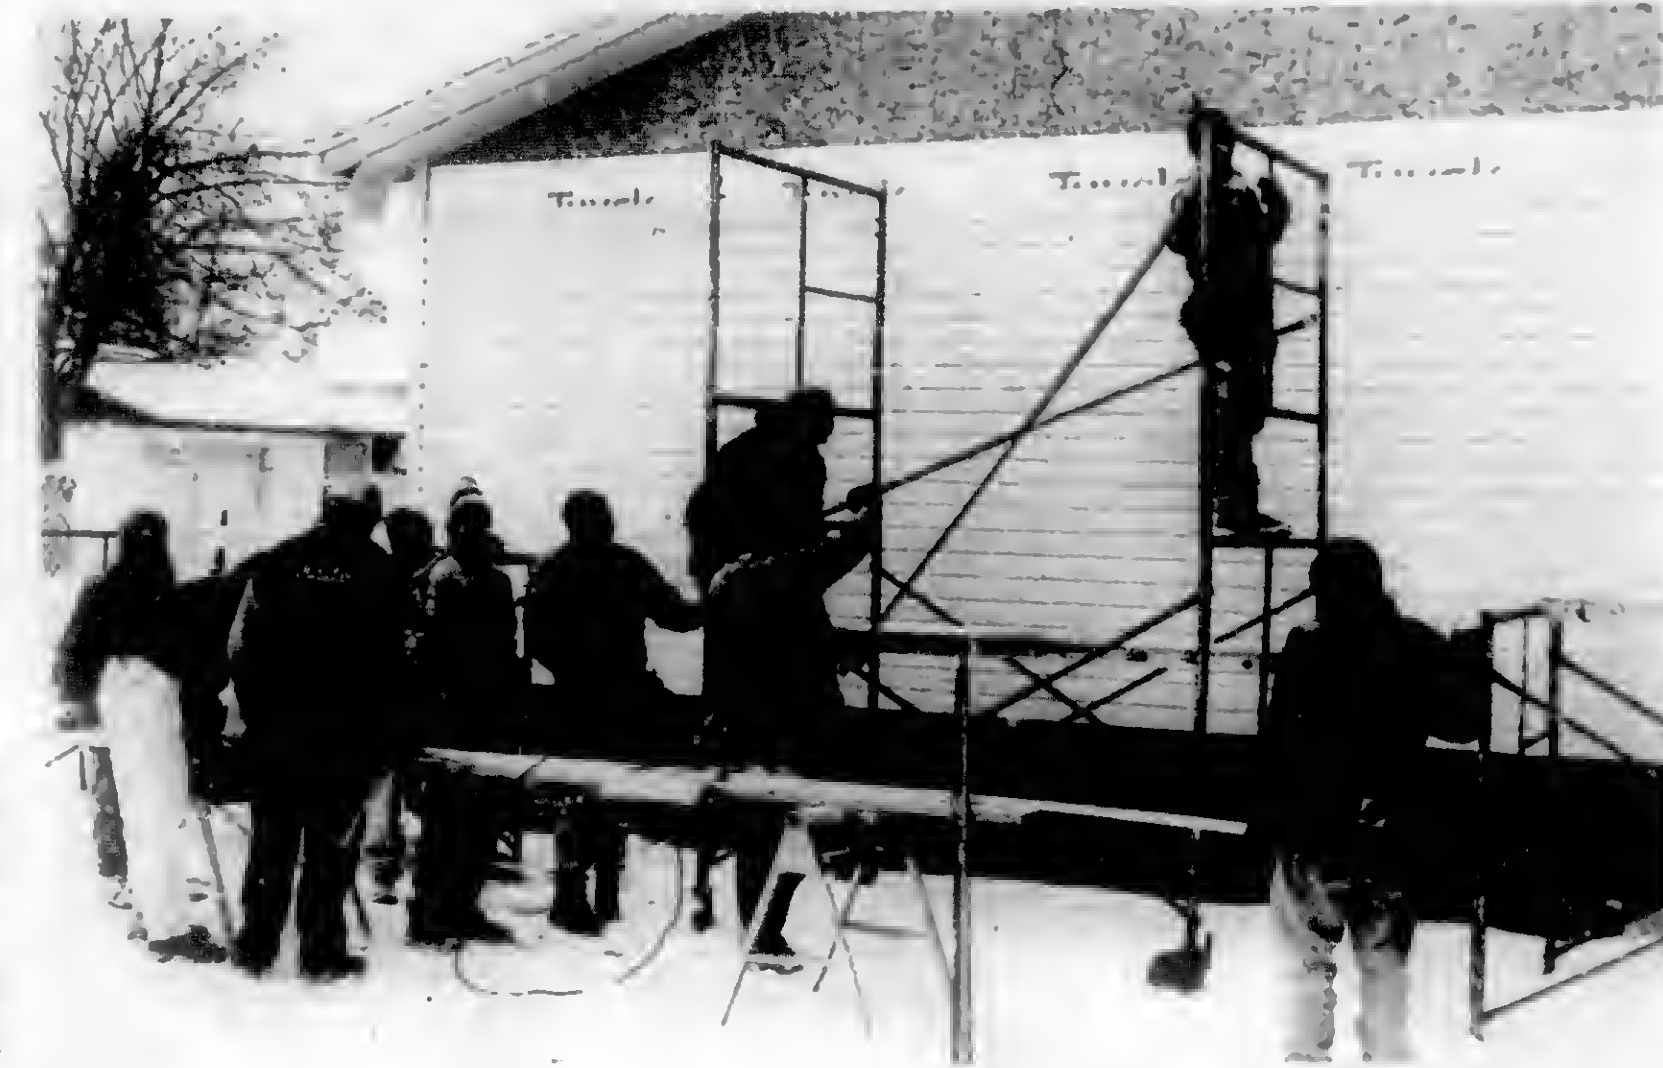

"Getting Connected" does more than guide kids to different activities in town. When flipped upside down and read backwards, the book offers tips for drug and alcohol prevention, and how to avoid violence. Along with that advice, then students picked some of their favorite inspirational quotes and sprinkled through the booklet.

Some of the activities in the booklet cost money, and some are free. The Charlevoix teen center is free. And one activity at the teen center is always popular - talking.

Holiday moves up Courier deadlines

Due to the New Year holiday, advertising and news deadlines for the Jan. 3 edition of the Courier will be moved forward. The deadline for advertising and news items for the Jan. 3 edition will be 5 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 28. The Courier office will be closed Monday, Jan. 1.

On behalf of the staff of the Courier, we wish all of our readers a happy and prosperous New Year.

Redesigned student building program constructing a house

by L. Scott Swanson

While the Charlevoix school system as a whole considers a multi-million dollar facility construction project, the Charlevoix High School vocational education program is keeping busy with a construction project on a smaller scale. The Construction Technology II class under the direction of Brian Certa is building a small house out near the alley between the high school and Bridge Street.

The house is 28 feet wide by 44 feet long. When completed this spring, the house will be sold and transported to the new owner's property.

In the past, Charlevoix High School building trades students used to build homes around town. Some of the homes in Hampton Village were built by the building trades program. Several homes on Old US 31 south of town were built by the building trades program. In recent years the students haven't been building homes. This year the program has been resurrected with some changes in format.

Getting the program back up and going has taken some time. "I've been working for three years to get this set up," Certa says. Among the set-up matters were devising a concrete platform to build the house on, fencing in the construction site, remodeling a portion of a school garage for a construction site locker room, and lighting the construction area.

In its first year, the Construction

OPINIONS

Editorial

Young people in Charlevoix have plenty of things to do

Scott Kelly from the Charlevoix Teen Center and twelve area students deserve credit for their recent completion of a booklet that should help put to rest a Charlevoix myth. The booklet, titled "Getting Connected," is a compilation of things for young people to do in Charlevoix. With any luck, it will help put to rest the myth that whenever young people get in trouble in Charlevoix, the reason is that because they didn't have anything else to do.

L. Scott Swanson

Anyone involved with young people in this town, or anyone who is simply willing to take an objective look at the situation, should be able to quickly see through any claim that there isn't anything for kids to do in Charlevoix. The claim simply isn't accurate. Kids who hang out on the street and become delinquent don't do that because they have no other choices. In this town, kids have choices. Being delinquent just happens to be the choice some kids make.

In reality, Charlevoix does a great job of providing things for kids to do. For many young people the problem isn't finding something to do, it's finding time to do all of the things they would like to do. The challenge is how to effectively prioritize activities.

The booklet contains more than 40 pages listing various activities for young people in Charlevoix County. The activities cover a range of things, sports, outdoor recreation, arts, education, churches and clubs. The booklet has hours, addresses and phone numbers to help people get connected. The booklet is being distributed to students throughout Charlevoix County.

The myth that young people in Charlevoix get in trouble because there is nothing for them to do, paints Charlevoix as a slow and backwards place where people, both young and old, lack the concern and motivation to get out and do things. That's just completely wrong. Charlevoix is a vibrant and active community where many people volunteer to work on activities that are fun for young, old and everybody in between. And that's not just in the summer. There are things to do here winter, spring, summer and fall. If you can't find something to do here, the problem is that you just aren't looking. If you're interested in looking, the booklet "Getting Connected" is a pretty good place to start.

Letters to the editor

New address system is not a "Done Deal"

Editor,

To the citizens of Charlevoix, More than two hundred years ago this country learned that if the people didn't have any voice in the government, then they didn't have self-government. It would be pretty difficult for 3,000 people (Charlevoix) to get together in one place and make decisions, so they divide their 3,000 people into wards, and each ward elects representatives to represent that ward in a council. This is called a representative government.

The key word here is represent.

We all know that the people of Charlevoix are literate, and though they aren't Einstein I.Q. quality (over 200) nevertheless they are as intelligent as the members they elect to the council. Council members are not chosen because they are super-geniuses, but rather on the basis of how well they will represent their people.

Accurate house numbering vital in emergencies

Editor,

We would like to commend the Charlevoix Fire Department for their quick response to our recent chimney fire. Not only were they prompt, but they were efficient, courteous and considerate. They treated our household as if it were their own.

This makes us realize how important it is to have accurate and clear numbering of houses and to have private drives posted.

Every second counts in such a situation. We were very lucky.

Nan and Merle Vandenberg resent their people. If I were running for an elective office my notice in the paper would read: "I want to represent your wishes on the city council. Talk to me; call me; write to me; communicate with me. I realize that the council members are not elected to get what they want, but rather to vote for what the majority of their constituents want. You know what is best for you better than I do."

It is not my purpose here to discuss the renaming of streets and the renumbering of houses which four of Charlevoix's council say is a

"Done Deal." Nothing is a done deal. Do we still have prohibition? So what if the city attorney and the city manager say it isn't necessary to put this issue to a vote of the people? Why are they reluctant to find out what the people want? The council isn't Charlevoix. The people are Charlevoix, and the council is responsible only for what the people want. If they are not, then the people should think of replacing them with some who are responsive the next time they go to the polls.

Governor thanks state's people for a good year

An Open Letter to the People of Michigan:

I have lived my entire life in the great State of Michigan and over the course of my political career have witnessed many of her worst and best moments — both bad and good times. As we near the end of a remarkable 1995, I am compelled to say I have never been more proud to call this magnificent place home.

Our state has enjoyed an amazing run of prosperity this year, thanks to the cooperation and hard work of the millions of good people who live here. Unemployment declined to a record low, taxes dropped even lower and the number of welfare cases dwindled to the lowest it has been in decades. For the third year in a row, Michigan led the nation in personal income growth.

What is more, common sense and traditional values continued to stage a comeback here, helping Michigan set the pace for the nation in many areas. Over the last 12 months, we balanced our budget again and built our surplus to record amounts, brought competition and accountability to our schools, reduced the state's crime rate, repaired flaws in our legal system and provided our inner cities with opportunity and hope. These are foundational changes that will pay dividends for many years to come.

In this holiday season, as we pause to look back on our numerous accomplishments of the past year, I would like to offer you, the citizens of the Great Lakes State, my deepest appreciation for your efforts — without which there would be no Michigan Renaissance. May good health and good fortune be yours in the new year.

Sincerely,
John Engler
Governor

Family thanks those who helped son following ski injury

Editor,

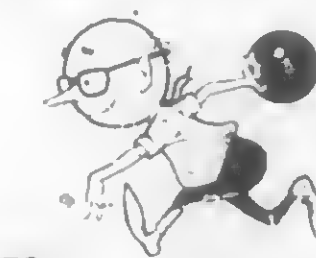

A heartfelt thanks.

Our family would like to give a heartfelt thanks to the E.M.T., the ambulance crew, and Dr. Stewart and his staff for taking such special care of our son on his first skiing accident. The day after the accident, Dr. Stewart called to see how our son was doing. It was a small gesture that meant so much. Being only seven years old and having a broken leg is a scary event. But thanks to the very special people involved, they eased our son's frightened little heart.

Just a reminder to parents - when you take your family skiing this winter, please make sure your bindings are checked according to your height, weight, and skiing ability so this unfortunate accident won't happen to you.

Middle school students collect 14,700 cans of food

by Laurie Lounsbury

It must have been Santa. Who else could sneak into the middle school and deposit an enormous stack of 1,200 canned goods?

It could have been Santa, or it could have been any number of good Charlevoix citizens who donate money and canned goods for the Charlevoix food pantry.

Unless you're a bear hibernating in the woods, you know that the Charlevoix Middle School plays a prominent role in collecting cans for the food pantry. Last year, students collected 12,800 food items. That number beat the previous year's record, which beat the year before that. In fact, every year for the last 14 years, eager students have been setting a new record for the number of canned goods they bring in.

Middle school teacher Tom Sothard heads up the food drive. With only days to go, Sothard thought maybe last year's record couldn't be broken. But he was wrong. On the last day of the food drive, Sothard was hip deep in canned goods, counting them up. "I guarantee we're going to roll right by last year's record," Sothard said.

The success of the middle school canned food drive is due in part to the spirit of giving. It is also due to the joy of a little friendly competition. Each middle school homeroom competes against one another to see who can bring in the most canned goods.

It was newcomer teacher Steve Hopkins who led his sixth grade class to victory this year with 4,628 cans. That put the school total over the top at 14,700 cans.

With every passing year, kids get more inventive with their methods of fund-raising for canned goods. One sixth grade class sponsored a Christmas dance, with the price of admission going to the food drive. They raised $110. Another class held a bake sale, yet another class sold raffle tickets for a donated CD player. The CD raffle brought in over $150.

Kids race to the big companies in town, hoping to be the first in line for a sizable donation from the ever generous, large businesses. Hopkins' class had no large, individual donation. They won the good old fashioned way, going door to door collecting cans. But they did have a secret. Along with cans of food, they collected empty pop cans, which they returned to grocery stores for money.

New kids on the block took home the coveted Golden Corn Trophy at the Charlevoix Middle School canned food drive. New teacher Steve Hopkins, with his new sixth grade class, collected 4,628 canned goods, helping set a new school record total of 14,700. The goods will be transported to the Congregational church, where they will be distributed to the less fortunate families in town.

Lighting winners announced

Art Falting of 3773 Marion Center Road won the Judge's Choice Award for overall lighting and originality in this year's Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Residential Christmas Decoration Judging.

Top finishers in the various sections of town were:
Out of Town: first place Patrick and Judy Donnelly, 12283 N. Country Club Drive; second place was a tie between Dennis LaCroix, 08951 Central Ave. and Pat Small, 31 S. Captain Lane.

Northside: first place Lake Harbor Apartments (submitted by Shelly Saul); second place Ralph Doans, 105 Oak.

Downtown east of the bridge: first place Leigh Lovell, 1001 St.

Johns; second place Gary Spencley, 1009 St. Johns.

Downtown west of the bridge: first place Mark Hooker, 313 Antrim Street; second place Tony and Merle Kleiber, 831 State Street.

Judges were Jean Spagnuolo, Diana Svoboda and Mary Vetting. They were escorted by Dale Boss in the Petunia Truck and Rita McAvoy, event coordinator and secretary of KCB.

FURNISHING IDEA FOR YOU

We know you're always looking for ideas on different ways to use furniture and increase the beauty and usefulness of your rooms.

We recently saw a display that caught our eye, and we thought we'd pass it on to you. Of course, it may be used in the following fashion, or in any number of variations.

A table was placed against a wall. On the table was an attractive lamp, a vase with flowers, and another pretty accessory. Above the table was a mirror which reflected the flowers and accessory.

Then, on either side of the table were two pretty single wall units with shelves. On the shelves were some books, knick-knacks, flowers, a clock, etc.

This whole setting brought real beauty to what might have been an otherwise drab and wasted area of a living room.

And not only did it have beauty, but it was also so useful, offering places to display books and other items. And the lamp and mirror brought real sparkle, pointing up the whole setting, and it helped make the room something special.

That, of course, is just one way you can make your furnishings work for you, and make your home even nicer. For lots of furniture selection and ideas, remember, you are invited to browse and shop here.

It's time to relicense Rover

With the coming of the new year, it is once again time for dog owners to purchase a new dog license. There are two types of licenses available: the regular dog license and the kennel license.

The regular license costs $6 for a male or female dog and $3 for a spayed or neutered dog. Dog owners will also need to show proof of a current rabies vaccination when buying a license. Licenses may be purchased from the County treasurer's office, local city or township treasurer, or the Humane Society.

The second type of license is a kennel license. This license is available to anyone who has three or more dogs and uses the dogs for sport, breeding, or other work. This license costs $10 for three to 10 dogs and $25 for more than 10 dogs. A kennel inspection is required before a kennel license is issued. You must contact the Animal Control Officer for a kennel license.

Both types of licenses must be bought before March 1, 1996 or the prices double. It is required by state law that all dogs six months or older be vaccinated for rabies and be licensed. If you have any questions about licensing requirements, contact the Charlevoix County Animal Control Officer at 547-4461 or 582-2911.

Two flutists from the Charlevoix High School Band, senior Jamey McKinney and freshman Lori Stargardt were recently chosen to be a part of the District II Honors Band held in Gaylord. They performed under the direction of guest conductor John Thompson of New Trier, Illinois. McKinney and Stargardt were selected from 200 high school musicians who took part in a highly competitive audition process hosted by Charlevoix High School.

Precipitation has been above average

During the month of November precipitation was below average on the Lake Michigan-Huron, Erie and Ontario basins. For the year to date, precipitation is about 5 percent above average for the entire Great Lakes basin. The net supply of water to Lake Superior was below average in November, while the supplies to Lakes Michigan-Huron, Erie and Ontario were above average.

In comparison to their long-term (1918-1994) averages, the November monthly mean water level of Lake Michigan-Huron was at average. A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron water levels follows. All elevations are referenced to International Great Lakes Datum 1985.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of November were at elevation 578.87 feet (1176.44 meters) above the mean water level at Rimouski, Quebec, or about 16 inches (44 cm.) above Chart Datum. The November monthly mean level of 578.87 feet (176.44 meters) was about the same as the long-term average for November. The lakes were about 37 inches (94 cm.) below the all-time high November monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986. The forecast shows that the December monthly mean level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 1 inch (2 cm.) below what it was at Mid-November. The lakes are expected to complete their seasonal decline in February.

Lucille F. Phillips

Lucille F. Phillips, 85, of Largo, Fla., died Dec. 23, 1995, at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City.

No services will be held. She was born March 13, 1910, in Lithuania, to Alexander J. and Mary (Josaitis) Perkins. She moved to the United States as a baby. She moved to Flint as a young woman.

She married Oscar H. Phillips in 1933. The couple moved to Florida in 1961. He preceded her in death in 1976.

She received a master's degree in special education for the hearing impaired from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. She taught for 24 years at the Michigan School for the Deaf in Flint.

She was past president of the Michigan Education Association-Flint, a member of the American Association of University Women, a member and past president of IOTA Lambda Pi Omnicron Sorority, past president of Wives of Motion Picture Operators, and a member of the Harbor Hills Garden Club.

Survivors include a sister, Ann S. Dalton of Charlevoix; a niece, Lucanne J. Henry, and her husband Bob, of Charlevoix, and several other nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by a brother, Alexander Perkins.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix County Hospice. Envelopes will be available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Elvis E. Allen

Elvis E. Allen, 68, of Ellsworth, died Friday, Dec. 22, 1995, at Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility in Bellaire.

Funeral was held Tuesday, Dec. 26 at the Hastings Funeral Home, with Celia Hasting officiating. A Masonic service will be held at 7:30 p.m. today under the auspices of North Star Lodge No. 354 F.&A.M. Interment was held at Ellsworth Cemetery.

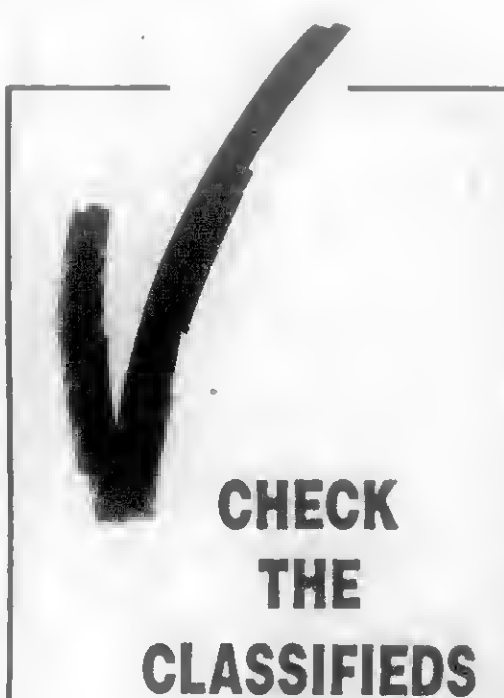

He was born July 29, 1927, in Ferndale, the son of Samuel and Gertrude (Henderson) Allen. He lived in Royal Oak until 1970. On May 23, 1970, he married Lynette Schaffer in Central Lake, and they made their home in Banks Township.

He was employed by Willflow (now Viatic) in Charlevoix until his retirement in 1981.

He was a member and Past Master of North Star Lodge No. 354 F. & A.M. and the Straits Area Amateur Radio Club. He was an outdoorsman who enjoyed hunting and fishing. He also loved animals and for a time raised black Labrador and donated them to Leader Dog School.

Survivors include his wife, Lynette; a son, Timothy Allen and his wife, Patricia, of Ellsworth; two daughters, Rebecca Pesti and her husband, Scott, of Sterling Heights and Vicky Clark and her husband, Dennis, of Walkersville, Maryland; four grandchildren; several nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by two brothers, Roy E. Allen and Ernest E. Allen.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Leukemia Society of America. Envelopes will be available at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth.

Be cautious if you venture out on the ice

Although Lake Michigan probably won't be freezing over for at least a few more weeks, Lake Charlevoix and the smaller lakes in the area have iced over. With that in mind, Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater has issued a press release offering some safety tips for people going out on the ice.

When temperatures get cold enough for the lakes to freeze, winter sports enthusiasts should always check before venturing out onto the ice. Ice can form in several different conditions, and some are more perilous than others. Clear ice is the strongest, formed by a long hard freeze, and can vary in color from green, blue and black depending on the water-color beneath the ice. The first ice to form when temperatures drop is made up of disk-shaped crystals which form a thin film, eventually forming a solid sheet of ice. Snow ice is milky looking and was formed from refrozen melted snow. Snow ice is low in density and porous and is very weak. Layered ice is just that, many layers of frozen and refrozen snow, giving it a striped appearance.

People venturing out on the ice, should observe the following advice:

*Never go out on the ice alone.
*Test the ice with a spud every few feet - thickness can change in a very short space.

*Wear a live preserver or a float-coat.

*Attach a 20 to 25 foot long rope to your waist and let it drag behind you - it won't interfere and it's something someone can grab should you fall through.

The notion that ice thickness is the only factor determining ice strength should be discarded once and for all. Because ice seldom freezes at the same rate in the same body of water, it is not uniformly thick from one location to another. Ice can be one foot thick in one location, and only one inch thick just ten feet away, according to experts.

New ice is usually stronger than old ice, and grows thicker and stronger during formation. As ice decays, and many factors can cause this, it becomes unsafe even though it may appear thick. Some of the factors which can cause ice deterioration are: weather - spells of warmer, then colder temperatures can cause melting and refreezing, weakening the ice; underground springs - many Michigan lakes are spring fed, and the warmer temperatures of the spring water can cause the ice to weaken from underneath; entrances of streams and dams can also cause the ice to be unstable in those locations; and a thick blanket of snow can actually insulate the surface against freezing, causing the ice to form more slowly or even deteriorate.

If you do break through the ice, there are some things you can do to avoid serious injury or death. First, try not to panic and thrash about.

The air trapped in your clothing will help you float. Yell for help. Turn toward the direction that you came from. The ice is likely to be stronger there. Place your arms on the edge of the solid ice. Keys, a pocket knife, ice pick, or belt buckle will help you grip the ice. You may want to carry a few large nails in an outside coat pocket for this purpose.

Once you've got a grip on the ice, kick your legs hard and pull yourself up on the ice. If the ice breaks, move forward and try again. When you're out, do not stand up, but roll away from the break and stand only when you've reached solid ice. Go to a place of shelter and warm up immediately.

If you are attempting to rescue someone else who's fallen through the ice, follow these steps:

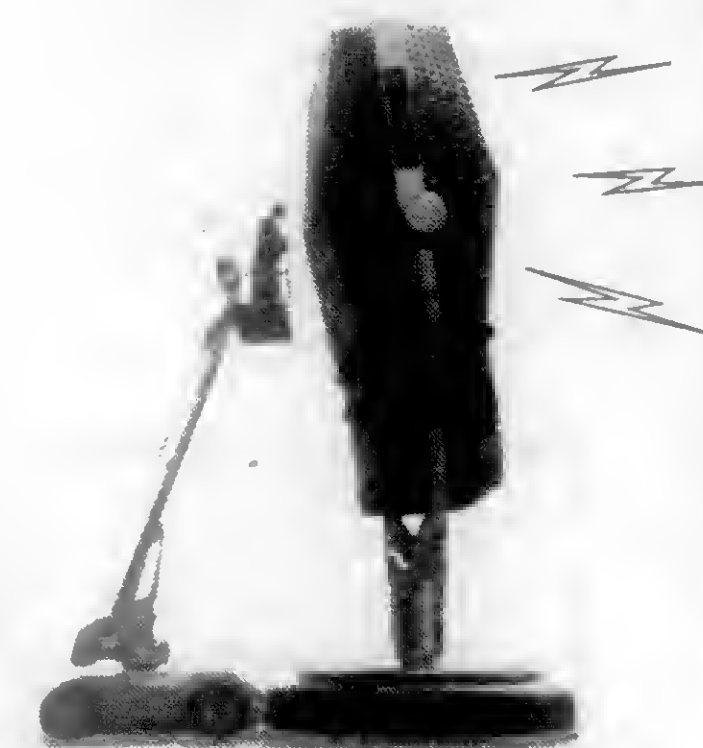

*Stay calm. Don't walk or run to the edge of the breakthrough or you risk becoming a victim too.

*Throw the victim a rope, or slide a strong ladder, pole or sturdy branch. Always lie on your stomach and push the object out in front of you.

*If there are other people available, form a chain by lying flat on your stomach and gripping the ankles of the person in front of you.

Once you have pulled the person from the water, seek shelter, try to warm them and seek medical assistance.

Student MEAP test results are mixed

by Laurie Lounsbury

At the Dec. 18 school board meeting, elementary school principal Dick Swenor flicked on the overhead projector and splashed good news all over the screen. A bar graph indicated that elementary school students are steadily improving in math.

Swenor was presenting the results of the most recent MEAP tests, (Michigan Educational Assessment Program) given to fourth and seventh graders earlier this year. Seventy percent of the fourth graders scored in the satisfactory range, with 25 percent scoring in the moderate range and four percent in the low range.

Swenor's bar graph showed a steady climb in MEAP math scores, from 32 percent scoring in the satisfactory range in 1991.

The reading scores are not as impressive. Less than 50 percent of the students scored in the satisfactory range, comparable to students' performance in 1989. But Swenor pointed out that the reading test is broken down into two categories, story reading and information knowledge. Students did well in story reading, but not as well in the information category.

Steve Stargardt presented the seventh grade scores. Sixty percent of the seventh graders scored satisfactorily in math, a slight decline from last

Tech II class has 13 students. As a prerequisite for Construction Tech II, last year the students took a Construction Tech I class.

In Construction Tech I, students study all aspects of residential building. They work on cabinet making, Formica, building foundations, framing, wiring, and block and slab work.

"They get a good exposure before they actually start building a house," Certa explained. He says he couldn't imagine building the house with the students without them having the background they pick up in Construction Tech I.

In Construction Tech II, the students' objective is to build a house. Construction Tech II is a two-credit class. Students have the class for 85 minutes a day, five days a week. Certa says it's challenging to build a house in 85 minutes a day.

Plans are to complete the house by spring and that's not going to be an easy feat. "We're a week behind right now," Certa said going into the school's Christmas break. Like every business in town that does outdoor work, the Construction Tech II class was slowed up by bad fall weather and early snow storms.

The program's entire atmosphere is a lot like any other construction site in town. Prior to getting started, the students and Certa gather in the locker room. Certa explains what the day's project will be and assigns different students to different tasks. The students, wearing tool belts and warm coats have at it. The class meets just before lunch hour so on Fridays the Construction Tech II students have a pot-luck picnic at the work site.

Certa said that in recent years the image of the vocational education program at Charlevoix High School has changed dramatically. He said the vocational education program used to end up being primarily for students who were struggling to get through school. Now, it draws a cross section. He said that in the Construction Tech II class, he has students who will graduate and go to work in construction, others who will go on to a four-year college

"They've come a long way. Some days they drag, but some days they're great and I'm real proud of them."

High school teacher Brian Certa, describing the Construction Tech II students who are building a house at the high school.

construction program and others who will just use what they learn in the class to eventually build their own house.

Certa said that in the first year of the program, he's got a pretty good crew of students to work with. "They've come a long way," he said. "Some days they drag, but some days they're great and I'm real proud of them."

As the house has progressed, the students have become more enthused. Certa said that some of the students have gone out to their house during their seminar hour when they wanted to get something done, but couldn't finish it during the construction class time.

In addition to the on-site work, each student is required to do two days of job shadowing, i.e. spending a day with someone who works in a construction related profession. Certa has also had former students come in and explain the value of construction education to current students.

The Construction Tech II class is working in conjunction with a high school accounting class. The accounting class is taking care of all of the financial aspects of the house construction, from making the loan application to paying the bills.

Currently, the house is enclosed and students are putting the finishing touches on the siding. During the winter, they will be wiring and drywalling the interior.

Michigan hunters fared well during 1995 deer season

About 1 in 3 hunters successful

The harvest of antlered bucks during the 1995 firearm deer hunting season surpassed the 200,000 milestone for the first time in the history of Michigan deer hunting. Overall, an estimated 318,000 white-tailed deer were harvested by about 700,000 hunters during Michigan's November 15-30 firearm hunting season this year. Since many hunters took more than one deer, it was estimated that about 1 in every 3 hunters was successful in taking at least one deer during the firearm season. The 1995 total firearm harvest was the second best in the state's history, exceeded only by 1989, when hunters took 333,940 deer (193,850 antlered and 139,740 antlerless).

The 1995 firearm deer harvest increased 38 percent over last year; a total of 229,640 deer were taken during the 1994 firearm harvest. The record antlered deer harvest of 208,000 this year was a 20 percent increase over last year's 173,840. The antlerless take of 110,000 this year was 97 percent more than the 55,800 taken in 1994.

"This year's record buck harvest occurred under nearly optimal hunting conditions," said Wildlife Division Chief George E. Burgoyne, Jr. "Weather conditions were ideal, with tracking snow in all counties on opening day. The breeding behavior of bucks was at its peak, making deer visible and available to hunters. About 95 percent of the corn had been harvested by the opening day of the firearm hunt, compared to an average of 55 percent during the past five years. In addition, the new retail license sales system afforded us a new opportunity to sell antlerless licenses left over after the drawing had been done. This helped to better direct the harvest of antlerless deer to areas overpopulated with deer, while protecting them in areas where we would like to maintain or increase the number of deer."

Burgoyne said that the harvest of antlerless deer, especially in the Upper Peninsula, still may not have been enough to prevent winter starvation of deer if we get a severe winter.

This year's harvest set a new record for both antlered deer and total deer taken in the Upper Peninsula, surpassing the previous high of 52,540 antlered deer in 1991 and 74,040 total deer in 1991. A buck harvest record was also set in the southern Lower Peninsula, surpassing the previous high of 62,470 in 1990. However, the total harvest of deer during the firearm season in the southern Lower Peninsula was the third best, behind the record of 117,640 taken in 1989. The firearm buck harvest in 1995 for the northern Lower Peninsula was the fifth best (below the record of 86,070 in 1988) and seventh best for total deer (below the record take of 151,720 deer in the 1989 firearm season).

Each year, the deer harvest is estimated by a survey of southbound hunter traffic throughout the 16-day firearm deer season. This survey has provided an early, accurate estimate for more than three decades. Final harvest figures, which will be available in July, will be based on a mail survey of this year's deer hunters.

Ice fishing won't require a snowmobile trail permit

The Michigan Senate has passed a measure that would allow those who use snowmobiles for the exclusive purpose of ice fishing to be exempt from the state's snowmobile trail permit requirement, according to Senator Walter North (R-St. Ignace).

Snowmobile owners currently pay a $10 permit fee to utilize groomed state trails. The fee is to offset the costs of maintaining the trails, which in turn minimizes environmental damage that might otherwise be caused by snowmobilers breaking their own trails on state property. The trails also provide direction and greater safety for recreational users.

Senate Bill 660, introduced by North in September, will not require ice fishermen who use their snowmobiles expressly for that purpose to purchase the permit. "Constituents in northern Michigan have asked for this legislation because conservation officers are issuing tickets to all snowmobilers out on the lakes who don't have trail permits. There are a vast number of residents who use their snowmobiles to go ice fishing, who aren't using the state trails to reach their destinations. Some are homeowners right on the lakes who merely drive out of their own yards," North explained.

North said the bill, which has the support of the Department of Natural Resources, was necessary to clarify for both conservation officers and snowmobile users who needs to have a permit and who doesn't. "This should make the job of the officers much easier," North said.

The bill is now awaiting action in the House of Representatives. The issue is expected to be resolved before the Legislature adjourns this month.

Nearly a quarter million snowmobiles ride Michigan trails

More than 230,000 registered snowmobiles will hit Michigan trails this winter, making it critical that safety go along for the ride, AAA Michigan reports.

"Snowmobiling is one of the most popular winter activities in Michigan, which has 5,300 miles of groomed trails — among the highest number of any state," said AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager Jerry Basch.

"However, during the last five snowmobile seasons, Michigan has recorded a yearly average of 455 crashes. In 1994, snowmobile crashes claimed five lives and injured 318 people. To improve this safety record, snowmobilers must know the 'rules of the road,'" he stressed.

Operating a snowmobile after drinking alcohol and driving at reckless speeds are two of the most dangerous practices for a snowmobiler, according to Basch.

Safety tips for a safer snowmobile season include:

- Always wear a helmet.
- Don't snowmobile alone in frigid weather or in unknown wilderness areas.
- Carry a first-aid kit, compass, map, matches, an aluminum foil-type blanket, tool kit, rope and extra ignition key.
- Dress in warm clothing, secured so that it won't tangle in equipment.
- Stay on marked trails or, where allowed, on the right shoulder of the road. Be alert for fences, tree stumps and stretched wire that may be concealed by snow.
- Do not snowmobile on waters where the ice is not at least a solid six inches thick.

SCRAPBOOK On the record

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, December 27, 1995 - PAGE 19

With the early winter we've been having, it won't be long before fishermen take to the ice. Clint Blanchard is shown here ice fishing in Ironton. Ironic that the box he found to sit on was an icebox.

The following cases were recently decided in the 90th District Court of Charlevoix County:

Randolph Lanterman, 40, Charlevoix, domestic violence, first offense, and malicious destruction of property under $100. Forty-five days in jail with credit for 27 days served. Fines and costs totaling $295.

Jon Duane Ramsey, 22, Northport, attempted escape from jail sentence. Three hundred and sixty-five days to serve.

Joseph Martin Reedy, 18, Charlevoix, impaired driving, first offense. Sixty-three days in jail with credit for one day served, 60 days held in abeyance, two days community service work. One year probation, license suspended for 90 days with restrictions. Fines and costs totaling $415.

Fred Eugene Sadowski, 48, Bay Shore, operating under the influence of liquor per se, first offense. Seventy days in jail with credit for two days served, 60 days held in abeyance, eight days community service work. One year probation, license suspended for 180 days without restrictions. Fines and costs totaling $415.

Scott Donald McMichael, 21, South Boardman, impaired driving. Thirty-three days in jail with credit for one day served, two days community service work. Six months probation, license suspended for 90 days with restrictions. Fines and costs totaling $450.

The Charlevoix County Clerk's office recently issued marriage licenses to the following persons:

Daniel Richard Zipp, 29, East Jordan, and Jessica Lynn Bonds, 25, East Jordan.

William James Hodson, 32, Boyne Falls, and Julie Ann Fitzgerald, 26, Louisville, Kentucky.

Neil Carlton Bennett, 41, East Jordan, and Cynthia Ann Willson, 39, East Jordan.

...MEAP tests results have good and bad news

year's scores, but better than the scores in 1993.

Middle school reading was another story. Scores were down from last year, when 50 percent of the students scored satisfactorily. This year, 45 percent of the students scored in the satisfactory range, the same as the 1993 scores, and up slightly from the 1992 scores.

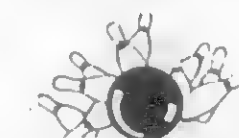

MEAP tests are used to help schools align curriculum with the state's requirements for education. Stargardt pointed out that seventh grade scores might indicate curriculum changes need to be made at younger grades. It requires teachers and principals from both the elementary and middle school, to get together and align curriculum across two buildings.

More changes are in store for students taking the MEAP test. The state is changing the testing time to the spring. This gives teachers more time to cover curriculum that will be on the test, but it slows the response time to react to test results. When tests are given in the fall, teachers have the rest of the school year to respond to the scores and modify curriculum. The spring test means that no changes will occur until the following school year.

Another change will occur with the eighth grade science test. The state has determined that the ability to work in groups is an important life skill, so students will form small groups to complete a portion of the test.
